Another soldier falls

PFC David D. McCullough of Co A, 2nd Bn, 6th Inf., is another one of the unfortunate soldiers in Berlin to add his name to the growing list of those prosecuted for drugs.

McCullough went before a military judge and pleaded guilty of all counts. The former PFC was charged with larceny, approximately $859, conspiring to sell heroin, wrongfully possessing heroin, and wrongfully selling heroin.

McCullough was reduced to the grade of Private E-1, forced to forfeit $229.00 per month for six months, to be confined at hard labor for six months and given a bad conduct discharge.

Club offers steak

by LOU KIRKPATRICK

The Berlin Command Golf and Country Club will soon be offering the 19th Hole Steakhouse and Cocktail Lounge. This will be a change of pace from the snack bag, setting golfers previously dined in.

The purpose of the new lounge is to give the enlisted men and women in Berlin an alternative to the Club 50. The lounge will have table service highlighted by a fireplace for chilly Berlin nights.

The Steakhouse and Cocktail Lounge will open November 1, every Friday and Saturday from 7 to 12 in the evening. Patrons of the new lounge will delight to several kinds of steak, from T-Bone to Filet Mignon, available at only $3.75.

This facility is open to the entire Berlin American Military Community.

Rabies are still here

Another case of rabies has been discovered in the Lichtenfelde area, fortunately, the rabid animal did not come in contact with any humans.

Because of this, new streets have been declared endangered. These are: Finckensteinallee, Ringstrasse, Drakestrasse, Duererstrasse, Moltkestrasse, Hindenburgdamm, and the border of the Klinikum (a hospital).

All pet owners are encouraged not to let their pets roam free in this area, and to leash their pets when taking them outside.

Slimnastics offered in Berlin

SLIMNASTICS INSTRUCTOR HELEN SEMLER, with one of 30 students, demonstrates exercises to be taught in the

Mrs. Helen B. Semler, wife of the new Chief of the Political Section at the Berlin Mission, and the originator of a nation-wide health and fitness program, will give a Slimnastics demonstration on Monday, November 4th at the Outpost Theatre at 10:30 a.m. The presentation is sponsored by the German-American Club whose purpose is to provide opportunity for German and American women to get together and share common interests. The presentation is open to all those who like to keep trim, not only members of the club.

The purpose of the demonstration is to acquaint the women with the exercises that will be featured in the program and to explain their benefits to the participants. Mrs. Semler will also touch on the need for regular exercise. She feels that any type of physical activity that is not maintained can be more harmful than beneficial. At the end of the demonstration there will be the registration for the classes. The classes will be held twice a week, Mondays and Thursdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the ballet room behind the Outpost Theatre. The fee for the class is one dollar.

Prior to coming to Berlin, Mrs. Semler was the Director of the YMCA-sponsored SHAPE YOUR FUTURE program for women. The goal of the program was to provide health-recreational facilities where they did not exist and to train teachers of exercise who could share their skills with other women on a peer-to-peer basis. In addition to Slimnastics, SHAPE YOUR FUTURE trainees were provided with information on nutrition and grooming.

The first SHAPE YOUR FUTURE teacher's training program was offered in downtown Washington, D.C. where the problem of overweight and lack of facilities seriously affected the employment potential of the low-income women. Of the thirty women who enrolled in the teacher's training course some lost as many as 50 pounds. They have also acquired skills as teachers of exercise and knowledge about proper diets and body care. Upon being certified, thirteen of the graduates started programs of their own, some in their communities and others on work premises. Two of the SHAPE YOUR FUTURE leaders now conduct lunch hour exercise programs for the female employees at the State Department. The program is spreading to other federal agencies and cities in the U. S. Mrs. Semler who originated the program and trained the first group of teachers has finished a book, entitled SHAPE YOUR FUTURE. The book has chapters on exercise, nutrition, grooming and personal safety.

Mrs. Semler's brand of Slimnastics is a blend of yoga, calisthenics mixed well and served to music. The stress is on proper breathing and gradual toning of all muscles. The exercises are intended to make stronger and more graceful bodies while at the same time providing an outlet for emotional tensions. The program is safe for women of all ages.

Women attending the demonstration will be welcome to join in. If you would like to have fun while shaping a better future for yourself, join them November 4th.

AYCB hosts regatta

The American Yacht Club Berlin (AYCB) held its last major sailing function of the season last weekend, when it hosted its annual tripartite regatta. Although we did not succeed in winning back our Commander's Cup from the British Berlin Yacht Club (BBYC) team, the weekend was a success in every other way.

The wind of the opening day of the regatta was as much as anyone could ask for. The rain that accompanied it was just a minor irritation. The races were close and hard-fought. The AYCB team did much better than many expected, and by the end of the day we were in second place in total points, behind the British. Surprisingly, under the circumstances, there had been no capsizes, and except for one boat with a broken halyard, all the boats finished the course.

Even though the day's racing had been tiring, the banquet, consisting of a steamship-round, mashed potatoes, green beans, salad, and fruit, put some life back into the sailors. The refreshments served at the party that followed dinner helped some too. The party broke up early because everyone wanted to be at his best for the following day's racing, but not before we all had a chance to get acquainted with our Allied friends.

If the wind on Saturday had been pleasantly strong, the breeze, or the lack of it, was just the opposite on Sunday morning. It picked up a bit during the race, but it never achieved much velocity. By this time the British, and the French from the Club Nautique Francais de Tegel (CNFT) were beginning to find the bouys and the AYCB was starting to slip back in points.

During the lunch break we were determined to sail a little harder, and as if in agreement, the wind came up.

To compensate for this, the starting bouy went down. But, nonetheless, the gun went off and the final race was on! Again, the competition was close, right up to the end, however we picked up just enough points to slip back into third place. But we have the consolation of knowing that we have steadily improved our performance, throughout all three of the tripartite regattas.

The final results showed the same pattern as the first two tripartite regattas of the season: the BBYC winning by a comfortable margin, the CNFT in second place, and the AYCB in third place, although not by as great a difference as in previous races. In addition to winning the Commander's Cup, the BBYC team also scored victories in the 470, Pirate, Volksboat, and Bosun classes. In the remaining class, the Randmeer, the CNFT team captured the top spot.

It would be appropriate here to say that the AYCB regatta would never have been possible without a lot of hard work on the part of a lot of people, some of whom didn't get to sail because of a lack of boats. The different groups of members, and non-members, who helped out are quite numerous. We would also like to thank the BBYC and the CNFT for bringing some of their boats over, and for their cooperation in general.

No one denies that the competition in the tripartite regattas is important to the various yacht clubs involved, but I feel that the greatest benefit comes from the opportunity to meet and get to know our Allies. We in the AYCB hope that everyone went away from our regatta with the feeling that they knew us a little better, and that we knew them. We are looking forward to next sea-

Nebraska wins championship

by DENNIS BINKERT

The 1974 AYA Bantam League Football Season closed last Sunday as the Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated the Alabama Crimson Tide 32-0. The victory, Nebraska's fifth straight win, gave them the season championship. The only scar on their otherwise unblemished record was their 2-2 tie with the Notre Dame Fighting Irish in the season opener. The safety in the Notre Dame game was the only time this season that Nebraska has been scored upon. In their victory over the Tide, quarterback Arlin Chang scored two touchdowns for Nebraska and halfback Chris Pringle also scored two TDs, one of them on a pass from Chang. Fullback Mark Herzig scored an additional Nebraska TD. The coaches and players of the Nebraska team are to be congratulated on the outstanding effort and sportsmanship which they have exhibited throughout the season.

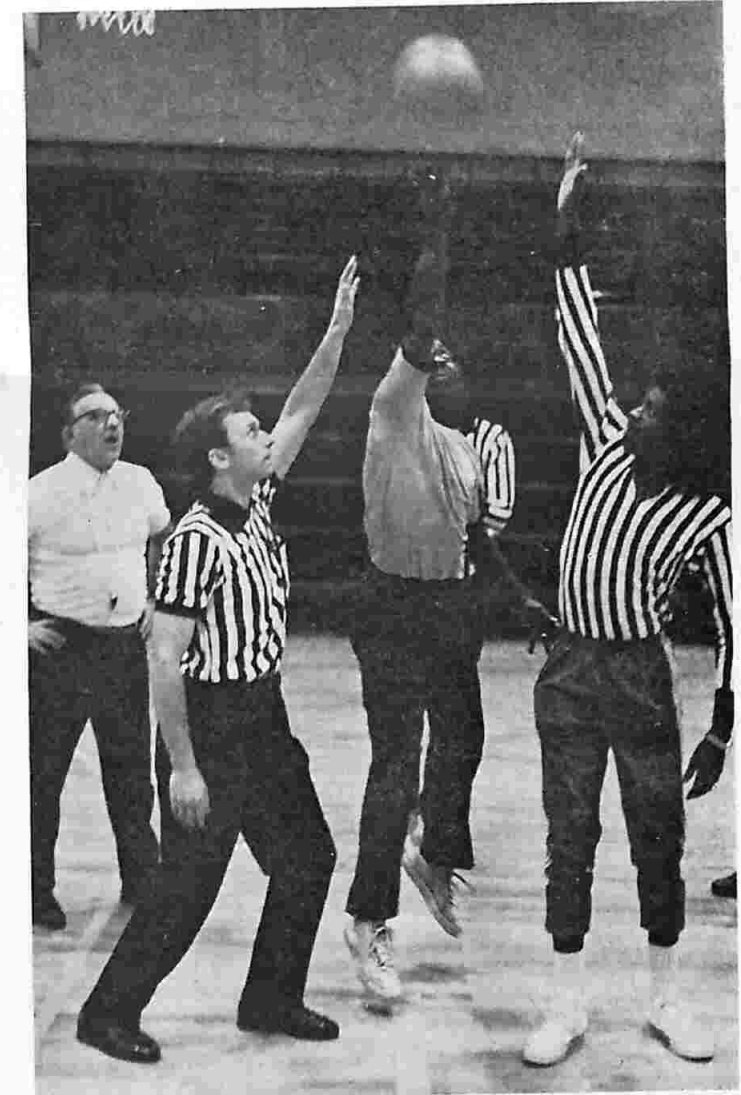

Oklahoma defeated Texas 24-0 in the second game. Mike Tate ran for a touchdown from the 19 yard line and added the extra points himself as the Oklahoma Sooners took the lead in the first quarter. In the third quarter the Sooners started to roll as they pinned Texas' quarterback Tommy Jackson in his own end-zone for a safety. Later in that quarter a Mike Tate pass to Randy Brazee set up a three yard touchdown sweep by Willie Johnson. Randy Brazee ran in for the extra points. In the fourth quarter Oklahoma blocked a Texas punt on the one yard line and the Sooners' Tim Kelker plunged in for the TD. Tommy Jackson, Gerald Sylvester and Jimmy Jackson played well for the Longhorns, but were unable to put it together against the Sooners.

When it started to rain late in the Texas-Oklahoma game, the stage was set for Notre Dame and Grambling to play the finest game of the season. The field became increasingly muddy as it continued to rain throughout the entire game. In the first half, defense was the name of the game, with neither the Tigers nor the Fighting Irish able to score. In the third quarter, Notre Dame's Pat Shriver broke loose for a 15-yard touchdown scramble, but the attempt for the extra points failed. The Tigers responded with a successful drive on which Gary Kimble was able to score from the one yard line. The Tigers also failed to get the extra points, leaving the score tied at 6-6. Shriver then returned the ensuing Grambling kickoff 70 yards for a touchdown, making the score 12-6. The Tigers defense rallied and the Irish were unable to score the extra points. With less than two minutes remaining in the game, the Tigers started a drive, which terminated in a Gary Kimble touchdown from the three yard line. The extra points attempt failed and the two teams, each having played their best, were forced to accept a 12-12 draw.

The Colts cinched second place in the Junior League, defeating the Steelers last Saturday 16-0. Ed Hogan scored the first TD in the game for the Colts and Todd Nelson added the extra points on a quarterback bootleg. In the second quarter, Nelson scored again with the same play to make the score 14-0. Scott Stowe ran in for the extra points and the final score of the game, 16-0.

The Vikings, who are the Junior League champs, defeated the Dolphins, their favorite rival, 24-0 in the second game. Vincent Harrison scored two touchdowns for the Vikings and Doug Hansen scored a TD on an option pass from halfback Willie Ross. Hayden Johnson scored the Dolphins touchdown. Mike Whitley of the Dolphins has been the most consistent kicker in the Junior League this season.

Draftees get early out

Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway has announced the Army will discharge its remaining draftees before Thanksgiving.

The Army's success in recruiting a volunteer force makes it possible to discharge the approximately 2,500 draftees prior to their normal completion of service. Draftees who volunteer to remain in the Army until completion of their normal tour of service will be allowed to do so.

With the last draft call in December 1972, the Army had 96,000 draftees in its ranks. The peak draftee strength of 552,700 was in 1967.

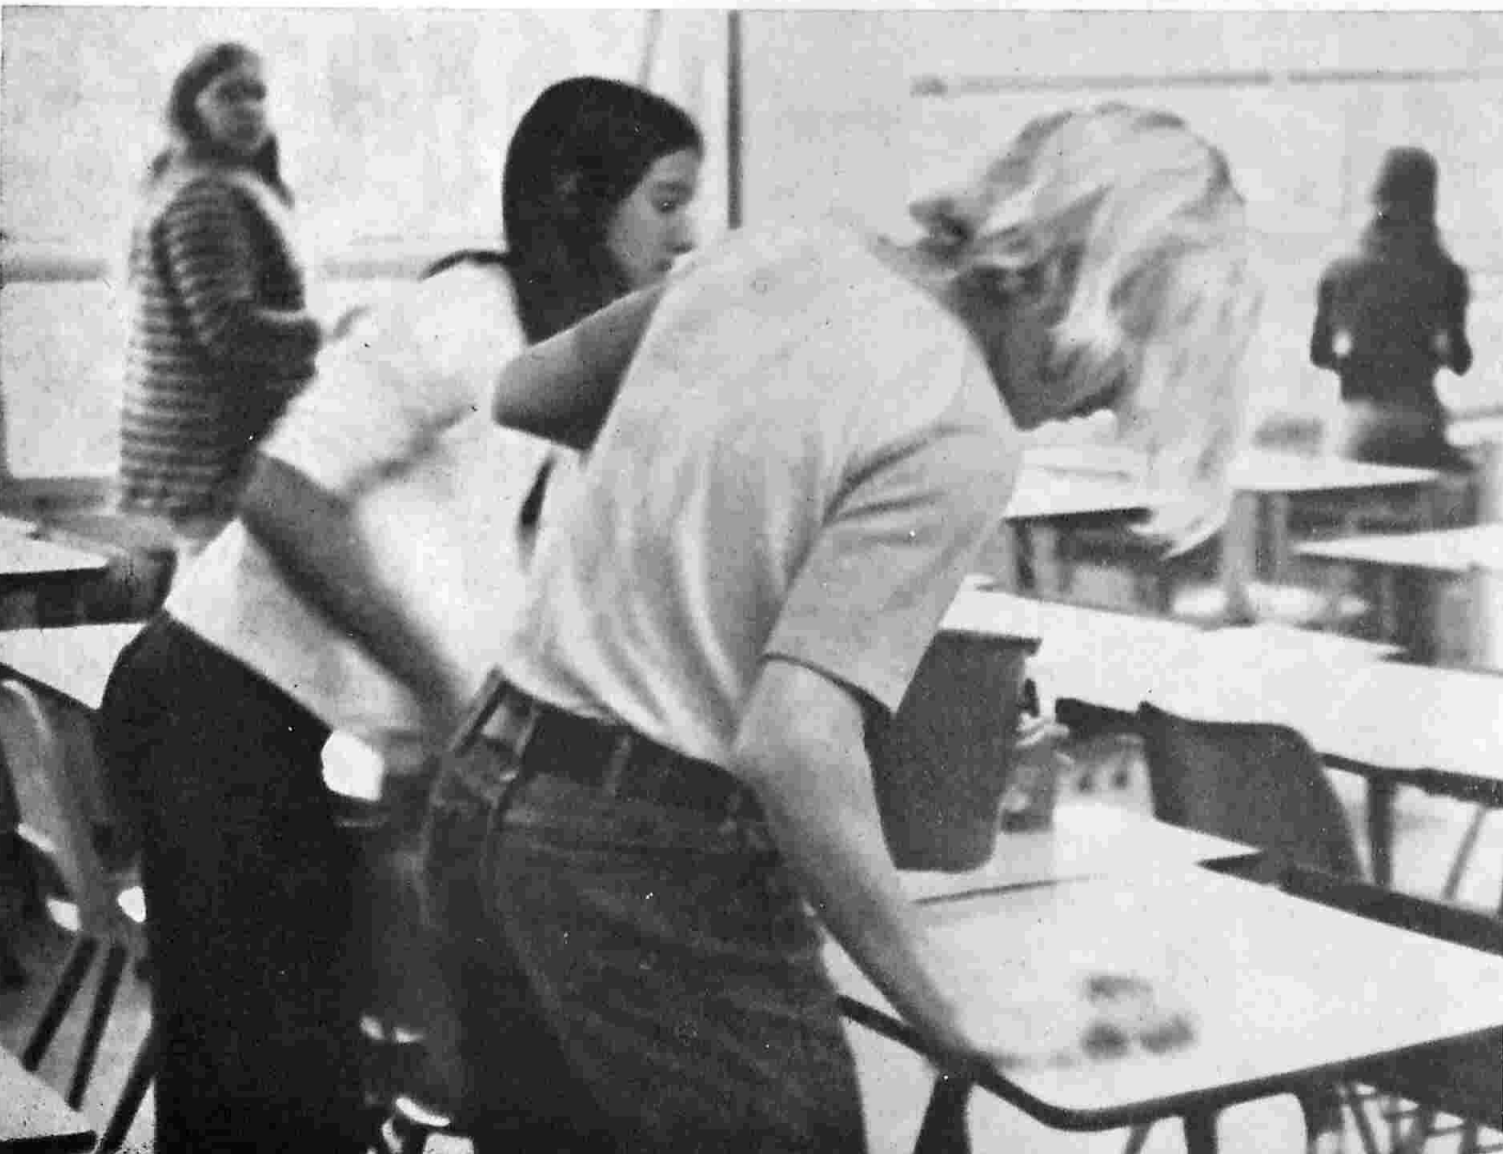

On June 30, 1974, the Army met a recruiting milestone on the way to an all-volunteer Army by exceeding its authorized (FY '74) strength of 781,000. Between January 1, 1973 and September 30, 1974 about 337,700 volunteers have entered the Army.

BAHS has a Clean-Up Day

Instead of the usual books, notepads, and pencils; it was mops, brooms, and buckets for the students of the Berlin-American High School Friday, October 18.

The occasion was Clean-Up Day, the first ever for the high school. The students were busy sweeping, mopping, and dusting their desks, chairs, windows, and hallways. (And in some cases of over-enthusiastic students—themselves!)

The day was planned, organized, and executed by the students after a student meeting October 15, when the problem of the untidy cafeteria was brought up. Mary Stempinski, a 12th grade student, suggested giving the entire school a general clean-up; and the next thing she knew, she was project officer for Clean-Up Day. She began the task of rearranging the daily schedule, assigning areas to be cleaned and teachers' responsibilities during the day. Tony Parks, coordinator, set about obtaining the necessary equipment from the Supply and Services Division.

Finally, the preparations were finished, and the Clean-Up Day arrived. Classes were shortened to ten minutes each, and after the fifth period class, the students, with sponges, mops, and rags in hand, began the job of cleaning their classrooms. The musical talents of Barbra Streisand and Abba from the many radios blended with the school cheers and shouts as the students worked. A general holiday atmosphere was evident with a great deal of laughing, shouting, and enthusiasm on the part of the students and teachers, continuing throughout the day. Teachers, who probably grabbed the nearest bottle of aspirin after the day was over, could be seen supervising and helping the students along in their endeavors.

After the classrooms received the "spit and polish" treatment, each class was assigned a specific area of the building to be cleaned. The areas included hallways, lockers, and the Student Union (cafeteria). Two enterprising young women were perched on top of the lockers, scrubbing away in time to the music and shouting their favorite school cheer.

When all was finished inside the school building, work was started on the outside. The football field was policed, parking lots were swept, and the school grounds were generally prettied up.

After the clean-up had been completed, three members of the Berlin-American community were invited to inspect and choose a winning classroom and class. The Berlin Brigade's Command Sergeant Major Gerald Davis Sr., Sergeant First Class Morris Albert of FSB, and Mr. Kendall Coats of the Engineer and Installation Division went through the school looking at classrooms, hallways, and lobbies, inspecting the students' work.

The Clean-Up Day ended with a pep rally held in the gym, complete with confetti, cheerleaders, and plenty of shouts and cheers. CSM Davis announced; Dr. Erika Schermer's high school German class, Mr. Werner Priggen's junior high German class, and Mrs. Carol Marsh's ninth grade science class took first place for the shiniest classroom. The freshman class was declared the overall winner for their work in the Student Union.

Mr. Leon Rivers, Deputy Principal of the high school, summed up the day. "I think it (Clean-Up Day) went well, I did see a lot of kids who expressed a change of attitude, perhaps it was the first time they really felt they were a part of the school."

Guardians hold Bonnland FTX

by 1LT Gavin

The 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry began their fall zone trip with a three-day training exercise in Bonnland, FRG, where the Guardians conducted extensive training in a combat-in-cities environment. The training in Bonnland was highlighted by a Bn FTX during which the soldiers of the 2-6 Inf fought a house-to-house battle, integrating combat-in-cities to attain maximum in realism and training productivity.

On September 21, the Guardians moved to a bivouac site near the town of Pressath (vicinity of Grafenwoehr, FRG). Here the Battalion pitched their pup tents and dug-in for a two-week period during which the Guardians successfully completed range firing activities, a Mechanized Infantry Squad Proficiency Course (MISPC), Squad ATTs, and Company FTXs.

For the first time in two years the battalion lived in pup tents for the duration of the zone trip. This in itself provided a unique source of training in that living in the woods for 21 days necessitated the use of various soldierly skills which are normally not exercised when living in hard billets.

On October 3, the 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry was treated to a rare performance by the renowned "TASCOM Showcase." "TASCOM Showcase" is a ten-man-two-women musical group based in Worms, Germany. Their popularity and reputation has resulted in performances in Greece, Italy, Belgium and the 1974 Berlin Volksfest. All twelve musicians are members of the United States Army, Europe and range in MOS skills from track mechanics to clerk-typist.

The Guardians arrived back in Berlin Oct. 9, looking forward to a hot shower to replace the field showers and a firm, dry bed instead of the deflated, wet air mattresses situated in the Army's version of a mobile house—a pup tent.

All in all, the general consensus among the Guardians was that the three-week training exercise was beneficial due to the exceptionally good training received and the character building, living in a pup tent for 21 days requires more from an individual than when living in billets.

EES offers winter deals

It is anticipated that the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) service stations, garages and auto parts stores in Europe will have sufficient quantities of anti-freeze this winter, despite the shortages that have hit the anti-freeze market stateside.

"Press reports of anti-freeze shortages paint a dim picture for the forthcoming winter season. It is hoped this will not be true for our customers in Europe," stated Col. Don H. Bronson, director of the Services Division, European Exchange System. "It appears that we will have sufficient quantities for customer needs this winter if a panic situation does not develop and customers limit their purchases to amounts of anti-freeze they actually require. In this way, we can insure that our procurement of anti-freeze will hold up under the demands of the winter driving season."

Also, the prices on a special selection of Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) mud and snow tires have been cut by 25 per cent and will stay on sale until stocks are exhausted.

"Customers will be able to buy these bargain tires at selected garages, auto parts stores and service stations in Germany as well as at Exchange outlets in Madrid, Spain; Vicenza and Livorno, Italy; Soesterberg and Schinnen, Holland, and Chievres, Belgium," stated Col. Don H. Bronson, director of the European Exchange System's Services Division. "The tires," he added, "will be displayed separately from regularly priced stock."

Tickets reduced for skiing

Another convenience for the early season skier as well as those later in the season has been added by AFRC's Garmisch Recreation Area.

This added feature in Garmisch is the sale of daily Zugspitze ski lift tickets at the AFRC hotels.

The tickets are priced at $7.75 for adults and $5 for children under 12-years-of-age. Included in this price is the cog train transportation to the slopes and use of all lifts in operation on the Zugspitze for the day.

The tickets are for sale Monday through Friday and are valid for use only on the weekday they are sold.

Togersen is new Chief of Staff

by KATHY WALSH

On October 22, the Berlin Brigade received a new Chief of Staff. Colonel Thorvold R. Togersen replaced Colonel Leonard L. Lewane who is now with the United States Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) at Ft. Monroe, Virginia.

COL Togersen came to Berlin from the Federal Republic of Germany where he was the Commander of the 11th Aviation Group at Schwaebisch Hall.

Prior to that assignment, he was at Headquarters, USAREUR, with the Chief, Force Development Division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Operations.

From 1951-54, COL Togersen served a previous tour in Germany as company commander in both Hanau and Gelnhausen.

Stateside duty included three years as an instructor at the Command & General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, and as Assistant Chief of Staff at Ft. Leavenworth.

In 1967-68, COL Togersen was commander of the 212th Aviation Battalion in Vietnam.

While in Vietnam, he was awarded the Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star, and the Air Medal.

Then COL Togersen was assigned to the Office of the Assistant Vice Chief of Staff, Department of the Army, and later attended the Industrial College of the Armed Forces at Ft. McNair, Washington, D. C. (A classmate of his at the Industrial College was Brigadier General R. Dean Tice, Commander, Berlin Brigade.)

1970-71 saw COL Togersen back in Vietnam as Chief of Staff of the First Aviation Brigade.

Regarding his assignment here, COL Togersen said, "I am impressed, Berlin lives up to all the acclaim that it has received." He further stated that the units here are among the finest, and added, "I hope to be able to contribute to the splendid record and high standing now enjoyed by the United States Army in Berlin."

In his spare time, COL Togersen enjoys hunting and fishing, and would like to take up golf "When time permits," he smiled. He also enjoys skiing.

COL Togersen and his wife, Elizabeth, have two children, Kimberly and Keith.

'Sleeper'

COMBAT CROSS-COUNTRY RUN, conducted by Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in the movie SLEEPER, playing at the Columbia Theater tonight . . .

SLEEPER — rated PG. Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. The Woody Allen madness strikes again; this time in the future where he wakes up 200 years after going under for an ulcer operation. Allen's lunatic adventure lands him in the role of a fugitive to escape being reprogrammed. The refreshing comedy is aimed at adult audiences. Also stars Diane Keaton. Special Short Subject: 1974 NFL Game — Broncos vs Redskins.

ASH WEDNESDAY — rated R. If you can imagine Elizabeth Taylor sagging and wrinkled you could also suppose that she would not long tolerate being in such a condition. In ASH WEDNESDAY she plays a lady who feels that extensive plastic surgery is the only way to save a failing marriage. It's a traumatic experience but the results are dramatic. Also stars Helen Fonda.

EXECUTIVE ACTION — Revival — rated PG. Some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers. EXECUTIVE ACTION is a work of fiction based on fact. It speculates on how a conspiracy to assassinate late President John F. Kennedy could have taken place. The controversy following the president's death has many unanswered questions. EXECUTIVE ACTION suggests that informed men of industry and government decided that the president must be eliminated. Starring Burt Lancaster and Robert Ryan.

THE CLASSICS are going to be rockin' in the Philharmonie tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m. when six guys from Holland come on the stage. "Ekseption" brings on Tchaikovsky, Beethoven or Mozart in a way not often heard in the Philharmonie. Their music has a "solid" foundation, because five of the musicians spent long semesters studying classical music. (Photo courtesy of Jänicke Concert Agency)

"Here rests in honored glory a American soldier

by LOU A. KIRKPATRICK

November 11, 1919 at exactly three minutes before 11 a.m. a wave of silence swept across the United States as the first observance of Armistice Day began. President Woodrow Wilson commemorated the day for the 116,516 men who died during the 19 months that the U. S. was involved in World War I.

Americans were so eager to end the war, that a false report in a New York paper set off demonstrations and displays of joyful glee, that only a proclamation by the Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker could check.

Finally, the Kaiser did abdicate and fled Germany, leaving it to the Allies. Two days later the Allies met with the German representatives in the forest of Compiègne and signed the truce. Within six hours the cease fire went into effect.

One year later President Wilson spoke to his countrymen saying, "To us in America the reflections of Armistice Day will be filled with solemn pride in the heroism known but to God"

of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory, both because of the thing from which it has freed us and because of the opportunity it has given America to show her sympathy with peace and justice in the Council of the Nations."

Along with Armistice Day, the U. S. and two of her allies, England and France, decided to honor "The Unknown Soldier." France laid one of her fallen warriors beneath the Arc de Triumphe in Paris.

England gave a similar honor placing a body in Westminster Abbey. The British went one step further and erected a memorial in Whitehall in honor of all of England's unknown dead.

In 1921 Sgt. Edward S. Younger of the 59th Infantry selected "the Unknown Soldier for America." Sgt. Younger was the most decorated enlisted man to fight in WWI. Four caskets were taken from the war cemeteries of Bony, Belleau Wood, Romagnesous-Montfaucon. Sgt. Younger placed a spray of white roses on the casket that became America's "Unknown Soldier." President Warren G. Harding had the casket moved to Arlington National Cemetery where it is still, under constant military guard.

Although the Allies use different days under different titles, all of the countries share the same feelings for the men that no one, but nations mourn.

Finally the occasion became a legal holiday on May 15, 1938. However the winds of change were blowing and a few short years later Representative Edward J. Rees, Kansas, presented a bill to Congress. A bill to change the name of the holiday to Veteran's Day to include the 54,246 dead the Korean War incurred. President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the bill June 1, 1954.

Perhaps it is coincidence, or fate, that this year Veteran's Day will be celebrated by Americans all over the world, Monday, October 28, 188 years after France gave America the Statue of Liberty.

Special Troops wins Cross Country race

Headquarters/Headquarters Company, Special Troops team literally ran away with the Berlin Combat Cross Country meet held October 11. Specialist 4 Walter Meyers was the first HHC runner across the finish line and the third fastest runner overall. Other members of the team were: Private First Class Marvin Williams, Specialist 4 Martin Teague, Specialist 4 Paul Grim, Specialist 4 Alan Biegel and Major Robert Harman.

A total of thirteen teams competed in the event which covered over four miles through the Grunewald. Runners wore fatigues, combat boots, web equipment and carried M16 rifles. Initially, soldiers maneuvered for position at the sound of the starting gun, however, the race eventually turned into determined individual efforts. HHC finished strong with five of its runners coming in within the first 19 places in a field of 78.

This is a repeat performance by HHC as the 1973 team finished first place with a team from Field Station Berlin.

Daylight savings time affects air flights

Persons having tickets for stateside air travel on or after Oct. 27 are advised to re-confirm their flight times.

Daylight Savings Time will end on that date and the U. S. will revert to Standard Time, moving clocks back one hour.

Military transportation officers are attempting to correct Category A, B, and M port call times, and flight times for official travel. However, due to the short notice and travel connected with leave, TDY, etc., some persons may not be notified officially.

Category Z port calls issued after Oct. 4 reflect the time change for travel on Oct. 27 and after.

Halloween Safety — a must for trick or treaters

by KATHY WALSH

Halloween, a wonderful trip into the old legends and beliefs of times gone by. A night of witches flying past orange moons on magical broomsticks, bobbing for apples in tubs of icy water, and black cats slinking around corners.

A night of laughing, excited, costumed children, carrying lighted jack-o-lanterns and goodie bags, scrambling from doorbell to doorbell with their shouts of "Trick-or-Treat."

In Berlin, Halloween is observed pretty much as it is back in the states, and parents should follow safety precautions for their children as they would back in the states. Halloween can be an exciting night for children, but it can end in tragedy.

Auto accidents, fire injuries, falls, cuts and bruises, and the biggest Halloween horror, poisoned "treats", may end an evening of fun for the little ghosts and goblins.

There is much parents can do to prevent a Halloween "treat" from turning into a Halloween "trick." Plan with your little elf or pixie just what route he or she will be following. Know where you can find your child quickly if it becomes necessary. Children should travel in groups no larger than three or four. And, most important, an adult or responsible older person should accompany all young witches and warlocks on Halloween night. Know exactly which homes your child will be visiting, and set a definite time for the little trick-or-treater to return home with his goodies.

A few weeks before the big day, the little ones will be wondering "what will I be?" Store-bought costumes are safe (most of them are fire-proof or flame-resistant) but half the fun of the holiday is rumaging through the rags and mother's jewelry box for a costume.

Here's a way to make a home-made costume flame resistant (for cottons only—not synthetics). Take several ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid, and three quarts of hot water. Make a paste from the borax and little hot water. Add the rest of the water and boric acid stir until clear. Dip the costume in the solution, wetting it completely and then let it dry. The costume must be re-treated if washed.

If wigs are used—they should be non-flammable, but a can of hairspray can achieve the same effect. Instead of a mask which can obscure vision, how about letting the little princess smear on Mommy's lipstick and mascara? (Hint—Mommy's high heels may make her feel more glamorous, but they're dangerous to little feet traipsing up and down stairwells.) To make your child glow in the dark, and visible to motorists, place fluorescent strips, patches, or paint on your child's costume. And if Lord John Silver needs a toy sword, make one out of cardboard so the pirate won't injure himself if he trips or stumbles.

Review safety rules for walking with your child before he or she ventures out of the house. Children may run into the street, and dusk is a time of poor visibility for drivers.

In addition, if you are driving on Halloween night, be on the lookout for the trick-or-treaters. Remember, children can become excited easily and forget all traffic and safety rules, so YOU will have to be extra-careful.

And while your child is out among the spooks and ghouls, keep your home safe for the other trick-or-treaters that will be ringing your doorbell. Remove obstacles from stairwells and steps leading into quarters. A lighted jack-o-lantern looks pretty glowing in the dark, but a child may trip over it. Keep stairwell lights on so children can see where they're walking.

And when the evening's over and your little angel or devil comes home, help them taper off from the excitement. Help remove their costumes and make-up, and take the bag of goodies for a thorough inspection. Talk about their evening, listen to their stories about actually seeing that witch fly over a neighbor's house, offer them a cup of warm cocoa, pop them in a warm bath, and then tattle them off to bed to dream about their adventures.

Remember, a child looks forward to only the good things about this night of nights. Children can have a howl of a good time, but only if parents take the time to prepare and alert them to the possible dangers. Happy Halloween!
