

Andrews Chapel To Hold Memorial Services Monday

Memorial Day has traditionally been a day set aside by Americans to honor those who have died in the service of our country. In keeping with this tradition, the Berlin Brigade will hold a special Memorial Day Service Monday honoring former members of the brigade who have died in Vietnam.

The service will begin at 11:30 a.m. at Andrews Chapel and a wall plaque honoring the 10 soldiers will be unveiled by Major General William W. Cobb, U. S. Commander, Berlin and Brigadier General Harold I. Hayward, commanding general, Berlin Brigade.

There will be an honor guard from Special Troops and music will be provided by the 298th Army Band. The ceremony will be capped at 12 noon with a 21-gun salute by Battery C, 94th Artillery, the raising of the flag to full staff and the playing of the national anthem.

Ecumenical Service

The ceremony will be under the direction of Chaplain (Major) Marvin Konynenbelt, Special Troops Chaplain. Joining Konynenbelt in the ecumenical service will be Chaplain (LTC) Robert Rockwell and Chaplain (LTC) Capistran Haas.

In addition to a training holiday Monday, all national flags will be displayed at half staff from reveille to 12 noon in honor of the American dead.

Memorial Day grew out of the ceremonies rendered initially for the fallen soldiers in the Union and Confederate armies. This tragic war saved the union, but everywhere there were bitter memories.

In the South, Atlanta lay smoldering . . . in the West, Vicksburg was still numb from siege . . . in the North, there was Gettysburg, where the terrible slaughter took more than 43,000 lives in three days.

Simple Act

It was in this climate of bitterness and confusion that a simple, generous act helped heal the wounds of war and brought us what we now know as Memorial Day.

In the year 1867, a group of women from Columbus, Miss. made a pilgrimage to a local cemetery to lay flowers on the graves of their war dead.

When they had finished, they saw the graves of Union soldiers nearly bare, cold and forgotten. They could not bring themselves to ignore these Union graves and they decorated them, too.

Impartial Offerings

A correspondent of the New York Tribune observed this gracious act and wrote to his paper that "These women have shown themselves impartial in their offerings to the memory of the dead. They placed flowers on the graves of the Confederate and Union soldiers alike."

The story was told and retold throughout the nation. It was celebrated in sermon, speech, poem and song. The reaction was so great that in 1868 General John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the Union Veterans Organization, issued an order designating May 30 as a day on which the graves of soldiers would be decorated. This act gave rise to the other name by which the holiday is known—Decoration Day.

In 1882, Decoration Day became

Memorial Day to describe more fully the sentiment of the occasion. And with the passing of years, Memorial Day has become a salute to the military dead, not only of the Civil War, but of all wars.

For Excellent PR Program

Volksfest Receives Silver Anvil

The 1970 German-American Volksfest has been named an "outstanding achievement" in public relations by the Public Relations Society of America. For the third time the Volksfest has been awarded the society's coveted "Silver Anvil."

The trophy was accepted Friday night at a gala ceremony in New York by Colonel C. P. McLean, public affairs officer for the U. S. Command in Berlin and Volksfest director. McLean accepted the award on behalf of the U. S. Army, Berlin which sponsors the Volksfest annually.

The Silver Anvil Awards competition is conducted annually by the Public Relations Society of America to give deserved recognition to outstanding public relations programs and to stimulate and encourage improved public relations performance and techniques. The symbolic Silver Anvil was selected because the validity, quality and achievement of any public relations activity is ultimately measured on the anvil of public opinion.

The U. S. Army, Berlin received its first anvil for the 1965 German-American Volksfest "Sacramento." In 1968, "New Orleans" was the Volksfest theme which brought the second award to Berlin. Then in 1970, "The Old West" with its cowboys and indians, "Red Dog Saloon" and Berlin's first western rodeo moved to the Army's sports field in Dahlem.

Over 400,000 visitors saw America's "Old West" come alive for 17 days during July and August. In addition to providing visitors with the chance to re-live a part of American history, the Volksfest provides funds to support youth and community charity activities.

On April 19, 1971, ground was broken to mark the beginning of construction on the 11th German-American Volksfest. This year's theme will be "The Wild West," with many of last year's favorite attractions returning together with a number of exciting new features.

The "Wild West" Volksfest will be held from July 23 to August 8 at the Berlin Brigade Sports Center Field on Marshall Strasse.

New CG

Brigadier General Harold I. Hayward will become commanding general of the USAREUR and Seventh Army Combat Support Command effective June 30, USAREUR and Seventh Army Headquarters announced today.

Hayward, who has commanded the Berlin Brigade since November 1969, was recently nominated for promotion to major general.

Brigadier General Raymond O. Miller, now serving with the U. S. Army Element of the Office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington, D. C., will succeed Hayward as Berlin Brigade commanding general. Miller is scheduled to report on or about July 30.

Volksfest Hunts For New Talent

The search for talent for the 1971 Volksfest has begun and the main need at the moment is young ladies between the ages of 17 and 25 for the "Satin and Spurs Swinging" show which will perform twice daily in the saloon.

Leading the talent hunt is Mrs. Jennie Conrad, director and choreographer for the all-girl review. Mrs. Conrad was a dance major at Ohio State University and has performed professionally. Her most recent performance in Berlin was at the 49er party, where she was featured in "Big Spender."

"We need young, attractive and vocally talented singers and dancers," Mrs. Conrad noted. "No experience is necessary but you must be willing and able to perform."

Tryouts for the show will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday at the Entertainment Center by Crump Hall Library. The tryouts will continue June 6 at 2:30 p.m. and June 7 at 7:30 p.m.

There are a number of other openings for those interested in participating in the Volksfest. Cowboys, backstage and onstage technicians and combos are also needed. Among the technicians needed are persons with a knowledge of lighting and sound. The combos will rely on a western beat plus rock and soul music.

Those interested in trying out for these other positions should report to the tryouts at the same place and time but should contact Jack Evans or Fred Kaiser.

Further information on the tryouts may be obtained by phoning 6465, but in order to participate in Volksfest, one must attend the tryouts.

DOD Personnel Here Get New Traveling Benefits

Tempelhof Central Airport Transportation Officials announced this week that the U. S. European Command has approved West Berlin as a designated location in the Environmental and Morale Leave Program.

With this approval, DOD military and civilian personnel and their authorized dependents stationed in Berlin are now authorized space-available travel privileges on military aircraft when on leave and traveling between Berlin and a selected destination in the USEUCOM area.

All active duty military, civil service employees who are eligible for government transportation to the U. S. upon completion of their tour and their dependents may participate in this program.

U. S. civilian employees of other Government agencies, American Red Cross personnel on duty with the Armed Forces and nonappropriated fund employees who are U. S. Citizens and their dependents are also eligible.

Dependents will be allowed to travel only when they are accompanied by their sponsor and the sponsor is traveling on leave status. Travel to or via the United States under this program is not authorized.

The traveler will be limited to selecting only one specified destination and will have to comply with theater and international restrictions. All directives pertaining to passports, visas, foreign customs and immunizations must be followed.

Crane Optimistic About Jets, Namath

PAUL CRANE

Paul Crane has been around football a long time but he has never been on a team in a plight like the New York Jets were last year.

"I've never seen a team with so many injuries," the 28-year-old center-linebacker said. "It got so bad that we had to go to the trainer's room to take the team picture."

But the Jets will be back this year, Crane vowed as he stopped in Berlin Monday and Tuesday on part of a speaking tour that will take him throughout Europe.

The purpose of Paul's visit wasn't to discuss Joe Namath's controversial knees or the Jets chances of winning the Super Bowl but rather to speak for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA).

The FCA is an interdenominational, inter-racial organization that attempts to channel the influence of athletes into a positive aspect through Christ.

"We try to confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation," stated Paul, who helped organize the FCA chapter at Alabama.

While at Alabama Crane played with Namath on two national championship teams, and he followed Joe to New York, where they teamed up to help lead the Jets to a 16-7 Super Bowl win over the Baltimore Colts in 1969. But while Namath was a No. 1 draft choice and a highly touted rookie, Paul had to make his way as a free agent.

"Weeb (Ewbank) and his staff were the coaches at the Senior Bowl when I played in it and after the game they invited me to sign with them," he said. "It was harder to make the team as a free agent because they look at you longer if you got a big bonus. They also have some players that they are counting on and have to keep. It's definitely an uphill battle for a free agent."

There were plenty of familiar faces, though. Besides Namath, there were George Sauer, Pete Lammons and Jim Hudson, all of whom played on the Texas team that knocked off Alabama, 21-17, in the 1965 Orange Bowl.

Crane counts Namath among his closest friends and feels that the injury-plagued quarterback will be in shape for the 1971 season.

A Day To Remember

Memorial Day commemorates the men and women of our Armed Forces who have given their lives in the service or defense of our Nation and way of life since 1861.

First proclaimed as Decoration Day in 1868 by General John A. Logan, it was to honor the men who had fallen in the Civil War. After World War I it became known as Memorial Day and commemorated those Americans who died in all wars.

The occasion is marked by parades, patriotic observances, memorial services and decorations of graves of servicemen and veterans with flowers.

Since the Civil War, many thousands of American servicemen have died in battle for the cause of freedom and democracy.

This Memorial Day holiday, as you speed on your way to the seashore or mountains, or relax in your backyard, take a moment to say a silent and grateful "Thank You" to the thousands whose supreme sacrifice made it possible to enjoy the freedom you have today. (AFPS)

Many Rock Bands' Reputations Become Grossly Exaggerated

by Steve Reisler

This is my swan song — the termination of my musical association and brief career with the "Berlin Observer." Henceforth, Sound Thinking will be authored by another member of the American Community, Steve Sauls, a thoroughly competent music critic.

My leaving has been precipitated by a personal venture into a private undertaking which is likely to prove quite time consuming. Yet, even if that were not the case, I believe I might still have been inclined to gracefully retire from the local rock-pop scene. Contemporary music is too broad and abstract a field to be adjudged or appraised by one person; in the interests of impartiality, it is healthy to sometimes introduce fresh opinions from quarters which are other than traditional. A regular transfusion of ideas can only strengthen the position of our little world and buttress the stature of rock connoisseurs in Berlin.

Mind you, this is not an apology for my own views as they were expressed via this column. There are no retractions, no renunciations, no equivocations regarding what has transpired during the period I have held the reins of Sound Thinking.

It has been with great deliberateness that I have cynically chastised the disgustingly obese music industry and taken a skeptical view of the existence and future of many groups. Too many mediocre bands today are grossly exaggerated in reputation, and thanks to the unwarranted illogical devotion of indiscriminate fans, a large proportion of once productive, creative artists have developed, pardon the colloquial expression, fat heads. They have fallen victims to the malignancy of unfounded success. Aware as I was of this quasi-éclat syndrome, it was my humble ambition to expose the senseless ambiguities of the super rock culture and perhaps introduce samplings of what pure, unspoiled talent is like. If I have accomplished this task in only a small way, I am pleased.

I do have some regrets about departing, but they are mostly due to the passage of time which has prevented me from commenting on this expansive topic as completely as I would have preferred. In my efforts to cover certain matters, I was forced to temporarily postpone planned features on such things as the mysterious, unexplainably obscure group "Aorta," and the dynamism of early "Blue Cheer," or the phenomenal, meteoric rise of "Haig & Haig," until, alas, it was too late.

Likewise, I have failed to explore the social impact of today's contemplative compositions or the significance of their lyrics. Lamentably, neither was there sufficient time for me to pay proper tribute and homage to the more interesting figures of the business: Captain Beefhart, Ian Anderson, Richie Havens, etc.; individuals who have done wonders for our age while receiving little or no recognition. Never were there ever such themes which were necessarily neglected for want of opportunity.

In spite of these glaring shortcomings, I did manage to accomplish many of my intended goals. I can look back with satisfaction knowing I have been true to my own ideals and loyal to what I hold sacred in rock. The main thing, however, is that I enjoyed writing this weekly article, and that is the prime ingredient for any piece of musical journalism. I sincerely hope that some of this personal pleasure has been imparted to the reader.

But enough blubbering and sentimental melodramatics; it is time to rewind the tapes, demagnetize the heads, and replace the phonograph needle. And as the final cut of my LP spins its last, I bid you a fond farewell and wish you the finest of audio experiences.

Cheers.

Statistics Show It Few Aware of Mortgage Benefits

WASHINGTON — Although every member of the Armed Forces with two or more years of active duty is eligible for Department of Defense assistance in buying and selling a home, very few of them take advantage of that assistance. Why? Maybe they don't know of the advantages that could mean thousands of extra dollars to them. Read on.

Statistics show most military men and women are unaware of their benefits under the provisions of the Federal Housing Administration's Section 222 covering "interservice" loans. Therefore, this article has been prepared to help inform the serviceman about this benefit.

Members of the Armed Forces have been eligible for insured mortgages under the Federal Housing Administration's program since August 1954. By insuring the mortgage, the FHA gives the members of the Armed Forces a definite advantage when applying for a home loan. And, as long as the serviceman stays on active duty, his Service will pay the mortgage insurance premium.

In addition to having completed two years of active duty, there are several other requirements which a home-buying Service family must meet. These include having a good credit record, sufficient income to meet the mortgage payments plus regular living expenses, and sufficient cash to pay the closing costs and down payment.

Certificate of Eligibility

A serviceman starts his program of home buying when he makes application for a Certificate of Eligibility (DD Form 802) through his unit commander to the headquarters which maintains his personnel records.

After the serviceman has been issued his certificate, he and his family can start looking for a home. Price range and location are important factors in this search. The nearest FHA office can provide a serviceman with detailed reports on availability of houses in any desired area, the price ranges, transportation facilities, and many other points of interest.

With a specific house in mind and his certificate in hand, the serviceman can then apply at one of the many FHA-approved agencies for a mortgage loan. When his application is accepted by the agency, the serviceman's active role is over until the settlement time comes around.

The loan agency will process the serviceman's application for a loan and make all the necessary arrangements with the FHA.

With few exceptions, the top mortgage amount insurable by the FHA under its Section 222 law is $33,000. There is no limit on the price a serviceman can pay for a home, however, there can be no secondary financing for the purchase price which is in excess of the FHA maximum. To buy a house that costs more than $33,000 a member of the Armed Forces must pay cash for the amount that is over $33,000.

But, from the settlement date and for as long as the serviceman is on active duty and lives in the house, his Service will pay the premiums for the FHA-required mortgage insurance.

United States, on Puerto Rico or Guam, in the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or on the Virgin Islands.

To take advantage of the FHA premium-paid mortgage insurance program, at settlement a serviceman must make a down payment which is based on the price of the house he is buying. (See box below.)

The down payment is in addition to settlement fees which must be paid when the mortgage contract is signed.

Here are two examples of the FHA-required down payment on a house which sells for the maximum insurable amount, $33,000:

● If his house was built under a preconstruction commitment, the serviceman will pay 3 percent on the first $15,000 $ 450 Ten percent of value between $15-25,000 $1,000 Fifteen percent of value above $25,000 $1,200 Total Down Payment $2,650

● If his house was not built under a preconstruction commitment and was less than one year old at the time of the settlement, the serviceman will pay 10 percent of value up to $25,000 $ 2,500 Fifteen percent of value above $25,000 $ 1,200 Total Down Payment $3,700

Housing Standards

Any house which is insured by the FHA under Section 222 must meet the agency's minimum property standards.

And, the "inservice" loan can only be used to purchase a one-family dwelling which will be used by the serviceman and his family as their personal home.

A house can be insured by the FHA only if it is located within the

As in any legal transaction, members of the Armed Forces are advised to contact their legal assistance officer for advice and assistance. Although the legal officer will not be able to represent a serviceman at settlement, he can offer valuable assistance both before and after the settlement.

Guardians, French Cooperate at FTX

by SP4 Lawrence M. Maloney

"Bon jour, Monsieur!" signalled that there would be something quite different about this FTX (field training exercise) for the Guardian Battalion. The 3rd Company, 46th Regiment of the French Army in Berlin was attached to the 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry for the three day exercise in the Grunewald.

Seldom has a company size element of one of the three powers in Berlin come under the direct command control of a battalion size element of one of the other powers in the "Divided City." Before the exercise began, there was some apprehension on both sides as to how smoothly commands and operation plans would flow through the language barrier.

There was also some concern over the compatibility of the communication equipment and the style of tactics of the two military systems. All of these fears were allayed almost the instant the problem began.

Within the first half-hour, the French company had rounded up 22 very surprised prisoners. Major William Kerans, the S-3 for the Guardian Battalion, recalled, "There were no operating difficulties at all. Their (the French) equipment and tactics were all quite compatible with and similar to our own. There were several who spoke English. Captain Paul Latrolle, company commander of the 3rd Company, sat in on all the tactical planning sessions at the battalion CP (command post)."

The 3rd Company, 46th Regiment was, for all practical purposes, a fourth line company in the Second of the Sixth. They received and carried out orders in the same manner as did the American companies. They moved into an assigned area, pushed out the enemy and secured it. They ran recon and "search and capture" patrols, taking a great many prisoners. At one point the 3rd Company moved in unnoticed and surrounded an aggressor force that was preparing to attack Company B, 2d Battalion, 6th Infantry.

PROJECT PARTNERSHIP — A French soldier of the 3rd Company, 46th Regiment, awaits the return of his commanding officer at the Guardian Battalion's Command Post during the recent Brigade Field Training Exercise. The French company was attached to the 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry for the three day problem as part of the Project Partnership Program.

The culmination of the training exercise for the Guardian Battalion with the French company was the air-mobile assault on an aggressor-held town. Company B was the first to be ferried into position by the Berlin Brigade's new "Huey" helicopters. They made the initial contact with the enemy, followed by Company A, Company C and the French. The operation went so smoothly that the town was cleared out and secured within 30 minutes of the French landing.

The maneuver, called by some of the enlisted men on both sides "very realistic... with mine fields, barbed wire and snipers," pointed out the ease with which joint operations between the three powers in West Berlin are possible.

The 3rd Company, 46th Regiment, added a little "continental" flavor to the problem and made the three days in the Grunewald more enjoyable for the men of the Second of the Sixth.

New Program For Travelers

The specified destination of travel in this program must be along the route of the flight on which travel originates. For instance, if a USAFE aircraft leaves Berlin and terminates its flight at Wiesbaden or Rhein-Main, travel is only authorized to these locations. If a flight plan reads Berlin-Wiesbaden-South Ruislip, England, for example, then the traveler may select England as his destination.

However, unless a return flight from England to Berlin is scheduled, authorization does not exist for a traveler to use military aircraft to any other location. Therefore, return travel to Berlin on military aircraft would be highly unlikely and travelers would have to make other arrangements.

Personnel desiring to utilize this type travel should contact their respective orderly rooms to accomplish necessary requirements. Travel orders specifying authorization to travel, including dependents' names, passport numbers and destination are required before you may board any aircraft.

Two scheduled passenger flights, one scheduled cargo flight and approximately 15 opportune military flights transit Tempelhof each week. To check on the availability of flights, you should contact the passenger service section, 5291, during normal duty hours.

Brigade Formal June 19 To Be at Kongresshalle

by PFC Jackson D. Wilson

"Berliner Luft," which translates to "Atmosphere of Berlin," is the theme for the Berlin Brigade Formal which will be held on the evening of June 19.

In order to capture the full effect of "Berliner Luft," the affair will be held in the impressive Kongresshalle in the heart of Berlin.

The Brigade function is being sponsored by the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry.

This will, perhaps, be the first and, certainly, one of few times in the recent history of Berlin Brigade that non-military facilities will be used for the affair, according to Lieutenant Colonel Lonnie T. Howard, commanding officer of the hosting 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry.

He said the battalion's Formal Planning Committee hopes, by its choice of theme and location, to make the June Formal a special one for the officers and warrant officers of Berlin Brigade and their ladies.

"We have chosen what we consider to be an appropriate theme for this venture into downtown Berlin, and the natural decor of the spacious Kongresshalle will provide an ideal setting for 'Berliner Luft,'" Howard said.

The reception and cocktails will begin at 7 p.m., followed by a dinner of venison, then entertainment and dancing. All functions will be held in the main reception hall.

The evening will include a reception line, hosted by Brigadier General Harold I. Hayward, commanding general, Berlin Brigade. His Guest of Honor will be Major General William W. Cobb, U. S. Commander, Berlin.

Major Allen D. Carlisle, executive officer of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, and chairman of the Formal Planning Committee, announced that tickets for "Berliner Luft" are now available for purchase through unit adjutants and the Office of the Secretary General Staff.

All officers and warrant officers of Berlin Brigade who plan to attend the Formal are encouraged to purchase tickets as early as possible.

Vanguards Return From MTA

by PFC Jackson D. Wilson

The 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, returned to Berlin from the Major Training Area (MTA) May 7, just in time to unpack, pack again and head for the Grunewald South to participate in the Brigade Field Training Exercise (FTX) last week.

At the MTA the men of the battalion received various types of field training and during the second week showed their state of combat preparedness in an Operational Readiness Test (ORT).

Reflecting on the experience at the MTA, Major Allen D. Carlisle, executive officer of the battalion, said, "As far as the training at the MTA, I felt the schedule was such that the unit commanders had sufficient time to properly plan and organize their activity at platoon and company levels so that when the men went to the field each day they had programmed instruction waiting for them."

The battalion faced simulated battle situations in two field problem tests, supervised by a team of Berlin Brigade umpires. As a result of its performance in the Army Training Test (ATT), the Vanguard Battalion was declared combat ready.

Commenting on the tests, Carlisle said, "The practice ATT and actual ATT served as valuable training vehicles, in that they gave the battalion an opportunity to operate as a battalion in the field, which it doesn't have the opportunity to do very often."

Concerning the performance of the battalion, he said, "Considering the number of times the battalion has been in the field, it did exceptionally well. The staff functioned effectively and unit commanders received and executed orders in a timely and efficient manner."

Bears Open Season With Pair of Wins

FRANKFURT (Special) — The Berlin Bears opened defense of their USAREUR championship by taking two out of three games from the 3rd Armored Division Spearheaders here Saturday and Sunday.

The Bears swept Saturday's doubleheader, 7-3 and 3-2, by taking advantage of the Spearheaders' defensive lapses, but an old Berlin nemesis, Bill Sims, came back to haunt them Sunday by pitching 3rd Armored to a 5-1 decision.

Berlin is now tied for second, one game behind the 1st Armored Division, and will travel to Munich to take on USAREUR and Seventh Army this weekend. The Guardians are also sporting a 2-1 record in league play.

The Bears swept Saturday's doubleheader when Scott Frymire raced home with the winning run on Mike Eberle's throwing error in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

Attempted Steal

Berlin wrapped up the victory in the bottom of the inning when catcher Dan Newman tagged Jan Withrow out at home on an attempted double steal with two out.

Player-coach Gene Stphenson pol- ed a solo homer for the Bears and Steve Bunker tossed a six-hitter to pick up the victory.

In the opener of the twinbill, the Bears exploded for four runs in the 10th inning when Greg Hildebrand crossed up the Spearheader defense by laying down a two-strike bunt for a run-scoring single.

Barney Caulfield came in to choke a 3rd Armored rally in the eighth inning and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way to pick up the win. Wayne Gollaher started for Berlin and held the Spearheaders to only one run until they chased him with their two-run outburst in the eighth.

The Bear's hopes for a sweep were spoiled Sunday when Sims stopped them on six hits. Sims has always been a thorn in the Bear's side as he was the player that caught two touch-down passes last fall to lead 3rd Armored to a 20-12 win over Berlin for the USAREUR football title.

He received all the support he needed Sunday when Withrow cracked a three-run homer in the fourth inning and Eberle doubled home two more runs in the sixth.

The Bears' only run came on a solo homer by losing pitcher Bob Wallis in the top of the sixth. Wallis went the route for Berlin, striking out 13 and walking two while giving up eight hits. Bob also accounted for three of the Bears' six hits.

Yanks Kick Luma, 3-0, To Extend Scoreless Streak

by SP4 Robert Carmany

The U. S. Forces soccer team roared back from a very frustrating first half in which they were stymied by several missed shots to dump Luma, 3-0, and extend their unbeaten string to five games in Industrial League play.

The win pushed the U. S. Forces record to 5-0-0 and kept them in first place by a full game. The game was also the fifth shutout for the Yanks in as many games. This game was played as the result of a schedule readjustment that saw last weekend's game cancelled at the last moment.

The American eleven spent a very frustrating first half as they were unable to score despite numerous excellent opportunities. The German team appeared to be concerned with defense from the outset and massed as many as seven defenders in front of the goal in an effort to hold off the potent American offense.

As a result, many shots from close range were deflected by one of the defenders. The teams left the field at halftime tied, 0-0, but one could not help feeling that it was just a matter of time until the Yanks scored.

The second half appeared to be going much the same as the first when inside right Nick Netter headed a deflected shot past the German goalie to put the Americans ahead, 1-0. The team's leading scorer, outside left Randy Achenbach, intercepted a pass some ten minutes later and rifled the ball into the goal for a 2-0 lead.

Just minutes later, Achenbach got his second goal of the game as he tapped a pass from Harry Gonyer into the corner of the net to run the score to 3-0. Gonyer, it should be noted, played very well and was able to beat the German defense almost at will.

The U. S. Forces is in action today at Tempelhof when they take on Autohaus Merkur at 5:30 p.m. in a league game rescheduled from May 15.

Mets Only Unbeaten Team In AYA Little League Play

The Mets are the only undefeated team in the Major League with a perfect 5-0 record. They have met each team in the league once and have managed to come out on top every time. Close behind are the Twins, who are sporting a 4-1 record and waiting for the Mets to slip. The Tigers are holding up the third position with a 3-3 mark followed by the Angels with a 2-2 record, the Astros, 1-4, and the Orioles, 0-5. The Major Little League plays Monday through Saturday at the Stewardstrasse Major Little League Field.

Senior Little League

The Yankees and Red Sox were tied for first place until Tuesday's game when the Yankees stopped the Red Sox, 9-8, to take over sole possession of first place in the Senior Division with a 5-1 record. The Red Sox are close behind with a 4-2 mark, followed by the Indians, 2-4, and Senators, 0-5. The Senior Little League play their games Mondays through Fridays, except Wednesdays, at the Berlin American High School field. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

Minor Little League

The red-hot Cardinals seem to be the team to beat in the Minor League, holding down a perfect 3-0 record through the first week of the young season. The Dodgers and Athletics are tied for second with 1-1 records, followed close behind by the Pirates, 1-2; Giants, 0-1, and the Reds, 0-1. The Minor League games are played Monday through Saturday at the Stewardstrasse Minor Little League field.

Crane Talks of Christ, Football and Namath's Knees

Alabama this spring and his legs are in better shape than they've been in a long time," Paul noted. "He's an exciting player and with him on your team, no matter how far behind you are, you always have a chance to win."

Although Namath will be making a comeback after sitting out last year with injuries, Sauer has announced that he is retiring from the game. Sauer is also writing a book about pro football, much in the same vein as Chip Oliver and Dave Meggysey, who criticized football in their books.

"I didn't care a whole lot for Oliver's and Meggysey's books," Crane said. "I like George a lot and he is a fine person but I haven't read his book yet."

Emotionally Involved

"One thing that he has said before is that football makes you feel like a 17-year-old kid emotionally. Well, I get emotionally involved just playing ping-pong. I think this is part of the game and you can't take it out."

Despite the loss of Sauer and their poor 4-9-1 record of last season, Paul feels like the Jets have the talent to go all the way this year.

"If our injuries heal and some of our new players come through we'll be in the championships," he stated. "The toughest team for us to beat will probably be Miami. They've got a good young team."

"I get emotionally involved just playing ping-pong."

No Single Thrill

Although he played on two national championship teams in college, was named the Southeastern Conference Lineman of the Year, played in two Orange Bowls and one Sugar Bowl and helped lead the Jets to their Super Bowl win, Crane doesn't have any one moment in sports that he would single out as his greatest thrill.

Crane spoke at the McNair Service Club Monday and at Tempelhof Tuesday night. In between he toured the city, met with the press and was shown around Berlin Brigade.

After his speaking engagement Tuesday, Paul left Berlin to complete his speaking tour and then return home to Mobile, Ala. to begin preparing for the upcoming football season.

Mortgage Benefits

Forces are subject to transfer with little or no notice, they may face the problem of selling a house which was purchased through an FHA-insured mortgage.

If this is the case, one of the first steps to take is to contact the nearest FHA office to obtain an up-dated version of that agency's home market survey. This can be valuable both in setting a fair price for your home and in showing the buyer the price ranges for your area.

If the new buyer pays cash for the house, or finances the purchase through a new mortgage, the serviceman's outstanding mortgage balance will be paid off and his obligation for the mortgage ended.

A serviceman's Service will pay the one percent prepayment penalty on the mortgage which is a charge made on all FHA loans that are paid off in advance of the scheduled date. This represents a saving to the serviceman of several hundred dollars.

But, no matter how the sales transaction is handled, the important thing is that the serviceman is released from his liability under the mortgage. This release means that he will be eligible for another FHA-insured loan at his next duty station.

First, last and always, members of the Armed Forces should remember to keep their legal assistance officer advised of the sale and see him before signing any papers.
