Berlin Exchange Region Advisory Council

How you're being represented

(More about EES on pages 4 & 5)

by Michael S. McCollum

The Berlin Exchange Region Advisory Council is one of nearly 40 different boards, councils, and committees in the Berlin Command that affect our lives in one way or another. Recommendations by these boards and councils help determine what happens in the community.

According to MSG Owen H. Anthony, Administrative NCO for the Deputy Community Commander, members

vided by local exchanges and to make recommendations as to the adequacy of exchange services."

Further, the purpose of the council is to give the AAFES representative general opinions about AAFES products and services.

"The opinions should be received by the unit representative from the individuals that person is representing," Anthony added.

A USCOB letter dated June 5, 1973, outlines the Berlin Exchange Region Advisory Council. It consists of the chairman (LTC Jake M. Ruppe, the Deputy Community Commander), a representative from the Berlin Exchange Region (LTC Booker T. McManus, BER commander), and 23 members. The letter directs the council to advise and inform the exchange representative of problems in the community regarding services offered by AAFES.

According to the letter, the council will consist of members representing a "cross section of the Berlin-American community" and will meet at least quarterly on the call of the chairman. The council will be chaired by the Deputy Community Commander and will consist of regular members, appointed by commanders and activity chiefs, as follows:

- One unmarried enlisted man (Special Troops)
- One wife of an enlisted man, grade E-4 or below, occupying economy quarters (4th Bn, 6th Inf)
- Two wives of junior NCOs (2d and 3d Bn's, 6th Inf)
- Two wives of senior NCOs (TCA and Special Troops)
- One wife of a DA Civilian
- One wife of a company grade officer (U.S. Army Hospital)
- One wife of a field grade officer (Field Station, Berlin)
- Two wives of State Department employees
- One junior and one senior high school students
- One member of Married Airmen Survivor Training Program (sic)

The wives of the USCOB, the U.S. Minister, the Political Advisor, and the Berlin Brigade commander are honorary members who attend on a rotating basis.

The following agencies are invited to send a representative to the council meetings:

- NCO Wives
- TCA Wives
- American Wives
- Economy Wives
- Junior Officers Council

A proposed revision of the 1973 staff letter will, if approved, add five new members to the advisory council. These will include one enlisted woman, one enlisted man from each of the infantry battalions, and one enlisted man from the USCOB/USAB headquarters.

Council representation as compared to population would then be as follows:

COMBINED ARMY/ AIR FORCE STRENGTH	COUNCIL MEMBERS
Officers — 525	1
Enlisted — 5600	7
civilians/dependents — 6950	20

Representatives of the BER and DCC agree that the advisory council, when utilized properly, can be a useful tool to the AAFES commander, and can benefit the community by making their wishes and comments known to the responsible agencies.

According to MSG Anthony, the council meeting is considered to be "open." If you wish to address the council personally, you can do so.

"The only prerequisite," Anthony explained, "is that people let me know they would like to attend at least two or three days before the meeting so that I can schedule them on the agenda."

For those interested in attending the next meeting of the advisory council, MSG Anthony may be reached at the office of the Deputy Community Commander, tel. 6908.

of the council are to represent the units that appointed them, or at least members with the same rank.

AR 60-10, Exchange Service General Policies, states that "installation advisory committees may be established to obtain benefit of customer attitudes toward services pro-

Spring Clean-Up

by Ann Keays

The traditional Berlin American Community "Spring Clean-Up" will begin tomorrow and continue through May 4. This is a time for everyone to get involved in making our sector of Berlin neat, clean, and attractive.

All units will participate in their designated areas. The E&I Division Self Help Issue Point (SHIP) will be open from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow and next Saturday, in addition to its normal operating hours.

Housing area senior occupants have been assigned to supervise clean up activities in specific buildings and grounds. They will coordinate between the SHIP and individual occupants. Lodgers are encouraged to draw necessary garden tools, fertilizer, and grass seed.

Our Berlin hosts are proud of their city. It is our responsibility to maintain and add to the beauty of Berlin. Each individual can contribute by clearing his housing area of leaves, trimming hedges and shrubs, planting, fertilizing and cultivating flower beds, and reseeding grass. Fences and window screens can be repaired and replaced and window boxes can be painted.

Other community groups, including the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and AYA, are getting involved and have selected projects for clean up. They will be under adult supervision but need your support. The following goals have been set by the Berlin Scouts:

Project	Responsibility Troop	Supervisor
Clayallee playground	748	Linda Nape
242 Argentinische area	453	Doris Courtney
Playground on Luetzelsteinerweg	766	Nora Whedbee
Community Chapel area	122	Chris Markel
Dahlem Guest House	629	Betty Stempinski
PX/bus stop area	226	Sharon Ballard
ACS area	548	Charlotte Ervin
Foodland/AFN-TV area	327 & 402	Allena Mann
Dueppel playground	281	Eloise Fortenberry
Outpost Theater area	606	Betty Hoppes
236/240 Argentinische	192	Donna Harrison
12 Taylorstr. area	386	Vel Carter

Also scheduled for clean up are POV parking lots: Turner Barracks and US Army Hospital on April 28, McNair Barracks on April 29, and Andrews Barracks on April 30.

You have to get involved

by Michael S. McCollum

"Everyone complains about the weather, but no one does anything about it," goes the old cliché. If the weather isn't to your liking, that's tough. You can live with it or go somewhere else. Each of us is confronted at one time or another with a situation not to our liking. It might be our job, the lack of certain items in the PX, or any everyday irritant. But do you do anything about it?

People have a tendency to "play things off" rather than get involved in making some sort of effective improvement. Apathy is the status quo. There are all kinds of agencies, services, and communication channels in this command to listen to your complaints and try to correct or explain irritating situations. Take a good look at yourself. How many times a day do you complain about something and how often have you gotten involved enough to try and correct the thing you were complaining about? And we're just talking about things that affect us on a personal level. How about things that affect the command or someone else?

The command sponsored a "Community Meeting" recently at the Outpost Theater. There were representatives present from virtually every agency in the command to explain their function to anyone interested enough to ask. In addition they were there to listen to people's complaints. It was well publicized in advance. How many concerned individuals showed up for the meeting? About 30. It was a shameful waste of the representatives' time.

It's rather hard to believe that only 30 people in an American community numbering over 13,000, had problems or were interested enough in their community to attend the meeting. But, it's an indication of the problem we're discussing.

The BERLIN OBSERVER welcomes "Letters to the Editor" but rarely receives one. We're willing to print your viewpoints on just about anything. We can't write the letter for you. That's your job.

Writing a letter to the editor is like getting involved in your community. Sitting around and griping isn't going to change anything. It takes personal involvement on your part, whether it be writing a letter or attending a meeting, to make positive changes in the community we live in.

'The Taking of Pelham One Two Three'

THE TAKING OF PELHAM ONE TWO THREE — rated R. The unique adventure yarn details the bold venture of three hardened criminals who hijack a New York city subway car for a million dollar ransom. The crooks give the city one hour to deliver before they start killing hostages. PELHAM ONE TWO THREE is a taut and exciting suspense drama. Starring Robert Shaw and Walter Matthau.

THE CHINESE CONNECTION — Revival, rated R. Bruce Lee is given ample opportunity to demonstrate his unbelievable skill at the ancient oriental art of Kung-Fu in this tale of intrigue and rivalry between two schools of Judo and Karate. The unstoppable Mr. Lee chops and kicks his way through throngs of thugs in an amazing display of the powers of the human body.

THE CRAZY WORLD OF JULIUS VROODER — rated PG. A young ex-Marine whose Vietnam tour qualified him for VA psychiatric help takes on the real world in a unique confrontation. From a makeshift shelter dug beneath a freeway ramp, Julius treks forth every day to try and find out if it is he or the world that is insane. Starring Timothy Bottoms and Barbara Seagull.

THE LORDS OF FLATBUSH — rated PG. Remember juvenile delinquents? Those kids with the greasy hair, leather jackets, and pegged jeans? Hanging out on a street corner with nothing to do — except get in trouble? Rock 'N' Roll? Bobby Sox? Penny Loafers? Meet THE LORDS OF FLATBUSH — they got it all down. There are sex scenes and some profanity in the film. Starring Perry King and Sylvester Stallone. ALSO: Terrytoon.

"W" — rated PG. A young lady becomes the victim of a series of apparent mysterious murder attempts. Each time the initial "W" is found at the scene. Mounting terror brings the woman to a horrifying confrontation with the shadowy stranger. There is some violence in the film. Starring Twiggy and Michael Witney.

Baden Powell will be in Berlin!

by Judy Pricks

Well, did any of you make it to the Joy Fleming concert? That was a swinging Sunday afternoon, and I've still got that big mama's strong voice ringing in my ears. You missed something!

Make a red circle around April 24 so you don't miss the next big pop event in Berlin. That is the night the "folk giant" (as he is billed) Donovan will hit Berlin. The place to be is in the Philharmonie and the time is 9 p.m.

Of course, Berlin isn't only "popping" around. There are other things to be seen and heard as well. Take the unusual concert in the studio of the Academy of Arts next Wednesday, April 23, for example. From Budapest a cymbal duo will play selections by Scarlatti, Corelli, Bach and Bartok, to name some. Ferenc Gerencsér and Jozsef Szalai are the musicians who have specialized in this instrument, which is not to be confused with the cembalo. Most often the cymbal is connected with the music of the Hungarian gypsies. Its sound can be placed somewhere between a piano and a clavichord. Judith Hevesi will accompany the cymbals on the violin. Tickets for this 8 p.m. concert, available at the door, cost only DM 2.20. If you care for baroque music, you are sure to enjoy this musical event.

Another rarity had its premiere in the Eissporthalle next to the Deutschlandhalle last night — an operetta performed on ice. The operetta is Emerich Kalman's "Csardasfürstin," which is set in Hungary and, therefore, includes melodies of the folk music of this country and gives the costume designers ample opportunity to copy the lovely Hungarian dresses. Since this is an ice show, skating skills have been placed first on the list of attractions. Hans Jürgen Bäumler, former world champion skater and Olympic winner, can be admired in the show. Cathy Steele from Munich, who is billed as one of the best adagio skaters, together with Willy Bietak (Peggy Fleming's partner in 1971) are the leading couple, whose operatic love story with all the traditional ups and downs is told in this theatrical production on skates. Many other skaters and a pretty chorus round out the evening of gay melodies, lavish costumes and excellent skating. Treat yourself to a couple of hours in the dream world of the operetta. Tickets (DM 6 and up) are available at the PX ticket agency or at the Deutschlandhalle. Check there for the show times.

Did you know that Baden Powell will be in Berlin on April 23? You know it now. The famous guitarist from Brazil has brought along his quartet. They can be heard in the Hochschule für Musik (8 p.m.). Tickets cost from DM 8 to 18.

Some more guitar music, but from the classical side, is scheduled at the Philharmonie on April 28. The evening is under the motto "guitar meets oboe." On the guitar is Berlin's Siegfried Behrend; on the oboe is Pierre W. Feit.

And then there is a small restaurant with equally small prices that I'd like to recommend to all those who've learned to like Greek and Turkish cooking. Between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m. you can eat, drink and be merry at "Lissos" on Pfalzbürgerstrasse 83. The place isn't fancy, but has an atmosphere of its own. Maybe you will like it there, too, and soon will not want to "missos Lissos."

AAFES profits help soldiers and airmen

by Kathy Thornberg

Ever wonder where the profits from the Berlin Exchange System go? Well, they come right back to you, the AAFES customer, through the Army and Air Forces' morale, health, and welfare programs.

At the end of every fiscal year, all exchanges worldwide send their profits to AAFES Headquarters in Dallas. After various costs are deducted, the remaining profits are "divvied up" among Army and Air Force commands worldwide, depending upon the need and military strength.

Along with donations from Class VI and audio-photo shops, this money is placed into the Central Welfare Fund. Depending upon the dividend declared to the Army and Air Force by the AAFES Board of Directors, it is then parceled out to various programs supported by non-appropriated funds.

During Fiscal Year 1975, USAREUR received $15 million for welfare activities. Out of this $15 million, the Berlin Command received $183,000. This money is used to improve the morale and welfare of soldiers, airmen, and their families through various recreational and off-duty programs.

The $183,000 is distributed through the Command to the following organizations and activities:

Recreation Services:
Service Clubs	$39,738
Libraries	20,530
Craft Shops	2,641
Music & Entertainment	1,395
Sports	34,548
Chaplains' Fund	700
Central Welfare Fund Personnel Administration	30,450
AYA	9,298
Unit Funds	28,700
Community Relations	1,500
Troop Education	10,000
Contingency Fund	3,500

The above figures were obtained from Ms. Julia Renken, Accounting Technician for the Berlin Central Welfare Office.

The Central Welfare Fund Personnel Administration figure ($30,450) is used to pay the salaries of the personnel working in that office, as is the figure cited for troop education. That money is used to pay the salary of off-duty military personnel teaching MOS courses.

The Contingency Fund is used for the Command's Christmas decorations, and for the various awards given in the Command. (Soldier of the Month, Cook of the Month, etc.)

The $28,700 cited for the unit funds is the total amount allocated. Individual units are given a sum based on the strength of the unit. Unit funds are usually used to improve off-duty and relaxation activities for the soldier or airman. Dayroom improvements, magazine subscriptions, and company parties are examples of this.

So, whenever you find that most of your paycheck has been "deposited" in the PX or any AFEES facility, don't get too upset; you'll get it back.

AAFES has roots in frontier days

On July 25, 1895, the New York Times was running a front page story of Indian uprisings near Pocatello, Idaho. Troops from Fort Robinson, Nebraska, and Fort Russell and Camp Carlin, Idaho, were moving to the area.

The life of a soldier in 1895 was a hard one. A campfire on the prairie was home, with the strains of a harmonica providing the evening's entertainment. Town was a week's ride away. Suffice to say, no one went into town for a weekend.

For their supplies the men formed a kind of cooperative, which they called a canteen. Each member of the troop put a dollar or two into the kitty and one man was detailed to ride to town, buy what was needed, and then sell it back to the men at a profit. Any profit went into a general recreation fund, presumably to buy a new harmonica when the old one wore out.

These canteens were the forerunners of today's post and base exchanges. In those early days, good service meant fresh stocks of snuff. Horse blankets, Bowie knives and corn whiskey were the big sellers. Also on July 25, 1895, General Order Number 46 was signed by Secretary of War Daniel L. Lamont, and exchanges became a part of the U. S. Army. Since that date, and for 79 continuous years, exchanges have been serving the men and women in uniform.

The mission remains essentially the same—to provide the Service members what they want, where they want it, and at prices they can afford.

Earnings still go into a general recreation fund and help pay for hobby shops, libraries, day rooms, and other welfare activities.

The manner of operating exchanges has naturally undergone many changes. Today, prices are stabilized, dividends equalized, and modern shopping centers have replaced the covered wagon stores. Snuff is still on the authorized list of items stocked, along with a variety of name brands undreamed of in 1895.

The army of yesteryear was ever alert along the American frontier. Today, that frontier extends across the globe and the troops are accompanied by exchanges ever ready to provide "total service to the total force."

Exchange System keeps the 'pickle jar' filled

by Kathy Thornberg

"We're expecting a new shipment any day now," said the salesclerk to the PX customer interested in a display item that was temporarily out of stock. "That's all I ever hear," the customer grumbled as he made his way to the door.

Sound familiar? Ever wonder just how the Exchange System orders its merchandise?

Basically, the Exchange has four regular means of obtaining its stock.

One is the Visual Rapid Re-Order system, introduced into commercial business in the U. S. in 1923 and brought to Europe about four years ago. About 14,000 items, 58 percent of the Exchange's total sales volume, are ordered in this manner.

It works on the old "pickle jar" theory of country-store days. When the pickle jar was getting empty, the storekeeper saw it was time to order more pickles.

AAFES merchandise is shipped to Berlin from warehouses in Giessen and Gruenstadt. Immediately after delivery it is placed on the shelf space allocated for it. No merchandise is kept in stock. Items ordered in this manner are considered staple items—items the customer will be needing on a continuing basis.

The Open Order/Direct Delivery System, comprising 19 percent of the sales volume, is used in ordering items from European vendors. Sewing notions and cosmetics are also obtained by this method. These items are ordered by the managers of the different AAFES facilities, and are shipped to the Exchange via air mail or parcel post.

Merchandise procured on a one-time basis (seasonal merchandise, Christmas decorations, back-to-school outfits) are obtained through the Vendor Drop Shipment. These orders are based on the prior season's sales, and comprise seven percent of the Exchange volume.

The newest area of AAFES merchandising is the Fashion Distribution Center in Arlington, Texas. The Berlin Exchange receives most of its women's fashions through the Center.

A buyer in Arlington will send the Berlin Exchange stock based on Berlin's "profile." This profile contains information on the Exchange, Berlin's climate conditions, the fact that Berlin is a large metropolitan city as op-personnel. This lets the buyer see how that particular article or style is selling.

The buyers in Arlington receive "report cards," allowing them to see how well THEY are doing in answering the needs and desires of the AAFES customers.

The Center conducts its own quality control on all merchandise before it is accepted. When AAFES picks up the merchandise from the vendor, it is not packed or boxed. It is hanging on racks, and the Center's inspectors check each article for defects. If a fault is discovered, the vendor has 18 hours to pick up the rejected merchandise or substitute acceptable stock for it. If he doesn't, the merchandise is shipped back to the vendor at his expense.

At the moment, just women's fashions are being distributed by the Center, but plans are underway to include men's and children's clothing in the total operation.

Stereo equipment is one item of merchandise of interest to almost everyone in the Command. Recently, the Berlin Exchange opened its Sound Center. The Exchange procures its stereo equipment directly from the manufacturer, thus slashing prices for the customer.

According to Mr. Charles W. Kirgis, manager of the main PX, the new Sound Center is going "very well." Kirgis says that sales in stereo equipment have improved 100 percent. The only problem encountered is the quick turnover of stock due to the huge volume of sales.

Kirgis explained that if there is sufficient demand for an item, chances are it will be added to the order lists. For example, in Berlin there is a demand for men's 100 percent wool suits. This demand comes from the members of the State Department and high-ranking personnel who must wear such suits at official functions. A special procurement was made for the Berlin Exchange. Kirgis said, "we're probably the only store in Europe with a sufficient demand to purchase such suits."

For some unknown reason, the sale of 220-volt appliances in Berlin does very well, as opposed to West Germany where the exact opposite is true. "AAFES headquarters will still procure those appliances for us," said Kirgis.

Kirgis urges customers desiring certain items stocked in the Berlin Exchange to utilize the Customer Suggestion Forms, and urges anyone else with the same desire to fill out the forms also.

60-day Trial Monday shopping

by Kathy Thornberg

The Main PX at the Shopping Center will be open Mondays on a 60-day trial basis during May and June, according to LTC Booker T. McManus, commander of the Berlin Exchange Region.

"We're in business to do business in the most efficient manner," said McManus.

McManus explained that if enough sales are made during the Monday openings to cover the cost of opening the store (salaries, cost of utilities, etc.) the Main PX may open on Mondays permanently.

Mr. Charles W. Kirgis, manager of the Main PX, said, "I've been advocating it (opening the PX on Mondays) for two years." He commented that the PX was open six days a week during the Christmas season, and was able to provide satisfactory service to its customers.

He speculated that the first few weeks of the Monday openings may be rough because the PX might have to hire additional personnel who are inexperienced in sales work, but things should smooth out.

Fridays, Saturdays, and Tuesdays are usually the busiest days for the PX (these are the days you'll find the longest lines at the checkout counters) and the Monday opening should help alleviate this.

McManus said that other AFEES facilities normally closed on Mondays will not be affected by the 60-day trial.

He added that things should stabilize themselves during the next few months.

Kirgis stated that more space is being allocated for the display of record albums, and by July 21 the Berlin Exchange will be picked up on the rolls of the AAFES record distribution center in Atlanta.

Kirgis further stated that the Exchange was previously ordering albums two and three months ahead of time. The record distribution center will "cut the pipeline," allowing the albums to arrive much quicker. It is the policy of the Exchange to purchase the top 200 albums in popular music and the top 50 in other musical categories (soul, jazz, Latin, country).

There, in a nutshell, is how your Exchange obtains the merchandise it sells.

Fine, you say, but that doesn't tell me how to get my favorite brand of after-shave or perfume. There is a way.

Orders sent by the Berlin Exchange are constantly being reviewed by the AAFES buyers and selection committees, made up of AAFES customers. As new merchandise is made available by the manufacturers, it is placed on their order lists.

Also reviewed by AAFES are the Customer Suggestion Forms filled out by Exchange customers. A majority of these forms are suggestions for stocking a particular item.

posed to a rural community, and general sales statistics that help the buyer determine what women in the Berlin-American community would like to see in their store. In addition, notes from the exchange personnel informing the buyer that a particular fashion item is doing well, or not so well, helps the buyer in his decisions.

The Center works in this way: the fashions are sent to Berlin with sales slips attached to them. When the clothing is purchased, half of this slip is retained by the Exchange. At the end of the day, these slips are airmailed to Arlington, along with the notes from the Exchange

Mitchell returns to Berlin

by Lou A. Kirkpatrick

The position of Golf Pro has recently gone through a change of hands at the Berlin American Golf Course. Johnny Mitchell took over the responsibility from Tony Virgilio who is heading back to the states.

"Johnny Mitchell? That name rings a bell," you say. Well there's good reason for that because Mitchell was the pro at the Berlin course for a number of years before departing in 1972.

Mitchell, who sometimes has trouble remembering that he is also a sergeant first class, is back in Berlin through his own request. Mitchell spent his time in the states as the pro for the golf course at the Army War College in Carlisle, Pa. According to the pro, "I had been overseas nine and a half years so it was time to go home for a while." Even the lure of home-cooking was not enough to keep him away from Berlin for too long, however.

"The Army has been very good to me," stated Mitchell. With 14 years in and all of them spent on or around a golf course, not many people will argue that point. When asked how he felt about his job the pro replied, "This is my life, the golf course."

A graduate of the Professional Golf Association Business School, SFC Mitchell is a pro in every sense of the word. In his civilian life a younger Mitchell served as assistant golf pro in Cleveland Tenn., LaFayette Ga., and what he considers home, Miami, Fla.

In the Army working as a golf pro consists of more than the title suggests. In civilian life the golf pro's job is teaching, running the pro shop and maintaining the course. The general manager takes care of the monetary side of things. "In the Army it all comes under one head," explained Johnny.

The pro keeps the course open year round with the summer greens available during the good weather. The summer greens are the ones seen on T.V. that look like they were made out of plastic and styrofoam, certainly not grass and soil.

The winter greens, from October to April, are not kept up so well. Mitchell claimed that "The winter greens are for people who are really addicted to golfing, in any kind of weather."

The biggest thing on the agenda for Mitchell to worry about for a while is the Berlin International. "The International is set up for people in the zone to come and see the great city of Berlin and participate in a golf tournament," stated Mitchell, "it will be 23-27 June."

Mitchell has every confidence that the golf course staff will set up a tournament worth remembering. The staff, consisting of Tom Delew, asst. golf pro; Jeff Worshan, asst. Manager; Skip Butler, pro shop clerk; Edmund Rietz, pro shop clerk; Jim English, super of greens; and Heinz Abel, caddy master, are all held in high esteem by Johnny.

Rec Svcs plays tennis all year

by Lou A. Kirkpatrick

Silence surrounds the player as he prepares to serve. The lights of the court shine down on him like a spotlight. His opponent waits, gripping the racket tighter, tensed for action. The ball goes up in the air and meets the taut strings of the racket making a familiar popping sound.

A professional game? No, just part of the everyday action at the tennis courts of Recreation Services.

From the time the tennis courts at Huttenweg and Saargemuender open at 9 a.m. till they close at 9 p.m. they are filled with tennis enthusiasts of all ages.

All the courts under Rec Svcs in Berlin have clay floors, considered the best according to SFC Alan Toms of the Sports Office. There are two doubles courts and a singles playing court in the tennis bubble on Huttenweg. One singles court in the Four Seasons Compound on Saarge-muender, and three courts open to all military personnel, their dependents and guests at the Harnack House. The courts at the Harnack House are the only outdoor courts available.

There are two instructors who teach five hours a day. During the winter months they stay at the indoor court on Saargemuender, but when summer brings its warmth our way they will be found at the Harnack House teaching on court one.

Tennis reservations for any of the courts can be made by calling 6581 from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. the day of the reservation, or from 12 to 9 p.m. the day prior. Walk in reservations are taken from 1 to 9 p.m. the day prior to desired play.

Mr. "Cotton" Hensley, the new sports officer, can be reached at 6168 for further information.

Cubs take third place

by Timothy Olsen and Debbie Marmor

Despite the overcast weather that prevailed over the entire track meet held last Saturday in Rhein-Main, the Berlin Cubs put up a good fight against Frankfurt and Heidelberg, placing eight girls in the top four, and four boys in the top three.

Vickie Neal headed the day by placing three times—1st in 80 yd. hurdles, 2nd in triple jump, and 4th in long jump. Elisa Huston took 2nd in the 80 yd. hurdles, and Kathy Haury took second in shot put. Third place winners included Jody Engbretson in the 100 meters, Colleen Gilligan in the 1500 meter run, Myrna Medina in the 80 yd. hurdles, and Janet Virgilio with the discus. Vickie Kraהל came in fourth in the shot put.

The young men turned in two 1st place winners, David Hobbs in pole vaulting and Greg Grimes for the shot put. Gerry Brooks took second in the 80 yd. low hurdles, and David Aura third in high jump.

Berlin came in third behind the two Class A schools with 21½ points for the girls, and 15 points for the boys.

This weekend the Cubs will host Bad Kreuznach, Wurzburg, and Bremerhaven in the first home track meet in two years. The track and field events will take place at Yankee Stadium at Andrews tomorrow at 10:30 a.m.

Jones takes singles title

by Gil Jones

Kim Jones came on strong in the Berlin American Tennis Club's annual Indoor Ladies Tennis Championships to win the singles finals. Ellen Carrick and Louise Pawlik overpowered Karen Hadley and Sally Madson in convincing fashion to win the doubles title.

In the singles, Jones jumped off to a three games to one lead but was unable to keep the pressure on as Carrick closed the gap at four games all. The final two games were very close but Jones regained the momentum and went on to win the first set 6-4. In the second set it was all Jones, as she ran up a five-game lead before dropping a game and won the set handily 6-1.

Not to be denied a first place finish, Carrick teamed up with Pawlik for a one sided victory over Madsen and Hadley in the doubles final. The match was considerably better than the 6-1, 6-1 score indicates, with many exciting volley exchanges and a number of games going to deuce.

Enroute to the finals, the Madsen-Hadley team upset the second seeded doubles team of Kim and Pat Jones in a nip and tuck match, 0-6, 7-6, 7-5, which saw a tie-breaker in the second set. The tournament concluded with an awards ceremony following the doubles final.

Actor Robert Culp, who was originally slated to present the tournament awards, was unable to be present due to illness.

Schedule change

Due to inclement weather the Golf Course schedule has made a change. The Spring Match Play Club Championship originally set for April 19, 20, 26, and 27 has been moved back to May 3, 4, 17, and 18.

All other events on the calendar will proceed as scheduled.

BASC erupts

by Larry Reynolds

Led by the ageless Paddy Yarr, the Berlin American Soccer Club erupted last week to bury the hapless last place Gillette team under a twelve goal onslaught, the highest goal total of the season and an assurance of a firm second place in the second division.

For the first time this year, the BASC played on their home grass field — a marked difference to the usual all-weather cinder field used during away games. Yarr was the big winner last weekend, as he fought and scrambled for six goals. Close on his heels was Larry Newton who booted in five goals from his right wing position. The last goal was a long high floater from Reynolds, from about 20 meters out.

The level of play for the team was generally good. The defense glittered all day and allowed the offense to concentrate fully on shooting goals through the weak Gillette defense. Gillette often had control of the ball, but were unable to break through with any success until late in the second half when they booted in two goals.

Kirk's Quirks

by Ms. Kirk

I have good evidence that paddleball is a fairly popular sport with the members of the Berlin Military community. Mainly because every time I try to get a court, they're all tied up. With all the paddleball fans in mind I will proceed with this week's question.

The game itself was an invention of the Celtic people in the early 19th century. Originally only a front wall was used, later the court was completed by adding the side and back walls. Although there are different court sizes in some of the countries, everywhere the standard soft ball is used. One country, in addition to the soft ball, uses a harder ball. It is the only country in the world to do this and my question is, what is this country?

Last week's question, what was Joe Nuxhall's record, had a truck load of answers and set a record itself. Last week's question had more correct answers than any previous week and was the first time a woman sent in an answer. Joe Nuxhall was the youngest player ever to be in the major leagues.

Stan Craig, John Martin, Joe Morasco, Robert Duffy, Mike Rosinus, Helen Cazer, Dennis Rears, Edwin Lawall, Paul Grim, Alan Lathan, and Bobbie Hobbs all sent in their two cents worth.

Good Luck this week people, remember to call Ms Kirk at 6112.

by Ann Keays

The chilling winds, overcast skies, and intermittent rain did not discourage scores of would-be sailors last Saturday when the Wannsee Recreation Center harbor opened.

COL Earl L. Casner, Deputy Brigade Commander, officially unlocked a gate leading to the pier and the summer season began.

Members of the American Yacht Club Berlin (AYCB) conducted free orientation tours of the harbor and offered pointers on sailing.

One AYCB member, Kim Plank, was particularly enthusiastic in his initial lessons to members of his "volunteer crew." When asked if there was any significance to the cut-out portion of his tennis shoes, where one big toe protruded with a red sock and the other big toe pushed out green sock material, Plank replied affirmatively. He explained he had been sailing approximately one year and still needed an occasional reminder of sailing terms. The green sock on his right foot was starboard and the red sock on his left foot was on the port side. "You know, port wine is red and is usually the only drink left over when a party ends," he said. "So I can remember PORT, RED, LEFT! I still haven't figured out starboard, though."

Plank explained terms such as "coming about" and "jibbing," two turning maneuvers used in sailing. He showed how to use the wind to a sailor's best advantage. "A sailor is always racing, he wants to get the maximum efficiency from his craft. The faster a boat is handled and covers the water, the better the sailor."

For those interested in learning to sail, Plank offers encouragement. "It's a fascinating, rewarding sport. But, you have to keep the boat in motion all the time — that's the key to sailing."

BAHS on top of soccer

by Kevin Lindroth

Last Saturday morning, the Berlin High School soccer teams challenged the Karlsruhe Knights in the first official games of the season.

The Junior Varsity squad started their game at 10 a.m. Steve McCarthy centered a corner kick to Irwin Spitzenberger, allowing him to make the first goal of the game. Another goal by Spitzenberger and a third by Mike Hanna gave the Cub J.V.s a clear 3-0 victory.

The Varsity team put their show on the road at 12 o'clock. The first score came as the Cub's left wing, Steve Kincaid, centered the ball in front of Karlsruhe's goal, giving center forward, Mike Lorenz, the easy task of heading it in. Karlsruhe scored soon afterward making it a whole new ball game. Before the first half ended, Karlsruhe managed to get the ball past Berlin's goalie Larry Hoelsketter one more time.

Early in the second half Santiago Ortiz of the Cubs scored on a direct kick tying the game 2-2. During the remainder of the game each team fought hard to make the decisive goal. The score remained tied as the official game time ran out, extending the game with 2 five-minute halves. The extended period gave Mike Lorenz another shot at the Karlsruhe goal, giving Berlin the 3-2 lead and the game.

Summer Youth Hire

The 1975 USAREUR Dependent Youth Summer Hire Program will run from June 2 through Sept. 30. Application forms are available at the Berlin American High School as well as in the Civilian Personnel Office, HQ Bldg. 4, Room 312. Applications will be accepted in the Civilian Personnel Office during regular working hours.

A lottery drawing is tentatively scheduled for May 10 to establish referral rosters. Applications received after May 10 will be added in order of receipt. Two rosters will be established; one for ages 16 through 22 and one for ages 14 and 15. Dependents age 14 and 15 may not be hired until the roster of those age 16 and over is exhausted. Consequently, employment opportunities for the younger group are expected to be very limited.

The information concerning "Summer Hires," published in the Berlin Observer on April 11, is inoperative.

$600 scholarship

Tempelhof's NCO & Airmens Wives Club will once again be giving a $600 scholarship to a senior graduating from the Berlin American High School.
