PTA Meeting

A presentation on drug abuse among school-aged children will highlight the Parent-Teachers Association meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Berlin American High School on Am Hegewinkel. Members and parents of school-aged children are strongly encouraged to attend. Light refreshments will be served.

OXFORD SCENE — There is a lot to see in Europe, but travel can be expensive. You can cut the cost considerably by taking advantage of Space-Available flights from Tempelhof. The program is available to military personnel, Department of Defense employees and their dependents. Information can be obtained by calling Berlin military 5291. Army Community Service Aids In Getting Settled at New Post

by PFC John C. Hinds Jr.

The first few weeks after reassignment are a trying time to any soldier and his family, especially while they are switching stations. Here in Europe the problems, as we all know, are compounded. But many servicemen do not know where to go if they are married and need help in settling into the command.

In 1965 the Army set up a "good neighbor" policy to help soldiers and their families settle at their new station. This program is known as Army Community Service (ACS) and in Berlin it is run by Captain Ronald Johnson and his staff of 38 volunteer women.

The ACS program as outlined by the Department of the Army assists command efforts to provide information, referral and direct service programs to the members of the Army community in meeting routine living requirements as well as in resolving more complex social problems which require special resources, knowledge or professional skills.

What this all boils down to in Berlin is an efficiently run organization of volunteer help under the direction of Johnson and his volunteers, who primarily assist non-command sponsored families in settling into the command. They do this through various committees such as the Welcoming Committee, the Office Committee, the Orientation and Publicity Committee and the Emergency Help Committee.

The Welcoming Committee is perhaps one of the most warmly received efforts in the command. Through it, volunteer ladies from ACS visit newly arrived families at their homes and provide them with a package of pamphlets explaining the various services which are available to them at little or no cost. They also answer any questions that they might have about Berlin.

The Orientation and Publicity Committee runs a 12-hour orientation class which is held quarterly and provides new certified ACS volunteers. This program consists of skits and lectures which train interested ladies to be an ACS volunteer.

At the end of the program the volunteers receive a service pin. The program is open to all interested ladies in the command and further details can be gathered by calling the ACS office.

The Office Committee is used to staff ACS at Berlin Brigade Compound, and the Emergency Help

Committee provides 24-hour help to anyone in the command who may need ACS assistance in solving such problems as a ride to the hospital in the middle of the night or help in getting back on their feet if a family's belongings have been lost due to fire.

In order to reach the ACS Emergency Help Committee a soldier or his family may call 6585 or 6500 during duty hours or 813-7791 or the Staff Duty Officer after duty hours.

At present, ACS is conducting a "lending closet" program which provides household items to newcomers on a 60-day loan basis. ACS is asking for donations to this program in the way of pots and pans, ironing boards or any household items which may be of help to the new families until their household goods arrive.

Yes, Berlin Brigade really does have a year-round Santa Claus — known as Army Community Service.

Getting Around Berlin

Tours Good Way To See City

The following article is the fifth in a series concerning Berlin and its people. The sixth in the series will appear next week and will describe the easiest way to get to Berlin's highspots using the city's public transportation system. —Ed.

by SP5 Robert B. Swaim

If you have been in Berlin any time at all you know that you are in one of the most fascinating and unique cities in Europe and indeed the world.

Much has been in the news about the city you live in, but how much do you really know about Berlin? Have you taken the time to get out and see what this city is really like, what its people are like and in general what Berlin has to offer? If you haven't, you should. It is easy to do. One of the best ways to see Berlin

(East and West) is to take one of Berlin Brigade's Special Services tours. The Special Services Tours Office offers four tours of West Berlin each week. The tour is conducted on Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday and departs the Shopping Center Bus Terminal at 1 p.m., the Harnack House at 1:05 p.m. and the Columbia House at Tempelhof Central Airport at 1:30 p.m.

The 3½-hour tour is most comprehensive and, as I have suggested, one of the best ways to get a good overall look at your temporary home. The tour guide, Ronald Douglas, is one of Berlin's most experienced guides. Reservations should be made for this tour by calling the Tours Office at 6523.

The Tour Office also offers a four-hour tour of East Berlin. This tour departs the Shopping Center Terminal at 1 p.m. on Saturdays. Reservations should be made for this tour at least two days in advance. To go to the East you must have a Request for Travel to the Soviet Sector (AE-BA Form 034350), if stationed in Berlin, and you must be wearing a Class A uniform.

Civilians and Berlin-stationed dependents must have a USFB-ID card. Visitors to Berlin must have a DA Form 31 or TDY orders which have East Berlin travel permission on them. Military personnel visiting Berlin must also wear a Class A uniform. Dependents visiting Berlin may not go on the U. S. Army tours to East Berlin.

If you would rather take a commercial tour of the city, they too are available in abundance. Commercial tours in English are available for both East and West Berlin, either combined or separately. There are also commercial tours of the sector borders, and for those who might like to take advantage of Berlin's night life, nightclub tours are offered.

U.S. Spirit Demonstrated At Industries Exhibition

The German Industries Exhibition opens today at the Funkturm Exhibition Grounds and will run through Nov. 14.

The exhibit will illustrate some of the achievements of the early American pioneering spirit, which has evolved into the scientific and technological achievements of today, as well as achievements of other countries.

A representative collection of the most recent and significant products and inventions available in the U. S. at present or in the near future have been brought to Berlin for the fair.

Because of the great concern on the part of the U. S. in furthering the aims of the Berliners and their city, these displays were specially assembled for their first showing in the Divided City.

The two most spectacular presentations are:

• The full-scale mockup of the Skylab scheduled to be launched into Earth orbit in 1972. This laboratory manned by a team of Astroscientists, will conduct valuable research from space for the benefit of mankind. Also included in the space section is a replica of the well-known Moon Rover.

• A living and home area features the mod kitchen of the future with its computer and futuristic appliances, sleeping room with the Pleasure Island water bed and atmospheric surroundings and living room furnishings with radical departures in design, new forms and materials.

Among the recreational items being shown are the low profile sleek jet-propelled speedboat, a rocketed camber ski and an assortment of innovative toys.

Among the other 60 items on display will be picture clocks, a hologram, a laser beam, a computer terminal, toys and even a meter to test your emotions.

The automatic microfilm information center will provide interested visitors with detailed information on every item shown.

The exhibit will be open daily from 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Admission for adults is DM 3, for students it is DM 1.50 and for children up to 14 years old accompanied by parents or guardian, 50 pfennigs.

5,000th GRADUATE — SGT Parish McLain (R.), of Headquarters Company, 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, receives congratulations from Daniel McCafferty, instructor of the National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course, on being the 5,000th graduate of the course since it was first given Aug. 24, 1970.

Dial Action, Get Results; 7777 Operates Full Time

by SP5 Steve Adams

A 24-hour telephone answering service, Dial Action, has recently been installed to solicit constructive suggestions on removal of service irritants within Berlin Brigade.

This new program will serve as a direct line of communication between soldiers and their dependents with Brigadier General Raymond O. Miller, Berlin Brigade commanding general.

If an individual has a complaint or good idea, at any time of the day or night, that he thinks will enhance the morale, esprit or combat readiness of the Berlin Brigade, he may inform the commanding general by dialing Berlin military 7777, according to Captain Theodore J. Purdom, special assistant to the commanding general for the Modern Professional Army.

Upon placing the call, a taped message will instruct the caller in the proper procedure. At the end of the message he will have three minutes to give his remarks. He must remember to include his full name, rank, unit and phone number so his call can be answered.

Purdom's office will supervise the program and prepare daily transcripts of the taped calls. Appropriate staff sections will then be tasked for action. Replies will be staffed for the chief of staff's approval.

The Berlin Observer will publish replies to ideas which are of general interest. The commanding general reserves the final decision on the method of response to all calls whether it be by his personal or staff letter, phone call, via Observer or other means.

Beware the Mirage

Most of us like to try something new and when you're peeking over the installation fence at "greener pastures," some of the lures are irresistible. However, all that greenery may be a mirage.

- Before you hop the fence ask yourself these questions:
• Will your employer guarantee continued employment if you meet his standards?
• Will he give you a tax-free allowance for quarters or furnish them free?
• Will he give you a tax-free allowance for meals or furnish them free?
• Will he furnish free health and accident insurance and full pay if you are unable to work, regardless of length of illness?
• Will he provide free dental care?
• Will he provide free medical care for dependents?
• Will he give you 30 days paid vacation a year, with meal allowances?

- Will he give you low-cost life insurance?
• Will he give you a tax-free clothing allowance?
• Will he provide free legal advice?
• Will he provide a loan or grant in case of emergency?
• Will he offer to pay 75 to 100 per cent of advanced educational opportunities?
• Will he provide a pension for life in case you are disabled?
• Will he pay you a bonus for staying with the company?
• Will he provide free survivor benefits to your family?
• Will he provide free air travel during vacations or up to 50 per cent reduction on commercial airlines?
• Does he offer opportunity for world travel?
• Will he pay for the travel of you and your dependents and move your household goods if you change job locations?
• Will he provide low cost recreational facilities?
• Does he have a discount grocery, drug store, service station, cafeteria, barber shop, beauty parlor, dry cleaners, tailor shop and shoe repair shop?
• Will he guarantee retirement pay for life after 20 years service, regardless of your age? Is it free?
If you decide to leave the service, but cannot answer "yes" to all of these questions, you could be settling for less than you have now. (AFPS Editorial)

Grand Funk Railroads to Berlin To Cap End-of-Year Rock Slate

by PFC John C. Hinds Jr.

Welcome back. Here it is November already and before we know it the snow will be on the ground and we'll be nestled in our homes for another long Berlin winter. Before that happens, however, I think it would be wise to take note of the music that will be coming to town.

The concert schedule for Deutschlandhalle came across my desk this week and there are some really good people coming to town both this month and next.

Headlining the bill for this month is Frank Zappa and the Mothers on the 28th but before they get a chance to show off their wild antics Lee Michaels and Humble Pie will be in town on the 15th. Then, Dec. 2 one of the blues masters of all time will take the stage — none other than B.B. King.

A grand finale to all this, although that may be a misnomer because there are rumors of other super things to come, will take place Dec. 8 when Grand Funk hits Berlin. Quite a billing, right?

Reliable Rumor

Well, hold on to whatever you want to hold onto because there are rumors from a very reliable source that The Stones and The Who will be coming in the very near future. Naturally not on the same bill but within a few weeks of one another.

Besides the concert schedule, another very interesting thing happened to me last week which I feel you all should hear about. I got a phone call last Thursday from one of the nice ladies at the All-American Service Club asking me to be a judge for their showband contest, which was held last Sunday. It turned out that it was the semifinals for the showband contest here in Berlin.

Well, to be quite honest with you, the contest turned out to be really unbelievable. To start out with, it is being run locally by none other than Enzo Napoli and his merry band of pranksters and if you know anything about those people you can only imagine how wild it was, right?

Real Story

But that wasn't the real story behind the show. The real story was two fantastic groups of servicemen stationed here who, if you haven't heard them play yet, you should do yourself a favor and get over to the finals this Sunday at the All-American Service Club at McNair. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Enough about the contest. What you should know is that the winner last Sunday was a group which call themselves The Ghettos. They are nine of the most talented soul singers that I have ever heard and had the crowd on the edge of their seats for their entire one-hour performance.

They started out with an instrumental number and from there brought out their singers, who did the sweetest version of "Summertime" that I have heard in a long time. Besides that number, they sang other tunes like "My girl" and "Smiling Faces," which would stand up as professional no matter where you journey in this world.

Lead Group

Not to be outdone, because they certainly weren't, was the lead group of the afternoon, Haze. The group was formed in May of this year and it is amazing the progress that they have made since that time.

For their allotted hour they did numbers such as "Brown Sugar," "Evil Woman" and "Closer To Home." It would be anything but the truth to tell you that they did these numbers with anything less than professional grace and style.

But just to prove that they don't have to copy other people's numbers to be good, they did an original called "Think About Someone." All I can say about the song was it was really superb.

Their final tune, "Goin' Home," was done so well that for a minute I closed my eyes and could have sworn that Alvin Lee had taken over on the guitar.

I really walked away from the show on Sunday with a good feeling and thanks for hearing two local groups that are headed a long way. As I said before, if you dig good music and want to enjoy a free concert, make it to McNair Sunday.

As a closing note this week I want to remind you that as of today there were a few copies of the Osibisa album at the PX and Leon Russell and the Shelter People's album is also available.

Peace and Power To The People.

Free Trip Offered At Ski Club Meeting

The Berlin Ski Club will meet Wednesday at the Hi-Lite Service Club at 7:45 p.m. The meeting will begin with a skiing film at 8 p.m. and a free ski trip will be given away by Tyrolean Tours, providing that there are at least 50 people present.

The meeting is open to anyone with an interest in skiing.

Discuss Human Relations

Defenders Hold Group Seminars

by PFC Dan Eggleston

Take black militants, the ghetto and the Ku Klux Klan and one would expect a riot. Right? This is not so at McNair Barracks where these and other related topics are being discussed by members of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry in a Human Relations Seminar.

Taking the Defenders a company at a time, they spend their afternoons for a week rapping about history of the black man, prejudices and the environment of black people today. The goal of all this talking is understanding—understanding of the black and his presence in society.

Leaders of the platoon sized groups, one white and one black, directed the rap sessions so that they built upon each other. Each succeeding meeting goes deeper into the reasons of why and how the problems began and forces the individual into exploring his true feelings on the subject.

While the group leaders are not professionals, but rather ordinary men like the rest of the group, they did an excellent job of helping the men express their fears and prejudices and to overcome them.

Discussion in the groups was active and in some cases heated. From the different points of view, both black and white mutual understanding and hopefully changes in attitude for the better will entail.

The importance of these seminars on all levels was made evident by the presence of General Michael S. Davison, commander-in-chief, USA-REUR and Seventh Army, at one of the sessions. Davison pointed to ongoing efforts in his command to "get with and solve" the type of problems dealt with by the seminar.

To effectively deal and succeed in these matters, Davison remarked, "involves everyone of us working together."

Interracial understanding doesn't happen in just one week. However, after their week in the Human Relations Seminar, members of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry have been given the foundations to gain such understanding and begin changes within themselves.

Isn't that what it's all about?

See Berlin -- Take a Tour

The city tours generally leave from the Kurfuerstendamm, near the Memorial Church. The nightclub tours include a drive through the bright streets of downtown Berlin and then a visit to four clubs. Reservations are needed for the nightclub tours.

The Brigade Tours Office can give you much more information on these and many other commercial tours of Berlin.

A word about our Tours Office should be in order at this point. The office is located in Rm. 219 on the second floor of Bldg. 5, at the U. S. Headquarters, Berlin, compound. This is the same building that houses Crump Hall Library. The tours clerk is available there during normal duty hours.

When you start thinking about taking leave, the Tours Office can again be of great benefit to you. They have an almost endless supply of travel brochures for most anyplace in Europe you would like to go.

If you are interested in visiting the U. S. Military recreation areas, the Tours Office can help you make reservations. They also can book you into U. S. Military Hotels that you may be able to take advantage of while you are traveling.

A weekend tour to somewhere in Europe is organized each month by the Tours Office for American personnel in Berlin. They can also help you plan arrangements for group travel around Europe.

The Tours Office has been established for you in order to help you learn more about Berlin and see Europe.

Berlin is fascinating — see it!

Gloomy Weather Outlook On Horizon for November

The following weather outlook for November for Berlin is supplied by the 2nd Weather Wing, U. S. Air Force Air Weather Service (MAC). — Ed.

November is the month when autumn slowly merges into winter, and the days become increasingly gloomy as the month progresses. It is the month when both the automobile driver and the pilot must anticipate more hazardous traveling conditions. The roads become slippery with wet leaves, frost, ice or snow. Flying conditions are restricted by fog and drizzle, especially during the morning.

Temperatures during November drop below freezing an average of 10 days and the average temperature is 40°F, which is about nine degrees below the average for October. Hence, antifreeze is a must. The daily temperature variation is from a nighttime low of 37°F to a daytime high of 45°F. The month's record high temperature, 69°F, occurred in 1968; the record low temperature was 20°F.

Cloudy skies prevail 75 per cent of the time, and we can expect 1.8 inches of rain. As a rule, some precipitation, usually slight, is reported on 14 days of the month. The year's first snowfall can be expected before the end of November.

Because of fog and low clouds, flying conditions become considerably worse than during the previous month. For example, visual meteorological conditions exist only 47 per cent of the time, compared to 70 per cent in October. Instrument flying conditions prevail, on the average, 49 per cent of the time; and below minimum weather can be expected four per cent of the time.

Winter Fails To Cast Damper On Defender Athletic Program

by PFC Dan Eggleston
With the coming of cold wintery winds and the ice and snow that will soon be upon us, everyone is going

FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE — SP4 Rosaly C. Gonzalez of Battery C, 94th Artillery receives the Bronze Star from Guardian Battalion Commander LTC George B. Calhoun. to try and stay indoors as much as possible. This, however, won't keep the men of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry from staying in shape, because of an active indoor organized athletics program.

McNair Gymnasium offers the Defenders a large amount of space for a variety of active sports to keep the men from getting soft or an outlandish "Milwaukee Tumor."

Basketball, the sport invented by James A. Naismith in 1892, is probably the most popular.

For the more violent types who wish to take out their frustrations and get some good exercise at the same time, the facilities offer boxing and wrestling.

There also is a soon-to-be-completed handball court and for those thinking of impressing the chicks next summer at the Wannsee, they can build up their physiques by using the weights room.

The men from 3/6 will be bowling for fun and exercise this winter, utilizing the bowling lanes located adjacent to the All American Service Club. Some might think that bowling isn't much exercise, but have them bowl three or four games and see. When their arms are numb, they can't close their hands and their legs ache unmercifully, they usually change their opinion.

Lastly, with the completion of the Andrews pool, the Defender Battalion has a well rounded organized athletic program. Aside from the possibility of a brisk walk from McNair barracks to Andrews, swimming is widely recognized as a sport that develops the whole body while having a good time.

Besides having the usual recreational swim, there will be classes for non-swimmers, life-saving techniques and for the more advanced swimmers there will be water polo.

Physical training can get to be boring, but with the variety of sports offered by the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, the men's interest will be sustained along with their physical condition.

After several months of utilizing this program, the men should be in great shape (not that they aren't now) and ready for anything—even Hohenfels.

Three Soldiers Awarded Arcoms for Local Duty

by SP 4 J. D. Wilson
Three members of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry were awarded the Army Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service during a special awards ceremony Tuesday in the Infantry Hall of Honor at McNair Barracks.

The awards were presented to Sergeants Gerard Thomas De Haan, Charles M. Honaker and Morris W. Kiper, Jr., all members of Headquarters Company's Reconnaissance Platoon.

The awards were presented by Lieutenant Colonel Lonnie T. Howard, commanding officer of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry.

Members of the Reconnaissance Platoon attended the ceremony in dress green uniforms to honor the three awards recipients.

All three were cited for meritorious service in their reconnaissance missions along the Wall. Each had served as squad leader within the platoon and as leader of reconnaissance patrols.

They were recommended for the award by Platoon Sergeant Harold R. Miracle, platoon sergeant of the Reconnaissance Platoon, and First Lieutenant John Schneeberger, platoon leader.

Yanks Host British Officers

by SP 4 J. D. Wilson
An American-British inter-battalion party was held Oct. 22 at the Harnack House. The officers of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry and their wives hosted the officers and wives of the 1st Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment.

The evening's activities began with a receiving line, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Lonnie T. Howard, commanding officer of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, and Mrs. Howard, and their guests, Lieutenant Colonel D. T. Crabtree, commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment, and Mrs. Crabtree.

The reception was followed by a buffet supper, entertainment and dancing.

The 1st Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment, and the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, are "sister" battalions, in that they train together and share social exchanges.

"We frequently participate in joint training with the 1st Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment, and in social affairs as well," said First Lieutenant Steven A. Rank, adjutant of the 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry.

"These exchanges are not only for enjoyment, but also are in the best interest of cooperation among our Allies and promote a spirit of unity," he said.

He explained that such Allied activities are part of the Berlin Project Partnership Program.

At Three Locations Speed Reading Classes Offered

Members of the U. S. Army, Berlin may now improve their reading skills at three different locations, during both duty and non-duty hours.

The Reading Centers, as they are called, are located at Berlin Brigade Headquarters, Bldg. 1, Rm 3028; at McNair Education Center, Bldg. 1001D; and at Andrews Education Center, Bldg. 904. The centers are open Monday-Friday from 8 a.m.—5 p.m. and during the evening, when classes are in session, from 6:30—9 p.m.

The courses offered at the Reading Centers run from six to eight weeks and require only 30 hours of participation to complete. The classes emphasize the development of such skills as comprehension improvement, vocabulary expansion and increased reading speed.

According to the Berlin Brigade Reading Coordinator, students participating in past courses have improved their reading skills while doubling or tripling their beginning reading rate after only six weeks of instruction. Many students have gained the skills required in post high school and post college programs.

Classes are offered to all military personnel and their dependents free of charge on a space-available basis. They are limited to 10 participants in order that students may receive the maximum amount of individual instruction.

The next term of reading classes will begin Nov. 15 at the Berlin Brigade Headquarters Reading Center and at the Andrews Center Nov. 16. The Headquarters center class will meet Monday and Wednesday from 6:30—9 p.m. and the Andrews class will meet Tuesday and Thursday at the same time.

For further information concerning reading improvement courses and registration, call Lynn Tepper at 6814.

Dental Clinic To Move Soon

The U. S. Army Hospital Dental Clinic will begin moving to its new location, Bldg. 544 at the hospital compound (the old Berlin American Nursery School), Nov. 22, with completion scheduled for Dec. 22. As the various sections of the clinic are relocated, it will be necessary to reappoint some scheduled appointments. All efforts are being made to minimize any disruption of service and the cooperation of patients will be greatly appreciated.

Housing Hints

The Berlin Brigade Housing Referral Office offers the following piece of advice to U. S. personnel living in economy quarters: Normally, quiet is observed after 11 p.m. Be reasonable and considerate of your neighbor's feelings. Remember, the people at the HRO are there to help you. If you have any problems or questions concerning economy quarters, call m at 6688.

READING STATISTICS — The chart above shows the results attained by a class taking the reading improvement course at the brigade's Reading Center. The average reading speed before instruction was 290 words-per-minute. After 30 hours of instruction, the average rate was approximately 786 words-per-minute, an increase of 172 per cent.

Flag Football Championship Slated for Today

Number 22 is the magic number for determining who's the best flag football team in Berlin Brigade, as the 22nd and final game of a hectic playoff schedule will be played today.

As of Observer presstime late Wednesday afternoon, 16 contests had been played, and six of 12 playoff teams eliminated from further competition by absorbing two losses in the double-elimination tourney. According to AG Special Services Sports Director, First Lieutenant Robert Starnes,

"Everything has gone well, just great. I can't predict right now where the championship game will be held. If it's two Andrews League teams in the final game, the contest will be played at Andrews Barracks, 1 p.m. today. If it's two McNair teams, or perhaps one of each league, the game will be held at McNair at 1 p.m."

Probably the biggest surprises in the playoffs found 592nd Signal Company ekeing out a 26-25 overtime victory over previously undefeated Company B, 3rd Batalion, 6th Infantry on Monday, and previously unbeaten Co A, FSB falling to Headquarters Company, 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry, 12-6, Wednesday. As of Wednesday, two Cinderella teams were unbeaten: H-4/18 won three straight contests, and Company B, FSB chalked up two.

Thursday's schedule was the most interesting of all. The two surprise teams were scheduled to play each other, as Company B, FSB took on H-4/18 in game 19. Other contests pitted the two league champions against each other, as B-3/6 faced Company A, FSB in game 18, and B-4/18 was up against surprisingly strong Signal Company in game number 17. Game number 20 pitted the winners of games 17-18 against each other.

Friday's 9 a.m. semifinal contest was scheduled to see the winner of game 20 vs the loser of game 19, and the championship game set for 1 p.m. would pit the winner of game 21 against the winner of game 19 in the final and 22nd contest.

Yanks Bomb Winterthur, 10-3, After Frustrating Soccer Week

by Randy Achenbach

Big Blue, the U. S. Forces soccer team, ended a frustrating week and a half of soccer with a resounding 10-3 win over Winterthur Monday.

A tie with Detachment A, 2-2, started things rolling for the Yanks. Right halfback Noel Yarr, who scored 10 goals in five games, scored both Big Blue goals, but Det. A came back to provide the final clincher. The game provided some valuable experience for the Big Blue substitutes, as several players, including goalie Lee Hemik, were unable to attend the Oct. 23 contest.

Following a Sunday rest, the Americans fell to German Industrial League First Division's Baeren Pils, 2-0. The Yanks dominated the whole game with their enthusiasm, but Pils put the points on the scoreboard. Both of the Pils goals were scored in the second half during an American slump.

Wednesday, the Big Blue took on the high-scoring Swiss National Insurance Company team, which had been beating GIL teams by scores such as 19-0. It wasn't quite as bad for the Yanks, as they took it on the chin, 11-4. Balanced scoring saw goals for Yarr, Achenbach, Elwood and Stone.

The big game for the Americans came Oct. 30 against Mibag for the crucial second and last game in a playoff series. With a win, the Yanks would clinch first place; a loss or tie would relegate them to second place and another elaborate playoff series. Yarr scored the only Yank goal in a 1-1 tie.

Scoring for the Big Blue in Monday's Winterthur win were six fantastic goals by Yarr, breaking a team record, and Jim Elwood (two), Achenbach and Bill Cheney. Big Blue is in action tomorrow, 10 a.m. at Hertha 03 on Onkel Tom Strasse.

AYA Falcons Upset Jets, 12-6; Chiefs-Lions Contest Important

JUNIOR DIVISION

AYA's Atlanta Falcons, winless in six games, upset the New York Jets, 12-6, Saturday to highlight Junior Division action.

Alex Sinclair ran for one touchdown and threw for another to lead the upset win. The Jets got on the scoreboard first, however, as Walter Nettles galloped for a nine-yard TD in the opening period, set up by a pass interception by Dennis Long.

On the ensuing kickoff, Sinclair gathered in the ball on his own 12 and raced 68 yards for the Falcons' first score. The Atlanta team scored the winning touchdown in the third quarter on a 13-yard pass from Sinclair to Richard Allen. With only two games remaining, the Jets dropped to third place in the tight Junior Division race.

The Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts, two teams tied for first place in the Junior Division, battled to a 0-0 tie Sunday in one of the best defensive games of the season. Both teams had many opportunities to score, but could not move the pigskin across the goal line. The Browns face the Jets this weekend in what could be one of the season's biggest games.

SENIOR DIVISION

Senior Division action Saturday found the Detroit Lions bopping the L.A. Rams, 19-13. Tony Garrels led the Lion attack with two touchdown runs, and combined with Marvin Lindroth for 128 yards rushing. Rodney Lester scored two touchdowns for the Rams on runs of 12 and 37 yards.

The Rams needed a victory to clinch the Senior Division title, but will have to wait until this weekend to see if the Chiefs beat the Lions.

Wolves Visit BAHS Homecoming

Berlin American High School's Cubs put it all on the line tomorrow, hosting the Wuerzburg Wolves in a homecoming tilt that marks the last football action of the year for the Cubs.

The Cubs won Saturday at home against Munich, 14-8, mainly on the offensive heroics of Ken "Ajax" Jackson and Packy Short. They face a Wuerzburg team tomorrow that has only been able to scrape together two wins this year for a 2-5 mark. The Wolves absorbed a 20-6 loss to high-scoring Augsburg Saturday, and like Berlin for much of this year, have not been able to get it all together offensively.

The Wolves would like nothing better than to spoil Berlin's homecoming festivities, especially since the Cubs were not too hospitable in pounding Wuerzburg, 38-4, last year. How they are going to do it is another matter. The pack's only visible asset so far this year has been speedster halfback James Moore, and it will take more than their 170-pound average on the defensive line to keep the Cubs away from scoring territory.

The Cubs should be fired-up from their Munich victory, but coach George Pepoy cautiously maintained that "We'll have a tough enough game, even though we want to win badly. We'll be playing without Garrels (star halfback), Sears, Yarbrough and Stephenson (top linemen)." The injury-riddled Cubs will likely go to the air against the Wolves, although their running game could likely test Wuerzburg's line before relying on the airways.

Game time tomorrow is set for 1:30 p.m. on the BAHS field off Am Hegewinkel. Featured during half-time festivities will be the BAHS band, the Cubettes dance group, and the crowning of the homecoming queen for 1971.

A Man for All Seasons

by John Pfau

LEW ALCINDOR BY ANY OTHER NAME . . .

I scanned the sports page a while back, and noticed that the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association had beaten their opponent by a considerable amount of points. What was of interest to me, however, was that a new player for the Bucks, Kareem Jabbar, had burned up the courts with 35 points, 22 rebounds, seven blocked shots and five assists. I thought to myself, "This dude is something else. He's probably as good as, or better than Lew Alcindor."

I had to share my discovery with a friend. "This Jabbar," I said, "will be every bit as good as Lew Alcindor—why, he's outplaying the Big A right now. Mark my words—he'll be rookie of the year." My friend gave me a look reserved only for complete idiots, smiled, and said, "Where have you been? Kareem Jabbar IS Lew Alcindor. He changed his name, you dummy." Actually, I guess it was Muhammad Ali who started the trend, and who knows where it can go from here? Imagine, if you will, watching a pro football game between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The announcer says excitedly, "San Francisco's Elijah Mustaphah is back to pass and is getting good protection . . . Muhammed Hookah is there for the pass and steps out of bounds on the Ram 13." It could really get confusing for a fan listening to a pro basketball game: "The Knicks have the ball in their own forecourt. Muhammed Dribblah brings it down court and passes off to Eli Stuffah. Stuffah drills it to Dribblah . . . over to Rammem back to Stuffah. Stuffah spots Carom Grabbar . . . Grabbar tries a jumper from 15 feet out . . . GOOD! That's 12 points for Grabbar, one of the hottest rookies in the league."

Most sports fans can adapt to almost any changes like lineup juggling, rookies, new franchises, new rules and other things, but it will be interesting to see how they adapt to name changes by their favorite heroes. It wouldn't have worked for Joe Louis 30 years ago, but it worked for Cassius Clay when he changed his name to Muhammed Ali; it worked for Lew Alcindor ala Kareem Jabbar, but it wouldn't have come across for Wilt Chamberlain in his second year of professional basketball.

As the first famous athlete to make big waves, Ali's name change was accepted by a majority of the fans. There was a die-hard group who refused to accept the name change, even if it was founded on a religious basis, but those were essentially the same people who disliked Muhammed Ali because of his convictions about the draft. It doesn't really make any difference what a player's name is — Lew Alcindor by any other name would be as good.

Whatever happened to George Blanda?

Success Story of Love Story Comes to Berlin

NOW I KNOW WHY THEY CALL THIS PLACE WATERLOO — Rod Steiger soaks up the action in Waterloo, the story about the time that Napoleon and the Duke of Wellington squared off in the quaint little Belgian town. The movie looks all wet to us. (Photo courtesy Paramount Pictures)

LOVE STORY — Erich Segal's best selling novel provided the material for one of the biggest movie successes of the year. Ali MacGraw and Ryan O'Neal convincingly bring to life the characters of Segal's imagination in LOVE STORY. Also: Pro Football, Raiders vs Browns.

THANK YOU ALL VERY MUCH — Sandy Dennis illustrates the problems of bearing and caring for a baby without the help of marriage. Not recommended for children. Also stars Ian McKellen.

ONE MORE TIME — Charlie Salt and Chris Pepper become involved with smugglers when Chris is mistaken for his murdered twin brother Lord Sydney. The two head for home where things come to a head when they give a party to which friend and foe alike are invited. Starring Sammy Davis, Jr. and Peter Lawford.

RIDE IN THE WHIRLWIND — Jack Nicholson unknowingly falls in with a bunch of outlaws while heading for a cattle roundup. He gets caught between the bandits and a vigilante posse and escapes, only to be pursued by the law. Also stars Millie Perkins. Also: 1971 College Football Highlights No. 4.

WATERLOO — Rod Steiger winds up Napoleon to recreate that fateful encounter with the Duke of Wellington at Waterloo. Excellent acting by Steiger and Christopher Plummer enhance the story of one of history's great battles.

MOVE — Elliott Gould is an unsuccessful playwright who doesn't get along with anyone except his dog. A move across town throws him into a daydream fit that makes a jumble of his real and fantasy lives. Also stars Paula Prentiss and Genevieve Waite.

KING KONG — King Kong, the original giant ape, captures a lovely lady and is ready to fight an army to keep her. The all-time classic is unsurpassed in its trick photography and is hailed as one of the 50 great films of all time. Starring Fay Wray and Bruce Cabot.

LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS — The wedding of a young couple is the setting for this wild comedy about marriage, love, sex, passion, lack of passion, seduction, divorce and religion. It's the movie that answers the question, "So what's the story?" Starring Gig Young and Anne Jackson.

THE BIRD WITH THE CRYSTAL PLUMAGE — An American writer in Italy is witness to a bloody murder which makes him and his girl targets for a psychopathic killer. With the help of the police, the writer follows up a series of frustrating leads before confronting the murderer. Starring Suzy Kendall, Tony Musante and Eva Renzi.

BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID — Butch and the Kid, as likeable a pair of outlaws as you could hope to meet, find the West entirely too tame for their needs. They plan one last train robbery to collect enough money to head for South America where there is a better market for their talents. Starring Paul Newman, Robert Redford and Katharine Ross. Playing at the Jerboa Cinema.

CATCH 22 — Mike Nichols presents Joseph Heller's story of World War II madness on a fictional island air base in the Mediterranean. Most of the fantastic events and characters of Heller's satire are transferred to the screen with success. Alan Arkin is outstanding as Yossarian, the flyer who is determined to become grounded. Also stars Richard Benjamin, Jon Voight and Orson Welles. Playing at the Astra Cinema.

Representative Queries

VA Answers Benefit Questions

Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries — Additional information may be obtained at any VA office. — Ed.

Q — My husband, a World War II veteran, passed away recently. Is he eligible for a headstone?

A — Yes. Any deceased veteran whose last period of service was terminated honorably is eligible for this benefit which is administered by the Army.

Q — May I borrow on my GI insurance to help pay college expenses for my son and daughter?

A — Yes, provided you have a permanent plan GI insurance policy over one-year old. In that case, you can borrow up to 94 per cent of its cash value. Current interest rate on such loans is five per cent.

Q — Which is the better education program for a disabled veteran, vocational rehabilitation or GI Bill?

A — Vocational rehabilitation is usually more advantageous to the disabled veteran. However, there may be circumstances when it would be better to use GI Bill benefits, such as for training not available under the vocational rehabilitation program.

Q — Is a veteran's widow who draws VA pension entitled to an extra $55 monthly if she becomes a patient in a nursing home?

A — Yes.
Q — I was recently released from a VA hospital after 35 days for injuries suffered in an auto accident. Am I eligible for the special payment veterans receive when they stay more than 21 days in a VA hospital?

A — Not unless the accident was in line of active duty and the injury was recognized as service connected.

Q — I am a veteran who did not complete high school. Will VA pay me an educational allowance?

A — Yes. Not only are you eligible for this assistance, but any veteran who must complete high school to qualify for higher education can do so without this assistance being charged against his basic entitlement.

Q — I draw compensation and would like to know whether I can have payments on my VA insurance loan deducted from this compensation?

A — Yes. If you wish to use this method of repaying your insurance loan, get VA Form 29-888 from your nearest VA office, complete it and forward it to the VA office to which you pay your insurance premiums.

Q — I am a Vietnam veteran interested in training under the GI Bill, but am not sure what courses I should take. Can VA assist me?

A — Yes. If you are eligible for training under the GI Bill, you may receive vocational counseling, without cost, at your nearest VA office. A counselor will help you to better understand your interests, aptitudes and abilities, and provide information on occupations you might want to consider.

Have you made your plans yet for this first weekend in November? There is a diversified program in Berlin from which to choose.

Jazz fans will undoubtedly be spending lots of time in the Philharmonie, scene of the Berlin "Jazz Days" which began last night and will end Sunday night. Most of the events are sold out, but there are still a very few tickets available for tonight and tomorrow (see "Cultural Events Around Town" for the detailed listing).

In the same corner of the city is a very noteworthy art exhibition — "Metamorphosis of the Thing — Art and Anti-Art from 1910 to 1970" at the Neue Nationalgalerie. The display shows the development of art in the 20th century from the standpoint of the changing relationship to things and objects.

About 260 pictures, collages, sculptures, assemblages, objects and material pictures from 140 artists have been gathered together from various cities in Europe to give an overall view of this development.

From Picasso, Braque and Dali to Warhol, Lichtenstein and Arman, almost every artist of rank and name of this period is represented. Modern art enthusiasts who haven't seen this exhibition yet (it's been running since September) shouldn't miss the opportunity to visit this informative and well organized display. This weekend is your last chance, since it closes Sunday at 5 p.m.

Today and tomorrow the opening hours are from 9 a.m. — 5 p.m. and Sunday the Neue Nationalgalerie opens at 10 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m. There is a DM 1.50 admission fee for adults and 50 pfennigs for students. The gallery is located in the immediate vicinity of the Philharmonie on Potsdamer Strasse 50.

Permanent Attraction

There is also a new permanent attraction in the immediate vicinity of the Philharmonie and the Neue Nationalgalerie — "The Tower." Put aside visions of dark dungeons often connected with the name and imagine instead one of the best views over the rooftops of Berlin from the 15th floor of this new apartment building.

The really grand sight can be enjoyed in The Tower restaurant for breakfast, lunch, a coffee break or dinner and snacks in the evening. The high location of this cozy restaurant isn't reflected in the prices, which are normal. There is a wide choice of food and drink.

If you plan to go in the evening, perhaps after a performance in the Philharmonie, it's not a bad idea to reserve a table phone 261-3908. A tip for romantics — a sunset on a clear fall day as seen from The Tower over the city is really breathtaking.

You find "The Tower," which is located on Eichhornstr. 5, of the left side of the canal when standing with your back to the Nationalgalerie; it is a tall white building.

Industrie Exhibition

As you've probably read in another section of the Observer this week, the German Industries Exhibition opened its gates to the fairgrounds around the Funkturm today. Until Nov. 14, the public can see the latest industrial developments from Germany, France, Great Britain and the U. S.

Some of the attractions which will be of interest to the man on the street include the "Racing Simulator" where the visitor can test his skill as a race driver with a Lotus Formula 3 on the British Grand Prix circuit; a car developed by the Berlin Gas Company which runs on natural gas; and the latest electric appliances and tools to name only a few. See "Cultural Events" for opening times and admission fees.

A note to those who like to hear Bach cantatas. You are invited to the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church downtown tomorrow at 6 p.m. The Bach Choir and the Bach Collegium will present the cantata Nr. 55 "Ich armer Mensch, ich Suendenknecht." Admission is free.

Ice hockey anyone? Tomorrow night the Berlin team will face a team from Pfronten in Bavaria on the ice in the Sportpalast. The action is to begin at 8 p.m. There should still be some tickets available at the door (DM 5-15).

Variety of Music

So much for this weekend. Now a look at a variety of music coming your way in the next weeks so that you can make your ticket reservations at the PX ticket agency in time.

Boris Rubaschkin will bring Russian Soul to the Uraniahaus on Nov. 13 and 14. The popular singer and dancer, who is half Russian and Bulgarian, brings the loveliest folk-songs from old Russia to Berlin. He will be accompanied by his balalaika ensemble.

Also on Nov. 13, there will be South American music in Congress Hall. The musicians will be guitarist Baden Powell with his quartet from Brazil.

Then, on Nov. 15 there will be chansons by Monsieur 100,000 Volt in the Philharmonie. The French top star Gilbert Bécaud and his ensemble are on the playbill.

Bécaud, who composes most of his chansons, doesn't live from his past hits. He goes with the times, and the contrast between melodic poetry and hectic rhythm has become even greater as in past years when he was making his way to the top. When you've experienced Bécaud live, you know why he's called M. 100,000 Volts!

On the same night, there's going to be another big pop concert in the Deutschlandhalle. Humble Pie and Lee Michaels have been booked for Berlin's pop fans. As usual, the seats will not be numbered.

Oldies-but-goodies fans need not feel neglected. They can come to the Hochschule fuer Music (on Hardenbergstrasse) on Nov. 18 and listen to an entire concert of melodies from musicals and classics.

The Symphony Orchestra Berlin, conducted by H. J. Wunderlich, will play works by Porter, Bernstein, Ginastera and Tchaikovsky among others. All performances begin at 8 p.m.

JUST BECAUSE YOU'RE BECAUD — Gilbert Bécaud, the top French star who is called Monsieur 100,000 volts, will give his electrifying performance at the Philharmonie Nov. 15.
