"Never the twain shall meet . . ."

At some time around the turn of the century, European sports clubs began participating in a new sport known as team handball. About the same time small groups of school children in America began to play the "Naismithian sport," basketball.

Handball began as a fierce sport, highly competitive and renowned for its rough and rugged defense. Basketball, too, began as a fierce sport, highly competitive and also recognized for its rough and rugged defense.

Team handball has changed little since that time, while basketball has undergone remarkable changes, particularly in the areas of ball control and a new fastbreak style of play.

ticularly in the areas of ball control and a new fastbreak style of play.

The twain meets

Finally, on April 23, 1973, the twain did meet. In the local BTSU 1850 International Handball Tournament, the Berlin Bears Handball Team took its almost pre-natal basketball instincts, combined them with a growing knowledge of team handball, and went out to play one local Berlin team and three West German opponents. The results of those actions were positive.

The Berlin Bears, minus some key players but too heavy on desire, went out to show local teams and fans that their won-loss record since their inception has been no fluke.

Using their patented fastbreak and the key "pick and go" shooting of veteran Ted Purdom, the Bears jumped to early leads of 4-0 and 7-2 before finally settling for a first game win over TUS Eislingen, 8-4. Aside from Purdom in the opener, the Bears also received outstanding offensive support from Tom "Terrific" Young, Dale "Plunge" Pirkle and Donnie Wilson. Outstanding, as always, was Bruce Scolton in the goal area.

The second game, against Bothrop, wasn't quite so easy. The lead changed hands continuously throughout the game before key combination plays by Young, Swannack, Purdom and "Wild Bill" Cheney iced the game at 10-8.

All-time thriller

The third game must go into the record books as the Bears' all-time thriller. Down by four goals to the host club BTSU 1850 with less than four minutes left, the Bears went on a rampage paced by the goal keeping of Scolton, the passing of Wilson and finally the game's tying goal by Pirkle with just over a minute to go.

A Bears' recovery of the ball gave them one last golden opportunity — an opportunity they had to cash in on to win the tournament. The shot went to Cheney, the man who always seems to propel the ball with a cannon for an arm.

Fortunately, this time it was propelled and well-aimed. "Wild Bill's" shot was a bit high, the goalie touched the ball and it smacked the crossbar of the goal — meaning no goal. No goal, that is, until a split second later when it somehow found eyes enough to trickle away from the goalie and cross the bar into the goal. The final score, 10-9, was anti-climatic to the finish that the Bears exhibited.

Vanguards perform well during ATT

by Norman Ham

The 4th Battalion, 6th Infantry, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel James A. Conley, is back in Berlin after completing their spring training in the Hohenfels Major Training Area (MTA).

The sunny weather which initially greeted the Vanguards at the MTA did an about face, giving way to snow, slush and more snow.

At the MTA the men of the battalion received various types of field training, to include annual weapons qualification and familiarization with the M79 grenade launcher, 90 mm recoilless rifle, M60 machine gun, 50 cal. machine gun, M72 light antitank weapon and the M16 rifle.

The highlight of the MTA period was the platoon Army Training Test (ATT). The majority of the training at the MTA was aimed at preparing individual platoons for successful ATT completion.

The purpose of the ATTs is to test the overall proficiency of infantry platoons in a combat situation during daylight and nighttime operations.

Prepared and administered by the battalion's S-3 section, the tests were given to nine rifle platoons during the period April 9-16 at Range 25 Charlie. Umpires for the testing consisted of three teams composed of three graders each. Major James E. Mossburg, the battalion S-3; Major William T. McNamara, executive officer of the battalion; and Captain Alex Woods Jr., the battalion S-4, each headed one of the evaluator teams.

The test consisted of a daylight live fire attack against a fixed objective, followed by a defensive phase which came complete with a nuclear strike. As darkness settled in, the platoon being tested would assault another objective using blanks this time with a live aggressor force as its enemy.

Although the actual attack is the big test, the grading emphasis is placed on planning procedures used by the platoon leader. Commenting on the tests, Mossburg said, "Three to four phases of careful preparation are involved in order to carry off a successful half-hour attack.

"When watching the platoons in action, it isn't hard to tell which platoons are well prepared," added Mossburg.

Concerning the performance of the battalion, Mossburg said, "Although the weather was bad, the platoon leaders used it to their advantages in making models for their battle plans." Summing up his evaluation, Mossburg was quick to point out that the attitude of the troops was "excellent."

Visitors from Berlin Brigade who came to observe the Vanguard's training included BG Robert D. Stevenson, brigade commanding general; COL James T. Bradley, deputy brigade commander; LTC William H. Mertz, Catholic chaplain; and MAJ Roger B. Knutsen, Methodist chaplain.

Race relations seminar for women graduates 2nd class

by Lucas Hutton

"A few weeks ago, I was a prejudiced discriminator. Now I'm a prejudiced non-discriminator!" So says Mrs. Bettye Turner, an American dependent wife who now has a new outlook toward race.

Mrs. Turner and 39 other women recently completed the Berlin Brigade's second race relations seminar for women. The ladies received their certificates of completion Friday from MG William W. Cobb, the U. S. Commander of Berlin.

Last August, Berlin became the first command in USAREUR to institute a race relations seminar program for dependent wives. This second seminar drew a larger number of participants than the first, and there is a waiting list of women who desire to join in the next session of the seven-week course.

What's the difference between a "prejudiced discriminator" and a "prejudiced non-discriminator"?

Controlled prejudice

Captain Joseph W. Gentry, Berlin Brigade Equal Opportunity and Race Relations officer, emphasizes that the seminars "are not designed to make one more or less prejudiced." The basic objective is to make the individual "recognize and control his prejudices."

In his address to the graduates, Cobb said, "Unfortunately, this certificate does not free you of your prejudices. Yet I hope that it will cause you to do some self-evaluation, to evaluate your society and your own stereotypes. If you will do this, you will help us to achieve our overall objective of complete equality for all, as stated in our Constitution and the Pledge of Allegiance."

The women who completed the course describe it as a real eye-opener.

"I was very surprised," says Mrs. Turner, "to learn that there are whites who are interested in finding out about what blacks are thinking." Mrs. Turner is from Mississippi, she says, and "I've always thought that all whites hate blacks."

"Worthwhile effort"

Mrs. Renee LeMar describes the seminar as "the most worthwhile effort in human relations that I've experienced." The course, she says, made her aware of the lack of communication between the races.

Mrs. Donya Platoff grew up in an integrated New England community, and "never thought of anyone being prejudiced against me." For her, "the greatest awakening was that black prejudice against whites is just as deep-seated" as white prejudice against blacks.

That "everyone is prejudiced to a certain extent" is one discovery Mrs. Gloria Houston made during the seven weeks. However, she adds, "the person is not often aware of his own prejudice."

Old suspicions abandoned

Mrs. Mary McCray has abandoned her old suspicions that "someone's after you." Blacks and whites alike, she says, "want to achieve racial harmony and avoid violence."

The race relations seminars for women are similar to the year-old program of week-long seminars for servicemen. All the seminars are based on the Defense Race Relations Institute course of study.

Thus far Gentry has used the word-of-mouth method to recruit women to participate in the seminars. In the future, however, he plans to use radio, television and press notices.

The women who completed this second women's seminar believe that all dependent wives in the command should take advantage of the opportunity to participate in the seminar. Gentry agrees, and emphasizes that achieving racial harmony will require the cooperation of the civilians and dependents, as well as the military.

The big question

Here's the big question, says Gentry: "Is the Berlin community, (military, civilian and dependent) prepared to make a step toward converting potential racial violence into racial dialogue, or will it slip back into its cave of bigotry as so many other commands in USAREUR have done?"

As for the success of the race relations seminars, Gentry says there is no way to measure it. However, he says, "When we begin to accept the program and see it as necessary, we'll see some visible change."

Many servicemen who have been required to attend the seminars believe that the Army is running the subject of race into the ground. But Gentry believes that the subject could hardly be overemphasized.

Dialogue invasion

"People who say race relations seminars aren't needed," says Gentry, "are trying to protect their own private worlds. But it is better to invade their worlds with dialogue," he adds, "than with violence."

The following women also graduated with this second seminar:

Catherine Anderson, Hannelore Brinson, Marnie Brown, Susan Brown, Vicki Chermak, Ann Conley, Linda Greene, Pat Howard, Ora Howard, Mary Huskey and Bernita Mansfield.

Also Sheila McRae, Ingrid Mannis, Cheryl Libby, Mary Nesmith, Stephanie Patterson, Barbara Reese, Doris Ricci, Bonnie Williams, Karen Page, Elaine Wilson, Konnie Worsley, Marcia Blue and Jennie Brower.

Also Rossella Balint, Dorothy Fay, Shirley Goltz, Beatrice Lovewell, Helga Maxwell, Pearl McCaw, Margaret Otis, Janet Richards, Sally Ritcey, Jeni Reiva and Helen Trunkes.

Going up in smoke

Did you know that:
Smoking several cigarettes in a closed room soon makes the concentration of nicotine and dust particles so high that the nonsmoker inhales as much harmful tobacco by-products as a smoker inhales from four or five cigarettes.

Smoke from an idling cigarette contains almost twice the tar and nicotine of smoke inhaled while puffing on a cigarette. On the average, smoke inhaled while puffing on a cigarette contains 11.8 mg of tar and 0.8 mg of nicotine, as compared to 22.1 mg of tar and 1.4 mg of nicotine from idling smoke. Thus, smoke from an idling cigarette may be twice as toxic as smoke inhaled by the smoker. Although the concentration of harmful substances inhaled by the nonsmoker is less than the concentration inhaled by the smoker, the nonsmoker's exposure will be for a greater period of time.

Smoking in an airplane will obviously constitute something of a menace to a nonsmoking passenger. It seems obvious that in the confines of an airplane, where a nonsmoker may be required to sit next to one or between two smokers, and where the air circulation is typically poor, the nonsmoker will be subjected to a significant health hazard from the smoker.

An editorial some years ago in SCIENCE magazine concerned the pollution of air by cigarette smoke. In a poorly ventilated, smoke-filled room, concentrations of carbon monoxide can easily reach several hundred parts per million, thus exposing present smokers and nonsmokers to a toxic hazard. In fact, it has been found that children of smokers are ill more frequently than children of nonsmokers, usually because of respiratory disease.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the nonsmoker who must be present in the traditional "smoke-filled room," characteristic of many conferences and social gatherings, has an exposure to tobacco by-products quite similar to the exposure of the smoker. There is some evidence that this "smoking environment" extends even into the home where children may have a sufficient exposure to influence their cardiovascular system and add years of exposure to their smoking history, even before they actually smoke themselves.

Prize-winning book review of Reluctant Neighbors

The following won the recent book review contest sponsored by the Special Service libraries.

Reluctant Neighbors, by E. R. Braithwaite

Reviewed by Joyce E. Munsey

The book Reluctant Neighbors was written by the author of the very successful book and movie, To Sir, With Love. This time E. R. Braithwaite takes the reader with him on a long train ride from New Canaan to New York City.

In the station at New Canaan he sits alone, the seat beside him empty. The white businessmen getting on are "reluctant" to take the seat beside this black man. He amuses himself by imagining that they must be frightened by some invisible companion on the seat, for "if familiar indicators could be believed, any of them would welcome the company of a successful author-diplomat-educator on the hour-long ride. After all, any normal American is drawn toward titles, position and success." Finally it is the last seat left, and a "bolder spirit" sits down in it.

The two men cautiously begin a conversation. The white man is curious about Braithwaite, and inquires about where he lives and what he does for a living. Braithwaite is angry at the implied idea that it is strange that he lives in New Canaan, but he answers politely. Gradually he reveals his background — that he was born in British Guiana, served as a flying officer in the RAF during the war, and took a degree in physics at Cambridge. The conversation, plus Braithwaite's inner thoughts, form the content of the book.

The author recalls his most bitter experience, when he tried and failed to get a job as a physicist in British industry. Finally in desperation he took a job teaching high school age youngsters in London. He applied his scientific training and stubbornness and was very successful. To Sir With Love told of his teaching experiences. The book was a best seller and made him famous. He continued writing, then lecturing. A good with the World Veterans Federation was followed by work for UNICEF. Finally he was asked by his home land, now the independent nation of Guyana, to represent her as an ambassador to the United Nations.

In a lifetime of struggle to use talents, Braithwaite has formulated his philosophy of life. He and a white business man discuss violence as a means for blacks to achieve their aims. The author recognizes that even he, successful as he is, gets enraged and could be violent but he has rejected violence as a hopeless method and has developed his own ways of dealing with problems.

This is a valuable, well written book. The author writes movingly of emotional experience. His words enlighten those who hope for a better life between whites and blacks. Every caring human being can learn from E. R. Braithwaite.

BAHS carnival

The Berlin American High School will hold its fifth annual fund-raising carnival on Saturday, May 5, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. It will be held in the school gym and cafeteria. Admission will be free.

The event is co-sponsored by the National Honor Society and the class of '74. Carnival coordinator is Miss Mary Rekucki, NHS director at BAHS.

Students are selling tickets on door prizes. The first prize winner will get a three-day trip for two to Paris, given by American Express.

The carnival will feature a large number of games. A wide variety of refreshments will be on sale.

CORRECTION

In last week's OBSERVER, we reported erroneously that Max Planck, the man whose head appears on the old DM 2 coin, was a physician. He was really a physicist, one of the greatest of all time, "who brought about the transition between classical physics and quantum physics," according to SP4 James W. Rowe of the 287th MP Co.

Summer Travel

by John Spiezia

Planning on international travel this spring or summer? Well, if you are, and plan on driving to countries outside the Federal Republic of Germany, there are several questions you should ask yourself before departing.

Answers to these questions could save you and your family time, money and even embarrassment when trying to enter or depart a nation outside the FRG.

To aid you in your planning, ponder these questions before you go: Is an international driver's license required to operate a POV in the country I am visiting? Is the green insurance card also required? Is extra gasoline authorized in containers duty free?

Are pets allowed to cross the border with me? If so, what certificates or special authorization is necessary? Am I allowed to carry firearms across the border with me? Am I authorized to import and export tobacco or spirits, and in what quantities?

What are the limits on currency imports and exports? Are there customs duties on souvenirs purchased in other countries of transit?

If you are at all in doubt about any of these questions which pertain to you, do not hesitate to call the Military Police customs desk at 3522 or contact the nearest office of

Law Day Proclamation

On the occasion of the 16th annual observance of Law Day U.S.A. on May 1, 1973, it is most appropriate that we, serving our country in this "outpost of freedom," give serious thought to the meaning and value of our laws and courts to a democratic society and to our Army community.

The United States Congress and the President have designated May 1 as a day of special celebration by the people of America "in appreciation of their liberties." We in Berlin should join in this celebration, as we are taking an active part in maintaining these liberties.

For nearly 200 years, Americans have enjoyed ever-expanding liberty through our judicial policies for gradual, orderly and peaceful change in our institutions. Army law has changed within this framework, so that the rights of the serviceman are protected as well as or better than those of the civilian citizen. All Americans may seek redress and secure justice through the courts, not as a matter of privilege, but as a matter of right.

The observance of Law Day is fitting because it underscores the continuing role of law and the courts in achieving equitable solutions to the problems of racism, poverty, environmental pollution, individual rights and many other issues of public concern.

It is good to be reminded each year that the law can be relevant and progressive.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Major General William W. Cobb, United States Commander, Berlin, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, May 1, 1973, as Law Day throughout the American Sector of the City of Berlin and urge all personnel, organizations and schools to give appropriate recognition.

Done at Berlin, Germany, this 20th day of April 1973.

Wm. W. Cobb
Major General, USA
United States Commander, Berlin

Help stop the 'accident epidemic which kills thousands each year by Thomas H. Covey, Jr.

Injuries, whether they occur on the highway, in the home, or on the playing field, cause an appalling number of deaths and disabilities in the U. S. and Europe.

More than 100,000 persons die a year in the U. S. from trauma caused from some form of external violence or agent. This constitutes our fourth leading cause of death.

Especially tragic is the fact that trauma strikes down the young, taking more lives than any disease in the 1 to 35 age group.

Headlines daily report highway and in-the-home casualties, explosions, fires, sport and industrial mischiefs, and neighborhood frays with lethal weapons. However, few of us have any idea of the extent of therapy required.

For every person killed by some type of trauma, 10-15 require hospitalization from one day to many months. Accident patients take up one million bed-days a year, or 12% of total general hospital space.

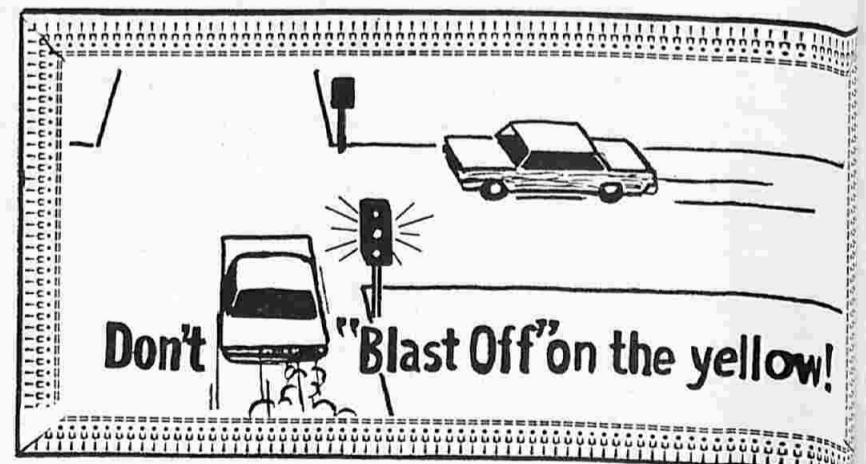

This amounts to more bed-days than are required to take care of the babies born each year; more than needed by all heart patients; and four times more than used for cancer patients.

Trauma encompasses a wide spec-emergency treatment, but frequent long term rehabilitation.

In economic terms the cost of 50 million accidents reported each year amounts to over $50 billion.

trum of accidents and combat injuries, such as burns, concussion, fracture, shock, and open wounds involving every part of the human body. All require not only prompt

Each of us should strive in whatever way we can to help curb this epidemic through accident prevention on the job, at home, at play, or on the highway.

40th Armor sets reup record

Company F, 40th Armor broke the Brigade record for group re-enlistments when six tankers took the re-up oath Monday. BG Robert D. Stevenson, brigade commander, administered the oath.

The company already held the previous record of five re-ups, which had stood since November 1972.

SP4s Patrick Riley, Clifford Bradley and Leroy Garthrite re-enlisted for their present duty assignment, and split a $28,000 bonus between them.

SP4s Robert Hair and Stanley Pack re-uped for duty in Key West, Fla., with ARADCOM. SSG Bobby Mayle selected Ft. Knox, Ky., as his new duty station.

Gator Club reopens

by Michael S. McCollum

After a year of silence, the Gator Club at McNair Barracks is open and filled with the sounds of E-5s through E-9s having a good time. The ribbon-cutting ceremony, performed by Colonel James T. Bradley, Deputy Brigade Commander, officially opened the club for about 50 men waiting outside. BG Robert D. Stevenson, commander, Berlin Brigade, showed up for the ceremony and had a few words for the men. "I'm going to see to it that the non-commissioned officers in this brigade have a club that they can call their own," he stated.

SP6 Lawrence E. Campbell, manager of the club, said the club was being re-opened to see if it could be self-sustaining. They'd like to see if they can get enough support from everyone so the club can be kept open. The club makes it possible for the E-5 through E-9 to have a place where they can discuss the various professional problems that arise during the day.

The Gator Club welcomes any enlisted person, E-5 and above, to bring his family to the club for an evening of wine, dance and song. The club won't work unless you give it your support. We'll see you about there, O.K.?

KONTAKT gets you together

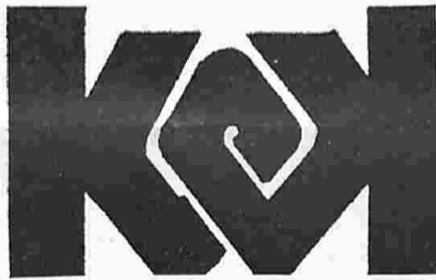

by Bob Sader

Do you know that there is a big push on right now to get young Germans and Americans together? That's right, the idea is to increase interaction by giving you the opportunity to meet young Berliners in a relaxed social atmosphere. If you have contact, real contact in the form of close personal friendships with young Germans, you may find the foreignness of European culture a source of excitement and a reason for curiosity, rather than something you draw away from.

With young German friends you'll find those cozy little restaurants young Germans and young Americans receive those invitations into German homes that become the learning experiences you'll never forget. And of course, you'll have the opportunity to tell a foreigner about your country, about your home town; how it is different, and similar to these European surroundings.

Yes, there is a push on to get young Germans and young Americans together. Where it is coming from? The origin is young people themselves in both our societies, through the youth group called KONTAKT.

In the next four days alone KONTAKT will be sponsoring a variety of activities:

April 28

Bowling at City Bowling (Ku'damm 156) at 3 p.m.
Get-Acquainted Night at the Folke-Bernadotte Youth Center (Jungfernstieg 19 in Steglitz, close to both Andrews and McNair) at 7:30 p.m.

April 30

Swimming at Andrews Pool, 7 p.m.

April 30 and May 2

Silent Film Festival at Amerika Haus, 8 p.m. Reception afterwards. Both nights Charlie Chaplin films will be featured.

The push is on. The opportunity is there. Let KONTAKT help you meet young Berliners. For further information call the KONTAKT office at Berlin mil. 6809 or check the bulletin boards in your company area or at the service clubs.

3/6 reenlistees go places

by Ralph Callaway

Opportunities for travel and education prompted several men from the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry to re-enlist recently.

One man with movies on his mind re-enlisted for Ft. Monmouth, N. J., for training as a motion picture photographer. SP4 Albert Savage of B-3/6 is going to sunny Monterey, Calif., to spend 50 weeks learning the Thai language.

The travelers include SP4 Dale Sevigny of CSC-3/6, who re-enlisted for duty in the Panama Canal.

Seventeen men decided to re-up with ARADCOM for duty near their stateside homes. Among those men were SP4 Danny Hill of HHC-3/6, who will go to Pedricks-town, N. J. PFC Ray Nunley, also of HHC, will go to Highlands, N. J.

SP4 Timothy Deal of C-3/6 goes to Baltimore, Md.; and PFCs John Sibis and John Williams of CSC are going to Van Nuys, Calif.

PFC Glenn Krob of CSC is going to San Francisco, while SP4 Jerome Scott, HHC, is going to Oakdale, Pa.

Some of those who re-enlisted chose to stay in Berlin. In this category are SP4 Charles James, F-3/6; SP4s Douglas Omdahl and Lee Sweat and SP5 Alan Thaged, HHC; and SGT Coleman Foley of B-3/6.

It is said that money talks, and talk it did to several men who chose to continue their military careers. A total of $50,000 in re-up bonuses went to Savage, Sevigny, Omdahl, Foley, Frosolone and Thaged.

Big Red One chapter

by Michael S. McCollum

Ever served in the First Infantry Division? If you have, then you're eligible to join the Berlin Chapter, Society of the First Infantry Division. Even if you served in a unit that was attached to the Big Red One you are still eligible.

The Berlin Chapter, formed June of 1972, has a present membership of 23 persons. SGM Stephen N. Raybourn, who is currently president of the Berlin Chapter, said that he believes that there are many Big Red One'ers stationed here in Berlin who aren't aware that the Society of the First Infantry Division has a chapter in Berlin.

The Society of the First Infantry Division has, among other functions, a scholarship fund for children of personnel who died while serving with the Big Red One.

The next meeting (mid-May) will be a luncheon at the Gator Club with BG Robert D. Stevenson, commanding officer, Berlin Brigade, as the guest speaker. The exact time will be announced at a later date. Anyone interested should attend the luncheon or get in touch with SGM Raybourn at 6003/6176.

How to get to recreation centers

With summer rapidly approaching many vacationers are planning a trip to one of the Armed Forces Recreation Center's areas at Berchtesgaden, Chiemsee or Garmisch. The "old timers" in Europe know how to get there but many of the "newcomers" will ask where is it?

Berchtesgaden Recreation Area is located about a two hour drive from Munich. To get there take the Munich-Salzburg Autobahn until you come to the Richenhall turn-off, then follow Route 20, about 20 miles, straight into Berchtesgaden.

Chiemsee Recreation Area is situated about an hour's drive from Munich, just off the Munich-Salzburg Autobahn.

Garmisch Recreation Area is located about an hour and a half drive from Munich. To get there take the Munich - Garmisch - Partenkirchen Autobahn right into Garmisch.

Train service from Munich is available directly to Berchtesgaden and Garmisch and for Chiemsee the nearest train station is at Prien.

Powerful second-half assault gives U.S. Forces 7-1 victory

by Ray Stahl

Hitting the nets for six goals in the second half, the U. S. Forces soccer team won its first round game in the league cup last Wednesday 7-1 against SV Zurich. The score was 1-0 in favor of the American squad at halftime.

The Forces club got scoring from seven different individuals as Rolf Kreuzer, Gerry Blaufuss, Bill Cheney, Ken Salmon and John Cogbill notched their first markers of the campaign with Jim Elmwood and Paddy Yarr scoring the other goals.

The rout was due, for the most part, to the complete dissolution of the Zurich defense. Their mistakes ranged from classic to comedic as the ball went into their goal in rapid succession in the last 25 minutes of the match. They seemed ready to take charge of the game when they tied the match at 1-1 just after the halftime, but the momentum vanished almost as quickly as it had appeared.

Two games in the next three days highlight the Forces' immediate activity as the A team plays fourth division F. C. Heineken tomorrow at McNair starting at 2 p.m. and the league match against BVG Zehlendorf on Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the sports ground on Lessingstrasse in Steglitz.

The league standings after the completion of the first portion of the league season is listed below. The last columns are the ones of primary concern — the point standings. Two plus points are for a win, one plus and one minus for a draw (tie), and two minus points for a loss.

In the Forces' 24 game league schedule there are 48 points possible and it would be safe to assume the 36 plus points would be the minimum for the American team to obtain to have a strong chance for promotion to the next level of play.

Fourth game loss

The fourth and final game wasn't quite what the Bears were bargaining for, though. Starting poorly was their story in this tournament and, of course, very nearly their epitaph.

Always able to recover in earlier games, the Bears dug too deep a hole in the finale. They trailed 5-1 early before tying things up thanks primarily to their basketball-type man-to-man press. The tie at 7-7 was short-lived as an unguarded corner shot left the final score at Schweinfurt 8, the Bears 7.

Each of the day's games were marked by fine sportsmanship and hard play. The Bears' opponents seemed amazed at Berlin's size, spirit, knowledge and will to win.

Looking back, ahead

The close of the tournament and the presentation of the trophy was somehow a fitting aftermath to the recent edition of the Berlin Bears. It meant so much to Purdom, LaRose, Wilson, Boland, Scolton and Cheney as men preparing to leave Berlin on a winning note. And also to Pirkle, Best, Whynot, Swannack, Young, Jandris, Richmond, Spiezia, Davis and Gregg it meant a lot, too: a new league to win next year, a new standard to establish for the next

HQ, BBde officers bomb 3/6 counterparts 12-3 last Saturday

by Ralph Callaway

Last Saturday saw the return of the 3/6 Infantry Officers Softball Team to the diamond. Their counterparts at Brigade Headquarters provided more than sufficient competition to the 3/6 softballers.

The game appeared to be a pitchers duel during the first three innings with LT Doyle Perry of 3/6 allowing only one run over the first three frames, while MAJ Presley Pippin (better known to 3/6 as "Whip" Pippin) held the 3/6 officers scoreless.

The first big rally occurred in the visitors side of the fourth as the brigade team pushed across two more runs on the fine hitting of CPT Ted Purdom and CPT Tom Reiva. In fact, if wasn't long before the 3/6 found themselves behind by a score of 7-2.

Some sloppy 3/6 fielding and a booming home run by CPT L. R. Griffin of USCOB provided the final five runs for the Brigade All Stars, as they went on to win by a whopping 12-3 margin.

Become a star - earn the Presidential Sports Award

by Warren H. Goldman

[EDITOR'S NOTE: If you're one of those athletes who never earned your letter in school, college or club sports (or even if you did), the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports is offering you a second chance to become a "star" — simply by participating regularly in your favorite sport. The award is being offered in 31 sports, ranging from archery to water skiing.

[The objective of the new program is to get more adults to become active participants in sports, rather than being content with a spectator's role. The Council believes that the physical and mental benefits resulting from vigorous exercise contribute significantly to personal health, appearance and performance.

[Standards for the Presidential Sports Award Program were developed by the Council in cooperation with 45 major sports-governing bodies and coaches' associations.]

WORMS, Germany — Using a log-book to become physically fit is a neat trick if you can do it — and U. S. military personnel here in Europe can do it if they're enrolled in the Presidential Sports Award Program.

This program encourages broad and voluntary sports activities and enables participants to achieve prescribed standards of physical fitness. The Army sports program offers USAREUR personnel an opportunity to win this award by participating in organized and team sports as a group as well as on an individual basis.

Basic to the qualifying standards for the 31 sports embodied in the Presidential Sports Award Program is the requirement that sportsmen and women observe 50 hours of participation over a period of approximately four months. Individuals may earn as many awards as they desire — so long as they meet each of the qualifying standards required for each sport. Participants completing the requirements earn a red, white, blue and gold embroidered emblem, a handsome lapel or collar pin and a certificate signed by the President.

All U. S. military personnel (active, reserve or retired) and their dependents are eligible to participate in the Presidential Sports Award Program.

As soon as requisitioning procedures can be effected, sports log-books will be available for issue to USAREUR personnel through the Special Services Support Center in Aschaffenburg. Free personal log-books and qualifying standards may also be obtained by writing to Presidential Sports Award, P.O. Box 129, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

For additional information, address correspondence to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, Washington, D. C. 20202. Qualifying standards by sports:

(In each sport, requirements must be fulfilled within a period of four months.)

Archery

1. Shoot a minimum of 3,000 arrows.
2. No more than 60 arrows in any one day may be credited to total.

3. Minimum target distance is 15 yards. In field or roving archery, there should be 14 different targets, each at 15 or more yards.

Back packing

1. Back pack for a minimum of 50 hours.
2. No more than three (3) hours in any one day may be credited to total.

Badminton

1. Play badminton a minimum of 50 hours.
2. No more than one and one-half (1½) hours in any one day may be credited to total.
3. Play must include at least 25 matches (best two of three games) of singles and/or doubles.

Biathlon

1. Run a minimum of 150 miles (cross-country skis or on foot), either on a track or hill and dale.
2. Fire a minimum of 330 rounds, either small bore at 50 meters or big bore at 150 meters.
3. No more than five (5) miles or 30 rounds in any one day may be credited to totals.
4. There must be at least 25 miles and 100 rounds of combined running-shooting. Rule 3 applies.
5. All shooting practice must be under safe, supervised conditions.

Bicycling

1. Bicycle a minimum of 1,000 miles (more than five gears); or bicycle a minimum of 650 miles (five or fewer gears).
2. No more than 20 miles in any one day may be credited to total.

'Hammersmith Is Out' is out

by Vincent A. Drosdik, III

Who would think that one of our best movie reviewers (wittiest, at any rate) is a soccer player and has a cousin who's a fringe outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds? I certainly wouldn't believe it under normal circumstances, but then again, we're in Berlin.

HAMMERSMITH IS OUT is out at the theaters the next few weeks. Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton star along with Peter Ustinov in the modern version of the Faust legend. Laced with profanity, it's rated R.

Steve McQueen is fast on the wheels in THE GETAWAY. He is paroled by a crooked politician in return for making a robbery later and cutting the official in on the proceeds. Needless to say, it all falls through, resulting in a bloody shoot-out and a double cross. Ali MacGraw also stars in the violence-filled drama.

Ray Milland, whose last thrilling Sci-Fi role was that of the man with the X-ray eyes (which looked like bloodshot golf balls by the end of the movie) and who seems to star in every other class D Sci-Fi flick, is back with THE THING WITH TWO HEADS. Milland is a bigoted scientist who is dying and needs another body to continue his work. Rosie Greer, a condemned convict, volunteers, figuring that two heads are better than one in the wild chase Greer embarks on to prove his innocence of his death sentence. The real complications begin when Greer stops at a restaurant and orders some soul food and Milland, who hates the stuff, tries to hold his(?) stomach at the sight of it. I advise all movie patrons to sit at least one seat apart during the film to ensure you leave with your own head.

AIRPORT returns, providing realistic drama of a snowed-in airport with a crippled airliner blocking the runway and another circling above. Starring Burt Lancaster and Dean Martin, it is probably the top movie to see this week.

Cesar Romero and Chuck "The Rifleman" Connors star in "THE PROUD AND THE DAMNED", about four young Texans who are mercenary sharpshooters in revolution-prone Latin America.

Let Rome USO help your trip to the Eternal City

Who needs to know about Rome? You do. Especially if you're planning a trip to Rome. You arrive at the airport. No signs pointing you in the right direction. Make a phone call? You need a gettone. What's that? It's something like a grooved slug which you must purchase in order to use the public telephone. Everyone speaks Italian — no help. The directions on the phone — all in Italian. There you are in the phone booth, gettone in hand. Whom to call for help — in English? The Rome USO — 564.232 or 564.272. And don't forget to insert the gettone correctly — lining up the grooves properly. If you find the telephone not working properly after inserting the gettone, push the little red button. If you're lucky you'll get it back.

You didn't fly to Rome? You arrived by train? That's easier 'cause you're already in town. All you have to be concerned about is a place to stay and a taxi to get you there. Don't have a hotel reservation? Buy a gettone and call the Rome USO. Don't forget about the grooves and the little red button.

You drove to Rome? Simple. Just follow the signs to San Pietro (St. Peter's). USO is just down the street at # 2, Via della Conciliazione. And you don't need a gettone!

Rome USO is open every day 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Tours of Rome are daily except Sunday. They have many other services too.

Rome USO is the official channel for Papal Audiences and Ceremonies for members of the U. S. military.

There's much more you need to know about Rome: Go directly or write the Rome USO for reservations, etc. They'll help make your visit to the "Eternal City" as problem-free, economical, and memorable as is humanly possible — this side of the happiness you'll find on the successful use of the gettone!

— Rome USO

Community Observations

Pianist needed

AG Special Services Entertainment is desperately in need of a pianist to accompany the musical production of "Company," which is now in rehearsal. Interested persons are urged to call the Entertainment Office at 6565 for details.

Coin collectors

The regular monthly meeting of the Berlin American Numismatic Club will be held Wednesday, May 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Harnack House. The meeting is open to all persons in the Berlin American Community interested in coin collecting. A coin trading session will follow the business meeting.

Bad mushrooms

MUNICH — The European Exchange System reports that two products recalled in the States are not on sale through EES.

Canned mushrooms bearing the code 2KC07, which are suspected of botulism contamination, were not procured by EES. A thorough review of EES stocks showed that none of the mushrooms were purchased from TASCOM commissaries for resale or use in the Exchange. (TASCOM has indicated that none of the contaminated mushrooms reached Europe.)

The second product, a deodorant marketed as Mennen E, has not been purchased by the Exchange for sale in Europe. The deodorant was taken off the market by the manufacturer because of a high number of complaints about skin irritation.

Payday PX hours

For the shopping convenience of its customers, the EES Shopping Center Department Store will be open Monday, April 30 (end of month payday) 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Other retail stores will be open as follows: McNair PX, noon-6:30 p.m.; Andrews PX, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; and Tempelhof PX, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Teacher summer workshops

KARLSRUHE, Germany — A total of 11 workshops involving 372 US-DESEA educators will be conducted during summer 1973, in cooperation with four universities: Florida State University, University of Houston, University of Southern California, and University of Oregon. These schools are all members of the US-DESEA university consortium, an organization working in cooperation with the school system to meet US-DESEA inservice training needs.

Among the summer offerings will be workshops in environmental education, drug education, special education, industrial arts for elementary teachers, and audiovisual education. Participants for these projects will be selected by the directors of each workshop. Further information concerning the dates and locations of the workshops will be made available through workshop coordinators at the USDESEA Directorate. Individuals can express interest or direct questions concerning workshops to the coordinators at the Directorate, USDESEA, APO 09164.

Stamp auction

The Berlin American Stamp Club will hold a stamp auction May 3 at the Hi-Lite Service Club. Forty lots of philatelic interest will be auctioned starting at 7:30 p.m. The lots will be on display prior to the bidding, all of which will be in Deutsch Marks. You don't have to be a member to bid on items that have caught your fancy or are needed to fill spaces in your stamp album. All members of the Berlin American community are invited, especially those who would like to know more about stamp collecting and the activities of the club.

Oriental wives

Army Community Service is sponsoring an Oriental Wives Group tea May 7 at 12:30 p.m. in the American Community Chapel Fellowship Hall. Featured at the tea will be a flower arrangement demonstration. For more information, call 813-6542.

Sacred Heart Guild

All Catholic mothers and daughters in the Berlin American community are invited to join the Sacred Heart Guild for its May 4 meeting at 9:30 a.m. in the American Community Chapel. Holy Mass will be celebrated followed by a May Crowning of the Blessed Virgin, recitation of the living Rosary (please bring your own) and Benediction of the Most Holy and Blessed Sacrament. A short meeting will follow with refreshments. The Kinder Keller is free — make your own reservations by calling 819-6270.

Associate degree

Want to earn an Associate of Arts degree while on active duty? Serviceman's Opportunity Colleges may be just what you've been looking for. These schools make it possible for you to earn your degree while stationed here in Berlin, or anywhere else in the world for that matter.

These colleges are stateside community or junior colleges catering to the special educational needs of the mobile serviceman. Specifically, participating schools have admission policies related to the life of the serviceman which eliminate seemingly artificial barriers to education, such as residency requirements. These colleges will accept you if you have a high school diploma or GED certificate. Additionally, they are willing to grant maximum credit for educational experiences obtained in the Armed Services. Credits will normally be granted for successfully completed USAFI courses, selected service school courses, and acceptable scores established by examination in the College Level Examination Program (CLEP).

Interested in finding out more? Stop by your Army Education Advisor and see your Education Advisor, or call military 3120.

BAHS boosters

A general membership meeting of the Berlin American High School Club will be held in the BAHS Student Union Sunday at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend. Officers for the 1973-74 school year will be elected. The boy or girl athlete to receive the Booster Club Sportsman of the Year Award will be selected.

Jubilee Singers

The Christ Jubilee Singers will present their sound of today's Gospel music in German and English Sunday at 7 p.m. at McNair Chapel. This professional group has several records and are regarded as one of the leading Gospel groups. The participants are all members of various Protestant churches in Berlin.

West Berlin tours

AG Special Services Tours Office will schedule West Berlin tours each Tuesday beginning May 1 if numbers warrant. West Berlin tours are scheduled for Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday also. These tours depart from the Shopping Center Bus Terminal at 1 p.m. and cost $1.75 per adult, $0.60 per child under 12. For more information on these and other tours, call the Tours Office at 6523.

La Leche League

The next meeting of La Leche League will be held today at 1 p.m. at Mardi Brown's, 26 Charles H. King Strasse, Apt. 10. All nursing mothers, past, present and future, are welcome. For further information, call Winny Hanson, 813-7386. The May meeting will be held on Friday, May 25 at Veronica Gard's, 18 Reichshofer Strasse.

Judy Pricks is on vacation and will return May 4. To find out what's happening in Berlin, check Cultural Events in the column at the left.
