Hospital construction continues

by Danny V. Gates

Thirty years ago, troops of the German Third Reich billeted in Berlin were treated at what is now the 297th Station Hospital. Thirty years before that, the same hospital received recognition by being favored by Kaiser Wilhelm. In 1948, Father Flanagan, of Boy's Town fame, died in the same hospital.

Now a new 100-bed, ultra-modern medical complex is being built on the site of the hospital where hundreds of thousands of patients were treated over nearly three-quarters of a century.

According to hospital officials, the construction of the new hospital is right on schedule. Captain Joe Hilt, project officer for the new complex, explained that problems encountered have all been very minor and have caused no slowdowns. He went on to say that even the onslaught of bad weather poses no great problem, as all of the major outside construction has been accomplished. Now the workers can move inside, out of the bad weather, to complete their work. Captain Hilt says that the heating plants for the new building will be in operation to provide a better working environment for the construction personnel.

The old hospital was designated the 279th Station Hospital in 1945, and since that time has served American Forces personnel in Berlin. Hospital officials say that the old building is no longer adequate. They say that deterioration caused by age poses many problems. The major areas of concern here are aged electrical wiring and plumbing. Many of the medical utilities are outmoded and outdated.

It was for these and other reasons that the decision was made to build a new medical complex.

Hospital authorities say that a medical facility is one of the most complex structures to design and build. Special needs and requirements of both patients and staff must be considered. Planners must consider problems that are unique to medical buildings: for instance, air pressure. In a hospital operating room, when a door is opened the air inside the room must go out. At the same time, when a door is opened in an infection ward, the air must not escape. This is controlled by building design.

The new hospital will incorporate the very latest in equipment and technology. It will also be fully equipped with barber shops, a library, a cafeteria, and a theater.

Ground was broken for the new complex on May 15, 1972. Since that time, construction work has moved along on schedule, and with each passing day, the new $20-million United States Army Hospital, Berlin, becomes more of a reality.

Kontakt gets together over food

by Rich Bailey

Webster's defines contact, spelled with two "c"s, as an establishment of communication with someone. In Germany, Contact is spelled with two "k"s, as in KONTAKT. To many of the servicemen stationed in Berlin and the Federal Republic of Germany, the word has come to mean a great deal more. It means a different culture and language to learn about, and most important, it means finding and meeting new friends.

Project KONTAKT is a USAREUR sponsored program designed to bring together Germans and Americans between the ages of 18 and 25. All KONTAKT events are designed to do this. For example; Monday nights the swimming group meets at the Andrew's pool, and Women's Karate meets Tuesday nights at the BB Sports Center.

These are only two of the interest groups. Other groups that meet each week are; bridge, volleyball, Scottish folk dance, ice skating, ballroom dance, horseback riding and more. Other groups meet on the average of once a month.

One Saturday night each month, with the aid of some old orange crates, candles, wine and song, we transform an ordinary auditorium into an evening of enjoyment for all.

If you play guitar or other instrument, and are willing to perform in a candle lit atmosphere, bring your guitar and yourself to the KONTAKT Folksong Evening on November 13. The evening begins at 8 p.m. sharp and will be held at the Amerika Haus.

Tonight at 8 p.m. the International Dining Group will be going to one of Berlin's finest Yugoslavian restaurants, "Bei Pero", located at 135/136 Kantstr.

These are just a few examples of the various events and programs sponsored by KONTAKT. For further information call the KONTAKT Office at 819-6809.

Austria or Germany

The American Womens Club Berlin is sponsoring two tours during the next two months.

The first tour is to the "Christkindl Markt" held annually in the city of Nuernberg. The cost for the two day tour will be DM 100. The motor coach departs from the Frankfurt main station, US/RTO waiting room, December 21 at 7:30 a.m. The tour price includes transportation to and from the Christkindl Markt. One over-night in a good class hotel (basically in double rooms without baths), two breakfasts and one lunch, and a guided tour of Nuernberg and Rothenburg. An escort will be provided throughout the tour. Booking and payment deadline is Dec. 7.

The second tour is to Flachau, Austria, for a skiing trip from January 20-26. The cost will be DM 355. The motor coach will depart from the Frankfurt main station, US/RTO waiting room, January 20 at 8 a.m. The tour price includes six nights in a first class hotel. The dinners and breakfasts will be provided starting with dinner Jan. 20 and ending with breakfast Jan. 26. The booking and cancellation deadline is November 15. Full payment is due on this date.

For information and booking contact Mrs. Ella Everett, 1 Berlin 37, Argentinische Allee 235, Tel. 813-8914.

ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, a simulated accident was staged in the French sector, outside Napoleon Barracks, with members of the French, British, and American military police units. The event was staged to combine the military police knowledge of the three Allies. Pictured are: (left to right): French military Chef Vincent, American Private First Class Robert W. Archer, British CPL's J. A. Mills and R. L. Cooper, American Sergeant Lawrence W. Martin, French Gendarme Pissy and one of the accident victims, Gendarme Rene Mantel.

Wives join sports

All dependent wives interested in playing basketball, please call the Sports Office at 6168/6768.

MP's earn sport medals

by Kathy Walsh

Twenty members of the 287th Military Police Company underwent a co-partnership training exercise October 6-12 in Ehra-Lessien, West Germany, and were awarded various German medals.

The training, a joint operation with approximately 150 members of Company Three, 720 Feldjaeger Battalion, a German equivalent of an American military police unit, involved competition in sports, weapons firing, and combat training to include a night field exercise.

The MP's volunteered for the training and participated in physical training each morning at Yankee Stadium, Andrews Barracks, a month prior to departure from Berlin to Ehra-Lessien.

Private William J. Roell and Private First Class Robert D. Mayfield were both awarded the German Sports Medal, the Bronze Soldier's Medal, and the German Shooting Medal.

The following individuals received the German Shooting Medal: Captain Edward T. Christiansen, Company Commander, 287th MP Company; Sergeant First Class Robert W. Cole; Sergeant Christ P. Wilson; Specialists 4 James C. Artis, Robert P. Burns, Louis K. Jackson, Michael J. Matz, Richard A. McGiffin; Privates First Class Glen W. Crane, Robert D. Mayfield, Alejo E. S. Toves; Privates Edward E. Bishop, Marlon R. Duer, William J. Roell, and Olive Phillips.

BAHS Homecoming a big success

by Debbie Marmor

Friday started Berlin American High School's big homecoming weekend. The girls in the junior and sophomore classes challenged the girls from the senior and freshman classes to a muddy powder-puff football game after school. Both teams seemed to enjoy their mud baths and slid around as they played to a 6-6 tie.

The BAHS cheerleaders sponsored a bonfire in the lake behind the AYA. Despite the weather many people ventured out for the rally.

The junior varsity's homecoming football game started at 11 a.m. Saturday. Berlin's J. V. played a good rough game, but couldn't pull it out as they were defeated by the Augsburg Apaches 14-0.

The Apaches kicked-off to the Berlin Cubs at 1 p.m. for the last home game of the season. During the first quarter, Don Phillips intercepted a pass and returned the ball 15 yards. The Cubs had trouble moving the ball in the mud and had to punt. Jack Tarpley punted 39 yards to the Apaches' 15-yard line. The Cubs' defense held as the first quarter ended, 0-0.

Berlin had possession of the ball on their own six-yard line at the start of the second quarter. After several more plays the Cub's offense stalled, forcing Tarpley to punt for 35 yards. Toney Parks recovered Augsburg's fumble on the Apaches' 41-yard line. The first half ended with the score of 0-0.

At half-time, the Homecoming Court was presented. The court consisted of: freshman princess, Caroline Sewell, escorted by Alex Cole; sophomore princess, Linda Brininger, escorted by Roger Kreuzer; junior princesses, Myrna Medina, escorted by Mike Winchester, and Cindy Moore, escorted by Tim Shepard; and senior princesses, Karen Totman escorted by Don Phillips, Debbie Sichlinger escorted by Ron Maxwell, and Karen Martin escorted by Mike Orbock. Debbie Sichlinger was crowned as Berlin's Homecoming Queen by the reigning Queen Vickie Moore, who was escorted by the school's principal, Mr. Paul Britton.

Rick Marker kicked off for Berlin to open the second half. The Apaches scored on a pass but failed to gain the extra point. Jack Tarpley gained 18 yards on the ensuing kick-off. Bill McGlockton's 27-yard dash coupled with a 15-yard penalty against Augsburg put the Cubs on Augsburg's 25-yard line. The Cubs' offense was halted on the 12-yard line. The quarter ended with a score of Berlin 0 — Augsburg 6.

The Apaches moved down the field with a series of pass plays to score again during the closing minutes of the game. The final score was Berlin 0 — Augsburg 12.

Homecoming Weekend came to a close with a semi-formal sponsored by the senior class at the Harnack House Saturday evening.

This weekend the Cubs travel to Brussels for their last game of the season. The BAHS girls' volleyball team is in Wiesbaden this weekend to play the Northern Regionals with seven other teams.

MOST KIDS give up "mud pies" before reaching high school, but not BAHS football team. Last weekend during their homecoming game against the Augsburg Apaches, both teams found themselves taking mud baths. The Cubs lost the game 12-0. (Photo by Debbie Marmor)

AFN-TV presented Election 74

by Danny V. Gates

For those brave souls who were ambitious enough to rise and shine at six o'clock Wednesday morning, AFN-TV, Berlin, presented Election 74. The news staff, production crew, and engineering section combined forces to bring the community up-to-the-minute election coverage.

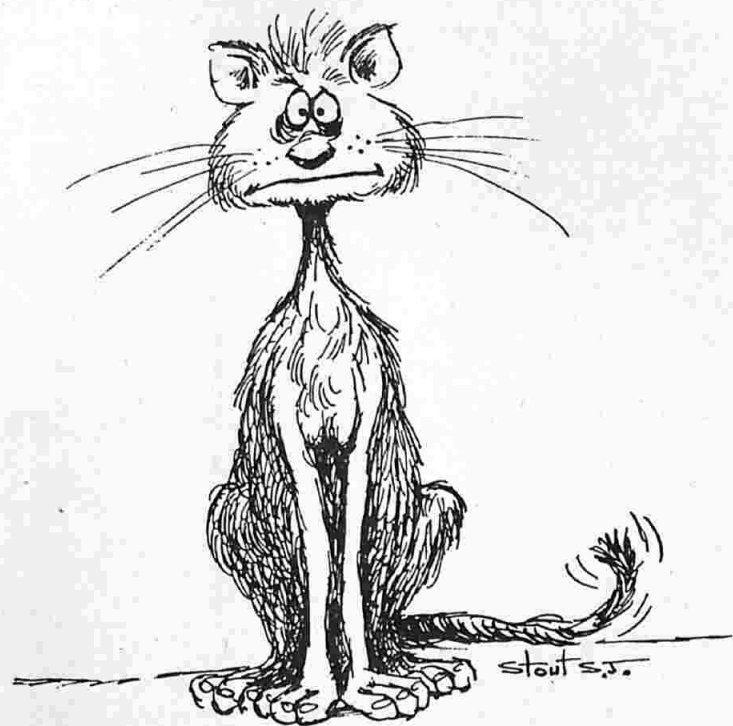

According to Army Staff Sergeant Charles Rickard, AFN-TV News Director, the early sign-on time was chosen to coincide with the closing of the polls on the west coast. Throughout the two hours and forty-one minutes of election coverage, results from the various Senate, House of Representatives and Gubernatorial races continued to pour into the AFN-TV news room. With the help of a group of student volunteers from Berlin American High School, the results were broadcast to the community as soon as they came in.

Air Force Staff Sergeant Bruce Dortin, Senior News Editor for AFN-TV, Berlin, and Producer of Election 74, explained the concept of the program. He said the idea was not only to present election results as fast and as accurately as possible, but at the same time, to provide some insight into the different races and some background on campaign issues and candidates.

SSG Dortin also praised the work of the volunteers from the High School. The students, who acted as assistants to the news staff, gathered election facts and results as they came in on the teletype machines. They also prepared tabulation boards used by the production staff in presenting the final election news. Dortin said that the students began work at four o'clock in the morning, and worked tirelessly throughout the coverage.

Master Sergeant John O'Connor, the AFN-TV Berlin Station Manager, said that the immediacy of the election results, and their final impact on the people in the community, prompted the station management to carry Election 74, another step forward in providing news and information to the Command and the community.

If you love your cats as my owner loves me, protect them by obeying the USCOB pet control regulations.

Rabies again!

A cat infected with rabies was found dead October 17 on a site in Lichterfelde West, Hindenburgdamm 101 a. Therefore, the zone restricted since October 5 has been extended as follows: Finckensteinallee-Ringstrasse-Weddingerweg-Drakestrasse to Dürerstrasse. Dürerstrasse to Moltkestrasse. Moltkestrasse to Hindenburgdamm. The north border of Schlosspark Lichterfelde to Teltowkanal. East to south: Teltowkanal near city border to Wupperstrasse. West: Wupperstrasse to Dahlemer Weg and Finckensteinallee. Dogs will wear muzzles and must be leashed. Cats should be confined to the residence.

UP TO THE MINUTE election returns were received from U. S. wire services and telecast immediately by AFN-TV. Volunteers from the Berlin-American High School senior class reported at 4 a.m. to help tabulate

WAC lieutenant handles dough

by Lou A. Kirkpatrick

She walks down the street with pride in her second lieutenant bars, content in the knowledge that she is the only female Finance Officer in USAREUR and one of six Army wide.

She is Lieutenant Pamela Madsen, Deputy Finance and Accounting Officer, who is in Berlin for her first duty assignment with the Army.

Madsen took her finance training at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. In school the young single woman took everything they handed her, right along with the men. Before attending Finance Officer Basic Course, Madsen completed Women Officers Orientation Course at Ft. McClellan, Alabama.

Some of Madsen's responsibilities in her new position include counting the money in the vault, taking care of bad checks, and supervising the breakdown of the payroll.

Regarding Finance's new check cashing policy, Madsen stated "It depends, I think it's a good service for the soldiers, but with all the stipulations, like not letting wives cash checks, and needing to have your Leave and Earnings Statement, it may not get the use we're hoping for. If there wasn't a bottom and top limit on the amount of the check I think it would get a lot more use. We'll see."

Madsen calls Tacoma, Washington, her home, but coming from an Army family, she has lived many places, including Munich and Heidelberg.

The young lieutenant spent a year and a half working in Washington state as a social worker. She has a BA in Sociology, but felt that social work was too emotionally draining, so she turned to the Army for a new start.

Madsen, whose father is a retired major, is not positive if the Army is her career. "My opinions of the Army are kind of vague at the moment. A lot will depend on what happens to me while I'm here in Berlin, since this is my first assignment."

Madsen says she "feels lucky about being overseas." She is using this opportunity to learn the language of her host nation. "Berlin is a very exciting city. I'm picking up the language on my own just talking to people."

Now Madsen is delving into the wonders of the world of money. Although she had no previous experience in the field, she is doing fine and (excuse the pun), making out like a bandit.

Finance tips to keep you straight

by Lou A. Kirkpatrick

Of all the things a person in the Army has to worry about, his or her pay should be the last. Unfortunately, this is not always the case. Many soldiers, when confronted with the complexities of the Leave and Earnings Statement (LES), are left speechless.

So, without further ado, here are a few tips that might help clear up some of the confusion.

Separate Rations, Cost of Living and Station Housing Allowances are not automatic entitlements. Each of these entitlements must be applied for by eligible service members and approved by their appropriate commander. The Finance and Accounting Office does not have approving authority for these entitlements.

The Finance Office receives a great number of DA Forms 1341 (Allotment Authorization) from individuals who desire to change their end-of-month pay option. If an end-of-month pay option is to be changed, you must submit a DA Form 3685 (Election of Pay Options). This form should be available in each orderly room and can be sent to Finance with a transmittal letter.

You may be eligible for a "Combat Zone Exclusion" for the retroactive pay received on your July 74 LES if you served in Vietnam or other areas designated as a "combat zone" from October 1 to December 31, 1972. This income may be excluded from your 1974 Federal Tax Return. You are advised to contact the Staff Judge Advocate or Internal Revenue Office for further information and assistance.

Reimbursement for dependent travel, paid by eligible individuals for dependent's trans-oceanic travel, is limited to cost-to-the government (what the government would pay for the same ticket). The difference between actual cost and government rates must be borne by the service member.

Leave is another subject that trips up some soldiers. Paragraph 3-5 of Army Regulation 630-5 sheds some light on when to be back from a leave. "Failure to return to your proper duty station by midnight of the day following the last day of leave, unless excused as unavoidable by a competent authority, is an unauthorized absence (AWOL). In such cases, the day due to return will be computed as the first day of absence without leave."

Casual Payments can also be a thorn in the side of the uninformed individual. Unit commanders continue to recommend approval of Casual Payments to members for other than emergency reasons. The reasoning that a member owes a bill, is going on leave, or has spent all his money does not qualify as an emergency.

Soldiers who have further problems with their pay are urged to contact their PSNCO.

Vehicle Lighting Week extended

The German Allgemeiner Deutscher Automobil Club (ADAC) of Berlin is working together with the Command to ensure that the lighting systems, windshield wipers, brakes and tires are in top form for oncoming winter driving.

This is in conjunction with the 18th International Motor Vehicle Lighting Equipment Week, held October 23-29, which has been extended in Berlin until November 30.

The ADAC started the Lighting Week off October 24 by setting up a trailer at the Engineer and Installation (E & I) Compound and began checking the vehicles of U. S. military and German nationals who work there. In addition, the ADAC will be at McNair Barracks November 18-23 from 9 a.m.-6:30 p.m. to check vehicles; and November 25-30 at the parking lot across the street from the American Youth Activities House on Hüttenweg.

Until the end of this month, the European Exchange System (EES) garage and POV inspection points will also be checking headlights, taillights, turn indicators, tires, brakes, and windshield wipers, free-of-charge, on POV's belonging to U. S. Forces personnel. This will be in conjunction with normal garage service on a first come, first served basis. Charges for work or parts necessary to correct deficiencies will be at the normal rate.

Protect your property

by Kathy Walsh

It's around 12 p.m. on a Saturday evening. You're on CQ, quietly reading or watching the late movie on TV. An unknown person walks into the CQ Room, says he's from the Provost Marshal's Office, and asks to see your arms room.

What do you do? Throw him the keys with a "right down the hall on the left, let me know when you're finished, and, hey, what's your name so I can log it here in my CQ Report?"

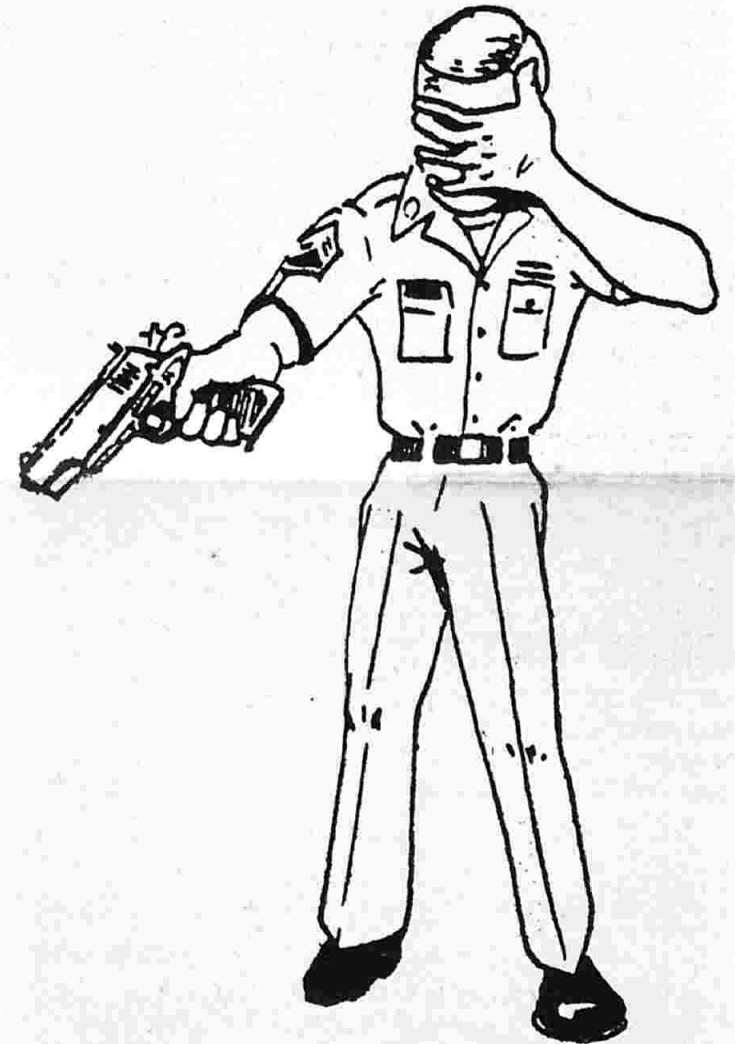

Obviously, this is a far-fetched generalization, but it can happen if you are not familiar with the proper procedures for physical security inspections.

You should be thoroughly familiar with your unit SOP concerning physical security inspections. Some units have a list of who's authorized to enter arms rooms.

When a person asks to see your company arms room, ask him for his identification and orders. Some battalions require that the battalion duty officer be called and informed that a physical security inspection is taking place, while other units require that the inspectors wait until someone from the company arrives.

While making your calls, ask the inspector to wait. If he really is what he says he is, he won't mind waiting, and will probably make note of your precautions about letting someone in the arms room.

Major Joseph M. Gilligan, Deputy Provost Marshal, said, "We can't be too careful. We have a good record here in Berlin, and we want to keep it. Just one guy not following SOP or not being alert, and our record is all for naught."

Don't kill our arms security record.

Spook House a big hit

by Kathy Walsh

The night was cold and dark with the orange moon brightly glowing amid the silent, mysterious clouds.

Down in the eerie streetlight-lit alley, people hurriedly glanced at the tall building, shivered, and quickly moved on, their footsteps echoing along the street and slowly fading into the darkness. "There's strange goings on in that house," they muttered to themselves, pulling collars up around necks and thinking of cozy teakettles whistling on warm hearths.

"Suddenly, shrill shrieks and screeches sounded through the night, the door of the house burst open, and numerous little ghosts and goblins, witches and warlocks, elves and brownies came streaming into the street.

"Come back, my little ones, and have some goodies," laughed an old, wrinkled, crone to the scurrying youngsters."

The beginning of one of Snoopy's famous novels? A story to tell on Halloween night in a dark room? This could have taken place on this past All Hallows Eve right here in Berlin at 10 Charles H. King Strasse.

The 14 families residing in the Dueppel apartment got together and decided to do something special for the youngsters in the Berlin-American community this Halloween. And that something special turned out to be one of the scariest, spookiest "Spook Houses" this side of Dr. Frankenstein's castle!

The washroom area of the building was divided into separate bays, each one recalling the old Vincent Price and Peter Lorre movies.

Macbeth's three witches were there "bubbling, bubbling, toiling, and troubling" their magical potions on a coal stove.

King Kong growled and snarled behind the bars of his cage, and then broke free to rush at the costumed children and send them screaming into the next area. . .

Which featured a husband and wife team portraying one of the most "gruesomest twosomes" ever—Dracula and Lady Dracula. Lady Dracula was eternally resting in her coffin, but her husband was "doing his fang thing."

The next attraction for the unsuspecting little visitors was a "Ghost-in-the-Box." With the black light shining on him, the spirit from the other side of the world popped out of his box and bobbed mysteriously in front of the wide-eyed children.

"And then there was a guy looking for a head, and he said to me, 'How about yours little girl, your head would be great for the two-headed man,'" said 10-year-old Terrie Kelly about the "Torture Chamber."

"The Mad Doctor's Operating Room" was complete with the doctor and the patient, and plenty of red paint (blood) everywhere. (A teenage girl fainted here, and a few women felt ill.)

Then there was a mysterious werewolf that suddenly showed up at the "Spook House," hung around, and then disappeared into the night.

Approximately 500 children from the Command visited the "Spook House" and could be heard saying "was that a trick or a treat?" as they departed.

GET A HAIRCUT, SOLDIER! Bob Codney was discovered to be the unknown werewolf who appeared unannounced at the "Spook House" at 10 Charles H. King Strasse. Bob added his own brand of chills and thrills to the festivities. (Photo by Willie Davis)

See your Household Goods Office early

Members of the Berlin Command are requested to visit the Household Goods Office at the Transportation Division, Movements Branch, Lichterfelde-West as soon as possible after receiving PCS orders. At the Movements Branch, the member will receive an instruction pamphlet and an inventory sheet. Arrangements will also be made for full premove-ment counselling. Failure to report early enough may cause inconvenience to the member and his family as well as a delay in shipment. The telephone number is 6994.

German Classes begin

German classes, both beginning and advanced, are now being offered at the Army Education Center at Andrews Barracks. The classes will be conducted November 25-December 20. In addition, tutorial help in foreign languages is available in the Education Center's Language Lab, located in Building 901 at Andrews Barracks, between 4-9 p.m. For information concerning the German classes, call 3563; for the tutorial help, call 3103 to set up an appointment.

Annual Membership Drive

The NCO-EM Wives Club annual membership drive will be held Wednesday, November 13, at the Club 50 at 12:30 p.m.

Ethnic Awareness Program

Special Troops is sponsoring an Ethnic Awareness Program each month starting in January. A planning session is being held Friday, November 15, at 113 Baseler Strasse, Apt. 24, at 6:30 p.m. to arrange the first program, Polynesian Month. Anyone interested in attending the meeting and having ideas they would like to share are asked to come forward. A committee will be established to plan the upcoming programs. For further information, call SP4 Patton at 833-1940 or CPT Gleaton at Andrews Chapel, 3440.

Speed Reading Course

The Executive Speed Reading Course will be offered on weekends beginning tomorrow until December 15. The classes will be held at Headquarters Compound, Building 1, room 3029. Contact Ms. Broser at 6814 for further information and registration.

The Black Windmill

DO YOU KNOW THIS AGENT?
Find out all about his activities in THE BLACK WINDMILL coming to Berlin movie theaters this week.

THE BLACK WINDMILL — rated PG — A kidnapping turns into a high level security incident that implicates the father of the abducted child. Michael Caine is a British agent responsible for interception of arms destined for Northern Ireland. When the ransom demanded for his son turns out to be the same amount that he is supposed to pay informers for the guns, Caine becomes suspect number one in the kidnapping. Also stars Janet Suzman. Special Short Subject: 1974 NFL Game — 49'ers vs. Lions.

QUEEN BOXER — rated R — Judy Lee, the one woman army, takes on the dock gangs of Shanghai in this Kung Fu thriller. She's after the syndicate for the murder of her brother and nothing can stand in the way of her vengeance. Also stars Peter Yang Kwan.

THE BAT PEOPLE — rated PG — Dr. Moss was never quite the same after the bat bite. He slept poorly and began having peculiar dreams. Police were puzzled about a number of attacks and murders by a strange, half human creature. Could it be that Dr. Moss...? The horror chiller may be too scary for children. Starring Stewart Moss and Marianne McAndrew.

Batik Demonstration at the Main Library

by Marga Danesy

A BATIK DEMONSTRATION will be given tonight at 7 p.m., at the Crump Hall Library, by Mrs. Jacqueline Wolfe, a British stage designer, who learned this ancient folk art from local people during her stay in India. She lives now with her husband and two sons — both are John F. Kennedy School students — in the Wannsee area, and devotes much of her time to art work.

The word BATIK originated in Java, but the beginning of this handicraft is not really known. Before the demonstration, Mrs. Wolfe will give a short lecture on the history and some of the symbolic designs used in the olden days.

For those who would like to try their hand at Batik, we could arrange for two workshops in the library in November and December. Mrs. Wolfe will inform you tonight what you should bring along for the workshop meeting.

For ideas on what to make — well, there is no limit to it; ties, vests, tablecloths, tote bags, etc. All of these items would make lovely one-of-a-kind Christmas presents.

We are looking forward to seeing you tonight at 7 p.m., at the Main Library.

THEY'RE IN BERLIN AGAIN — Ike and Tina Turner live at the Deutschlandhalle, next Tuesday, November 12. The show is on its third big tour of Europe and is sure to be as great as usual. Ike and Tina are the exception to the rule in that their fans get more in a live show than from the records. (Photo Courtesy Jänicke, Concert Agency)

47 days till Christmas

by Lou A. Kirkpatrick

With only 32 shopping days until Christmas, it's time for shoppers to sit up and take notice of what the Army and Air Force Exchange System (AAFES) has to offer.

Tomorrow is the final day of the first sale to head this way for the season. The big sale will be from November 29 through December 24. "The Yuletide Event," as the sale is referred to at AAFES, is for late buyers and has gift items on sale right up to Christmas eve.

But special sales are not the only way AAFES helps you save money during the holidays. The familiar piggy bank signs at all AAFES retail stores point the way towards exceptional savings on such items as underseat luggage, women's pantsuits, dress shirts, and more.

"Money Saver" food specials have also been introduced to help customers cut corners and are being featured in those exchange cafeterias and snack bars that serve hot foods.

In keeping with the festive spirit, AAFES is expanding their year-old program for fashion wear. Under this program fashion wear is shipped directly to retail stores throughout the exchange system. As soon as an item is sold, half of the ticket stub is sent back to Arlington, Texas, where a similar item, though not identical, is sent back to the store. In this way AAFES hopes to never run out of the best selling stock.

AAFES has produced two catalogs for customers to use in Europe. The "AAFES American Showcase," featuring items made in the United States, and the "European Exchange System Mail Order Catalog" presenting products to be found in Europe and the Far East.

AAFES has distributed these catalogs among their customers but not in sufficient quantity for everyone to get a copy. For the unlucky people who missed, the store keeps a lending library of catalogs on hand.

AAFES hopes to include everyone's shopping style so just about every angle is covered. That includes layaway. With only 10 per cent down an item may be held for up to 90 days. Payments must be made in three installments, but shoppers who wish to get their items early may do so. The only stipulation in the layaway program is that the item, or items, must amount to at least $15 worth.

As if all that wasn't enough, AAFES is also offering personalized Christmas cards. These cards display a variety of Christmas scenes, with greetings in your choice of English, Spanish, or German. If none of that is your liking, you may have your own picture on your Christmas greeting cards. Personal name imprinting is available and requires a few additional days time. Cards are available in boxes of 10, 20, 30, 50, or 100.

Pop costs more

Army and Air Force Exchange System (AAFES) retail stores will no longer raise the price of merchandise on the shelves when manufacturers increase prices. This applies only to items priced individually and may result in different prices displayed for the same item.

The price of soft drinks in all AAFES stores will now vary. In the past all soft drinks were sold at a uniform price ($4 a case), but with rising costs this is no longer possible. It is hoped that competition among the companies will help bring some of the high priced sodas down to a comparative level with the rest. Items such as wild cherry, ginger ale, and quinine water will increase to $4.60, while cola will go up to $4.20. Diet drinks will be reduced to $3.40 a case.

Protect your home

Theft from family quarters occurs frequently. Thieves usually enter quarters through unlocked doors or open first-floor windows. Thieves will seldom attempt to force a locked door or window except in basement or storage areas. They are looking for a "soft touch," and will inevitably choose a house or apartment that offers an easy opportunity for looting. Normal home security measures include:

- a. Keeping doors closed at all times and locked at night or when the occupants are out.
- b. Locking easily stolen items (e. g., money, jewelry) in a safe, trunk or other secure container.
- c. Locking storage areas and basements and checking them periodically.
- d. Preventing children from leaving toys, bicycles, and other items in the yard, hallways, or other unsecured areas.
- e. Informing family members and maids of the necessity for security precautions.

The rule to follow is: Do not provide an opportunity for theft.

Travel Notes Going East?

Military personnel who plan to travel to or through communist countries must send their request for clearance through channels to arrive at USAREUR 60 days before they plan to go.

Civilians and dependents need to allow for a 30-day margin.

An AE Form 1066-R (Request for Travel Clearance to Visit Communist Countries) must be submitted in triplicate along with one AE Form 1403-R (Communist Country Travel Briefing Certificate).

The documents are required for visits to countries such as Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, the Soviet Union, and Yugoslavia.

Allies join together

by Frank Gavin

On October 23, the Second Battalion, Sixth Infantry's Reconnaissance Platoon initiated an extensive exchange training program with its British sister unit—First Battalion, The Parachute Regiment.

The first phase of the exchange training took place when Corporal Bill Coffee, Reconnaissance Platoon, 1st Battalion, The Parachute Regiment, participated in a West Berlin wall patrol lead by Staff Sergeant Matthew Howard and Staff Sergeant James L. Baker of the 2-6 Infantry Scout Platoon.

Corporal Coffee received a pre-briefing by the 2-6 S-2, Captain Gary Jones, and an operational briefing by First Lieutenant William L. Henry, the 2-6 Scout Platoon Leader.

At 8:30 a.m., Corporal Coffee departed on SSG Howard's patrol for what proved to be an enlightening but cold venture along the West Berlin wall.

Corporal Coffee was quick to observe the similarities of British and American patrols, to include cold faces and ears.

The scope of the exchange training will expand into platoon level training in late November. Plans include training in Berlin as well as combined training in West Germany.
