Vol. 30, No. 3

U. S. Army, Berlin

January 25, 1974

Here it is!

AG clarifies increased benefits for E-4s over 2

There has been much confusion surrounding the announcement in early January that benefits have been increased for servicemen in grade E-4 with over two years of service. However, a letter published Tuesday by the Adjutant General of the U. S. Army, Berlin, should settle some of the dust.

According to the letter, transportation and travel entitlements for E-4s were expanded as of January 2, 1974. This increase places E-4s-over-two in the same category as formerly applied to E-4s over four, or E-4s-over-two with a six-year commitment.

Now all E-4s-over-two are entitled to:

- An unaccompanied baggage allowance of 400 pounds and a household goods allowance of 500 pounds,
- Privately-owned vehicles (POV) shipment when they depart Berlin on a permanent change of station (PCS) move.

A married E-4 who has command sponsored dependents and who receives credit for a normal overseas tour of 36 months is entitled to:

- A household goods allowance of 2,500 pounds and an unaccompanied baggage allowance of 400 pounds (based on the number of dependents),

- POV shipment,
- Dependent travel when they depart Berlin for PCS.

The service member must meet the requirements of paragraph 5, Army Regulation 55-46, in order to have his dependents "command sponsored." If you meet the requirements, you may apply for command sponsorship of your dependents through your unit orderly room.

A few more important points made in the letter: These increased entitlements do not apply for PCS moves accomplished prior to Jan. 2, 1974. In all cases, however, entitlements must be reflected in PCS orders.

Service members in the E-4-over-two category who are scheduled for departure in the near future should contact the RTO household goods section at 819-6994 for a determination of entitlements, and the AG-Military Redeployment Section at 819-6954 for necessary amendments to orders.

MOS test is big factor in promotions

by Ralph Callaway

Last Friday I took my "Pro-pay" test, and after three hours of struggle turned it in to the office. As I started to leave I realized that I knew next to nothing about the tests. But a short session with Staff Sergeant Robert Paige, NCOIC of AG Testing, set me straight.

To begin, the "pro-pay" test doesn't exist. It is actually and properly called the Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) test and is a test of your skill and knowledge of the MOS you hold. If you are in the top of your specialty and are graded over 120 (130 for non-combat MOSes) you are qualified for Superior Performance pay.

The test, together with your Enlisted Efficiency Report (EER) forms your evaluation on your skills and performance in the Army. And if the two together don't give you a score of over 70, you have a problem. You aren't qualified to be promoted or reenlist unless you qualify at least that high (a good system to keep out the "dead wood.")

At least 24 months

Checking into the test a little farther, I found that you don't take the test until you have at least 24 months in the Army. And that the test is controlled throughout the Army in such a way that certain MOSes are tested in certain months of the year, with roughly a fourth of all enlisted personnel eligible for the test taking it in each quarter.

That takes care of the background, and now for a few tid bits.

Obviously, since the test is so important for a good deal of the Army, scoring was a question I asked. The test is prepared new each year, so that a photographic memory wouldn't serve you too well. Last year's test would only be a possible study guide.

The tests for your MOS are scored at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, the Army's center for most personnel operations. And the scoring on the test doesn't begin until 60% of the tests are received there. That is done in order to provide a basis for the curve that you are scored against.

How you're scored

For example, if all or most of the people in your MOS average 31 correct answers on the test, when that becomes the median and your answers are scored against that median. A score of 80 correct for you then would probably indicate a good chance at the extra money.

After the initial 60% are scored, the remaining tests are split into increments for ease of handling. And that explains why you occasionally receive a score sheet back six months later.

To help insure that the maximum effectiveness is gained from the tests, the Army makes every effort to insure that all personnel possible are tested in the designated month. They go so far as to put all responsibility for making the scheduled times on your head, and have often given various disciplinary actions to people who have missed the test.

It carries over into other fields too, like promotions. You can't be promoted with a poor MOS test score, but it is possible to be promoted with none at all — if you missed the test through no fault of your own. And in most cases, the burden of furnishing proof of no fault is on you. (By the way, leave is classed as your fault. If you are on leave when it's time to take the test, come in and take it — in civies if you have to!)

Secondaries are different

All of the info I've given so far applies to your primary MOS. For those people who have secondaries, it's a little different in a couple of aspects.

First, promotions can be made from your secondary, and this means you should keep qualified in this MOS too. Second, the test in this MOS or any additional MOS is required only every other year to remain qualified. So every other year you will have to break out the books and study to make up for the lost time.

Naturally, there is a lot more to MOS testing, but most of it pertains to the people who administer, grade or process the test and to your personnel specialists who use the results to help guide your career and promotions.

But the test is important to you and shouldn't be missed. To do so could cost you $$$$ (and not just the loss in "Pro-pay") but also that stripe you wanted — or already have! A person who fails to qualify in his MOS can be reshuffled into an MOS he is qualified in, and at a loss in rank. Take your test, and do well.

Colorful horse show at D'halle

by Judy Pricks

Since I happen to be a fanatic about horses, it is only natural for me to devote this week's column to the big International Riding and Jumping Tournament which began yesterday in the Deutschlandhalle. The exciting and colorful horse show looks back on a 65-year-old tradition and ranks top on the scene in Germany if not Europe. As a constant visitor for eight years now, I can truly say that an evening or afternoon at the horse show is time well spent even for those who don't know much about this sport. Those that are already interested in horses is sure to be enthused.

Riders and horses from 10 nations will compete during the six days of this tournament. Belgium, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Italy, The Netherlands, Poland, Switzerland, Russia and Germany are the participating countries. The championship titles the riders have attained in jumping and dressage would already fill pages.

What the Berlin audience takes for granted already, that the world's top riders from Germany and Great Britain compete against each other, was arranged especially for a horse show series in Washington, New York and Toronto. For the first time in American horse show history, the top riders from Germany and England and their horses, of course, were flown to the States. In this connection one must know that the horse show management pays the transportation for foreign participants from the border of their country to the scene of the event.

The class of riders from the other countries is also the

by Ruth Goodson

On Jan. 11, Berlin American High School wrestlers moved into Karlsruhe, glanced at the opposition, and overpowered the Karlsruhe Knights 15-12. In the varsity division, Greg Abbott, Jim Short, Jim Stewart, and Tim Wilson all pinned their opponents in less than 93 seconds, 138-pound Stewart flooring his victim in 14 seconds. In addition, Ed Wangler and Greg Howard pinned their rivals, and Steve Kincaid, Marvin Lindroth, Mark Schneider, Wayne Bloebaum won their decisions.

The junior varsity did equally well with Ed Cole pinning his man, Kevin Lindroth overwhelming a Bitburg challenger 5-1, and Bill Winkler wrestled to a draw with a Frankfurt foe.

As Bill's match forewarned, Frankfurt was a more formidable challenge. On Jan. 12 at Frankfurt, only Jim Short, Ed Wangler, Marvin Lindroth, Kevin Lindroth, Jim Short and Ed Cole left unscathed. The lone man to pin his competitor was Kevin Lindroth.

Cubs split 2 with Augsburg in b-ball

by Kenneth Anthony

"We're number one. We're number one." This was the cry last Friday night at Victory hall as the Berlin Cubs defeated the Augsburg Apaches by the score of 65-55. But the title was not held long as the Apaches routed the Cubs Saturday afternoon 56-52 in an exciting finish.

High scorers for the Cubs Friday night were Bob Todd 25, Randy Smith 14, Brad Malloy 11, Greg "Sugar Bear" Davis 10, and Robin Westerfield 4. High scorers for Berlin Saturday were Greg "Sugar Bear" Davis 18, Randy Smith 12, Bob Todd 9, Brad Malloy 8, Steve Mansfield 3, and Robin Westerfield 2.

This split victory for the teams tied them at 7-1 for the Red Division this season.

cream of the crop, because the Berlin Riding and Jumping Tournament has a reputation of being a show where only well qualified horses and riders have a chance. The technical direction of the show is in most competent hands, in that the same people are responsible for the jumps, set-up, announcements etc., as were engaged for the Olympic Games. This year even the sand is a special mixture, which plays an important role during the jumping competition. For the average visitor of a horse show all this isn't so noticeable, but it does make for an excellent event.

What makes the shows even more attractive here in Berlin is an old tradition to end each competition with a show picture — so to say, something relaxing after you've been sitting at the edge of your chair during the jumping competitions. During past years the Riding Academy from Vienna was here, as well as the Royal Horse Guards from England, the Belgian Gendarmerie from Brussels and the Garde Republicaine from Paris.

This year folklore and riding skills from Poland will make up "the dessert" so to say. This show has been produced especially for the tournament in the Deutschlandhalle. A wedding ceremony of the Polish farmers will be celebrated with all the pomp and merriment of such a folkloristic happening. Naturally horses aren't missing.

And every day, except today, Berlin's horse-drawn brewery wagons make their much-applauded appearance before the show picture ends each event.

For those who have never been to a horse show, let me give you a kind of a preview of what to expect. Each show begins with a jumping competition, which lasts about two hours. Speed and accuracy in mastering the jumps are what counts. Fractions of a second decide who gets the trophy and the money, and the hushed excitement that fills the huge Deutschlandhalle is really quite gripping. After the winners have been honored and the jumps cleared away, there is a break. Then the elegant dressage riders come on to the scene and give a demonstration of their skills.

The dressage competition itself takes place in the early morning hours before the eyes of the judges and a few visitors who delight in the beautiful sight of utmost concentration of mount and riders. Only experts can say who performed best here and such trials are quite lengthy — if they were included in the horse show, such an event would last five to six hours! If you are interested to come and watch, here are the beginning times: 8:30 a.m. tomorrow; 7:30 a.m. Sunday; 6 a.m. Monday; 8 a.m. at 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

Back to the main event. After the dressage riders, the brewery wagons come on the scene. Show stealers are always the 10 powerful horses that draw the Schultze wagon. Then the lights go out and the suspense is built up by the announcer who introduces the gay show picture which then comes into the spot light.

Hope I've been able to get up some enthusiasm. Run over to the PX ticket agency or make a stop at the Deutschlandhalle when you visit Green Week to purchase your tickets to this international event. See you there! (Check "Cultural Events" on page 7 for the time.)

Berlin Bears rebound to 2-1 record with 19-14 win

by Marty Best

The Berlin Bears team handball squad showed the mark of a fine team when they rebounded from a lopsided defeat and beat a German opponent 19-14 in league play Sunday to give them a league record of 2-1.

The Bears dominated throughout the game but garbage goals kept the Germans within range. The score at half time was 10-8 in favor of the Bears but the team from Hermsdorf kept neck and neck until they took the lead 14-13 with about five minutes left. After that it was all Bears. The Bears unleashed a devastating fast break that left their goalie shell-shocked.

There was some fine defense displayed by the Bears which made goalie relatively easy for Marty Best. The Bears had only one substitute but kept running for the entire 40 minutes. Rufus Whynot was the man whose substitutions kept giving the Bears their second wind. The Bears scored almost half of their goals on fast breaks with Dale Pirkle and John Evina leading the grueling spurts. "Big John" Spiezia and Chuck Swannack were the big guns from outside the half circle. The scoring was about even among these four stalwarts.

by Marty Best

On Saturday morning the U.S. Forces Soccer Team defeated the Labor Service Guards 3-1 in a friendly scrimmage game. This was the first time that many of the new untested booters played together. LS kept up pressure throughout the game but the Forces defense always rose to the occasion and forced low percentage shots.

Mike Kelly led the attack with a goal and an assist as the front line took advantage of their opportunities for three big goals against a very tough team. Larry Newton scored two goals for the U. S.

The defense consisted of Ralph Kreuzer, Frank Chapman, John Cogbill and Marty Best. The halfbacks were Pete Mil-

Pat Valentini dazzled the crowd with his tenacious defense and was invaluable in setting up the fast breaks with frequent steals at the point. Roy Carper started his first game and used his 6'2", 220-lb. frame to intimidate the much smaller German team and was invincible on defense.

The game marked the coming of age for the Bears offense. With the cannon arm of John Spiezia and quick shots of John Evina, they were able to take some of the scoring burden off of Pirkle and Swannack and give Berlin the best balance attack that I have seen in my two years of competition.

One regular, Pat Patterson, was out with a sprained ankle while Dan Scioletti was in Holland with the USAREUR all star soccer team, John Gregg was playing basketball with the Berlin Braves, Willie Rios was running, and others were missing for various reasons. The moral is, with a completely healthy team the Bears might even survive the continuing scrutiny of Paul Maggio.

The next league game is this Sunday against Turnsporn at 7:30 p.m. at Martin-Buber-Oberschule, Im Spektefeld 33. Then on Monday the Bears travel to play the French Army at Napoleon Barracks Gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

There is still room for new men to try out. Call Lt. Best at 3536/3553.

hado (Captain), Bob Quinn and Larry Reynolds. The front line had Mike Kelly, Larry Newton and Howard Wright. The goalie was Smokey Cheney, a man we all know and love, he won the hearts of the crowd with his fearless play, but since he was only on a weekend pass from the FRG and broke his big toe nail, we probably won't see him ever again.

The Forces' performance was especially encouraging since super stars John Veenstra, Paddy Yarr, Vic Kastelanski and Dan Scioletti were all missing from the line-up. The league season starts in March and as always depth will be the key, because it's a rarity to have the same 11 booters together twice in a row.

Tournament underway

by Vincent A. Drosdik, III

Alpha 3-6 ran over Alpha 4-6 60-41 Tuesday evening in the opening game of the 1974 Berlin Brigade Championship Basketball Tournament. The double elimination tourney is being held at the Sports Center through (tentatively) Feb. 1 with games set at 5:30, 7 and 8:30 p.m. each day. Miller Strickland led Alpha 3-6 with 23 points.

Game number two was the most exciting contest of the evening, going down to the final 17 seconds before Co. A, Field Station Berlin pulled two points away from HHC 4-6 to win 63-61. Top scorers for Co. A were Ron Hintz 16, Bob Kmak 14 and John Bogo 14. Leading HHC were Jim Burdette 20, Kelcie Daniels 20 and John Fagan 10.

The third game Tuesday was sloppily played runaway victory for Charlie 2-6 over Bravo 3-6, 77-37. Top Charlie players were Larry Johnson 25, Jackie Mitchel 21, and Paul Smith 12. Bravo Co. had no men in double figures.

Cobras win at 2-6

by "Amigo" De La Cruz

In the Guardian League the biggest game of the season was between the Charlie Company "Cobras" (8-1) and the Alpha Company "Gators" (7-2) for the battalion championship Jan. 18.

The game was a thriller from the beginning until the very end. Alpha Company held an eight-point lead until the final minutes of the game when the Cobras went to work and were able to gain the lead and hold on until the final buzzer.

Roberto Ortiz went wild, hitting for 13 points mostly from 15 feet out, and Jackie Mitchell with the fast break scored 12 of his 18 points to become the high scorer for the game. Second high scorer for the Cobras was Ortiz with 17 points. Those in double figures for the Alpha "Gators" were Harry Mallory and Ronald Almeida with 13 and 12 points respectively. Final score Cobras 53, Gators 41.

Over 100 boys greeted three baseball personalities on a tour of USAFE installations, at the Sports Center Monday evening. Bert Blyleven, 20-game winner with the Minnesota Twins; Jerry Kendall, former major leaguer and now baseball coach at the University of Arizona; and Bob Engel, National League umpire, made the visit.

Kendall talked first, emphasizing to the youngsters the necessity of studying and getting good grades in order to be able to play ball and also seek to get baseball scholarships.

Bert Blyleven told the young fans that the best exercise for pitchers is running, in order to be able to pitch nine innings. He urged young pitchers to be sure to warm up before throwing curves.

Umpire Bob Engel spoke on sportsmanship, saying that umpires should be respected as often they are learning the game the same time the young players are.

After a question-answer period, during which Blyleven showed how he grips the ball while pitching, the trio signed autographs and were interviewed by Jim Rose on AFN-TV.

'Caine Mutiny' opens Feb. 1

"This case, sir, concerns a destroyer-minesweeper at the center of a typhoon." The initial theatrical offering of 1974 from the AG Recreation Services Music and Theatre Program will be the intense two-act courtroom drama, The Caine Mutiny Court Martial.

The play concerns court-martial proceedings against a young lieutenant who relieved his captain of command in the midst of a harrowing typhoon on the grounds that the captain was psychopathic in the crisis, and was directing the ship and its crew to destruction.

The odds and naval tradition are against the lieutenant. But as the witnesses and experts, some serious, some unwittingly comic, cross the scene of the trial, weaknesses in the captain's character are slowly revealed in a devastating picture of disintegration.

The cast includes: Vic Markey as the deposed Captain Queeg; Rich Gilbert as the accused lieutenant; Mary Betz and Mark Orłowski as the legal counsels; Al Kulas as Captain Blakely, the presiding judge; Rusty Eder, Tom Cornwall and Don Schulte as the witnesses from the ship's crew; Larry Baldwin, Hugh Roper and Nancy Snow as the Navy's expert witnesses; Charles Davis as the court orderly; Cindy Baker as the court stenographer and Mike Baker, Jim Vowles, Bob Lemieux and Gary Heimlich as members of the court board.

The Caine Mutiny Court Martial will be in performance at the Berlin Theatre Center, Headquarters Compound, Building 5, on Feb. 1-2 at 8 p.m. On Feb. 3, there will be a matinee performance at 2 p.m.

The Music and Theatre Program has decided to experiment with the "matinee idea" and see if patrons favor an afternoon more than an evening Sunday performance.

BAHS announces parent poll results

Berlin American High School just completed a survey of parent perceptions of the high school. Forty parents of ninth through twelfth graders were chosen at random by a parent-student committee of volunteers.

Considering that the questionnaires took 90 minutes to complete and had to be personally administered, many thanks go the committee workers, Mrs. Bruckheim, Mrs. Seligman, Mrs. Totman, Miss White, and Mr. Halderman, and to the 40 parents who cared enough to fill out the lengthy form.

Parents were most impressed with the school size and plant and most displeased with the "lack of discipline" in and out of the classroom. There was also a substantial cry for changes in the National Honor Society.

In the strength area, the following received at least one vote of confidence: the aggressive attitude of the administration, especially in the handling of bomb threats; the electives; the individualization of instruction; and the boys' sports program. Work study received support with the request that more money be allocated to expand this relatively new program.

While one parent favored the grading system, another spoke out against it. In the same way, one parent felt that BAHS had a better racial climate than most schools in the zone, while another found the school "too easy on racists." Teacher-student relationships were also praised and decried by like numbers.

Constructive criticism emphasized the need for driver education courses, more remedial reading teachers, more course selections, and more drug education programs. More than half of the parents polled wanted greater emphasis on preparing students for a job.

This survey is being used by the administration and the curriculum review committee to establish programs and policies for the ongoing and upcoming years. In fact, solutions are being found and changes made as following articles and newsletters will note.

Admittedly, a survey of 40 parents is not as conclusive as one of 100 parents. Nevertheless, in its continuing effort to meet the needs of the community, BAHS is 40 parents wiser.

8-Ball to run PTSA meeting

The Berlin American High School Parent-Teachers-Student Association will meet Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the Student Union. During a brief business meeting, a new vice president of the PTSA will be elected.

After the business session, there will be a presentation by a student group calling itself the "8-Balls." The presentation will inform parents what is going on in school besides "book learnin'."

Mick Foster will represent the school band and chorus, and the chorus will present a few selections. Steve Paasch will present information about the curriculum Review Committee and its "Boundary Breaking" Program. Mary Johnson will present the drill team.

Ann Seligmann will discuss "Mini-Week," and Charles Kelley will present the National Honor Society. Don Phillips will discuss the progress the Student Council has made, and Robert Mills will represent "Trund," the student newspaper. Arianne Kelker will discuss the Black Student Union.

Berlin twins are first

South Africa has its sextuplets, and Berlin has its twins, born Sunday at the U. S. Army Hospital to Specialist 5 and Mrs. Roy Morris.

The Morris twins, a boy named Chayne and a girl named Rendy, are the hospital's first multiple birth for 1974. The parents are natives of Wyoming. Daddy is assigned to Field Station, Berlin.

LS guard does it again! Prevents loss of lives from fire

On the night of January 17, LS-4 Peter Porazynski, a labor service guard, noticed a burning car while standing his post at Andrews Baracks. The car was located near Potsdamer Strasse, about 100 meters from Andrews. He reported this to his guard supervisor, LS-6 Wolfgang L. Grund, who then notified the Military Police and the Fire Department.

Grund then rushed to the scene and was just in time to warn several pedestrians to stay clear of the car because of the danger of the car exploding. Just after giving his warning and clearing the area, the car did in fact blow up. From that point, Grund proceeded to direct traffic safely around the burning wreck. Thanks to Grund's actions, the fire was extinguished before a car with USAREUR plates, parked next to the burning car, could be destroyed by the fire.

If Grund's name sounds familiar, it's probably because he was the main figure in a story which appeared in the January 11 Observer. Grund prevented the loss of lives and building damage in another fire which involved an apartment across from Andrews.

Things returning to normal

With the apparent relaxation of the fuel crisis, some activities and operations in the Berlin community seem to be returning to normal.

Increased business and social activity, to include conferences, concerts, public functions and even Green Week preparations, have caused some once familiar sights to be seen again in the Divided City. Sunday traffic again fills the streets of Berlin, although not as densely as Berliners are accustomed to.

Temperatures in several facilities, including the Berlin Brigade Sports Center and swimming pool, are a bit closer to their pre-crisis level. Even the once familiar stately black Lincoln limousine can be seen occasionally carrying the U. S. Commander, Berlin, to and from some of the many official functions which he must attend.

Don't forget, however, that newly-imposed speed limits in Germany are still in effect here in Berlin. Maximum speed for military vehicles is 50 miles per hour. The limit on Autobahns is 100 kilometers per hour and 80 k.p.h. on all other streets. Speed limits in Berlin and other cities is 50 k.p.h. on non-Autobahn streets. Lower speed limits may be posted in some areas.

Feb. 18 is official holiday

Begin making plans for the big three-day weekend coming up February 16-18. Monday, Feb. 18 is an official USAREUR holiday to commemorate the birthday of President Washington.

Keep your tank half full

If you're planning to ship your car to the Bayonne, New Jersey port, make sure it has at least one-half tank of gas when you turn it in to the Vehicle Processing Center at Bremerhaven. This requirement is due to difficulty in obtaining fuel in the Bayonne area.

USAF flights reduced

Due to the decrease in flight frequency, space available travel on USAF flights will be severely reduced and considerable delays can be anticipated. Anyone traveling in a space-available status while on leave is cautioned to carry sufficient funds to defray the cost of commercial transportation, should space-available transportation not be available.

For information, call the Transportation Office at 6932.

NCOs take command of 4-6 FTX

by Norman Ham

The 4th Battalion, 6th Infantry, conducted a Field Training Exercise (FTX) last Wednesday, Jan. 16, that was somewhat different. The difference was that the non-commissioned officers of the battalion were completely responsible for the planning and execution of the exercise.

With Command Sergeant Major Joe D. Offutt commanding the battalion, and the company first sergeants commanding their respective companies, 4-6 headed to the Grunewald to develop the skills that infantrymen must use to maintain their proficiency.

Rotten Weather

The day began with seemingly nice weather, but as custom will have it, it began to rain in the afternoon. It wasn't a hard driving rain, just a continuous drizzle that added a bit of misery to being in the field. So, enduring the weather, the men of 4-6 went ahead as planned, attacked the aggressor and set up a daylight defensive position.

Along with the evening meal came darkness, and of course it continued to rain. After relocating, the line companies proceeded with their night attack. Subsequently, they established a defensive position and conducted a nighttime withdrawal before moving back to McNair at midnight.

While the line companies were doing the fighting, HHC 4-6 established and maintained a complete field command post throughout the duration of the exercise.

ARCOMs awarded

The FTX was not the first time the NCO's of 4-6 had a chance to do their thing. They got their first crack at it on Jan. 11, when the battalion staged a junior NCO parade on the 4-Ring and awarded Specialists 4 James A. Tremko and Steve L. Runyon, both of HHC-4-6, with ARCOM's for achievement and meritorious service in the Republic of Vietnam, respectively.

These NCO-controlled activities are the result of the battalion commander's realizing that people would participate more vigorously in those things in which they contributed their own ideas.

Lieutenant Colonel Richard Kattar, the battalion commander, expressed his views on the subject: "By playing an active role in the planning and execution of an exercise, as opposed to executing another man's plans and ideas, the sergeants have the unique opportunity to express those ideas they may have suppressed for some time. Further, by experiencing the same frustrations and challenges the officers do, the NCO has a better understanding of problems and can anticipate requirements well in advance."

What do the NCOs think of this chance to display their talents? They think it's great! The battalion intends to continue this practice, with classes currently being scheduled using qualified junior enlisted men as instructors.

Sorry--our mistake!

Boy, is our face red! Last week we somehow managed to completely reverse the identifications in photos of two sets of brothers assigned to the 4th Battalion, 6th Infantry (Observer, Jan. 11, page 4).

'The Last of Sheila'

"I KNOW WHAT YOU SAID about togetherness, but isn't this thing getting a little out of hand? Besides, I'm getting a crick in my neck." James Coburn and Dyan Cannon demonstrate what the phrase "Till death do us part" can mean when you hate to be out of each other's sight, as it appears in The Last of Sheila. (Warner Bros. photo)

by Michael McCollum

THE LAST OF SHEILA — A Hollywood sanitation engineer devises an intricate scheme to flush out his wife's murderer. All the people who were at the party when she was killed are invited aboard his luxurious rubber raft for a grotesque game designed to expose everyone's innermost secrets and ultimately, the murderer.

THE SWORD IN THE STONE — Yippee! Walt Disney (who never really died) brings us this story of ((Ta-Da Ta-Daa!) King Arthur and his Canterbury Follies. The powerful wizard Merlin (you'd be powerful too, if you hadn't taken a bath in 400 years), helps young Arthur prepare for his eventful future. The adventuresome film is filled with legendary and mystic doings. What's a mystic doing? That's the sound a magician's wand makes when you drop it — doing! doing!

DOLLAR$ — Warren Beatty has a plan to get rich. He plans to rob the safety deposit boxes of a Hamburg bank's customer (hamburger?) who aren't about to tell the police they've been robbed. The victims are thieves, smugglers and killers.

THE BOY WHO CRIED WEREWOLF — A boy has the terrible knowledge that he's seen a werewolf and no one will believe him. The fact that it's his father who's in need of a body shave doesn't help matters. After a few people and the countryside are torn up, people start to believe him.

40 CARATS is not the life story of Bugs Bunny. A lady in her 40s meets a young man while vacationing in Greece (Hubba Hubba). He's so impressed (he's what?) that he follows her back to New York with the idea of getting married (maybe she's got lots of dough). Shocked friends and relatives throw some complications into this June to December romance.

R&R=Fun, Travel, Adventure

Free travel to one of the Armed Forces Recreation Centers is yours for the asking. You can travel to Munich, Garmisch, Chiemsee or Berchtesgaden while paying for hardly anything. The only cost to you is for hotel accommodations and meals. All the transportation to and from the recreation center is free. How? Read on.

"It was a whole new thing, we'd like to do it again," one GI said about USAREUR's new rest and recreation program. The program was initiated in January of this year as a means of introducing soldiers in grade E-5 and below to the facilities of the AFRC.

Never used facilities

A USAREUR survey had earlier shown that four out of five lower-ranking soldiers had never used AFRC facilities due to money or transportation problems. Even when they did get a pass, they usually didn't have enough time to book reservations.

The program involves two days travel time (in "civies" all the way) plus a 72-hour pass that begins on arrival in the AFRC area. Soldiers travel in groups by government-paid transportation on Monday, and begin the return trip to their respective units on Friday.

Pays for room and board

The soldier pays for his room and board, as well as for miscellaneous activities, with one important exception; his transportation is free both ways. Soldiers in grades E-1 through E-5 are charged $3 per night without bath, $4.50 with bath.

This R&R pass program is available to military personnel of U. S. Army, Berlin, and their dependents. Soldiers in grade E-4 and below, and their dependents, will have priority. This is a pass program and is not chargeable as ordinary leave. For further information about your trip to AFRC, call your battalion S-1 office.

TOUR TO INTERNATIONAL GREEN WEEK

Early Saturday afternoon, KONTAKT will be taking a group tour to the International Green Week exhibition on the Funkturn grounds. Green Week features foods and beverages typical of each country represented. It's a feast in itself just to see the exhibits and smell the aroma that pervades the air, but best of all you can sample all of the foods for a very modest fee. We're leaving from the McNair main gate (on Goerzallee) at 2 p.m. sharp via public transportation and returning directly to the party going on at the Folke Bernadotte. It's going to be a pretty full day; come prepared money wise. No reservations needed for anything.

ICE SKATING

KONTAKT hits the ice skating rink on January 30 for an evening of fun, spills, and laughter. We're going to the "Kunst und Eislaufbahn Neukölln" on Oderstraße, adjacent to Tempelhof Airport. To get there take the U-Bahn to Alt Tempelhof and then the 65 bus to Oderstraße. The rink is five minutes from the bus stop. Cost is 1 DM entrance, skate rental starts at 2 DM per hour. The rink is outdoors so dress warmly and bring everyone you know regardless of experience. We start at 8 p.m.

BARBER SHOP QUARTET SOCIETY

Did you know Berlin has what is the only European chapter of the SPESQSA? Great huh? Well it does and it is looking for new members, German as well as American. So if you want to come and see about joining the Berlin SPESQSA drop by the Harnack House any Wednesday at 8 p.m. By the way SPESQSA stands for the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (and seems "in Europe" now). We recommend it to anyone interested in singing and good times.
