

Mandrax

Author describes drug's dangerous effects, warns that its use is punishable by law

by John Horn

Methaqualone, commercially known as Quaalude, Sopor, Optimil and Parest, among other names, is best known in Germany under the trade name of MANDRAX.

Mandrax is illegal for any of the personnel subject to UCMJ in USAR-EUR except as authorized by medical authorities. The use, possession, selling, distribution, delivery, process, compound or manufacture of any methaqualone-based drug or its introduction into any U. S. Army facility or other government property is prohibited.

Depressant

Mandrax is classed as a central nervous system depressant, a sedative-hypnotic. Its effects are to relax you to the drooping point, give you a feeling of comfort (the pain threshold is higher) and confidence, and consequently make you uninhibited, communicative and generous.

You'll also be unable to coordinate your muscles very well, or tell where your limbs are exactly. When undertaking tricky tasks such as walking you'll understand the meaning of the term "wallbanger."

Slurred speech

Your speech will be slurred and your eyes may play ping-pong a little in their sockets. But none of this will matter much to you. Some people who have taken enough quacks can fall down flights of stairs and not feel the bruises until the next day.

On higher doses the effects are more pronounced. Coordination becomes very difficult due to muscular tremors, which are suspected to actually be symptoms of partial anesthesia of the muscles. An acute overdose of 2.4 grams (say, eight 300 mg. tabs) can result in coma and convulsions.

Death has followed a dose of as low as 8 grams. A dose higher than the medically prescribed sleeping dose can depress the tracheo-bronchial reflexes to a dangerous degree — so that if you were to vomit in your sleep, you could choke to death, Jimi Hendrix style.

Fatal levels

Overdose and fatal dose levels are much lower if in addition to Mandrax you've taken any other downers, such as barbiturates or phenobarbs — or alcohol. When taken in this combination there is not only the addictive effect — breathing can be totally suppressed.

The treatment of overdose for Mandrax should be handled by medical authorities. A common danger in taking Mandrax is that when stoned one forgets how many pills he's taken.

Some people are fixing and taking Mandrax like smack (heroin). It's much worse to shoot than smack because it's so alkaline. It's like shooting barbs: it causes abscesses and other serious infections of the skin.

Mandrax is often mistaken as being a non-barbiturate tranquilizer with "safe" qualities. Mandrax is far from being "safe" and "non-addictive." Medical authorities report that Mandrax can "hook" people and that withdrawal can cause fatal convulsions.

Open House to honor Berlin Airlift

The United States Air Force at Tempelhof Central Airport in West Berlin will host their annual "Tag der Offenen Tür" (Open House) on September 15 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (See additional story, photo on page 3.)

This year's Open House will commemorate the 25th anniversary of the beginning of the Berlin Airlift and will feature several exhibitions depicting Allied participation during the 1948-49 humanitarian operations. A historical collection of photos taken during the Airlift, the United States Art Collection and a reunion of Airlift aircraft and veterans are among other highlights of the two-day Open House.

TWO MAIN WORKHORSES of the Airlift, the United States Air Force's C-54 "Skymaster" and the Royal Air Force's "Hastings," as well as various other Allied cargo aircraft will be on display at the two day show. Plans for the Skymaster and Hastings to arrive together are being finalized. Veterans of the Airlift will be present for the ceremonies.

TCA's base commander, Colonel Gail S. Halvorsen, and other dignitaries will officially cut the ribbon opening the exhibits to the public at Gate 5 on Columbiadamm.

In addition to the two prime Allied Airlift aircraft, the U. S.

Air Force also expects (operational commitments allowing), the little brother of the C-54 "Galaxy," the C-141 "Starlifter"; C-130 "Hercules," KC-97 "Stratolifter" tanker; C-124 "Loadmaster" and an array of British and French transport aircraft.

ONE SPECIAL AIRCRAFT GUEST is the C-9 "Nightingale," the U. S. Air Force's newest flying hospital ship, which is well known to all those who watched the return of the U. S. POWs.

Another significant exhibit is the Berlin premiere of the USAF Air Collection. This gallery of 22 original oil paintings depicts the complex mission of today's Air Force in Europe. Two paintings are dedicated to the Berlin Airlift. Each painting has been specially commissioned by the Air Force and was painted by some of America's most talented traditional artists.

PERENNIAL FAVORITES of the Open House in the past will also be on hand this year, including the stars of last year's exhibition, the Seventh U. S. Army "Challengers" Parachute Team.

Other favorites such as the U. S. Army Helicopter and Motor Units Exhibit, the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry Army Drill Team, the 1946th Communications Squadron Radio Exhibit, the USAF Academy show and a parade of the U. S. State Flags will also be featured.

Heading the long entertainment list is international singing star, Miss Peggy March, who will be acting as the hostess for the Open House. She will be performing live both days and will be backed by the United States Air Force Europe's "Ambassador" Dance Band.

Other bands include the 298th U. S. Army Band, the French 46th Infantry Band, the King's Own Scottish Borderers Band and the Berlin Schutzpolizei Band.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the musical coin, the Open House will present a fine pop music group: "The Virginians," a local and extremely rare "skiffle" band.

Entrance to the area is free, but there will be DM 1 fee for parking.

Over 500 attend dinner

by Joe Bolduc

"It is hopeful that the success of the dinner is an indication of a trend which will follow the Expo and eventually lead to a more positive communication between the majority and minority groups in Berlin."

That is the feeling of Captain Joe Gentry of the Equal Opportunity Office concerning the Ethnic Expo Promotional Dinner held Friday night at the Starlight Grove Club. The dinner, sold out to over 500 people, was a preview of Berlin Brigade's Ethnic Expo to be held Nov. 15-17 at the Sports Center.

The Expo will be the first of its kind in USAREUR, featuring displays of black, Oriental, Polynesian, Mexican-American, Puerto Rican, Appalachian and American-Indian cultures.

Major General Harold Hayward, Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel at USAREUR & Seventh Army Headquarters and former commander of Berlin Brigade, was the honored guest speaker at the dinner and recapped the development of the EOO, which began three years ago.

"Our approach," said MG Hayward, "was based on the premise that, if given a choice, any individual human being—male or female, black or white—would choose to live in harmony with his fellow men."

"As I see it," he continued, "we've made great progress. We recognized ignorance as the root of our problem, and we attack it through our education and indoctrination programs."

Though progress has been made in getting rid of ignorance, Hayward feels that true racial harmony will not be achieved until we understand the cultural differences between the majority and minority groups.

"The upcoming Expo can be compared to building a house" said First Lieutenant David Allen of the EOO. "Captain Gentry and myself can be considered the architects, but we need the help of the people to finish the structure. Without the help of the people, we won't have a sturdy house and it will fall apart."

"We are trying to prove to the command, to USAREUR and to the Army that majority and minority groups can work together to achieve cultural pluralism," Allen said.

This, he feels, can be done only by persons wanting to get sincerely involved and not by those who get involved for personal gains.

CPT Gentry and the Equal Opportunity Office extend "a sincere right-on" to all those involved in the success of the dinner. In particular, they thank Captain Cliff Houston, co-director of the upcoming Expo, for his assistance in programming, scheduling and overall technical supervision of the participants; Miss Minnie Mara for her technical assistance; the ladies of the Group Against Prejudice for the posters made under the art direction of Karen Page; Tony Nino for his entertainment supervision; the stage crew of Chuck Foley, Ron Anderson and Richard Johnson; Ana Bennett for officiating as mistress of ceremonies; and each of the participants in the show.

Anyone wanting to help with the planning or production of the Ethnic Expo should contact CPT Gentry at 6385 or 813-6707 before September 19.

Eddie at the keys

Jazz pianist, composer and teacher Eddie Bonnemere plays a tune at an outdoor performance at Andrews Barracks last Thursday. Bonnemere, Ruth Brisbane and William McDaniel gave several performances last week as guests of the Chaplain Division and also appeared at the Ethnic Expo promotional dinner.

Combined Campaign

The annual DoD Overseas Combined Federal Campaign, which provides partial support for 10 international service agencies, 13 national health agencies and the American Red Cross, will open Thursday, Sept. 20 and continue for six weeks.

The work of the organizations cooperating in this campaign means help for 75 million individuals.

Through this appeal, DoD personnel, civilian and military, are offered an opportunity to show that they too want to help others by their support of these volunteer, non-profit agencies.

When your keyman calls upon you, you may make your contribution at once, or more easily by payroll deduction over a 12-month period beginning January 1, 1974.

Because it helps promote better national health through education and research, because the agencies involved contribute to military morale and to the welfare of dependents left at home, and because they help to improve international relations through the voluntary help they provide to people in nations all over the world, this OCFC campaign has the full backing of the Secretary of Defense, who believes that every American who can should contribute whatever he can to this purpose.

Those who contribute may indicate which agencies, or agency, they wish to receive their help. The choice can range from any one to all 24. If no stipulation is made, the cooperating agencies will divide your gift on a pre-arranged ratio.

LIBRARY CORNER

Little Bits & Pieces

I'm absolutely flat out of comment this week — I have only little bits and pieces for you.

For instance: the drop box is back up—the book return box, to be more specific. Just outside the door of the APO at the Shopping Center. If children can resist the urge to put any more half empty soft drink cans in it, it should be useful. I wonder if the one who did that was the same one who wrote across the window at the rear of the school, "Anyone who reads is a ***?"

I was reading "Family" magazine. The Main Library has that book the magazine mentions—the Yale "Insider's Guide to Colleges." The book is in the Reference Room, with other college guides.

Speaking of colleges, did you know that Main and McNair both have college catalogs? Is now the time to start thinking about which one you hope to enter? Of course, we don't have catalogs from all colleges, but there are enough to fill several bookcases, from those colleges willing to contribute.

Oh, yes—there's a really good program coming up Sept. 26. A panel discussion by a group of six experts on "The Exceptional Child." It should be most informative and lively—the experts are local and American specialists, so all the information about help in Berlin will be forthcoming.

I've often wondered why people don't ask—even insist—on more help when they're trying to locate information. It's sort of like the man who will drive around for hours—he'd rather be lost than display ignorance by asking directions. We at the library want to help—try us!

Keep reading and have a good week. — Miriam Steward

Berlin is his unit of choice

Remember when you joined the Army? Among other things they told you was the possibility of being stationed near home. And it wasn't all bunk, as SP4 Frank Stooss of Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry found out when he got himself assigned to Berlin.

Frank is a native Berliner, and when he received assignment instructions for Europe, he took a leave here to find out if he could be assigned in his hometown. After checking with AG here, he got it. There are vacancies in both of Frank's MOSs, so he signed off leave right here in lieu of returning to the 21st Replacement Battalion in Frankfurt, and is presently going through replacement training.

HOW HE GOT HERE is an interesting story. Frank worked as a machinist in Philadelphia until the Army convinced him to join in December 1970. He took his basic and AIT at Ft. Dix, N.J., and then went to Vietnam with the Transportation Corps as a light truck driver.

After Nam, he went to Ft. Hood, Texas, where he got a taste of tanks and qualified himself for a second MOS as a tanker. In December 1972, Frank received his American citizenship papers.

After Ft. Hood, he received his orders for Europe, where he was temporarily assigned to the 21st Replacement Battalion. The rest you know.

With the permission of his company commander, CPT Edgar Smith, Frank is living with his parents, Manfred and Gertrud Stooss, who live on Bundesplatz. However, he still has to maintain an area in the billets.

FRANK IS ALSO TRYING for a change of units within the Brigade. His favorite job is that of a tank crewman, and he hopes for a transfer to Company F, 40th Armor.

There's a humorous note to Frank's good fortune in his current assignment: he is required to attend German "Head-Start" classes in replacement training along with all other newly assigned personnel in the Brigade, even though his German is already better than the Army could hope to teach him.

Writer attacks 'patience' article

I have just concluded a belated reading of the August 31 Berlin Observer article: "Patients — have patience." I found the piece to be highly biased and totally subjective requiring a rebuttal.

I must say that both my wife and myself, after almost two years in Berlin, have yet to be dissatisfied with the service offered by our Army hospital here in the city. However, I must take issue with the two columns of aggressive defense of hospital personnel obviously written by an embittered clerk with little or no understanding of the medical profession.

The writer first haughtily disdain-ed those "bump/bruise cases" that are brought to the hospital. However, only after examination or X-ray does the distraught mother or father learn that the arm, leg or joint is only bruised and not broken.

And I take personal offense to the waste of three inches of valuable newspaper space being taken by a tirade about my medical benefits being FREE! As a taxpayer, I categorically state that my medical benefits are most definitely not free, even though my military wage "is rapidly approaching civilian equivalents!" (a questionable assumption obviously by a person whose standards are lower than my own).

Career people in the military services have "paid their dues" and have earned the medical care provided by the military services.

But the phrase that really raised my hackles was that my medical benefits are "a privilege, not a right." If this, indeed, is the case, I visualize all sorts of coming restrictions against receiving this "privilege": a form to fill out which must be signed by the commander in order to go to on sick call; an orderly at the door of the hospital, examining each prospective patient, allowing only those in his opinion "sick enough" to see a real doctor; ad infinitum, to ensure that this "right" is not abused!

In 15 years military service, I have seen surly patients in waiting rooms, and these people are definitely wrong. But I have also experienced incompetent, discourteous medical records clerks ignoring people waiting patiently for their medical records. I have experienced (more often than not) frowning, unfriendly medics, male and female, acting like I was intruding upon their reverie in order to have my temperature taken.

It's a two-way street! I realize that many people misuse and abuse their hospital facility, but this is not justification for hospital personnel to assume that everyone walking through the doors of the hospital are malingerers and malcontents.

Most people go to the hospital only when (in their own minds) absolutely necessary. When they arrive at the hospital they are upset, distraught or simply feel rotten. I find it a little incredible that the writer of the article expects the patient to be the first to offer a smile or pleasant-ry.

Perhaps if hospital personnel offered that first smile or simply seemed to understand the patient, people such as the writer might amaze themselves with the sudden change of attitude of the patients. And if patients would try to understand that most hospitals, both military and civilian, are understaffed and over-worked, people such as the writer of the article in question would have little or nothing to write about.

'Operation Vittles'

'Skymaster'

Coal-hauling C-54s are shown being unloaded during an early morning haze in Berlin. A C-54 "Skymaster" like these used during the Airlift will be a special feature of the 1973 TCA Air Force Open House this weekend. (U. S. Air Force photo)

At midnight, September 30, 1949, the Berlin Airlift ended, 462 days after it began on June 26, 1948, as an overnight emergency operation to feed and fuel the 2,500,000 blockaded citizens of the three Western Zones of the city of Berlin.

During its lifetime it had delivered a total of well over 2,343,301.5 tons of food and supplies in 277,624 flights.

THE BERLIN AIRLIFT is acknowledged as the greatest peacetime military operation in aviation history. As one official put it: "It was born in peace, lived in peace, and today died in a peaceful world—it kept the peace."

At its peak, it saw one airplane per minute take off or land at one of the city's three airports. Including the formative stages of the operation following June 26, 1948, an overall average of 5,559.4 tons of supplies per day was set by the Airlift for the 13 month period of sustained operations.

Despite weather, maintenance or personnel difficulties, tonnage was flown to Berlin during each of the 400 days. Only in September did Airlift personnel remember what the weekend meant and knock off from their seven-day, 24 hour operating schedule for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The first day of the Airlift, June 26, 1948, 32 flights of C-47 "Gooneybirds" carried 80 tons of supplies from Wiesbaden AFB to Tempelhof. In USAFE there were less than 100 C-47s and no C-54 Skymasters.

TWO DAYS LATER "Operation Vittles" was organized by order of LTG Curtis E. LeMay. BG Joseph Smith, then commanding general of Wiesbaden Military Post, was named Airlift commander.

An order went out immediately to transfer 35 C-54s from bases in Alaska, the Caribbean area and from Tactical Air Command units in the United States. On June 28 the Royal Air Force started Airlift duty from British Zone bases.

Within three weeks the Airlift was a going concern with 54 Skymasters and 105 C-47s carrying the load of the U. S. effort, supported by 40 Royal Air Force Yorks and 50 Dakotas. Together they had delivered 2,250 tons to Berlin in a single day.

POSSIBILITIES of larger aircraft in Airlift operations were demonstrated August 17 when a C-74 Globemaster arrived in Germany from the U. S. It ferried 18 C-54 engines weighing a total of 38,000 pounds and started carrying runs on Airlift duty.

Thirty-six C-54s from the Far East Air Forces Troop Carrier Command left Tokyo for Airlift duty September 23, and on September 25 USAF established a Replacement Training Unit at Great Falls, Mont., to train 100 three-man C-54 crews a month.

Use of C-47s on the Airlift was discontinued October 1, and five C-82 Packets were assigned for the carrying of bulky items of cargo. Trans-Atlantic support flights by C-47s, augmenting similar flights by military and commercial transport planes, were established October 4, on a regular basis.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, on October 21, directed the U. S. Air Force to assign 66 more C-54s to Vittles duty after a White House conference with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, EUCOM Commander.

The biggest single-day triumph of American and British effort in Airlift operations came April 16 when the "Easter Parade" announced by Hq CATF in advance as a planned maneuver, was completed, eclipsing all previous performances. Favored by good weather, Airlift planes delivered 12,940.9 tons in 1,398 flights.

The goal toward which the Airlift had been working came after 320 consecutive days of around-the-clock effort when the Russians officially lifted the blockade on May 12.

Red Cross clothing drive until Sept. 18.

Army trucks aid Red Cross

by Michael S. McCollum

Everybody's into the act in Berlin. Firemen, policemen, the Army, the Red Cross and the people of Berlin.

What am I talking about? A clothing drive that nets about 100 tons of cast-off clothing per day. The clothing is used by the German Red Cross to aid disaster victims around the world in times of need.

During the period of Sept. 4-18, there are 10 U. S. Army trucks being utilized for clothing collection, as are four other trucks supplied by the Berlin Police Department. Each truck has a driver and two firemen. The firemen take the bags of clothing that have been left on the sidewalks and toss them on the backs of the trucks. The firemen are paid DM 40 to help out with the collection. That's DM 40 per truck, not per man.

Many people from the Transportation Division worked a great deal to coordinate transportation with the Red Cross. Among them are Hans Kuwityz, local national motor pool supervisor, who did the actual coordination, and Erich Kaps, who drives the coordinating car on the days that pick-ups are being made.

In the car with Kaps is SFC James R. Ellis, also from Transportation Division. Ellis's job is to make sure that all the bags are being picked up and none of them are being missed.

Once the trucks are loaded to capacity, they're taken to the docks (yes, Berlin does have docks!) and loaded on barges to be taken to Bremen where the Red Cross's main warehouses are. There they are sorted and cleaned to await distribution whenever disaster strikes.

The trucks cover a lot of territory. They average about 100-110 kilometers per day. The coordination car puts about 200 kilometers a day on its odometer. Ellis said that he expects to collect at least 1,000 tons this year. Over 1200 tons were collected last year.

The Americans aren't the only ones involved. The British and the French get their turn from Sept. 19-Oct. 4. By the time they're finished, the entire area of West Berlin will have been completely covered, and enough clothes to help many thousands of people will have been collected.

KONTAKT kampers to leave for weekend

by Ned Morse

For the next two weekends KONTAKT will be quite busy. This coming weekend buses leave the main PX Saturday for a weekend of relaxation, friendship and fun while camping on the peninsula Schwanenwerder.

The cost is DM 25 for food and use of the camp. Drinks are extra. Reservations must be made at the KONTAKT office, 6809, before Friday at 5 p.m.

The following Saturday, Sept. 22, we have another folksong evening on tap. All who play an instrument are invited to perform, and all who know how to enjoy themselves are invited to come and have a good time. The evening is designed to make meeting others both easy and enjoyable, so we hope you'll join us. The place is the Amerika Haus, Hardenbergstr. 22 across from Bahnhof Zoo at Zoologischer Garten U-Bahn station. The time is 8 p.m., and the cost depends on the wine you drink and the snacks you eat.

While that's what's going on for the next few weekends, there is much more going on between the weekends. For instance, we're heading for a Latin American folksong night club, and we're hitting a Balkan and a Japanese restaurant. We're also going on a bike tour of Spandau and much more. So why not pick up a program at the nearest service club and check out what's going on of interest to you during September.

Berlin team defeats Allies; Forces take second in tourney

by Ray Stahl

The U. S. Forces soccer team finished in a strong second place last weekend in the 1st Annual Allied Airlift Soccer Tournament played at the British facilities at the Olympic Stadium.

The Americans defeated the French team in the opening round on Saturday, 5-3, and lost a highly competitive final on Sunday, 2-1, to Stadtreinigung, the Berlin city champions and German representative. The Germans had beaten the King's Own Scottish Borderers, 3-1, on Saturday to reach the finals against the Americans.

Seesaw scoring highlighted the U. S. — French contest. Paddy Yarr opened the scoring for the U. S. club at the fifteen minute mark only to have the French bring the match back to level five minutes later. Pete Milhado put the Forces back ahead at the thirty minute mark and once again the French came right back to put the match even. Vic Kasztelanski scored from the penalty spot right before half to make it 3-2. The French brought the match level for the third time early in the final half. Goals by John Veenstra and Pete Milhado provided the Forces with their winning margin.

Sunday's final saw the American team play one of their most determined and competitive matches since the team's inception. Stadtreinigung, the West Berlin amateur city champions for the past three years, was clearly the more polished and skilled team but the U. S. club's enthusiasm and tight defensive marking made the champions work hard the full ninety minutes of the match.

The German representative opened the scoring twenty-five minutes after the start with a hard 20-yard blast into the upper right corner of the goal. Paddy Yarr tied the match with a left-footed screamer some seven minutes before the halftime. The third and deciding goal of the game came just ten minutes into the second half, a scramble just inside the forces penalty area ended with a mis-hit shot that screened goaltender Dan Scioletta with no chance to see, much less save.

The quality of play exhibited by the American club during the tournament went a long way towards the Allied community developing a greater degree of respect for the Yank's ability to play European football. The Forces lineup for the championship contest was: Scioletta, Kasztelanski, Cogbill, Veenstra, Salmon, Mackerer, Elwood, Milhado, Yarr, Wilson.

Seven league matches and continued competition in the league cup will highlight the final third of the Forces soccer season. On the professional scene, Berlin will play Fortuna Dusseldorf at the Olympic Stadium tomorrow starting at 3:30 p.m.

Co. A downs MPs, Hospital

by Paul Maggio

WEDNESDAY, September 5
Co A 7 — MPs 6

This hard hitting game went down to the last play of the game. Both defensive teams were outstanding with Company A having a goal line stand in the first quarter to stop an MP drive. The first half saw no scoring at all and the game was played mostly at mid-field, neither team able to move against the defense. MPs scored in the third quarter on a 75 yard bomb by quarterback Charlie Spencer, but failed to convert the extra point. Hitting became very heavy from here on out and Co. A quarterback Glenn Roell had to be taken to the hospital after being smothered by the MPs front four. But sub quarterback Brady Bedford came in and did the job, throwing a 43 yard scoring strike to Don Medley in the fourth quarter. Co. A failed to convert and the game settled down to both defensive teams mauling the offensive units.

The game ended in a tie and went into overtime penetration play. With the last play of the game, Co. A had penetrated about three yards into MP territory to be awarded one point and the win.

THURSDAY, September 6
H&S 13 — 42nd Engineers 0

This game was all H&S and only continuous H&S penalties throughout most of the game kept the scoring as low as it was. Early in the 1st quarter H&S quarterback Jim Little hit for a 25 yard touchdown strike that quickly put H&S out in front. The conversion failed, but 12 minutes later H&S defensive back Bud Langford intercepted an Engineer pass putting the ball inside the Engineer 20 yard line. Three plays later Basil "The Bull" Hunt plunged over from the two and with Jim Little completing a pass for the one point conversion it was H&S 13 and 42nd 0.

The rugged H&S defense intercepted two passes and held the Engineer ground game to 17 yards.

FRIDAY, September 7
Signal 8 — HHC 0

This low scoring game was a combination of strong defenses and weak offensive efforts by both teams. In the first quarter, Signal's Rick Davis intercepted the first of his passes (one nullified by penalty) and ran it back to HHC's 22 yard line. Two costly 3rd down penalties by HHC put the ball on their 3-yard line where Signal back Ricky Polk went in for 6 points with the extra point attempt failing. In the third quarter,

HHC put the ball in play on their own six yard line after one of the many booming punts by Billy "The Toe" Gordon of Signal Company. HHC quickly fumbled twice, the second one occurring in the end zone and Signal got 2 points for the safety. Again the defenses took over but late in the fourth quarter HHC's quarterback "Big John" Spiezia connected on passes of 13, 35 and 15 yards moving the ball to the Signal 18 yard line, but that's where it stayed as time ran out for HHC.

TUESDAY, September 11
Co. A 6 — Hospital 0

Co. A won their second in as many games thanks to the brilliant play of their defensive team. Led by defensive captain "Slammin" Sam Roetter, Co. A held the hospital to less than 50 yards total for the afternoon.

The first half was all Co. A with Glenn Roell hitting 5 for 7 for yards. Key receptions by Co. A's Charlie Smith enabled the team to play ball control throughout the half. But again the big play for Co. A came from Brady Bedford on the first attempt of the half when option hit Bill Haberman for a yard TD strike that put the hospital in the lead.

In the fourth quarter, linebacker Bruce (Don't call me Bruce) Wilkins intercepted a Walter Schultz pass snuff out the last Hospital drive of the game.

Vanguard League

by Norm Ham

Headquarters & Headquarters Company tamed the Cougars Monday in the Vanguard's first football game of the season at McNair.

Thomas Page hit Kelsie Daniels with a picture perfect pass in the third quarter and Daniels dashed the end zone, scoring the only touchdown of the game. Going for the extra point, Page pitched out to Sheaffer, who darted into the end zone untouched.

The first half of the game was slow as both teams proved unsuccessful in moving the ball. Alexander Woods provided some excitement when he came up with the first interception of the game and ran it back for 25 yards. The Cougars of Headquarters Company failed to score though quarterback Tim McGivern was repeatedly stopped by HHC's heavy weight defensive front line featuring Peter Walsh, Vincent Bailey, Dan Wilson, and Jerry Labhart.

Late in the third quarter, Headquarters gained momentum in a successful drive and capitalized when quarterback Tom Page unleashed a 40-yard pass that found Daniels 10 yards from the end zone. Charlie Co.'s Edmond Dunson and Edwin Garvin tried to stop the pass, but it was just one of those days as Daniels went for the score.

Lining up for the extra attempt seemed certain that Page would pitch to the air again. However, Page had something else in mind as he pitched out to Bob "Flea" Sheaffer who was surrounded by Cougars, but with his flags remaining intact.

The fourth quarter found Headquarters coming up with two more interceptions as Jim Tremke picked one off at the goal and lost his footing, while Daniels grabbed one and ran it back 30 yards. The Cougars' defense got a stop to anymore scoring attempts though and the score remained 7-0.

Paul Maggio

With one full week gone by in the Andrews Flag Football League, I have had the opportunity, and in some cases the misfortune, of seeing every team play at least once. I feel a few observations about the various teams are called for.

Last week I mentioned Co. B and Service Company, and since they haven't played since then, I will only briefly state that Co. B again, as last year, has a good defensive team and not much of an offense. The coach has overlooked one key element in winning games and that is scoring points. I stated that the only thing Service Co. would win would be a few coin tosses and I might have gone too far since there is no assurance that they will win any coin flips.

Co. A FSB seems to me to be the best polished team offensively in the league and with a good defense to match. They will be tough to beat this year. QB's Glenn Roell and Brady Bedford have been outstanding and with the great pass receiving ability of Don Medley and Charlie Smith, it's no wonder they lead the league in total passing yardage. If there was an early pick to make, mine would have to go with Co. A.

The MPs, like last year, are the most physical team in the league. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish if the game is flag football or assault and battery. A great deal of control is needed by the officials any time this team goes on the field. They have the talent and will be a winning team this year, but there should be a limit as to how physical this game is supposed to be. Charlie Spencer, repeating last year's performance, is the offensive team, but don't let that throw you because Charlie will pull a few games out of the hat this year too. He has the strongest arm of any of the QBs in the league and definitely the best scrambler.

Head and Service FSB is another team that will be right up there this year. Blessed with good running backs and a solid defense, this team will be tough to beat throughout the season, especially if QB Jim Little continues to get away with guarding his flags.

U.S. tennis team edges TSV Spandau

by Kevin Libby

In a continuing attempt to get the Berlin-American Tennis Club off the ground, a match was set up with the German TSV Spandau Tennis Club last Sunday. The Berlin American Team consisted of Gil Jones, Montey Humphrey, Chuck Yerrick, Lenny Schaefer, Hank Chu, Les Sheets and Kevin Libby. Mr. Deguchi, one of our fine tennis instructors, set up the match. There were a number of hard fought matches but the American team edged out in the end with the following scores:

SINGLES:

Jones vs. Grossent	6-3, 7-5
Humphrey vs. Kuehnast	6-3, 7-5
Yerrick vs. Rybakowski	4-6, 2-6
Schaefer vs. Schabacker	2-6, 7-9
Chu vs. Fenner	6-4, 8-6
Sheetz vs. Wildenhoff	2-6, 0-6

DOUBLES:

Humphrey/Chu vs Fenner/Grossent	0-6, 7-5, 7-5
Schaefer/Yerrick vs. Kuehnast/Rybakowski	2-6, 6-4, 9-7
Jones/Libby vs. Schabacker/Wildenhoff	2-6, 0-6

Everyone who played enjoyed the match and hospitality of TSV Spandau very much.

The Tournament Committee is now planning a one day handicap Doubles Tournament for Sunday, September 23, at 11 a.m. The tournament is designed to be a round-robin tournament with each team playing several short matches against different opponents regardless of the outcome. Mixed doubles will be required as far possible and partners can be assigned if needed. During the tournament a meeting will be held for all those interested in the establishment of a Berlin-American Tennis Club. Entries may be submitted at the Harnack Courts. There will be more information published through the week.

BAAA turns to sports cars

by Dave Shepherd

Sports car enthusiasts, rally-lovers and auto "nuts" of those persuasions have much to be talking about these days. The Berlin American Auto Association has established a separate division for the "sporty car folk" which will be meeting independently of the overall association.

The first organizational meeting, held September 2, saw Rick Westerman elected Vice-President in charge of the Sports Car Division. The outcome of the meeting also brought out initial plans for two rallies; the Berlin Oktoberfest Rally, scheduled for October 13, and the 2nd Annual Turkey Rally, tentatively scheduled for November 19.

The division will meet Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at "Charlies" Gasthouse (located on Clayallee adjacent to the Outpost theatre) to firm up the plans for the rallies, as well as discussing additional events for the fall and winter seasons. You needn't own a sports car to attend and a warm welcome is guaranteed for all.

Raincoat is recommended wear at week's bloody flicks

by Ray Stahl

Plenty of people getting shot, stabbed, hung, and burned this week. Bring your raincoat to keep the blood off of your clothes.

BADGE 373 presents the exploits of New York policeman Eddie Egan. Eddie Egan appears in the film as the boss of Eddie Egan, apparently feeling Eddie Egan could not do Eddie Egan justice on the screen. Robert Duvall, killed last week by Clint Eastwood in Joe Kidd, returns from the dead and, he plays Eddie Egan. The film has about 89 minutes of action and 3 minutes of dialogue, the perfect formula. Co-starring Verna Bloom as Eddie's main squeeze. Rated R and increased admission.

CHROME AND HOT LEATHER — alright, here's the story: a cycle gang (bad guys) run a beautiful girl in her car off the road and she dies — the scene switches: her boyfriend, a disgruntled Green Beret working head count at the mess hall, he gets the bad news — the final scene: the Green Beret forcemarching all the cycle gang to the nearest barber shop for a fate worse than death. Rated a comical PG.

THE NELSON AFFAIR stars Glenda Jackson and Peter Finch. The English Naval Hero led a stormy life ashore as well as at sea. The film contrasts the man's exploits at sea with famous love affair with Lady Emma Hamilton. Rated PG.

SHOWDOWN — a big Western with two old friends working from opposite sides of the law. Rock Hudson plays the sheriff and Dean Martin, taking a surprising switch from his many Shakespearean roles, plays a train robber. Susan Clark co-stars. Rated PG.

Arriving with this week's plasma and bandages to salvage something from all the mayhem is NOW YOU SEE HIM, NOW YOU DON'T. This humorous theme of collegiate invisibility stars Kurt Russell and perennial collegiate Cesar Romero. A Disney production and rated G. Also Terrytoon.

Horses, opera, dancing noted

Berlin's horse sport fans certainly can't complain of a lack of activities in this line lately in the city.

Just last weekend the big German Trotting Derby was on at the Trotting Race Track in Mariendorf. This weekend Germany's top riders and their mounts will be in Berlin for the German Riding and Jumping Championships. From today until Sunday there is bustling activity in the pretty riding stadium next to the Olympic Stadium.

Elegant dressage

In the early morning the quiet and elegant dressage competition can be visited for only DM 5. Here a scarce but well informed audience closely watches the exact gaits of the dressage horses who have to perform a certain combination of figures which are judged in a complicated point system. The hushed atmosphere is similar to that at a golf game, because utmost concentration is necessary for horse and rider.

Things become more exciting and easier to follow during the jumping trials in the afternoon. Here you can see whether or not horse and rider make it OK when they try their luck at maneuvering over the many jumps of the course.

Championship Sunday

Ladies and gentlemen compete separately each day of the tournament. The championship is decided on Sunday.

In the afternoon you also get a taste of dressage riding when the best riders of the morning give a demonstration of their skill and receive their prizes.

A visit to such an afternoon of horse sport (it begins at 2 p.m. today and tomorrow and at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday) is a casual affair. You can either purchase a ticket to sit in the stands (10 DM to 15 DM tomorrow and Sunday — today DM 5 for all places) or a ticket to stand on the sidelines (DM 4 on the weekend).

JEWISH AND ARAB DANCERS make up "Hora," a troupe that will perform Jewish and Arabian native dances Sunday at the Hochschule für Musik.

Bring the dog

Dogs and children can be brought along. Snackbars are at your service. When the weather is nice, it can be a fun outdoor affair with plenty of horse happenings.

It seems to be a time for "specialties" in Berlin. A delicacy for folklore enthusiasts is scheduled in the Hochschule für Musik on Hardenbergstrasse this Sunday at 8 p.m.

The first Jewish-Arab folklore ensemble "Hora" brings you two hours of colorful dance and music reflecting the Jewish and Arabian tradition. Forty young people, who have a high artistic standard even though they all are amateurs, put on this show in the costume of their homeland under the title "Jerusalem Dances." It's sure to be an entertaining evening with many prizes.

And the opera

And here is another tidbit, the time for the opera goers. This Monday, Sept. 17, Nicolas Nabokov's musical comedy "Love's Labor's Lost", based of course on Shakespeare's play, will have its premiere in the Berlin Opera at 8 p.m.

The text will be sung in English which should make it especially interesting for you. I hope to be there, so that I can tell you more about this new production of the Opera. The performance will be repeated on September 24. Hurry to the PX ticket agency or to the office of the Opera if you want to see the festive premier.
