Alcohol abuse — Along with the 'dopers', let's not forget the 'juicers'

The following is an excerpt of a speech given by General Michael S. Davison, Commander in Chief, USAREUR at the V Corps Alcohol And Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Seminar on January 19, 1973.

"... we must not be concerned only with drugs; many drug users claim that alcohol abuse is just as bad. I must tell you that even though this is a flimsy rationale for drug abuse, there is considerable truth in that statement. Consider the following: a majority of all driving fatalities in USAREUR have been caused by drunk drivers; a majority of soldiers involved in assaults and disorders have been drinking; and a surprising number of incidents on post were triggered by alcohol. Although it is recognized that chronic heavy drinkers statistically are in the 30-34 and 45-49 age group, the young soldiers who are so highly critical of the "old juicers" are the ones involved in the majority of the alcohol connected offenses. Furthermore, out of 21 autopsies completed during the months of August, September, and October on accidental deaths, 88 per cent involved the abuse of alcohol sufficient to impair the senses. Of these deaths, the majority were in their early 20's! More recent toxicology tests on 26 fatalities showed that 85 per cent involved high levels of alcohol and again the majority age grouping was in their early 20's..."

Drug abuse. What's the first thing that comes to mind when you think of drug abuse? The young GI sitting in the barracks "getting down" with his buddies? A ratty, diseased, junkie sitting in a tenement hallway? How about you and your buddies over at the local club having a "couple of drinks to unwind?"

That's right — alcohol is a drug and can be just as dangerous as heroin. In this reporter's opinion, there is no difference between alcohol and "hard drugs" other than the fact that alcohol is legal. Please understand me — I'm not condemning anyone for their actions, but all too often it is the "hard drugs" which make the headlines while alcohol abuse is "just a drinking problem."

The problem drinker needs help just as desperately as the man hooked on smack. Neither one of them can perform his job and both are in serious physical and mental danger.

Take a good look at yourself. Why do you drink? Is it to be sociable or to be "one of the guys." Do you really like to drink because it tastes good, or is it because of the feeling you get. With the question of legality aside, what's the difference between you and the drug abuser stereotype we often read about?

"Ahh, I can hold my liquor," you might say, but the guy who smokes dope can say the same about his choice of intoxicants. Both of you are in the wrong. You shouldn't need ANY intoxicant to make it through the day or night.

All the preaching and editorials in the world aren't going to make a bit of difference, but the next time you're over at the club enjoying "Happy Hour" and talking about those "dumb dopers," pause to reflect for a moment and take a look at your glass. —MM

Alcohol—Why A Problem?

The strongest prediction of adult drinking problems is regular involvement in heavy drinking surroundings, but it still isn't understood how excessive drinking grows into a habit report the authors of a book entitled, "Problem Drinking Among American Men."

American men between the ages of 21 and 59 do most of the heavy drinking; and it is this group which makes up the majority of the working population and holds a large share of economic and political power in the country. Working with a carefully selected sample of men in this age bracket, the authors, Don Cahalan and Robin Room, found that when everyone in a particular social or fraternal group is drinking, individuals of the group are more likely to develop drinking problems. Also, hanging around bars, having heavy drinking friends, and drinking regularly as part of socializing require superhuman resistance to avoid becoming a problem drinker.

The highest rates of problem drinking occur in neighborhoods with the highest proportion of low-income families, and where men live outside a family structure.

Men between the ages of 21-24 stand out in the area of "tangible consequences," conclude the authors. This area involves behavior such as heavy intake and binge drinking; belligerence; problems with wives, relatives, and friends; problems on the job; involvement with police; health impairment; financial difficulties; and personal injury from drinking.

The authors point out that unless we understand the basis for excessive consumption of alcohol, "we certainly cannot hope to cope with our hardy perennial, the problem drinker in America."

Recently published by the Rutgers University Center of Alcohol Studies, the book is worth reading for those who want to understand the fundamental "why" of drinking, particularly in the framework of American society.

THE DRINKERS . . .

WHO ARE THEY?

Alcoholism, a serious health problem, is a condition characterized by unpredictable or compulsive drinking. Until recently, it was common to think of alcoholics as people to be shunned, reproached or ridiculed. They were considered by many to be immoral, weak-willed or obstinate.

Now, however, physicians and others who have made a study of alcoholism approach the problem differently. They realize there is no point in scolding, shaming or urging the use of will power alone because they know that once an alcoholic has taken a drink, he is never sure where his drinking will end.

He drinks because he feels compelled to. He keeps on drinking even though he may realize he is harming his health, endangering his job and hurting the people closest to him, his family and friends.

The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that there are about 80,000,000 people in the United States who drink alcoholic beverages at least occasionally. Most drink socially with no grave ill effects. But for about 6,500,000 of these people, the use of alcohol has created very serious problems.

Alcoholics do not represent any single group in our population; the majority are definitely not "skid row" types. Alcoholism afflicts both men and women of all ages and from all walks of life.

Since alcoholism affects so many people, it is a health problem which deserves the intelligent attention of us all. In addition to the human waste and misery, the breakup of homes and families, none of which can be measured in dollars and cents, it has been estimated that the annual economic loss due to alcoholism runs to almost a billion dollars.

In addition to studying the causes of alcoholism, the Navy has instituted several programs to help Navy men who want to conquer this problem. Among these programs are: numerous rehabilitation centers, the study of alcoholism in every Navy training curriculum from recruit training on, and an attempt to get recovered alcoholics to serve as liaison for Navy commands.

Today, the nature and problems of alcoholism are better understood than ever before and more is being learned constantly. With increased understanding and united community effort, it will be possible to teach people more of the facts about alcoholism.

All of us can help overcome many of the superstitions and prejudices that have been linked with alcoholism by helping to develop intelligent and constructive attitudes about it, and by working for improved treatment and rehabilitation facilities in our own communities.

Stuntman appears at raceway

by VIC WILSON

Friendship Raceway can now claim to have its own stuntman. Car number 73, with John Koonce at the wheel, did a two-wheel balancing act in turn two last Saturday.

As John went through the number one turn he hit some bumps on the inside of the turn, then moved to the outside of number two turn. With the tires spinning, the car slowly rolled up onto the right two wheels and looked as if it would roll over. With a driver's skill, John did some fancy steering to bring his car back under control and continued the race.

That's an example of what can happen on any Saturday at Friendship Raceway. It may seem that anyone can go onto the track and drive a car to victory, but it's not that easy. Skill and fast reflexes are necessary to keep a car under control. Almost every driver at Friendship Raceway has prior racing experience of some kind, whether it be on the drag strip, asphalt track or quarter mile dirt track. The drivers know how to handle their cars.

Another thing we have at our track is Women's Lib! It is called the Powder Puff Race. This is where the ladies show their driving abilities on the track.

BAAA will be sponsoring stock car races each Saturday to October 26. It's fun and an exciting experience the whole family can enjoy. Come out and join the crowd at Friendship Raceway.

Five games end in shutouts

SATURDAY NOTRE DAME walked over Alabama to win with a 20-0 score.

Photos and story by DENNIS BINKERT

The second week of AYA football was the week of the shutout. All five games played this weekend ended in shutouts. In the Bantam Division, the Alabama Crimson Tide lost its season opener as the Notre Dame Fighting Irish trounced them 20-0. Touchdowns by Richard Shepard, Robert Almarez and Joe Carter provided Notre Dame's points. Alabama's Derrik Harrison ran over 50 yards to become the leading rusher of the game. The USC Trojans remained undefeated as they beat the Grambling Tigers 12-0. Trojans' quarterback Eric Hansen scored two touchdowns for the Trojans 12 points. Halfback Kirby Crow was the leading rusher with 55 yards. In Saturday's final game, the Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated the Oklahoma Sooners 12-0 on touchdowns by Chris Pringle and Mark Herzig. USC Coach Lynn Hansen says that this Saturday's game against Nebraska will be the Trojans toughest this season. Neither team has allowed a touchdown in their first two games, and each team features a high caliber offense. This Saturday Grambling vs Texas at 9 a.m., Oklahoma vs Alabama at 11 a.m. and Nebraska vs USC at 1 p.m.

The Vikings captured first place in the AYA Junior Division with a 28-0 victory over the Colts. The Vikings, coached by Charlie Green, scored on their first possession with a 15 yard touchdown by halfback Jim Pawlik. They set up their second touchdown on an option pass from halfback Willie Ross to receiver Doug Hansen. The pass play, which was good for 65 yards, brought the Vikings to the five yard line, where Willie Ross ran it over for the touchdown. Don King scored another touchdown to make the score 22-0 at halftime and Vincent Harrison added another TD in the third quarter for the final score 28-0. Colt's halfback Chris Barrier, the leading rusher in the game, ran for over 60 yards.

In Sunday's second game the Dolphins ran over the Steelers for a 20-0 victory. Sean Marshall, who ran for 52 yards in the game, scored the first touchdown from the six yard line on fourth down. Hayden Johnson scored on the Dolphins' next possession, making the score 12-0. The extra points and a TD pass from Ray Sicotte to Dennis Cozort brought the score to 20-0 at halftime. The second half was a defensive battle, with neither team able to score. The Dolphins' coach, John Cozort, says that his team is now ready for the Vikings on September 29. The Dolphins must first face the Colts this Sunday at 1 p.m. After the Colts vs Dolphins game, the Steelers will battle the Vikings at 3 p.m.

HAL SHANAFIELD
AYCB boatswain

Tomorrow the racing team from the American Yacht Club Berlin (AYCB) will travel to the British Berlin Yacht Club (BBYC) in Gatow to take part in the first tripartite regatta of the year. We will be competing against the BBYC and the French yacht club, the Club Nautique Francais de Tegel (CNFT), for the British trophy, the Cathcart Cup. The winner earns the right to retain the Cup for one year.

Competition for the Cathcart Cup will be held in three classes of boats. International 470's, International Enterprises, and British National Bosuns. A total of 30 boats will be used, with each yacht club providing 10 crews.

The British tri-partite regatta will be comprised of three races, the first to be sailed tomorrow at 2:30 p.m., and the remaining two on Sunday. As is the tradition, a banquet will be provided by the host club for all the competitors.

For many of the new sailors of the AYCB this will mark the first time that they have sailed in international competition. We expect very stiff competition from the sailors of the BBYC and the CNFT, but we are hoping that our many long hours of practice and training will pay off and keep us in front of the fleet this year.

Allies gather at Weapons Meet

by KATHY WALSH

The 1974 Allied Weapons Meet will be held September 26 at Keerans Range.

The annual meet is hosted this year by the U. S. Forces Tripartite teams of French, British, and American soldiers who will be competing in the different events together.

The first Allied Weapons Meet was held in 1957. In 1966 the type of competition was changed, from each sector competing against each other to tripartite teams to eliminate the national aspect of the competition, and to demonstrate the close cooperation between the Allies in Berlin.

This year's competition will consist of each team firing the standard service rifle, machine gun, submachine gun, and pistol on a prescribed course of fire agreed upon by representatives of the British, French, and American Allied Headquarters. Besides this formal aspect of the meet there will be three side shows for firers and spectators. These include trap shooting, balloon bursting, and firing at a small target with a service rifle or private weapon.

On July 9, a Brigade-wide shootout was held at Keerans Range to select the American soldiers that would participate on the Allied Weapons Team.

From July 9-September 5, the soldiers practiced as a group; from September 6-18 the group was broken down into tripartite teams and then participated as members of their respective team during practice before the Meet.

Cooperation is on a soldier-to-soldier basis. This interchange has come to be the most significant reward of the annual weapons meet.

Competition firing by each team on September 26 will be conducted from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. All Allied military personnel are invited to Keerans Range to observe the match.

England

by RALPH CALLAWAY

"England swings like the pendulum do . . ." goes the song, and in London this is especially true. It also captures the imagination — and gives a feeling similar to home for those who have been in Germany too long.

The people speak ENGLISH! by golly, and it is music to my ears. And London! All the sights to see — the Tower of London and Big Ben, the Palace, Westminster, a search for London Bridge (now in Arizona). In the rush to see the sights and hear the sounds of England, the first result outside of a lot of film used up is that you get tired. And London provides for that, too. A place to rest is Trafalgar Square.

On the surface, it isn't really remarkable. A hundred meters on a side, two fountains, three statues of old sailors, four lions — not a lot. Until you sit and watch awhile. A small place, Trafalgar Square — population on an average afternoon is only about 1500—300 people and 1200 pigeons, come to watch the people. No, really!

Trafalgar Square is seemingly the meeting place and intersection of reknown for all who come to London. I see Americans, Chinese, Canadians (woe the man who laughs at a red maple leaf), Indians, Germans and even British. They all seem to pass through at least once during their visit, maybe to rest as I did, or to photograph the statues and fountains, maybe to watch the pigeons — who live here on the gifts of the watchers.

It's hard to tell, but it is interesting. The little girl, in imitation of the adults, who held her hand out to feed the pigeons — and was promptly hidden from sight in a cloud of living feathers. The American girl over on a holiday, with pigeons perched in her hair, on her arms, investigating every possible hiding place. The little boy by the fountain, barely two he looked, who has discovered simultaneously that he can walk and chase those little birds around without being hollered at.

Trafalgar Square — make it a must when you visit London!

Tice meets with Latinos Club

by JERRY GRAF

Last Saturday the Latinos Unidos en Berlin Club held a Cultural Seminar and picnic at the Wannsee Recreation Center. The purpose of the seminar was to make the members of the Club aware of the history of Latinos, the part they will play in the future, and the problems encountered in the Berlin Community by the Latino.

The Club was honored by the presence of the new Berlin Brigade Commander, Brigadier General R. Dean Tice, who actively participated with his family in the seminar discussions. BG Tice told the club members that the Army GT testing system is in the process of being revised in order to give every soldier entering the Army an equal opportunity to achieve his fullest potential in job placement.

After the seminar, BG Tice and his family joined the members in the picnic and fun and was presented with an Honorary Membership in the Club. As usual, the superb cooking was done by Latinos Unidos own chef, Amigo DeLa Cruz. BG Tice commented that the food was outstanding. He was impressed by the Club's past record and its activities. He stated that he would support the club's endeavors to his fullest.

On September 28 there will be a German-Latino Kontakt evening at the Starlight Grove. There will be displays representing all interest groups, in addition to lots of good food. Membership in the Latinos Unidos Club is open to everyone and all are urged to join.

'McQ'

McQ — rated PG — John Wayne dons civies to play a contemporary cop who has a big score to settle. His partner was killed by drug pushers and the Duke has to leave the force to right things. He meets heavy opposition from the underworld but not even the 20th century bad guys can stop Wayne from getting his man. There is violence and profanity in the action thriller. Also stars Eddie Albert.

WALKING TALL — rated R — Walking Tall is the true story of one man's fight against vice and violence in a small southern town. The sheriff goes up against the bootleggers, the bar owners, and the gamblers. The criminals are just as determined to get the sheriff as he is to shut down their operations. Walking Tall is a savage, violent, and shocking film. Starring Joe Don Baker and Elizabeth Hartman.

SUMMER WISHES, WINTER DREAMS — rated PG — The lady has money but she also has problems. Her son likes boys, her mother is dying, and her husband is pretty upset because she has gone frigid on him. The drama is an in depth study of a family about to fall apart. Starring Joanne Woodward and Martin Balsam.

THE SUMMERTIME KILLER — rated PG — Chris Mitchum goes after organized crime to avenge his father's death. His method is assassination of the leaders of various syndicates and it works well until they discover he is behind the mysterious killings. Things get very hot for the youth when the heavies start to lean on him. There is violence in the film. Also stars Olivia Hussey.

THE NEPTUNE FACTOR (Revival) — Rated G — special deep sea vehicle descends into the uncharted depths of the Atlantic to search for a sea lab project that disappeared during an underwater earthquake. The Neptune falls into a nightmare world of never before seen creatures that were set loose by the seaquake. Starring Ben Gazzara and Ernest Borgnine.

Deutsche Industrieausstellung Berlin 1974

German Industries Exhibition - Berlin

Beginning tomorrow until September 29, the Industrieries Exhibition is coming to the Funkturm Exhibition Grounds, where in 23 halls with 88,000 square meters carpets, furniture, glass, porcelain, and products by many branches of German industry can be seen. The main subject of this year's exhibition is "Traffic in Congested Areas". Special attention should be drawn to the large-scale participation of the automobile industry which traditionally presents the topical program in Berlin at a two-year interval. The exhibition is open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Admission is DM 4.

'Cohen' is coming

by JUDY PRICKS

Still somewhat deaf from O'Sullivan's concert in the Deutschlandhalle last Sunday ("turn down, turn down, turn down" — the volume) I sit down to tell you about a nice and quiet exhibition in the Academy of Arts. The exhibition informs you about a most turbulent period of German history, 1870 to 1890, commonly referred to as the "Gründerzeit" — a time of wild speculation.

This exhibition tries to put a light onto this period through historical documents, works of art, items of social representation (furniture, fashions, toys), technical devices, photographs and contemporary graphics. The display is open daily until November 24 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The admission fee is DM 2.20, but if you go on Wednesday it's free.

You cannot only see plenty in Berlin, there is also lots to hear. This coming week will keep you rushing from one musical happening to the next. Jazz and blues and several surprises are in store at the Philharmonie on Monday (Sept. 23) when the "Doldinger Jubilee" gets going at 9 p.m.

The Philharmonie will have barely 24 hours to cool down, until the Canadian singer and composer Leonard Cohen comes on the stage at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. The so-called "poet of rock" has been classified as a cult figure of American Underground.

And then it's off to the Deutschlandhalle on Wednesday night where "Deep Purple" will dent your eardrums with "Burn" in concert. The Sensational Alex Harvey Band (who?) is on the playbill, too. By the way, all over town the posters have 7 p.m. as the show time — that is wrong! You don't have to be there until 8 p.m.

Hospital undergoes intensive three-day training period

by KATHY WALSH

Personnel of the U. S. Army Hospital, Berlin, underwent an intensive three-day training period Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

It was the second such training period for the personnel of the 279th Station Hospital; the first, a two-day training exercise last March.

According to Lieutenant Colonel Joan Cotter, Chief of Nursing Service, "the two days in March were a get it and do it. This time we concentrated on teaching procedures."

Those teaching procedures involved four hours of mandatory training such as; Drill and Ceremonies, General Convention, Finance, and 20 hours of in-depth training in MOS-related medical subjects. These subjects range from Resuscitation to Medical Diseases to Bedmaking and I. V. Therapy.

Major (Dr.) Ben Guedes, Chairman of the Training Education Committee said "the training pertained to this hospital; what you (hospital personnel) do for the patient here in Berlin. Personnel who are not directly involved with patient care learned to function in situations pertaining to the hospital: Mass Casualty, Ambulance Training, and First Aid."

Army and civilian nurses, as well as Local National personnel manned the operation of the hospital during the training, giving classes during their off-duty time and enlisted personnel worked the night shifts for the different wards and other departments. This allowed the hospital to function on a 24-hour basis during the training period. Outpatient Department remained open to handle emergencies during the training period, but other clinics except Psychiatry did not schedule routine appointments.

Lt. Col. Cotter summed up the three-day training period with "I was amazed at the interest they (instructors) received; there was enthusiasm on the parts of personnel and instructors."

Retiring soon? Read this!

Looking forward to retirement? To insure that you receive that last full month's pay for active duty service, you should be aware of the effect the new JUMPS-Army allotment system will have on you. The U. S. Finance and Accounting Center will make the payment of your last full months pay to include allotment payments and deductions. Your Finance and Accounting Office will only make payments for accrued leave and any unpaid balances due.

All retiring personnel should make special arrangements to insure they will receive their final end-of-month paycheck, in the event they are not at their unit for payday activities. One action that can be taken is to change your pay option to receive a check at your home address.

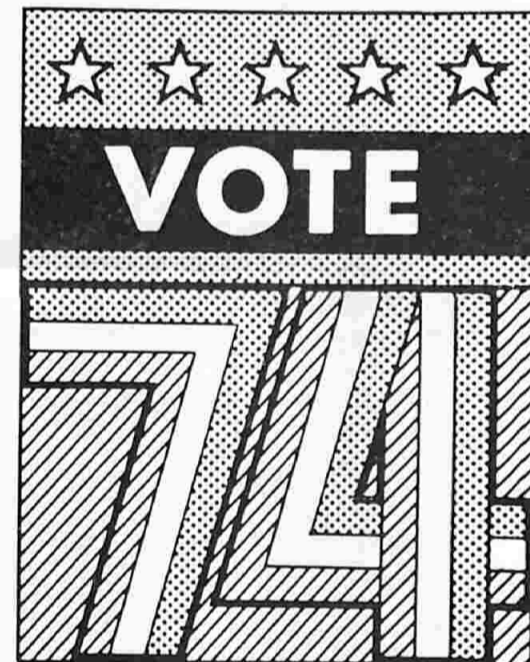

When you initiate a DA Form 4240 (Data for Payment of Retired Army Personnel), ask that the new JUMPS policy be explained to you.

The child who once wore these shoes is now in a wheel chair. His legs are so weak that they will not support his weight, even with the help of braces. In a few years, the chair will be useless, too

But you can help. Today has been designated as the first day of the 1974 Combined Federal Campaign. You can make contributions to the campaign or designate a certain charity you may be especially concerned with.

Giving is a personal voluntary decision. Every unit has a project officer. If you wish to give or would like to have more information about the campaign, contact ham. He'll have all the details.

WORMS, Germany — "The Troubadours," a Stateside musical variety show from Ferrum College, Va., will be touring Army — Air Force installations in Germany from September 18 to November 12.

Featuring six attractive coeds and four talented young men, the DOD/USO-sponsored show will entertain US military audiences with its wide repertoire of popular, folk, ragtime and show tunes accompanied by piano and guitar. The group will appear in Berlin from October 25-29.

The ten-member group includes: Erma Rose, John Moses, Donna Livick, Charles Astin, Thomas Hines, S. Gayle Jones, Kent Shader, Carol Russell, Nancy Clark, and Kathy Carter.
