CFC asks for your contribution

All of us, at some time in our lives, come to the realization that it is easier to do something dramatic—perhaps even saving a human life—than it is to bring ourselves to perform a quiet, but equally helpful act of human kindness. But there will come a time when each of us can and surely will judge ourselves by the way in which we respond to the needs of human beings less fortunate than we are.

Such a time is now. For the eighth consecutive year the DoD Overseas Combined Federal Campaign is being launched to give each of us, civilian and military, the opportunity to help others—about 75 million people in all—through our support of the 24 great agencies who participate in this appeal. It is our once-a-year chance to be helpful to people who would otherwise be beyond our reach.

In today's world, with its complex problems, accentuated by separation from home, almost anyone—perhaps a member of your own family—needs the skillful help that one or more of these agencies can give. When you do something to help others, you help yourself.

Key men have been nominated at every overseas DoD installation. It is their job to visit you, answer your questions and offer you the way to contribute your share toward making a better world. When you give, you may make a direct contribution, or you may elect payroll deduction for a 12-month period.

Whatever you do, you may designate your gift to be given to one agency, to two or to all 24.

Stop negligence to prevent fires

The annual world-wide observance of Fire Prevention Week by U. S. Armed Forces begins Sunday and continues through Oct. 13. The President of the United States annually proclaims a period that includes the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire, Oct. 9, 1871, to emphasize the necessity of preventing loss of life and property from fire.

The cost of fires in the Berlin American community during the last 12 months increased, according to the Berlin Brigade Fire Prevention Office. This points out the need to make every individual fire safety conscious and thereby eliminate the negligence which is the cause of most fires.

The Fire Prevention Office lists the four major problem areas which were the cause of a great many fires during past years: poorly controlled cooking facilities, improper use of electrical appliances, children playing with matches or lighters and improper disposal of cigarette butts.

Here are some basic safety rules which can reduce the number of fires caused by negligence:

- Never smoke in bed.
- Do not use flammable materials for cleaning purposes.
- Store all flammable materials in a designated fire-safe location.
- Check buildings, equipment and vehicles for defective parts which may become fire hazards.
- Above all, use common sense!

The Fire Department will protect you. The Fire Prevention Office will help you. But your help and support are needed.

What's inside

THIS WEEK: a new look

With this, our first issue of October, 1973, The Observer introduces some changes to the physical make-up of our paper. These changes are designed to make The Observer more attractive and easier to read.

The most obvious change is that we have relocated many familiar items. Our editorial/opinion page, formerly page 2, is now page 8. Pages 2 & 3 are sports and general news pages. Pages 4 & 5 are our news and feature pages—the centerfold is now readily adaptable to occasional double-page features.

In order to group together our off-duty and entertainment items, we have moved "Community Observations," "On the Home Front," "Cultural Events" and Judy Pricks' "Berlin Doings" column to pages 6 & 7. These four items are now conveniently grouped on facing pages, along with our weekly TV, radio and movie schedules and movie reviews.

Other not-so-obvious changes are our switch to three-column layout and slightly larger type on pages 1, 4, 5 & 8. We believe these two changes will make The Observer easier to read.

Without further ado, here is what this week's Observer has to offer:

GRAFENWÖHR—The 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry has returned from its semi-annual training excursion to West Germany. See Jerry Dobrin's report on page 4.

MAINTENANCE—The 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry may have found the incentive for proper preventive maintenance of its vehicles: schedule a major PM inspection, and give cash awards and three-day passes to the drivers who have done their jobs best. See Ralph Callaway's story on page 4.

DOG SHOW—The Hi-Lite Service Club at Andrews Barracks held its first annual dog show Saturday afternoon. To find out who won and for photos of some of the entries, see page 5.

Tight Andrews race; Signal drops 1st game

Thursday, Sept. 27

Hospital 6 42nd Engineers 0
In the battle of the unvictorious, Hospital came out on top in a game that showed why both teams had not won up until this point. Neither team showed much offensive drive and the defenses had a very easy day. Hospital quarterback, Walter Schultz, was 3 for 11 for 14 yards and had two passes intercepted while Engineer signal caller Randy Hoff was 4 for 20 for 45 yards and had three intercepted. (Not what you would call great passing games.)

There were very few penalties as there wasn't that much going on to warrant the officials to throw any flags.

Hospital scored the game's only points in the second quarter with Walter Schultz throwing a 10 yard pass for the score. The touchdown was more of a case of the Engineer defense letting the receiver get away than the score being a good play on Hospital's part.

The win gives Hospital a 1 and 2 record while the loss for Engineers gives them 0 and 4 record.

MPs 19 Service 0
The MPs evened their record at 2 and 2 with this 19 to zip shutout over winless Service Company. Service weren't pushovers as they held the MPs scoreless for the first three periods of play. Neither team was able to get it together for the first three quarters and the few opportunities each team had were stopped by penalties.

The fourth quarter started with the ball on the 40-yard line with the MPs in possession. Charlie Spencer moved his club to the Service 10-yard line in five plays and then hit Martin Israel with a pass to complete the drive and get the points. Four minutes later it looked like a replay of the first score with Israel taking another Spencer pass and going in for six more. The MPs failed to convert again and had a 12 to nothing lead. The MPs put the lock on when defensive tackle "Killer" Vann broke through the Service offensive line and picked off a bobbled hand off and ran it back some 18 yards for the score. The MPs converted this time making the score 19-0.

The loss for Service gives gives them a 0 and 4 record but they are improving with every game and should win a few before it is over.

H&S 6 Signal 0

In the best played, best called game to date, H&S edged previously unbeaten Signal company by a score of 6-0. Signal quarterback Rick Davis was held to just one completion and the whole Signal offense had only 51 yards net for the day. The H&S defense played a near perfect game and made the right adjustments to stop Signal from moving the ball in the air. The Signal defense which had been unscored upon until this game did a fine job also as H&S had only 63 yards for the day but could not hold off H&S from scoring after the offense had put them in trouble.

Signal received the opening kick but had to punt after losing 14 yards on three plays. Signal punted and H&S immediately started to drive. H&S got to the Signal 16, but then on first down Signal's Rick Davis picked off a tipped pass to stop the drive. Signal took over but was intercepted on their second play and it was H&S at the Signal 20. Signal's defense held and H&S punted as the first quarter ended.

Signal put the ball in play at their own 14-yard line. On third down Signal tried the double pass play but H&S picked it off at the 18 and ran it back to the seven. Once again Signal's offense had put its defense on the spot. This time, however, it was just too much for them to handle. Basil "The Bull" Hunt ran to the four on first down and two plays later quarterback Jim Little completed a jump pass over the middle to give H&S a 6-0 lead. The conversion attempt failed.

The rest of the half was all defense as neither team was able to get a first down. The second half started out the same as neither team could manage a first down and the ball was turned over on downs on their first series. Signal had its biggest chance of the day to score when linebacker Bill Gordon picked off a H&S pass at the 25 and ran it back to the H&S 14-yard line. H&S was equal to the task as the defense intercepted a Davis pass on the goal line on Signal's first down. The game went back to being an all defensive one as neither team could move the ball and there was only one first down in the fourth quarter.

The win for H&S was really a win for their defense as they put on the best show of the year. The first four, led by Tom "The Strangler" Miller, sacked Davis for almost 20 yards and the defensive secondaries covered the Signal receivers perfectly. The win gives H&S a 3 and 1 record and the loss Signal 4 and 1.

Defender League

Boas stay in first

by Ralph Callaway

This week's big game was also the first game of the week. Played Tuesday night, the F Troopers against the Defender League leaders, Bravo Co. was an exciting show of superb offense in action. The Boas won it 12-0 and have now virtually assured themselves first in the league. Virtually, because second place Alpha is also undefeated, and has a good chance of coming out on top if they continue as they have been.

Back to the game, the F Troopers are now in the hole 0-4 in their game record, but not because they didn't try. With a good defense that can stop most of the opponents' big rushes, they were nicker and dimered to death on the field as the Boas continually rushed with small gains in mind. Using through the center plays with occasional short passes, the Boas would march the ball slowly down the field until they were able to set up the long plays for their TD attempts. Graham Murchison of B Co. did most of the work, his small size and fast feet allowing him to slip through places that would have stopped a bigger player. Both of the TDs scored by B Co. were the result of interceptions of passes thrown by the Co. F quarterback Al Rodriguez. Sorry about that, Al.

Co. F offensively couldn't get going, their line continually being blitzed. With 2 or three Boas scampering after him, QB Al Rodriguez just couldn't put the ball where he wanted it, often being forced to throw to a covered receiver rather than lose yardage in the backfield.

BAHS Cubs drop season opener 14-7

by RaeDeane Knutson

The Berlin American High School Cubs were narrowly defeated by the Munich Mustangs here last Saturday 14-7.

Munich scored first on a Fred Lawson 22-yard run, and then Ted Freeman scored again for the Mustangs on a 1-yard burst. The first P. A. T. was good on a pass from Mike Slye to Lawson in the second quarter.

Berlin drove late in the second quarter and appeared to score on a touchdown when Greg "Sugar Bear" Davis hit from the 6 yard line on a fine run, but the play was called back. The Cubs scored for real in the fourth quarter on a pass from Ricky Payne to Robert Todd for 20 yards and the first Berlin 6-pointer of the season. The extra point was good on a kick by Wayne Bloebaum.

Flag race tightens

The flag race tightened up considerably with H&S defeating previously undefeated Signal Company on Tuesday. If Signal could have scored as big as their heads were going into the game, they would have some kind of day. As it was, they can be beaten by a team that plays well and keeps itself together. Rick Davis, Signal quarterback, may just get the choke award for the game he called. Davis kept trying to go long and should have realized that H&S was waiting for this when they started using about 10 safeties. Signal will have to get it together if they have any hopes of coming in first place.

The Hospital and Service game scheduled for this Friday has been canceled. I don't know what the reason is, but lack of interest would be a good one.

ONE OF THE KEYS to the recent H&S moved former offensive lineman Tom "Boston Strangler" Miller over to defense and it was a great move as Big Tom was in his element and led the charge that sacked Signal's quarterback for 38 yards. Tom was ready for the game and practiced hard to do well although mugging people in practice wasn't appreciated too much by his team.

HHC looks like they are in a pretty good position to take first place with the way the remainder of the schedule shapes up, but quarterback Big John Spiezia will miss their next game due to being on leave in the States. You can bet Big John will complete a few passes while he is at home.

The 42nd Engineers have hired a guide to show them where the goal line is. After four games they have failed to score and they aren't likely to against Co. B this Thursday.

THE RUMOR MILL has started again over at Co. B. The word is that Brady Bedford will definitely be replacing Glenn Roell at quarterback and if he can't do the job there is a tight end just waiting for the chance to go for the job.

Co. B has undergone some major changes after the loss to Signal. John Duback will stop playing defensive line and concentrate on coaching. It is felt that within the team needs is someone to crack the whip full time. Well if Co. B was looking for a Vince Lombardi, they are in for a surprise as John is more the Father O'Malley type.

There are a lot of statistics compiled during a season and I'd like to give you a rundown on some of them. H&S now leads the league in the least amount of yards given up. H&S leads in penalties, the MPs in assaults, Service in chaos, Co. A in rumors, Signal in ego, Co. B in missed opportunities, and the Engineers in quarterbacks replaced.

Ski Club meets

The Berlin-American Ski Club will hold another meeting Oct. 11 for those who missed the first meeting and are still interested in joining the club. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Harnack House and should be a good one.

At this meeting, there will be a recap of what's going to happen within the club this year to inform those who missed the first meeting and a presentation by Larry Neilsen on buying and maintaining ski equipment.

Bill Newton shoots 279 to win B-A golf tourney

by Joe Bolduc

Bill Newton led the way for the rest of the field as he shot a one-under-par 279 to be proclaimed as the top golfer in Berlin after the Berlin-American Golf and Country Club Championship Tournament held Sept. 22, 23 and 29, 30.

Newton entered the final two rounds eight strokes ahead of his nearest opponent, Klaus Behnke, with a one under par 139 for 36 holes. Chuck Swannack followed Behnke with a 152 total. Newton's third and fourth round scores of 67 and 73 helped him to hold and increase his lead over Behnke, beating him by 17 strokes. Swannack fell further back in the final rounds and finished with a 305.

Dick Wallingford took the top honors in the first flight with a 332 total leaving Byron Smith and Werner Wollek (each with 337) to battle in a sudden death playoff for second place.

Wallingford entered the final rounds with a 168, three strokes ahead of Wollek and seven in front of Smith. Wallingford went ahead of Wollek in the last rounds who was tied for second by Smith, who eventually took second.

In Second Flight action Joachim Trelnel and Jim Gradwell were even going into the third round, but Gradwell fell three strokes behind making a sudden death playoff necessary with Ron Wood, each with 347.

Gradwell conceded to Wood during the playoff when his ball was hit into the woods and he had difficulty getting it out and onto the green before Wood succeeded in doing so.

Pat McDermott placed second after the second round, one stroke behind Jack Miller (187), but went on to win the Third Flight with a 362, nine strokes ahead of Miller and Bob Benson which called for yet another sudden playoff.

Benson came out victorious after the sudden death sinking a 10-foot putt finishing the hole with a five. Miller had a little difficulty reaching the green, but sank a 17-footer finishing with a six.

Jim Pierson led the Fourth Flight going into the third round with a 196, one stroke ahead of Ed Pomroy and three ahead of Peter Kiesel, but fell back in the fourth round to be passed by Pomroy by three strokes, finishing with a 381. Kiesel finished third with a 393.

Duck Kutsavage shot a 206 for the first two rounds putting him in the lead going into the third round, ahead of Frank Lesniki (207) and D. Gerhart (208) in the Fifth Flight competition. At the end of the third round of play, Kutsavage remained on top but the tables turned in the final round.

Lesniki, two strokes down, played out the final round ending up with a 99 for a total of 401, beating out Kutsavage's 407. Gerhart fell 10 up six in the final 18 holes to place third with a 411.

'Whizzer' Ives wins AG race

"Whizzer" (SFC Raymond E.) Ives outpaced "Loper" (CPT Frank R.) Benhart by 25 seconds Sept. 27 to win the second AG Race of the Century, held every other month, of course.

Whizzer completed the 2 1/2-mile course around the Grunewald See and ending at the Sports Center in 23 minutes, with the two "runners" close all the way. Some think, though, that was because of mercy on the part of Whizzer. Both were caught, however, walking at points.

The crowd of officers, NCOs and others had mixed emotions on the result of the race and enjoyed beer and other refreshments. All look forward to the next AG Race, to be held the last Friday in November between "Putt-Putt" (1LT Jon C.) Cieslak and "Charger" (MSG Gerald) Popour.

BAHS priority issues set

Human relations, the school cafeteria and the instructional program are the "priority issues" facing the Berlin American High School during the first semester, according to Werner Prigge, chairman of the school's curriculum review committee.

The committee is composed of parents, teachers and students, and meets twice monthly to examine the school's programs.

Within the instructional program, the main topics of discussion are modular scheduling, basic skills, intercultural education, health education, sex education, minority studies and counseling.

The committee seeks parental and professional help from all members of the Berlin American community. For information, call the school at 6391/6392.

The new office hours for the University of Oklahoma are Mon.-Thurs., 8:30 a.m.-1 p.m. at the Tempelhof Education Center. The Berlin Registrar is available on Fridays for appointments at other locations. For an appointment, contact Evelyn Smith at Mil. 5237.

BBde Staff Wives coffee

The Berlin Brigade Staff Wives coffee will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. R. W. Gell, 16 Bachstelzen Weg. Reservations can be made by phoning Mrs. M. L. Brown at 831-3618 or Mrs. T. J. Leonard at 831-3750.

ACS needs volunteers

Berlin Army Community Service needs volunteers. There will be an ACS Volunteer Orientation Oct. 10-12 1-4:30 p.m. each day at ACS at 52 Auf dem Grat. The orientation will cover all aspects of the ACS program and will help ACS find out what resources are available to meet the community's needs. To have a program responsive to the needs of those served, ACS needs a strong volunteer effort from all segments of the community. For further information, call ACS at Mil. 6585/6500 (More Community Observations on page 6)

Job Info Fair slated for Nuremberg Nov. 7-8

Yet another Job Information Fair will be held for Berlin Troops Nov. 7-8, in Nuremberg this time. As you might already know, the fair is for informational purposes only, but approximately 20 major U. S. corporations will be represented to acquaint you, the prospective civilian, with job opportunities in the geographic area(s) of your choice. Among the corporations represented, you will probably find IBM, General Motors, Mobile Oil, Sears, as well as representatives from the Veterans Administration, Department of Labor and NAACP.

Government transportation will be provided. As more information on the fair becomes available, Transition will keep you informed. Anyway, if your ETS falls between Dec. 1, 1973 and June 1, 1974 you are urged to attend. Just in case you have any questions, call Transition at 6949, BB, 3409, Andrews and 3516, McNair.

Testing
While you're waiting for the JIF, why not check with Transition about testing? It costs you nothing but a little time and effort.

If you're not sure what you would like to do once out of the service, or what you have an aptitude for, testing can help you decide!

Maybe you are going back to school?

Well, we have the tests that can get you the extra credit you might need or want. And to take tests for college credit, you do not even have to be Transition eligible (within the last six months prior to ETS). If you are afraid of failing the tests, you need to have no fears, failure will not show as an F grade on any of your records! But passing the test or tests will not only give you credit acceptable by many colleges and universities but also by the military.

CLEP Tests, for instance, can give you actual credit of up to 24 semester hours acceptable by most major colleges including, of course, the University of Maryland. General CLEP Tests are divided into 5 parts covering 5 major areas including: English, Social Sciences & History, Natural Sciences, Humanities and Mathematics. You can take either all five tests or any one you may need to or want to take. While in the service you can take them without having to pay the fee charged civilians.

Scholarship consideration

PSAT/NMSQT tests set for Oct. 27

by Charles Wieland

The 1973 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be given at the Berlin American High School on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 8:15 a.m.

This test is primarily for 11th grade high school students and is the first step necessary to be considered for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Program.

If you are eligible and wish to be considered for Merit Scholarships, Special Scholarships and Achievement Scholarships that will be awarded in the spring of 1975, you must take the PSAT/NMSQT.

"The National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students" uses the results of this test. A black student enters the Achievement Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT and marking a space provided on the test answer sheet to indicate that he is a Negro and wishes to receive consideration in the Achievement Program.

In addition to the scholarship possibilities, the test is beneficial in other ways. It can help the student assess his ability to do college work, evaluate his plans for college and if he is a high school junior, choose his senior year courses.

If the student is unfamiliar with timed tests made up of multiple choice questions, the PSAT/NMSQT will give him experience with such tests. It will also give him a good idea of what to expect when he takes the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) which many colleges and universities require of some or all of their applicants.

The fee for the test is $3. For further information, contact the guidance department at Berlin American High School or call 6393/6359.

Guardians return from MTA trip

by Jerry Dobrin

Some 300 men and 100 vehicles convoyed the 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry from Berlin during the first phase of the semi-annual trip to a Major Training Area (MTA) on Tuesday, the 17th of August.

The destination was Grafenwöhr, a place that makes the Dust Bowl of Oklahoma in the 40s look like Eden by comparison. To new recruits who spent the night polishing boots and changing fatigues, it was heartbreaking. To drivers who spent the night washing and waxing vehicles—well, that's another story.

Intensive Training

Camp Aachen was the Guardian base of operations, and it was from here that the intensive training was initiated with weapons familiarization and qualification. By definition, that meant the "famous" ranges, and the only way to get to the ranges was over the dust-laden tank trail.

To this reporter, it was a first. It looked like Christmas, only instead of snow, there was a type of magnetic dust that stuck to everything. That set the tenor for the remainder of the tour, and from that point on, the Guardian Battalion waged a never-ending war with the clouds of dust that penetrated ears, nose and throat.

Uneventful trip

The movement to Grafenwöhr was uneventful from a mechanical standpoint. Breakdowns were almost nonexistent, and those that did develop were repaired immediately by Lieutenant Dan Murphy's maintenance contact teams. As battalion motor officer, Murphy also initiated 24-hour service during the entire period at Grafenwöhr.

Then there were the members of the Support Platoon headed by Lieutenant Heinz Lichtenrade. These beleaguered people found themselves not only filling tanks in the motor pool, but scattered to the four winds establishing tactical refueling points for outlying Guardian elements.

However, by all estimates one of the most grueling tasks in the battalion was performed by the men of SFC Daniel Riley's mess section. To say that they had their work cut out for them is an understatement. These people, working in shifts, closed the mess hall down at 8 p.m. and re-opened again at 3 a.m. for breakfast.

Both C-rations and Class "A" meals were served in a continually changing atmosphere. As a climax to his remarkable service to the battalion, Riley staged the traditional Guardian Last Supper at the Battalion Field Command Post. It was truly a magnificent close to some dedicated mess service.

Just three weeks prior to the trip, the Guardians witnessed a change of command ceremony which introduced LTC Charles R. Kottich as the battalion commander. At virtually the same time, CPT Howard E. Taylor of Company A turned over command to CPT James P. Carroll. A further change of command occurred at Camp Aachen when CPT John E. Horn turned over the Guidon of HHC to CPT Edward Haydash.

The atmosphere of the MTA was one of a deliberate and professional training concept conceived by CPT James B. Stapleton, the Battalion S3, and vigorously executed by CPT Warren S. Morimoto, CPT Robert Likins and the two new company commanders.

Local visitors

During the squad testing, both Alpha and Charlie Companies established field locations quite separate and distant from the semi-garrison area at Camp Aachen. The citizens of the small towns surrounding their camps often walked among the vehicles and stared at the groups of soldiers as they went about their business.

It was not uncommon to see a young Bavarian hurling a football a fantastic distance of 10 yards and having himself treated as if he had thrown it a full 50 yards. The men of Alpha Company were exceptional in their treatment of the youngsters. The field kitchens occasionally offered hot cocoa and lemonade to the children.

Carroll, Company A's boss, took full advantage of his carefully selected area and incorporated a night compass course into his training. The thickly wooded area and dark moonless nights combined to give the men of Alpha Company an inordinate number of navigation problems.

Likins of Company C used his area as a battle ground. The men of "Charging Charlie" displayed their ability in a series of well-set and skillfully executed ambushes which netted them not only aggressors, but Charlie (LTC) Roger Knutsen and battalion photographer SGT Thomas D. Conlon.

Squad Testing

The ATT is the military version of the final exam, although the major difference is the end result. Can you imagine failing an ATT and being sent back a year? While not as drastic as that, the ATTs at Grafenwöhr were some of the most awesome ever presented to Guardian squad leaders.

Companies A and C conducted their respective squad tests through various combat situations and simulations. Company A created a lengthy, grueling 17-hour-long course covering five kilometers of dense forest. Company C used live fire as part of the training but was forced to alter the live fire portion due to the extreme dryness of the forests and the fires which were caused by tracers.

The company moved to another area and continued his testing.

Many special sections received thanks from the battalion commander for their devoted hours of support. Among these were the 287th MP Company, the Berlin Brigade Aviation Detachment and the Supply and Services Division of G4.

WEEKS OF PREPARATION come to an end as drivers of the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, line up their vehicles on the 4-Ring for the big inspection. A lot weighed in the balance: the battalion was giving out cash awards to the drivers displaying the best preventive maintenance. The winners also got three-day passes for their efforts. (Photo by Ralph Callaway)

3/6 presents preventive maintenance cash awards

by Ralph Callaway

If you're a driver, you already know about that plaintive cry heard as you bring your vehicle in every night, "Pull your PM (preventive maintenance)." If you're not, you probably will some day, as most of us sooner or later wind up as the driver of an Army vehicle of some sort.

Last Friday, the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry held an inspection to see just how much of the PM was really done, and did it with style, as a total of $90 was given out to the drivers of the vehicles that had the fewest deficiencies in those areas the driver is responsible for maintaining.

Under the guiding hand of Command Sergeant Major George Otis, that incentive for superior vehicle PM was given the first of September when he announced that there would be a vehicle inspection, and that there would also be prizes given for the best maintained vehicle in each class. With this incentive in mind, many extra hours were put in to bring the vehicles up to a "like new" condition.

The winning drivers

Winners at the inspection were SP4 Harold Wilson, who received $25 for the best deuce-and-a-half; PFC

Ronald Crittendon for the best Gamma Goat ($25); Donald Barron ($25) for the best jeep; and SGT Leon Potts ($15) for his 3/4 ton truck.

In addition to the monetary awards, all of the winners also received three-day passes.

The inspection for 3/6 is over, but the goal was achieved: it was a demonstration of superior vehicle maintenance, and the identification of those few drivers who need to become a little better acquainted with the vehicles they drive.

AND THE WINNER IS "Wolter Belinda," whose owner, SFC Lawrence Amaral, prefers to call her "Daisy." The 15-month-old puppy was chosen the prettiest dog in the over-100-point group.

The Hi-Lite Service Club at Andrews Barracks turned over its facilities to the dogs Saturday afternoon for its first annual dog show. A total of 27 dogs were entered in the four categories of the competition.

The whole affair was just good fun, but the man who judged the animals is a serious dog lover. The judge was Rudolf Meurer, president of all dog clubs in Berlin. Meurer donated the ribbons which were presented to the two top winners of the show.

The dogs were entered in four categories: show dog, field dog, house dog and . . . well . . . dog dog. The entries were divided in each category into pedigree, puppy and adult classes.

Meurer used a point system to select a first place winner and a runner-up in each of the three classes in each category. Then, after those awards had been presented, the dog owners themselves voted for the prettiest dog among those receiving 100 points or over, and for the prettiest dog receiving less than 100 points.

The winner in the 100 points and over group was Wolter Belinda—better-known as "Daisy"—a 15-month-old English cocker spaniel owned by SFC Lawrence Amaral of Headquarters, Special Troops. In the under-100-point group, the winner was "Dagmar," a St. Bernard owned by Dennis Vermillion, an employee of a commercial airline at Tegel Airport.

Winners and runners-up in each category and class were as follows:

Show pedigree: (1) Irish setter, "Lucretia's Lovely Lady," owned by Lucretia Latta; (2) Irish wolfhound, "Eaglescrag Dido", owned by Harriet Whitbread.

Show puppy: (1) miniature poodle, "Amon von Emmental," owned by M. Diane Le Zotte; no runner-up.

Field adult: (1) St. Bernard, "Dagmar," owned by Tricia Vermillion; (2) German shepherd, "Rommel," owned by J. M. Stevenson.

'Soylent Green'

Charlton Heston, in another of his melodramas of the future, gives an old man his weekly feeding in Soylent Green.

Another bleak flick of the future

by The Synopsizer

Life in New York in the year 2022 is rough in SOYLENT GREEN. Pollution, overpopulation and lack of food find people living shoulder to shoulder in a constant heat wave waiting for the weekly mass feeding. The grim drama of future conditions contains sex and violence. Starring Charlton Heston and Leigh Taylor-Young, it is rated PG.

The wife of a wealthy, sadistic bully is kidnapped by outlaws in THE HUNTING PARTY, a revival rated R. Friends of the rich man turn the search into a hunt with the outlaws the prey. The subjects of the story are depicted as crude, brutal men to whom killing is an everyday fact of life, often an enjoyable one. Starring Candice Bergen and Oliver Reed.

A policeman who has it in for a certain gangster frees a psychotic killer from an institution to do a little shooting for him in CONFESSIONS OF A POLICE CAPTAIN. The would-be assassin shoots up the town hitting just about everyone but his intended victim. Starring Martin Balsam and Franco Nero.

Bruce Lee is given ample opportunity to demonstrate his unbelievable skill at the ancient oriental art of Kung-Fu in THE CHINESE CONNECTION, a tale of intrigue and rivalry between two schools of Judo and Karate. The unstoppable Mr. Lee chops and kicks his way through throngs of thugs in an amazing display of the powers of the human body.

TOKLAT is a grizzly bear, gigantic and ferocious. The film follows his adventures from when he was a cub to his time of maturity. The struggle for survival and the bear's conflict with man make this an engrossing study of American wildlife. The G-rated documentary is narrated by Leon Ames.

Weekend wandering in woods

Those leaves are falling like crazy (and yours truly is raking them), but then it's October already. Fall is the time most people like to wander through the woods, so I'm recommending that you dig out your marching shoes (no not those, the civilian boots...) and take a look at the Grunewald without being on a maneuver.

Along with my recommendation, I want to call your attention to a unique pub which you find at the place where Koenigin-Luise-Strasse disappears in the Grunewald (off Clayallee) and becomes a path in the woods. Here two young fellows opened the "Wald-borke" last spring. This pub with its "back-to-nature" atmosphere has become a meeting place for young people and in the summer time the quiet of the woods was sometimes shattered by the outdoor beat sessions held here. Sometimes art exhibitions and photo displays are held there too.

GILBERT BEAUD

... "Monsieur 100,000 Volt" sings at Philharmonie Oct. 11 at 9 p.m. (Photo courtesy EMI Electrola)

Nightingales in Philharmonie
This Sunday afternoon nightingales are going to sing in the Philharmonie. Of course, there won't be a flock of birds cruising up in the jagged rafters of the concert hall; the nightingales in question are lively young ladies between 8 and 18 years old with the "nests" in Westphalia. That's why this girl's choir is called the "Westphalian Nightingales."

The music teacher, Dietmar Hahn from the small town of Ahlen in Westphalia, founded his first choir shortly after the war. His secret formula which makes the records of the nightingales golden and fills the live concerts is adding a new and youthful touch to old folksongs and classic tunes. For the live appearances he got the idea to let the girls dance around a bit while they sing, making their appearance pleasing to the eye as well as to the ear. The Westphalian Nightingales can be seen and heard at 3:30 p.m. this Sunday at the Philharmonie.

"Monsieur 100,000 Volt"

Next Thursday, Oct. 11, there will be an anniversary celebrated in the Philharmonie. "Monsieur 100,000 Volt", also known as Gilbert Beaud, looks back on 20 years on the stage in a big show beginning at 9 p.m. The famous composer and singer got this nickname, by the way, from an American journalist. He has tried everything to get rid of it, but his dynamic shows prove again and again that the name is fitting.

The composer of 208 songs will be appearing in the Philharmonie in the same get-up as always — a blue suit and a blue and white polka dotted tie. In this first appearance in the well known Olympia in Paris, he wore such an outfit and so it became something like a good-luck charm for him. What will be different for this 20th anniversary show is that Beaud will be accompanied by a big band — usually he had a six-man combo provide the music for his chansons.

Whether nightingales or high voltage, the PX ticket agency will reserve tickets for you.

Tecumseh

Famous Indian leader was a noted orator

Tecumseh was probably the greatest native leader in the long, tragic resistance of the Indians of the United States against the encroachment of the white man upon their lands. A brilliant orator and warrior and a brave and distinguished patriot of his people, he was intelligent and noted even among his white enemies for his integrity and humanity.

Unlike all previous Indian leaders and many that were to follow him, he was above the tribal concept. He was a Shawnee, but he considered himself an Indian first. He fought not only on the battlefield, but also to give all Indians a national, rather than a tribal outlook. It was his dream that they would unite in defense of a common homeland where all Indians might continue to dwell under their own laws and leaders.

Father a war chief

Tecumseh was born in March, 1768, near present-day Dayton, Ohio. His father, a Shawnee war chief named Puckeshinwa, was born in Florida, and his mother Methoataske, probably a Creek Indian, was from Alabama.

After a series of treaties by which the Indians sold most of their lands in the area, Tecumseh became alarmed and demanded a meeting with the man who was to become his arch-enemy, General—later President—William Henry Harrison.

Tecumseh's oratory comes down through history stilted and distorted by the interpreter present at that meeting, but his meaning still rings clear.

He said, "You endeavor to make distinctions. You endeavor to prevent the Indians from doing what we, their leaders, wish them to do—unite and consider their land the common property. . . .

"I am a Shawnee. My forefathers were warriors. Their son is a warrior. From them I take only my existence. From my tribe I take nothing. I have made myself what I am. And I would that I could make the red people as great as the conceptions of my mind, when I think of the Great Spirit that rules over all.

"I would not then come to Governor Harrison to ask him to tear the treaty. But I would say to him, Brother, you have liberty to return to your own country."

There was, however, to be no peace.

Used clever tactics

In the actions that preceded the famous battle of Tippecanoe, Tecumseh captured by a clever ruse what was later to become Detroit, Michigan. Marching his warriors three times out of the woods into the clearing surrounding the fort, he made it appear that he had three times as many men as he actually had, and the commander surrendered.

Tecumseh met his end during the battle of Tippecanoe in which the Indians and their British allies were outnumbered two to one by the American forces under Harrison. The outnumbered Indians fought furiously, but numbers were to tell, particularly after the death of Tecumseh. The Indians slipped away, breaking the engagement. In the morning, the Americans hunted for the body of Tecumseh, but his followers had buried it secretly.

Although his body was never found, his epitaph can be seen on the tomb of the man who supposedly killed him—Colonel Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky, later Vice President of the United States under President Martin Van Buren.

The inscription reads,

"He (Tecumseh) fought in defense of kindred and king, With a spirit most loving and loyal, And long shall the Indian warrior sing The deeds of Tecumseh the royal."

Foreign service exam scheduled

A competitive written examination will be offered on Saturday, Dec. 8 to candidates for career appointments as Foreign Service Officers of the Department of State or as Foreign Service Information Officers of the U. S. Information Agency.

The exam will be given at any diplomatic or consular post for which a candidate applies, as well as at approximately 240 locations in the United States.

Applicants must be at least 21 years of age as of the written examination. (Exception: a person 20 years of age as of that date may be examined if the junior year of college has been successfully completed.) The only upper age limit is the requirement that a newly appointed officer be able to serve at least one complete tour abroad before reaching the mandatory retirement age of 60 years.

They must also be citizens of the United States and, if married, his or her spouse must also be a citizen at the time of appointment, although this is not necessary at the time of examination.

Several Tests

The written examination consists of the following tests:

English expression—This tests ability to recognize and use correct, effective and well-organized written English.

General Background—This tests understanding of the ideas and concepts basic to the development of the United States as well as of other countries.

Functional Field of Specialization—This part of the examination is new. It is designed to test professional and technical knowledge and competence in the functional field of specialization that the candidate chooses.

Written Essay—Each candidate will be required to write a 45-minute essay on one of three essay questions provided. The essays will not affect the written score. However, essays prepared by candidates who pass the written examination subsequently will be reviewed by the board of examiners for effectiveness of expression and taken into consideration by the oral examining panel.

Depending on their qualifications, successful candidates are appointed at Class 8, at a salary ranging between $9,520 to $11,422 or Class 7 at a salary between $11,109 and $13,329. New officers serve in probationary status until their first promotion.

The completed application forms should be returned to the Educational Testing Service in Berkeley, California, and must be received no later than Oct. 31. About three weeks before the examination date, candidates whose applications are accepted will receive an examination admission card informing them of the address of the test site.

Applications and information concerning the examination can be obtained from Miss Le Zotte, USBR Personnel Office, Room 1036, Bldg. 2, ext. 7746.
