Under Any Name, Vets Day Honors Nation's War Heroes

By changing one word in a 28-year-old-resolution, the U. S. Congress in 1954 renamed the day our nation had traditionally set aside for honoring its war veterans.

On June 1, 1954, Congress, acting on a proposal made by Representative Edwin K. Rees of Kansas, changed Armistice Day to Veterans Day.

Additional significance was added to Veterans Day in 1958, when two more unidentified American war dead were brought to Arlington Cemetery from overseas and interred beside the Unknown Soldier of World War II, the other in Korea. To honor the three, symbolic of all Americans who gave their lives, a U. S. Army honor guard — the 1st Battalion, 3rd Infantry (Old Guard) — keeps day and night vigil. The tribute honors over one million American dead who have fallen in all U. S. Wars.

Nov. 11, 1918

Fighting in World War I ended at 11 a.m. Nov. 11, 1918. Two years later, France and England chose Nov. 11 as the time for placing an unknown soldier of that war in each nation's highest place of honor. France chose the Arch de Triumph and England selected Westminster Abbey. The following year, also on Nov. 11, an American soldier whose name was "known only to God" was buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

Berlin Hosts Pharmacy Talk

The Fourth USAREUR Pharmacy Seminar was held Oct. 7-9 at the U. S. Army Hospital, Berlin.

The conference was attended by 44 pharmacy officers and enlisted pharmacists from all parts of Europe. Air Force members, representing USAFE, came from as far as Turkey and one member of the Canadian Forces was present.

Keynote speaker for the conference was Lieutenant Colonel William Christopherson Jr., pharmacy consultant to the Surgeon General, who spoke on Army Pharmacy, Today and the Future. Other topics which were discussed included: The Ideal Supply System for Pharmacies, Unit Dose and an I. V. Additive Program, Schedule X, Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970, The Dual Role of the Health Clinic, The Age of Control and Pharmacy Supply to Supported Health and Troop Clinics. The conference was completed by tours of East and West Berlin and a banquet at the French Officers' Club "Pavillon du Lac."

In 1926, Armistice Day was made the official name for Nov. 11. Twelve years later another Congressional resolution made the date a national holiday.

If the idealistic hope that World War I was "The War to End All Wars," Nov. 11 might still be called Armistice Day. But only two years after the holiday was proclaimed, World War II broke out in Europe and shattered that dream.

When President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the bill proclaiming Nov. 11 Veterans Day, he called for Americans everywhere to rededicate themselves to the cause of peace. He proclaimed the day an occasion for honoring veterans of all wars, a group that numbers more than 38 million, of whom more than 28 million are still alive. Living veterans and their families, plus the living dependents of deceased veterans make up about one-half the population of the U. S.

Date Changed

The 90th Congress passed legislation in 1968 to change the observance of Veterans Day to the fourth Monday in October. The President signed PL 90-363 into law on June 28, 1968.

With respect to Veterans Day, 1971, President Nixon made the following statement: "There are no persons more deeply devoted to peace than those who have directly experienced the horrors of war. And there is no group of Americans who have done more to prepare the way for lasting peace than those who have actively resisted the forces of aggression and tyranny as members of our Armed Services."

He went on to say, "...we honor their devotion best when we renew our own devotion to their ideals: to courage and selflessness and loyalty and honor — and, above all, to lasting peace."

Berlin Tops USAREUR Suggestion Program

The U. S. Army, Berlin will receive the Special Achievement Award for the best overall suggestion program in USAREUR.

The award is presented each year by the Commander-in-Chief to honor a representative group of military and civilian personnel for significant achievement rendered during the previous fiscal year.

Two supervisors from Berlin will also be recognized for their individual efforts. Johannes Leopold, Engineer and Installations Division, will be awarded the Outstanding Civilian Service Award and Konrad J. Miller, 6941st Guard Battalion (LS) will receive a special award for his success in encouraging participation in the suggestion program.

The number of adopted suggestions last year was the highest ever recorded in Berlin and the savings and submissions were the second best on record. Cash paid in awards was correspondingly increased.

Anyone wishing to submit an idea may send it to Incentive Awards Administrator, Civilian Personnel Division, Berlin Brigade. You may also phone by calling 6453.

AYA Planning For Halloween

The AYA is planning a Worry Free Halloween for the children of the Berlin American Community Oct. 31. ## Getting Around Berlin

BVG Buses Soldiers Away From Casern

The following article is the third in a series concerned with getting to know Berlin and its people. Next week's article will describe the finer points of eating in Berlin's many fine restaurants. — Ed.

by PFC John C. Hinds Jr.

For most soldiers stationed in Berlin, the first few weeks, perhaps even months, are a real adventure. There is so much to see and so much to do and all of it is so strange.

After a period of barracks life even the most tried and true soldier has had enough and finds himself slipping beyond the front gate of the casern to find where the action is in this town.

Although there are almost as many ways to reach the high spots as there are people to go there, one of the most readily accessible and easiest to use is the public transportation system, known as the BVG, or buses and subways. In German they are known as the "Autobus" and "U-Bahn," respectively.

Allow me now to guide you through a trip on each.

Before we proceed on this imaginary journey, let me point out a few simple facts that will save you both time and money in the future. First, U. S. forces personnel in uniform can ride both the buses and subways free. This practice went into effect Oct. 1. Secondly, the only form of public transportation which U. S. forces are restricted from using is the S-Bahn, which goes into East Berlin.

Riding Buses

The buses are easy to catch and inexpensive to ride, so we will start with them. They stop on almost every street or at least within a few minutes' walk of every street in the city.

Bus stops are designated by a yellow rectangular sign atop the pole. The sign tells you that it is an "Autobus" stop and which buses stop there. A little lower on the pole and within eyesight is a piece of paper enclosed in glass which tells you the schedules of the buses which stop there.

Once the bus approaches you may notice that it doesn't look like the ones back in the States, particularly if it is a double-decker type, which may have a roving conductor to take your fare.

There are several other types of buses in Berlin: "Einmannwagens," on which you pay the driver, and which come in two styles — double-decker and regular; the regular single-level bus with a conductor; and both double-decker and single deck buses with a conductor sitting in the back of the bus, whom you pay before taking your seat.

Buying a Ticket

Once inside our imaginary bus you can sit on either the top or the bottom level for the same price. When the conductor comes by, say either "Einmal einfach, bitte" which means you want a single ride ticket, or "Umsteiger, bitte" which means you want a transfer. A single ride ticket costs 50 pfennigs; a transfer is 70 pfennigs.

You should also be aware of the proper way in which a transfer works in Berlin. It allows you to change as many times as you desire to reach one destination within two hours after purchase. You may also buy a transfer on a bus and ride a subway train with the same "Umsteiger" valid on both.

For complete rates for all BVG services, see the table below.

EDITORIAL Veterans Day

A telegram from a Becker Elementary School teacher in Cincinnati, Ohio, Miss Tanya Womer, asked President Nixon what she could tell her second-grade students about Veterans Day. Her telegram read:

"My name is Tanya. I'm a second-grade teacher and in charge of the Veterans Day assembly. I wanted my father to give a talk on what Veterans Day means but he can't because he died in the Korean War. Since the President is supposed to be our guiding light and father of the country, would you take the place of him now and give me some fatherly advice on what to do and say as if you were on that stage in his place?"

On behalf of the President, Donald E. Johnson, head of the Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C., and Chairman of the President's Veterans Day National Committee, replied in part:

"Dear Tanya: Your father deserved and deserved to live as much as any American and any father. No man, however much he cares for his country and his family, willingly wants to die to save them. That some do is the tragedy of humankind. It is a deeper tragedy for those he loved and left in sorrow.

"What I would say in your father's place, Tanya, is that Oct. 25 is a day for all Americans—every man and woman whose heart beats with pride and love—to stay strong in search of peace. I would say that every man who defended his country is a patriot of freedom, of peace and faith in America. I would say that your father paid the highest price man can pay for freedom, not because he wishes it but because he had the courage to face the total consequence of his country's call to duty without flinching.

"I would say, Tanya, I honor your father in full today, as a man and on behalf of his country. We owe him much. We honor him and your own spirit and courage to endure his loss. His valor helped save freedom.

"In saving it he provided you—all of us—with the freedom to ask questions today about the blunders of our past that permitted his death in Korea.

"He was a man, as were all who walked beside him in battle.

"In remembering his sacrifice let all Americans remember the need to keep alive the spirit of unity in America, to help revitalize our sense of a nation, one people, dedicated to Peace with Honor for all mankind." (AFPS Editorial)

Anywhere in USAREUR, USAFE

Space-A Flights Add New Twist

A new twist has been added to the Space-Available flights for servicemen and their dependents in Berlin but very few people are taking advantage of it.

On Sept. 1 Berlin was designated as an isolated area under the Environmental and Morale Leave Program for Designated Overseas Areas. This means that it is possible for all military personnel and Department of Defense employees and their dependents to travel Space-Available anywhere in USAREUR or USAFE.

The two main points of the new regulation are that you may change aircraft and dependents may also travel when accompanied by their sponsor.

This travel opportunity is available on an equitable basis to officers, enlisted men and civilians without regard to rank or grade, military or civilian or branch of service.

You must have travel authorization for travel issued in connection with this program and only one specified place in which travel is to be performed. You are allowed 66 pounds of baggage.

In order for dependents to go, you must go to your unit orderly room for travel authorization.

Each person is normally authorized one trip per year to these locations but additional trips may be authorized by local commanders.

Sponsors accompanying dependents must be on leave status and all personnel taking advantage of the program must comply with all theater and international restrictions such as passports, visas, customs and immunizations.

There are two scheduled flights leaving Berlin each week, on Monday and Friday, going to Wiesbaden Air Base near Frankfurt but there are also approximately 30 unscheduled flights per month.

From Wiesbaden there are flights leaving for all parts of Europe.

For example, there are flights to London on Wednesdays and Fridays, flights to Italy and Greece on Sundays and Thursdays and to Spain on Mondays and Fridays.

The chances of getting on a flight are very good now as scheduled aircraft are running only about 60 per cent full according to Headquarters, USAFE.

The other cast, directed by Dan Uebbing, will present the traditional approach. Free tickets may be obtained in the PX lobby for performances today, tomorrow and Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Berlin Brigade Entertainment Center theater above Crump Hall Library. ## Lennon Making Much Noise With Primal Scream Theory

by PFC John C. Hinds Jr.

Welcome back. This week I want to review the new John Lennon album "Image" for you. It is perhaps one of his best works and I feel transcends his Primal Scream theory expounded on his last album and Yoko's album.

The Primal Scream, in case you aren't familiar with it, is a theory whereby you work out your aggressions by means of the scream. It is clearly in evidence in Yoko's album with the Plastic Ono Band and parts of John's album with the same group.

Now that Lennon has worked the Primal Scream out of his system, at least for the time being, he's gotten down to some mellow music making. That's the word on the album. "It's better than the last one," he promises. "It's not personal like that . . ."

'Lot Lighter'

"I mean the last one was a good recording and well-produced, but I think I've learned a lot more. I'm a lot lighter now — not in the therapy. When I made it I was feeling just happy . . . quite in love and having a nice time."

I was able to take the Lennon quotes from a rock music newspaper which is sold in New York.

Backing John on the new album are George Harrison, Nicky Hopkins, Klaus Voorman, Alan White, King Curtis and Bobby Speyer, while John, Yoko and Phil Spector share producers' credit.

The record was made in nine days: a week spent laying down tracks at the Lenonns' Ascot home, and a two-day session in New York, where violins were added to four tracks. These cuts, incidentally, were done in quadrophonic sound, although due to the scarcity of quad equipment only a few albums will be put out using this technique.

Political Tone

Three of the album's songs have a definite political orientation according to Lennon: "I Don't Wanna Be A Soldier," "Gimme Some Truth" and "Image." The personal element of the first album is continued in "Mama, I Don't Wanna Die," "Oh Yoko" and "Crippled Inside."

"One thing you can't hide is when you're crippled inside" is the psychologically probing message of the latter.

The album reveals John's close affinity to the New York avant garde — especially members of Fluxus, a group of artists to whom he was introduced some time ago by his wife. When he took tapes to New York for over-dubbing, John utilized the electronic gadgetry of one of the members, Joe Jones, the guiding spirit of Tone Deaf Music Company.

This consists basically of musical instruments and electric doodads which play themselves; Jones used a number of toy violins made by Jones for the string overdubs.

The way that Lennon describes them is you simply plug them in and they play.

Image, in fact, will be credited to John and the Plastic Ono Band with the Flux Fiddlers, while Yoko's new album, Fly, will headline the Plastic Ono Band with the Joe Jones Tone Deaf Music Company. Toy fiddles? Hold on, Yoko, hold on, John . . .

Until next week. Peace and Power To The People.

Participation in Berlin has been very low since the program began, probably because people aren't aware that dependents are also authorized to travel with their sponsors.

With the present low number of people taking advantage of the program, anyone signing up on the waiting list will be notified by phone of any flights. There is anywhere from a five-minute to five-day notice on unscheduled flights.

The number to call for flight information is 5291.

Five Berliners On Dean's List

Two members of Berlin Brigade, one soldier and one dependent, were among five University of Maryland students from Berlin to be named to the Dean's List at the end of the fifth semester. The students completed at least 15 semester hours of work with at least a 3.50 average. Each student received a letter of commendation.

The students from Berlin Brigade are Specialist Five Marvin G. Ripley, of Company A, Field Station, Berlin, who completed 18 semester hours of work with a perfect 4.0 average and Mrs. Dorothy Anne Miller, wife of Captain Raymond Miller, chief, Family Housing Billeting Branch, Engineer and Installation Division. Mrs. Miller completed 15 semester hours of work with a 3.80 average.

Other students from Berlin who were named to the Dean's List are: Air Force Staff Sergeant Jerry Lee Austin, of the 6912th Security Squadron, 18 hours with a 3.50 average; Air Force Sergeant Michael Lee Hari, also of the 6912th, 18 hours with a 3.66 average; and Milton Balk, a retired master sergeant living in Berlin, 18 hours with a 3.66 average.

4/18 Enjoys 'Just Plain Fun' at Organization Day

The 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry held Vanguard Organization Day Tuesday to commemorate the 159th anniversary of the establishment of the 18th Infantry during the War of 1812.

Activities in observation of the anniversary began at 9:30 a.m. with a battalion parade and awards ceremony on the 4-Ring. All companies of the battalion participated as well as the 298th Army Band.

Brigadier General Raymond O. Miller, commanding general, Berlin Brigade reviewed the ceremonies along with Lieutenant Colonel Lonnie T. Howard, commanding officer of the battalion.

Major William T. McNamara, executive officer of the battalion, was commander of troops.

Staff sections were represented by First Lieutenant William J. Macpherson, Jr., adjutant; Captain Charles B. Cook, security officer; Captain Antonio W. Medici, II, operations and training officer; and First Lieutenant Charles J. McAllister, supply officer.

Major General William W. Cobb, U. S. Commander, Berlin, and Dr. Wolfgang Rothkegel, mayor of the Zehlendorf District of Berlin, were present to help celebrate the anniversary.

Ceremonies included readings of the unit's Lineage and Honors in three languages by First Lieutenant Steven A. Rank, assistant adjutant (English); First Lieutenant Bruce Peltier, platoon leader in Company B (German); and First Lieutenant Francis P. Brown, platoon leader in Company A (French).

A number of personnel in the battalion were honored by Miller during awards ceremonies.

Captain James N. Joyner, Jr., commanding officer, Company A, received the Vietnamese Armed Forces Honor Medal, First Class. Platoon Sergeant Andrew W. Hayes, Company A, was awarded a Certificate of Achievement for meritorious service with a former unit.

Chief Warrant Officer Merl R. Wright, battalion motor maintenance technician, received the Berlin Brigade Certificate of Merit for Safety. In addition, members of the Maintenance Platoon were cited for achievement in maintenance and safety.

Specialist Four Fred M. Peters, Company C, was awarded $25 and a wristwatch for winning competition for Berlin Brigade Soldier of the Month for August.

Sergeant James V. Little, Jr., Company C, received a three-day pass and $25 as Berlin Brigade Driver of the Quarter for the first quarter of the fiscal year.

Staff Sergeant Lewis H. Brewer, battalion career counselor, accepted the Commanding General's Quarterly Reenlistment Trophy for the first quarter in recognition of the battalion's first place rating. He also

Following the ceremonies, a reception was held in the Infantry Hall of Honor where guests watched Howard cut an anniversary cake with a silver sword. Guests were served hors d'oeuvres and champagne. Another open house reception was held simultaneously in the All American Service Club.

Perhaps the most exciting part of the day came after a hearty anniversary luncheon when officers, non-commissioned officers and enlisted men joined together for competitive games.

Afternoon activities included volleyball, football, tug-of-war, M-60 machine gun and 81-mm mortar crew drills and a softball game between officers and enlisted men.

Company A showed its strength by winning the volleyball competition, both weapons crew drills and the tug-of-war. Company B was victorious in the round robin football competition.

The day's activities came to an end when the officers of the battalion defeated the enlisted men in a close but high scoring softball game. Enjoyment of activities throughout the afternoon was enhanced by a large beer tent which supplied free beer to the thirsty spectators and participants. Some were tempted to call the anniversary activities "adventure training," but others called it just plain fun.

accepted the Berlin Brigade Quarterly Reenlistment Trophy for Headquarters Company, the top company in the Brigade for the first quarter.

Special recognition was given First Lieutenant John Schneeberger and the battalion's Reconnaissance Platoon for outstanding performance of duty during the recent 10th anniversary of the building of the wall.

Also receiving recognition was Specialist Four Richard J. Carafello, battalion mail clerk, who received three 100 per cent ratings in succession during roadside spot checks by the Brigade Maintenance Assistance and Instruction Team (MAIT). Specialist Four John M. Karnatz, assistant driver, presented Carafello, who is on leave.

McNamara, battalion executive officer (r.), is supported by CPT Peter T. Worsley, battalion motor officer (c), and 1LT William J. Macpherson, Jr., adjutant, and a host of men. All to no avail — Company A won the event.

Two Students Win Letters

Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1971 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT) have been awarded to two students at Berlin American High School, Principal David Twohy announced.

Those named commended students are Elizabeth A. Carter and Diana J. Green.

They are among 35,000 students in the U. S. who scored in the upper two per cent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1972. The commended students rank just below the 15,000 semifinalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

Edward C. Smith, president of NMSC, said: "Although commended students advance no further in the Merit Scholarship competition, their standing in this nationwide program deserves public recognition. Their high performance on the NMSQT gives promise of continued success in college.

"The commended students should be encouraged to pursue their education since their intellectual talent represents an important and much needed natural resource. Both these students and our nation will benefit from their continuing educational development."

The commended students' names are reported to certain scholarship-granting agencies and to the colleges they named as their first and second choices when they took the NMSQT in February 1971. The reports include home addresses, test scores, and anticipated college major and career intentions of the commended students. NMSC encourages these students to make every effort to continue their education.

Housing Hints

For members of the U. S. Army, Berlin living in economy housing, the Housing Referral Office offers this hint: Many of the older-type houses have an outside door which must be secured at a certain hour, usually 8 p.m. If you have guests, be sure to lock the door when they leave. Also, remember that the people at the HRO can be of help if you have any problems or questions. Call them at 6688.

Flag Football

Flag football reached its "moment of truth" this week as the season grinded grudgingly to a halt.

Wednesday was the scheduled cut-off date for regular season play, but some eight makeup games were yet to be played. Over at Andrews, it was "Service Company's Last Stand" as Company B, FSB administered a 77-0 massacre. In other contests, 592nd Signal Company tipped the 287th Military Police, 8-6, and squashed Company F, 40th Armor, 32-0. Company A, FSB blasted the MP's, 26-7, blanked Headquarters and Service Company, FSB, 26-0, and took a forfeit from 279th Station Hospital.

In other action, Company B, FSB outlasted Headquarters and Service Company, FSB, 20-12, and Headquarters Company, Special Troops and Hospital took forfeits from 40th Armor and USCOB.

Coach "Bear" Cooper's Company B, 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry Boas coasted to two wins, stopping C Company, 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, 12-8, and zapping Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, 16-0. The Boas played both games the same afternoon and chalked up their seventh and eighth wins without a loss. Gordon Lightfoot got in on the scoring, taking an 11-yard "razzle dazzle" touchdown pass from outstanding quarterback Mike Wenz. The only bad news for the Boas was the loss of Bob Mobbs with a broken arm and "Ranger Joe" Horvath with a broken finger, for the season.

Playoff games will be held Nov. 1-5 with the top six teams in Andrews and McNair League participating. There will be a meeting of league personnel Friday to determine pairings for the playoffs. The championship game will be held Nov. 5 at McNair.

MP POWER — An MP halfback swings out behind some solid blocking for an end run against 592nd Signal Company in their Andrews League game Friday. The Signaleers managed to score a touchdown and two extra points to tip the MP's, 8-6, despite runs like the one above. 592nd is in third place and 287th MP's tied for sixth in this week's standings. Both teams are playoff-bound. (Photo by SP4 Clyde A. Wrigley)

THE SAGA OF OMAR KAYAK

Washington University's rifle-armed Cherokee Indian quarterback, Alex "Sonny" Sixkiller, became an overnight sensation last year as a sophomore. This year he received probably the greatest accolade the media could have given him—his picture on the cover of Sports Illustrated.

Sportswriters have had a field day capitalizing on Sixkiller's name, his Cherokee background, and of course, on his obvious talent. He's received the biggest hoopla since the days of another great Indian athlete, Jim Thorpe . . . "The Ballad of Sonny Sixkiller" reached the fringes of hit parade respectability in Washington, eager fans wear "Sonny Sixkiller" sweatshirts, they have a Sixkiller football fight yell, and Sonny has been plagued by commercial firms wanting his testimony for their products in magazines and on TV.

Throughout it all, Sixkiller has kept his cool, and only on occasion has he complained about the exploiting. He asked the question in Sports Illustrated that some observers had been asking themselves: "Would so much attention have been given to him if he were just another outstanding player, and not an Indian named Sixkiller?" Probably not. The American people make their own heroes.

If this trend continues, we might see a press release like this in the future: SOUTH BEND, Ind. Oct. 21, 1975 (AP) . . . Notre Dame's Fighting Irish retained their number one national ranking as they crushed Nebraska Saturday, 55-0, behind sensational Eskimo quarterback Omar Kayak's five touchdown passes.

Irish coach Ara Parseghian calls Kayak "the finest quarterback we've had since Joe Theisman back in '70." Parseghian thought that Kayak was a sure-fire bet to make all-America in post season voting by sportswriters. "He's got the poise, stability, and leadership under pressure that have marked all great quarterbacks," the coach said. "He can throw short, hard bullets and if you give him a chance, he'll kill you on the bomb. He can run, too. He had quite a day against Nebraska scrambling away from those 280-pound defensive linemen, I can tell you that."

Parseghian isn't the only Kayak fan at Notre Dame. Kayak, nicknamed "OK" by his teammates, had a new Irish defense named after him, the Kayak "freeze." Stan Woljeschniki, a 285-pound defensive end, and a co-captain with Kayak, said of OK, "He's not only a terrific player out on the field, but as my roommate, a swell fellow as well."

Notre Dame's student body is proud of their Eskimo star, and have fondly named the frat house where Kayak stays, "Igloo Inn." Tee-shirts with "OK," and "Notre Dame is Kayak Country" are fast selling items in the college bookstore, along with Kayak's latest single record hit, "The Saga of Omar Kayak."

Kayak isn't too concerned with all the publicity he's been receiving. "It'll all die down after awhile," he said. "I'm here at Notre Dame to play football, that's all; I think other people are more excited than I am."

He did want to make one point perfectly clear, however. "I was misquoted in the article about me in Sports Illustrated. I did not learn to throw a football so accurately by harpooning seals in my 'native village of Nanook.'" He said with a laugh, "I've never been to Nanook, I've never thrown a harpoon, and I made all-State quarterback at Anchorage East High School, not Nanook Missionary School as was suggested."

Kayak wasn't too sure about his future. "Sure I've received pro football offers," he admitted. "I've also received some offers to do some films in Hollywood. Whichever is more lucrative. Right now, though, I'm concentrating on football . . . the rest is too far off to think about."

Shades of Sonny Sixkiller . . .

Shimak, Nettles Keep Jets on Top AYA Junior Division Standings

SENIOR DIVISION

Paul Garrison fired two TD passes and ran for another in leading the Kansas City Chiefs to a 37-13 pasting of the Detroit Lions. Steve Leda was the big ground gainer for the Chiefs, picking up 56 yards in 18 attempts rushing. The game was close, as the Chiefs held only a 13-7 halftime lead, but erupted for 24 second-half points.

The Lions scored two touchdowns on runs of two and four yards by Roy Edwards. Quarterback Rick Mattingly completed eight of 29 passes for 102 yards in the losing cause.

Junior Division AYA football found the New York Jets topping the Cleveland Browns, 18-6, and Baltimore Colts whipping the Atlanta Falcons, 24-0, Saturday.

Joe Shimak scored two touchdowns and Walter Nettles one in the Jets' win. Together, Shimak and Nettles picked up 222 yards rushing. Mitch Hancock scored the Browns' lone TD on a four-yard run.

Douglas Kincaid of the Baltimore Colts connected on five of 13 passes and ran for 63 yards to pace his team's victory.

Cubs Need Big Win

by Rick Phillips

Berlin American High School's over-confident Cubs were surprised on an ice-cold Saturday afternoon by Bremerhaven, 14-0.

Injuries was the name of the game for the Cubs as linemen Ed Sears, who is out for the season, and Kevin McLean were taken out early in the game, while backs Roy Yarbrough, Larry Garrels and Pat Clybourn were hurt during the rest of the game. Several scoring attempts by Garrels, John Hayes and other Cubs were missed and halted by the fired-up Bremerhaven team after a Hawk back ran for a touchdown after the opening kickoff.

The Cubs will expect an even tougher game tomorrow as they travel to face Zweibruecken, a physically large and strong team. Buc stars are fullbacks Dave Farmer, Francis Young, and halfback Richard Platzenberger.

Zweibruecken, who was lower-league last season, is 2-3 this year after romping over Upper Haverford (London), 36-6, Saturday.

The road game tomorrow will give the Cubs their chance to rally and come out of a two-game slump. They want to get back on the road to victory and take the Silver Championship that they lost so closely last year. The Cubs' record dipped to 3-2 with the Bremerhaven loss, and Coach George Pepoy would like to see his charges come back to Berlin with better than a .500 batting average.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — At least that's Berlin's Cubs hope as they prepare for an important meeting tomorrow with Zweibruecken. The Cubs have to bounce back from two tough losses in a row to Augsburg and Bremerhaven in still a third road game. (Photo by Sandra McCluskey)

Mibag Shuts Out Americans, 1-0

by Randy Achenbach

Mibag shut out the U. S. Forces soccer team, 1-0, Saturday at Wilmersdorf in the first playoff game to decide first place in the German Industrial League.

Mibag's strategy was to play a hard physical game to offset and break-up the passing game of the Yanks. The Americans were given a golden opportunity to score when they were awarded a penalty kick in the first half. The shot by right inside Jim Elwood missed the corner of the goal by inches.

Mibag's fired-up team came back minutes later, scored the first goal, and hung on through a frustrating second half for the Americans to win, 1-0. (The Yanks had won two earlier contests in the season, 1-0, and 2-1.)

The Big Blue will be in action tomorrow, 2 p.m., at McNair against a Special Forces team. The Yanks play a Baren Pills team Monday and a Switzerland National Insurance Company team Wednesday before taking on Mibag again Oct. 30 in the second crucial playoff game.

CURRENT U-BAHN SYSTEM MAP

BVG Buses Soldiers

Now all you need to remember on the bus is to keep your eyes and ears open so you don't miss your stop.

U-Bahn System

A little bit trickier, but still easy enough to use, are the subways or U-Bahns. The stations are marked off in two ways: either a small house with the name of the station and a large "U" such as can be found on Clayallee at the Oscar-Helene-Heim station; or stairwells on the street with a large blue "U" above the stairs also denoting the U-Bahn.

Once you have gone to the station you will notice a cashier's window where you pay for your ticket. The cost of a single ride ticket is 40 pfennings and 70 pfennings for a transfer. The ticket is perhaps the most important thing to remember because if you are found without one you may be fined DM 20 on the spot. The same holds true for buses.

After buying your ticket proceed to the tracks. There you will find maps and time tables. The circled station is the one you are at.

The time tables, with the station underlined, show the times of departure from the first to the last train of the day. There are two sets of time tables — one for the weekdays and one for the weekends. You can tell which train you want by checking with the map and noting the end points of each line, since the train's route is named by these points.

Before boarding the train you must open the doors as they are not automatic as with some subways in the States. They do, however, close automatically.

Now one more item to worry about. There are two types of cars — those for smokers, labeled "Raucher," and those for non-smokers labeled "Nicht-raucher."

Well, this is where I get off, but before I leave you let me point out a few more interesting facts. The

Total bus and ship	—	DM 8.50	DM 36
Total BVG System	—	DM 11.50	DM 49

NOTE: Five-day, seven-day and monthly rate tickets must be purchased initially at the U-Bahn station, Fehrbelliner Platz. The only item necessary to do so is a 4x4 cm mug shot of the purchaser. Tickets can be renewed weekly or monthly at any station.

West Berlin U-Bahn system comprises 90.1 km with 95 stations. There are presently under construction a further 13.4 km with an additional 17 stops.

The trains run every five or 10 minutes, depending on the time of day and time tables and maps of the system can be purchased at every station where you buy your ticket.

Have a nice trip and an enjoyable stay in Berlin, but don't ride the S-Bahn or your stay may be cut short.

Fourth German Ice Theater Launched With 'Merry Widow'

by Judy Pricks

The German Ice Theater launched its fourth production in the Deutschlandhalle last Wednesday, and this one promises to be just as successful as the other three. Franz Lehárs operetta "The Merry Widow" has been rearranged in order to fit into this special production of theater on the ice (the German Ice Theater places great emphasis on the fact that they do not produce ice shows, but theater productions).

Even after almost 70 years (the premiere was in December of 1905) the widow is still merry and her melodies fresh as ever.

The stars of this costly production featuring several stage settings and an array of dazzling costumes are Germany's favorite skaters, Marika Kilius and Hans-Juergen Bauemler. The pair, often referred to as the "dream couple," were world champions twice, European champions six times and won Olympic medals.

Another big skating name is Manfred Schnelldorfer from Munich, who has also won Olympic gold and was world champion. The other skating members of the production have been picked out for their great skating ability from eleven different nations.

Lot To Offer

All in all, this operetta on ice really has a lot to offer the visitor. It will be showing in the Deutschlandhalle until Nov. 13 and then will tour Germany. The performances begin at 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday, at 7 p.m. on Sunday and there is a matinee at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Ticket prices begin at DM 6.

It's very likely that the Philharmony will be filled mostly with ladies Thursday. Reason: Jean Claude Pascal will be singing songs and chansons there that night, beginning at 8.

The concert in the Hochschule of Musik (on Hardenbergstrasse) Friday will be most attractive for those who enjoy the sounds of the baroque trumpet. Germany's most famous artist on this instrument, Adolf Scherbaum, will be performing works by Bach, Viviani and Torelli to name some.

Scherbaum, who has studied music in Prague and Vienna, has played with some of the most famous orchestras of the world such as the English Philharmonic Orchestra and the Roman Cecilia. In Berlin, he will perform with Guenther Fetz, organ, and Irmingard Seemann, violoncello.

If you prefer Tchaikovsky's music, you can get a full evening of it also in the Hochschule fuer Musik. On Oct. 30 and 31, the Symphonic Orchestra Berlin, conducted by C. A. Bunte, will play the overture "Romeo and Julia," a violin concert and the Symphony Nr. 2. Soloist for both concerts is Michael Goldstein.

Tickets for the above-mentioned events can be obtained through the PX ticket agency.

Bach Cantata

No tickets are required to listen to the Bach Cantata Nr. 56 "Ich will den Kreuzstab gerne tragen" in the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church downtown tomorrow at 6 p.m. The Bach Choir and the Bach-Collegium will present the cantata.

The current exhibition at the Haus am Waldsee (on Argentinische Allee 30) is somewhat unusual and that what makes it especially worth a visit. On display until Nov. 21 are Kuno Gonschior's "Irritations" from Germany and Peter Sedgley's "Vibrations" from London. The irritations are produced by making dots of color on such a contrasting background that a flimmering effect is produced and that round and convex forms appear to be flat.

Gonschior has also set up two black, plastic-coated rooms in which glowing paint drips from various containers. The visitor can alter this dripping pattern by making loud noises such as shouting and clapping.

Sedgley, who has worked together with the London Dock Group which was introduced to Berlin in the "London Now" event, has brought life to the term "mixed media." Through painting, light and sound he produces his vibrations.

Colored lights, which are connected to music and cibrante in the rhythm, produce intricate patterns and colors on painted surfaces. It all is a bit difficult to describe and should be seen to be understood. Opening hours are from Tuesday through Sunday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Admission is only 50 pfennigs.
