

Caution: rabies hazard!

Last Tuesday the German Health Department reported a confirmed diagnosis of rabies in a cat found in West Berlin. This case of rabies in a domestic animal, in addition to the discovery of rabies in a wild fox two weeks ago, emphasizes the importance of pet control. All dogs and cats must be kept on a leash whenever outdoors. Animals should not be allowed to run free at any time, however, a long rope is permissible. Animals should be accompanied by a competent person at all times.

Anyone seeing stray animals or improperly controlled pets within the military housing areas should contact the military police (phone 3402/3512). Negligent owners will be cited and stray animals will be turned over to German authorities.

Do not try to pet or capture any free-roaming, wild or domestic animal! Should you or anyone you know of be bitten or scratched by any animal, go immediately to the emergency room of the U. S. Army Hospital, Berlin, for treatment.

The following restrictions were received from local health officials: For a three-month period, persons who reside on the economy or visit in the South Lichterfelde area must keep their cats inside at all times. Dogs in this area are required to have a muzzle, in addition to being on a leash. It was in the Lichterfelde area that the rabid cat was found. The rabid fox was found in the Grunewald near the Shopping Center. It can be clearly seen from these widely separated areas, that the rabies problem is not an isolated one. For this reason, animals will have to be on a leash at all times. This restriction will be strictly enforced by the military police.

If you are in doubt about the immunization status of your pet, call the veterinarian at military 4108, after 1 p.m.

THE BERLIN OBSERVER

OBSERVER THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

When in danger, or in doubt—run in circles, scream and shout. It won't help, but it sure attracts attention.

Last week I discussed the boats vying for the right to defend the America's Cup in September. This week I would like to tell you a little about the two contenders seeking to take the "Auld Mug" away from the New York Yacht Club, where it has rested for the past 123 years.

The first challenger is the "France," owned by Baron Marcel Bich. The wooden "France" was originally built for the 1970 Cup challenge, but was soundly trounced by the Australian boat that won the right to sail for the Cup, "Gretel II." Baron Bich claims that his boat is much faster now than it was four years ago, but that remains to be seen. At least one American sailor, Bob Bavier, skipper of the possible defender "Courageous," thinks the French challenge is vastly underrated and could prove to be a real sleeper.

But before the French can challenge the Americans, they will have to beat the determined Australians, something that most knowledgeable observers think very difficult to do. The new aluminum "Southern Cross" is supposedly a faster boat than "Gretel II" which gave the Americans an exciting, and sometimes frightening challenge in 1970. She is owned by Alan Bond, a Perth real estate developer who reportedly has spent in the neighborhood of six million dollars in his effort to wrest the Cup from its longtime possessors. The boat, originally christened "Australians" at her launching, but later changed to "Southern Cross," has been experiencing trouble with her rigging, and broke her mast several months ago during early trials. Despite these handicaps, she is expected to dispose of "France" in the elimination series and become the eventual challenger.

Whatever boats are finally chosen to challenge and defend the Cup, one thing is certain: it will be an exciting summer in the waters of Newport this year.

The American Yacht Club Berlin (AYCB) is holding a pot-luck barbeque Sunday, August 25, beginning after the last race, or about 2 p.m. All members and guests are reminded to bring their own meat dish and one pot luck dish.

On August 8, the Mets battled the Reds for the AYA T-ball championship. The Reds walked away from the other teams to win the league's first-half championship. They started the second half with an 11 game winning streak and it looked like the Reds would sweep that, too. The Mets broke that run on August 2. They finished third in the first half, then came on strong to win the second-half championship. A loss to the Dodgers on July 27, dimmed their hopes of becoming second-half champions, let alone the Pee Wee Champions. The Mets needed 3 victories over the Reds, a victory over the newly improved Braves and another one from the always tough Athletics to become the champions. The Mets and the Reds tied for the second half championship. The Mets handed a defeat to the Reds on August 7 to break the tie, thus setting the stage for a bitter contest for the overall championship between the first-half champions, the Reds, and the second-half champions, the Mets.

Unlike the play-off game where the Mets had an easy victory, the Reds were a well rounded team who came out swinging. At the end of regulation play, the score was tied at 17 all. Parents and coaches were hoarse from cheering their favorite team toward victory. After the Mets had battled back from a four run deficit, Paul Register drilled a triple to right field scoring George Fulton from first with the winning run for the Mets.

Parents, coaches and umpires all agreed that this was one of the greatest Pee Wee games ever played in Berlin. Both teams displayed championship-like form throughout the game.

The Mets were presented their trophies on August 11 by Lieutenant Colonel Thomas J. Hogan, chairman of the AYA board of directors, for their outstanding play this year. During the ceremony the other teams in the league were presented certificates for their part in the Pee Wee program.

Although T-ball is a form of softball, the rules are very different. The batter hits the ball from the top of a tee. There is a pitcher but he never actually throws the ball. He goes through the motions of throwing, then the batter has six seconds to hit the ball off the tee. Three outs don't make any difference in this game. On side stay up until 12 team members have batted or they get nine runs, which ever comes first.

The games were fun and exciting to watch. The kids play their hearts out and learn the true meaning of sportmanship.

4-6 is track champ

Photos and story by MICHELLE LOWRY

With all but one event completed, the excitement was still building toward the climax at the track meet Saturday. After 16 events, Special Troops and the 4th Battalion, 6th Infantry were tied for first place. The 400-meter relay would decide which team would be the 1974 U. S. Command, Berlin, Track and Field Champions.

Three teams were entered in this relay, Lodger League, Special Troops and 4-6. The teams took their positions on the track, Charles Green, official starter for the contest, raised his gun and the race was on.

As they left their starting blocks, the spectators went wild, cheering their favorite team on. Even the timekeepers got excited. "Who's timing second place?" "I thought you had third!" "O.K. You take first and I'll take third."

The results were an upset. Lodger League crossed the line first with a time of 3:45:9 minutes. 4-6 finished second with a time of 3:48:4 minutes. Bringing up the rear was Special Troops who crossed the finish line with a time of 3:58:7 minutes.

The championship went to 4-6 after scoring 78 points total for various events during the day. Special Troops placed second with a point total of 77. The rest of the teams were left behind in the scoring. Their totals were: Lodger League — 49; 2-6 — 44; and 3-6 — 12. Trophies were presented to the first and second place teams. A gold medallion was awarded for placing first in individual events and a silver medallion was awarded for second place.

Robert Hall, Company C, 4-6, was named the outstanding athlete of the day, taking first place in; the 800-meter run, the 1500-meter run and the 5000-meter run.

The first place times and distances will be recorded as the existing Berlin Brigade records and will be posted at the Sports Center. From now on, these will be the records to break.

BASC loses match

by MARTY BEST

Last Saturday soccer play resumed in the German City League as the Berlin-American Soccer Club played their worst game of the year and lost to Hamacher, 3-1. Previously BASC had beaten Hamachers, 3-2 on their own field.

The regular starting goalie, Bob Taylor, was training in West Germany. A noticeable gap in the team's defense was made by Vic Kastelanski, Bermudez and Ricardo Lepe PCSing back to CONUS. B. P. Van Pamelan played his final game before leaving. There are some openings for top notch soccer players on the team. Team captain Pete Milhado was sorely missed as he couldn't attend the game.

Last Saturday was just one of those days when nothing went right. The baking sun drained a lot of energy out of the already puffing BASC team. Being a bit out of shape from lack of playing, the BASC team has a long hard road to regain their peak playing of June and early July.

Last weekend BASC jumped to an early 1-0 lead and dominated play throughout the first half allowing Hamacher to score one goal. At half-time the score was 1-1.

The line-up last week was Headon as goalie; Kreusch, Veenstra, Van Pamelan, and Best on defense; Meecham, Reynolds, Chapman and Konarski on midfield; and Meecham, Newton and Yarr up front.

There is little doubt that this loss hurt our chances to advance to the next league. Stark, one of the best teams in the league, comes to McNair tomorrow at noon. They are in strong contention for the championship. BASC tied them, 3-3, on opening night in March. BASC will have to get it together this week.

Just a reminder that during Labor Day weekend the European-American Soccer League Championships will be held in Schweinfurt. Heidelberg, Pirmasens and Berlin were the respective champions of their divisions with Schweinfurt as the wild card entry. If you happen to be in that area during the holiday, stop by and watch some super soccer games.

A MEMBER OF THE HAMACHER TEAM shows some of the skillful footwork that won Saturday's game for them.

THE NEW LAND — rated PG — Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. The sequel to THE EMIGRANTS finds the Swedish family faced with the backbreaking task of taming the Minnesota wilderness. Starring Max von Sydow and Liv Ullmann.

THE GREAT GATSBY — rated PG — Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. The style and character of F. Scott Fitzgerald's famous novel of the 1920's is lavishly restored in the film adaptation of his story of faithless lovers. Gatsby is a shallow fellow hiding under a slick veneer. His affair with a rich married woman is the basis for revealing the true nature of the bored and directionless upper class society of the time. Starring Robert Redford and Mia Farrow.

MELINDA — Revival, rated R — A super cool disc jockey picks up an exotic woman in a nightclub and lands in big trouble when she is murdered. The police and the syndicate are hot after him but Calvin Lockhart unravels the mystery behind the girl's death. The film has violence, profanity, and some drug use. Also stars Rosalind Cash.

OKLAHOMA CRUDE — Revival, rated PG — Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. Faye Dunaway is determined to bring forth oil from her patch of Oklahoma land. The oil trust wants her property and will stop at nothing to get it. The battle against nature and oil money thugs keeps things lively for the lady and her stubborn crew. There is violence and profanity in the film. Also stars George C. Scott.

ALL THE WAY BOYS — rated PG — Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. The Trinity take to the air in a contemporary tale of a couple of audacious adventurers who seek their fortune in the wilds of South America. Action and high comedy accompany the pair as they fly beer and other essential supplies into remote mining camps. Starring Terence Hill and Bud Spencer.

Operas & festivals

Greetings and salutations! Back to the old typewriter again after a lovely pause in the Austrian Alps, where, believe it or not, the sun shone longer that just a couple of days. Sure you all were able to have a nice vacation somewhere, or better yet, are looking forward to a leave. It seems that autumn begins earlier each year. Already the shops have switched their decor and fall fashions are on display. Those that would like to inform themselves about what is "in" for the coming season can do so in a most pleasurable way at the KaDeWe department store down town. Beginning Monday and until September 13, (Monday through Friday) the fall and winter collection will be presented in a peppy show in the pavilion of the KaDeWe on the 5th floor. The ticket cost of DM 7 includes coffee and cake or a sandwich and a drink. They can be obtained in the "Kundendienst" (customer service) on the 3rd floor. The fashion shows begin at 3 p.m. and usually lasts over two hours

Birthday Festival

One of Berlin's landmarks, the town hall in Schöneberg, is celebrating its 60th birthday with a week-long festival ending this Sunday. In the park right next to the Rathaus, booths, rides and a huge tent have been set up for the enjoyment of young and old. A special attraction is the children's circus "Aramant." This family circus lets children perform for children without pretensions of trying to seem big or international.

Berlin Opera

If you took a close look at "Cultural Events Around Town," you will have noticed that the Berlin Opera is playing again after its usual summer pause. I would like to call your attention to this Tuesday's (Aug. 27) program. One of the loveliest ballets in the repertoire of the house, "Coppelia," is scheduled to be performed that night. This danced story about a mechanical doll meets all the expectations one has of a ballet evening that is "pretty." If you are a ballet fan, do go and see it, because it isn't on the program very often.

And after the Opera . . .

And where to after the opera? A longtime favorite place for opera goers is "Hardy at the Opera," located right down the street (on the other side, however) on Bismarckstr. 100. This wine restaurant specializes in good wines, excellent food and a warm, cozy, somewhat rustic atmosphere. Of course, you need not have been to the opera in order to spend a nice evening there (on the contrary, it's easier to get a table before the opera finishes. It might be quieting to know that English is spoken there and that the prices aren't as exclusive as the place sounds.

AFN-TV, behind the scene

by KATHY WALSH

The studio is flooded with a harsh glare from the lights dangling from the ceiling. Ready at their podiums are Specialist Five Danny Gates, Air Force Staff Sergeant Bruce Dortin, and Specialist Four Jim Rose, giving their copy a final going over before air time. In the control room sits Specialist Five Jim Wright, director for the upcoming newscast. In front of him, a computer-like board of monitors, buttons, and switches.

Through his headset, Jim has contact with Specialist Five Russ Reed in the audio booth; Air Force Sergeant Doug Woodie, the projectionist; and the cameramen, Specialist Five Mike Neal, Private Vince Turella, and Specialist Five Brad Scott.

In a few minutes, Evening Report will be broadcast to the Berlin-American community, as the Production Team of AFN-TV swings into action.

Their skill and ability to follow rapid-fired commands involving split-second timing and decisions, demonstrates the teamwork that is mainly responsible for Evening Report and many of the programs hitting the airwaves every day on AFN-TV Berlin.

Beforehand, Jim has loaded the slide drum with slides the News Department has indicated are to be used for the upcoming newscast, and Doug has the newfilm and spots already up on the projectors. Russ has completed his checks on the newscaster's mikes, and has cued all the audio carts for the newscast. Mike, Vince, and Brad (who does the weather report in addition to running camera 1) have their opening shots set up and ready to air.

"We'll be out of Mike Douglas in about five seconds," Jim informs his crew, "standby ID open; hit it; fade it; Russ, hit the ID close. OK. Ready Camera 3, we're in the studio. Ready effects; on effects. Standby Camera 2; take 2; open mike; and cue him."

While Bruce is reading his copy on the air, in the control room Jim is closely following him on another identical set of copy. On this set, Bruce has indicated when he wants a particular slide shown. When that point is reached, Jim hits the "cut bar" in front of him, allowing the slide to be aired. When Jim sees (or hears) that a film is coming up, he'll start the projector on which Doug has loaded the newfilm (all newfilm is compiled and spliced in proper order on one reel by the News Department). After that particular segment of film, the projector automatically stops. The News Department provides the audioman with a chart with all the intro and outro times for each separate segment of newfilm listed. While the film is running, Russ times it closely and will tell him when he can expect the film to end and switch back to the studio. "30 seconds," says Russ. "When we come out of this, we're going to Danny. Camera 3; pan left, zoom down; check focus. OK. Hold it. Open mike; cue him crackles over the headsets from the control room.

And that's the beginning of a newscast, but you get a pretty good idea of how it goes on the other side of the viewing screen. Before and after each newscast, it's constant putting up films, taking down films, loading slides, spots and carts. Besides all the production work that is done during the day before AFN-TV goes on the air. So the next time you're relaxing in front of the boob tube with a cold beer after a hard day, enjoy Sanford & Son or Evening Report, give a thought about the guys who are making it possible — the AFN-TV Production Team.

A Flood of Images

By 2LT. JOHN F. BRENNER
Social Actions Drug Abuse Officer

Alcoholism is one of those emotionally filled words that bring a variety of images to mind.

The typical wino characterized by the shabby clothes, shoddy appearance, street gutter existence and broken bottle is a good example of the alcoholic image.

The surprising fact is that only three per cent of the alcoholics are "skid row" types which fit this alcoholism image. The remaining 97 per cent have jobs, families and are otherwise normal except for their dependence on a chemical drug.

It has been statistically demonstrated that one out of every 11 drinkers has a problem with alcohol. There are no proven theories for why almost 10 per cent of our drinking population is threatened by alcohol; however, this is a fact that must be dealt with on some type of rational plane. Alcoholism is known as the disease of denial since the typical alcoholic will never admit his problem until it is too late and he has reached the bottom.

About 12 per cent of the adult population consists of "heavy drinkers," but where do we make a distinction between a heavy drinker and an alcoholic? At what point in time does alcohol become dominant; i.e., when does an individual lose his control over alcohol and submit to control by alcohol? This is certainly not a concrete point that an individual may identify. Of course, there are many indicators or "danger signs" but a person slips into alcoholism with no conscious realization of the fact. One day they realize that they are drinking too much, but correcting the problem is now very difficult.

What type of help is available? Where does someone turn when the problem becomes real to them? One very real approach, which has helped many an alcoholic, is the local Alcoholics Anonymous (AA). The AA has been known to be an effective means of rehabilitation. The AA groups have developed all over the country.

The AA is one type of rehabilitation that offers an added benefit of anonymity. There needs to be no fear of discovery associated with AA since your secret is their secret. Literally, thousands of people in need of help have turned to the AA.

Last Friday was a day of awards and ceremonies for Brigadier General Robert D. Stevenson. During the day, Stevenson attended several ceremonies, to include the presentation of a plaque that was given to him by "Los Latinos Unidos En Berlin Club." The plaque was presented to Stevenson by the president of the club, Luis Faisca, for the help and interest Stevenson had for the soldiers, both on duty and off duty during his tour in the command.

The Latinos Club was sad to see General Stevenson leave — at a parade held for Stevenson last Friday, several members of the Latinos Club held out a sign for Stevenson, "best of luck on your new assignment and our prayers will always be with you."

Library Notes

by MARGA DANESY

The Main Library, Berlin Command, presents a fine selection of distinguished works of art by ten modern contemporary artists living and working in Berlin. The exhibition will be shown through September 15.

While the exhibition sets out to showcase the different styles and achievements of these artists, it also serves to elicit the "hidden talent" in our patrons. You might think that it is the toughest thing in the world to try your hand at art.

It can become a very beneficial pastime. "Step-by-step" books (available in the Main Library and branch libraries) help you get started and — when you have finished your work of art — share your pride with others and let us display it for you.

The artists of our exhibition are: Juro Kubicek (1906 to 1970) who had no formal art background. During the Nazi regime he left Berlin and worked after the war for two years at a university and art center in Louisville, Kentucky. After his return to Berlin he directed the Work and Art Studio in the Amerika Haus and taught at the "Staatliche Hochschule für Bildende Künste." Most of his work is on display at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. Uwe Witt, 27 years old, is a graphic designer who lives and works in Berlin. Gisa Hausmann, born in Krefeld in 1942, studied for three years at the "Werkkunstschule." She opened her own art gallery in 1964 and won the "Kunstförderungs" prize of the city of Augsburg. Heinrich Goertz received his education at the "Folkwangeschule" in Essen. He is a freelance artist and author. Gert Tuckermann is a native of Berlin. He worked as an author for several local papers and has taught at the "Berliner Volkshochschule" since 1954. His work was on display in many renowned art galleries. Walter Stoehrer comes from Stuttgart. His work won a prize in 1963. Some of his drawings can be seen at the "Nationalgalerie" in Berlin. Oldrich Kulhanek's work travelled from Prague to Vienna, Amsterdam, Ottawa and Washington. Natalie Harder studied in Berlin at the "Hochschule für Bildende Künste." Many of her drawings were sold in Holland, Paris and Canada. Jeanne Flieser is well known for her large picture carpets displayed in an art museum in Hamburg and the City Hall, Kiel. Louis came to Berlin from Holland. The "Berliner Kunstaussstellung" showed some of his work.
