Parade highlights July 4 activities

Traditionally, military units celebrate national holidays with parades and unit activities. This year will be no exception as the Berlin Brigade and U. S. Forces prepare to celebrate the 205th anniversary of American Independence.

This year's 4th of July Day Parade, which starts at 11 a.m. on Platz des 4. Juli, will include members of the 2nd, 3rd and 4th Battalions plus elements from the Combat Support Battalion.

The parade will also feature music by the 298th U. S. Army Band and elements of the Air Force command at Tempelhof will also participate.

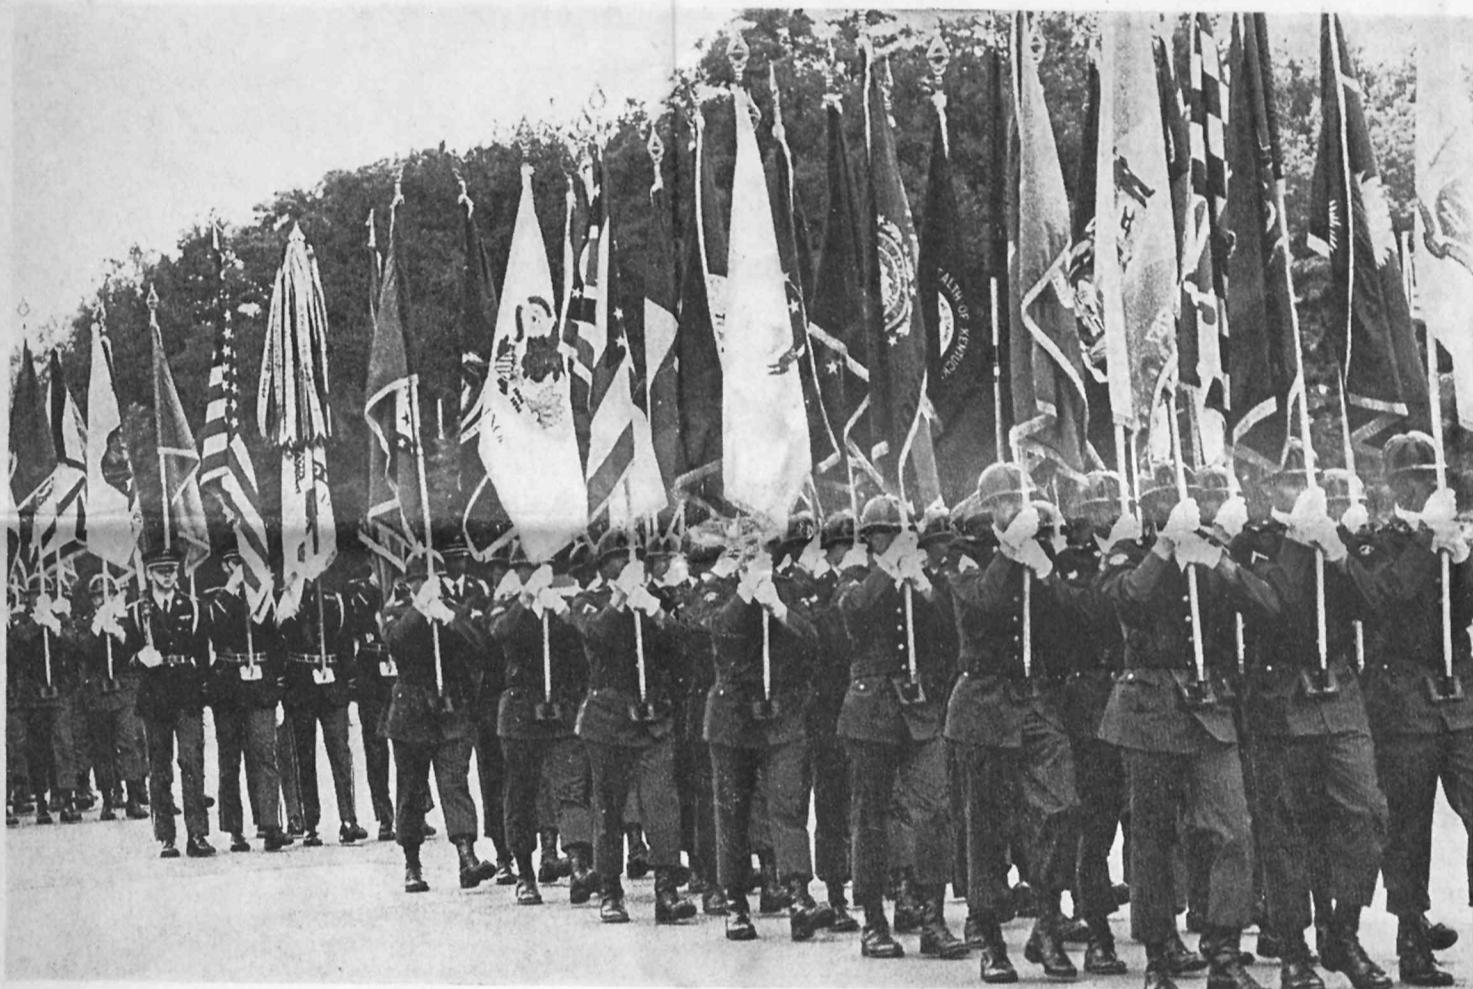

Since the holiday honors its adoption, excerpts from the Declaration of Independence will be read and special honors rendered to the 50 states that make up the United States.

These honors will include a recitation of the name and date each joined the Union and the firing of the "Salute to the Nation," consisting of 50 rounds fired by Battery C, 94th Field Artillery. One round will be fired as each state's name and entry date is announced.

Soldiers and their families, along with our German neighbors and allies, will be able to enjoy the parade and the activities that follow, including a fireworks display at 10:30 that evening. The uniform for the parade is Class A's.

To ensure that all military personnel and their families have an opportunity to attend this year's event, military buses will leave the Truman Plaza bus terminal, Dueppel and Park Manor Estates at 10 a.m.

The buses will make their normal stops enroute to the parade site and immediately following the parade, all buses will return to the bus terminal.

FLAG DAY — A pass-in-review of foot and mechanized elements were just a part of last year's spectacular Independence Day Parade at Platz des 4. Juli. This year's parade starts at 11 a.m. and will include a 50-gun salute to the states of the Union and a helicopter rappelling demonstration. (Photo by Jim Joerger)

Fireworks display planned

In celebrating Independence Day, July 4, there will be a fireworks display at 10:30 p.m. in Dreipfuhl Park.

The 298th Army Band will present a public concert before the fireworks starting at 9 p.m. The American community is invited to come on out and enjoy this music and fireworks spectacular.

Dreipfuhl Park is located between Leichardt Strasse and Garystrasse, however, parking space is limited so it's recommended that spectators walk or use Army or public transportation.

Buses will depart at 8:30 p.m. from the McNair Bakery and Andrews Swimming Pool with stops at Sundgauer and Dueppel housing areas while the bus leaving Park Manor will stop in the Pueckler area. Buses will return immediately following the fireworks, boarding on Clayallee.

Top shooters identified at brigade weapons meet

by Linda Jach

The brigade's top firers were named Saturday after lively competition at the Brigade Weapons Meet at Keerens Range, with 2nd Battalion coming out as the overall high-scorers.

The meet is held each year to find out which firers will represent the Berlin Brigade in the Allied Weapons Meet in October, according to Capt. Michael G. Hulgan, assistant training officer, G-3.

Awards were presented Saturday afternoon to the top three individual firers, the top three teams and the highest scoring battalion.

The "shooters" competed in three categories — M16A1 rifle, M60 machine gun and the .45-caliber pistol.

Have you used the Army's Wannsee facilities?

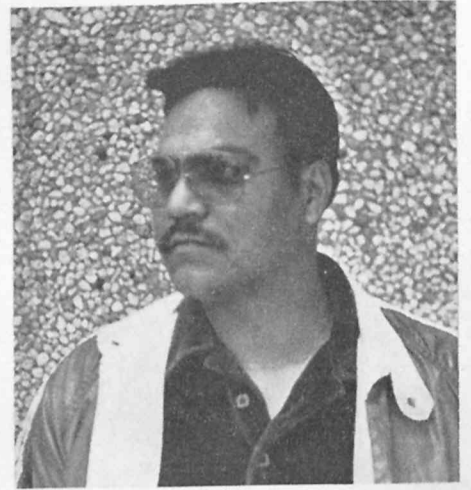

Pvt. 1 Kary Taul, Company C, 2nd Battalion: "No. I haven't gone down to see the place, but I have heard that it is nice."

Family member Maridee Winans, Field Station, Berlin: "No, I don't know too much about it. It is supposed to be a nice area."

Sp4 Sylvia Johnson, Field Station, Berlin: "No, but I am thinking about it soon. The Wannsee is not advertised enough."

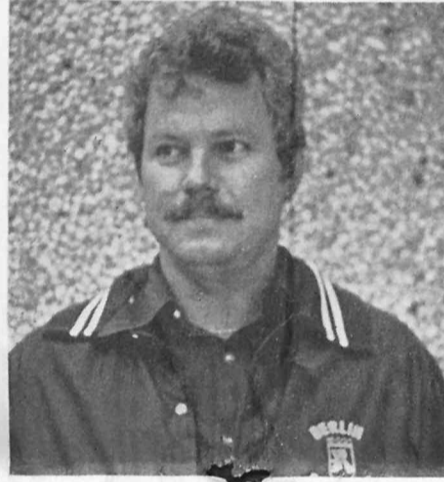

SSgt. Alfredo Flores, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion: "Yes, I use the Pavilion quite a lot. It's very comfortable and enjoyable for the children."

Family member Meri Schiller, Combat Support Company, 2nd Battalion: "We have been out to the lake. It is very nice. We enjoy walking around it."

PFC Derek Darby, U. S. Army Communications Command: "No, I didn't know it existed."

GS-11 Roger Keller, DYA director: "Yes, I have used the facilities. I use the Pavilion area, the cruise boats, and the swimming pool."

Pvt. 1 Arthur Isles, Company C, 2nd Battalion: "No. I don't know about the facilities, however, I would like to find out about them."

IRS cracks down on tax protesters, avoidance schemers

If you're so fed up with federal taxation that you're tempted to take matters into your own hands, the Internal Revenue Service has some advice for you: Don't do it!

According to a recent IRS review, some 265 illegal tax protesters have been convicted of criminal tax offenses during the last 30 months.

Right now, the IRS is checking up on 362 people suspected of this kind of chicanery. If prosecuted and convicted, they could face a maximum of five years in jail and $10,000 in fines.

The IRS investigations are aimed at persons using such illegal tax-avoidance schemes as mail-order ministries, family estate trusts, fraudulent claims of exemption from income-tax withholding, and assertions of the unconstitutionality of the Federal Income Tax.

Aside from criminal prosecution, the IRS also invokes civil action to make sure illegal tax protesters pay their due tax (with penalty).

Of the 11,258 illegal tax protester returns the IRS has been examining since last fall, it's possible that some of them involve military personnel. If so, these people have a threefold loss to consider: a permanent criminal record, a financial penalty/incarceration, and a damaged career.

If you're one of the 1,440 suspected illegal tax protesters who have not filed returns, or are included in the 695 others who owe back taxes, don't be surprised to learn that you're on the "IRS Most-Wanted List."

To the conscientious taxpayer who still feels taxes are too high, the IRS says don't despair. Its efforts at nabbing the schemers will in the long run help taxes from rising at a faster rate than present. (ARNEWS)

Berlin's Battery C readies for parades

by Linda Jach

The firing battery of a field artillery unit is often referred to as the "muscle" of the unit.

"That's because the 'big guns,' the howitzers, make up the firing battery," explained SFC William J. Kermode, Jr., first sergeant of Battery C, 94th Field Artillery.

The firing battery is made up of six, M109A1 howitzers and six, M548 cargo carriers, said Kermode. Also included in the firing battery is an ammunition section, the fire direction center and a M577 command post carrier, which holds the communications of the firing battery.

The battery was shining up its muscle this week in preparation for the Brigade Recognition Day Parade today and the 4th of July Day Parade, according to Kermode.

"The howitzers and carriers got the spit 'n polish for the parades, because they'll be making up part of the mounted elements in the parade," said the first sergeant.

Along with the big guns, the 70 members of the firing battery will also participate.

For the men of the firing battery, there's never an ordinary day, explained Kermode.

There's physical training, morning formation and chowtime, but their day is much more than that.

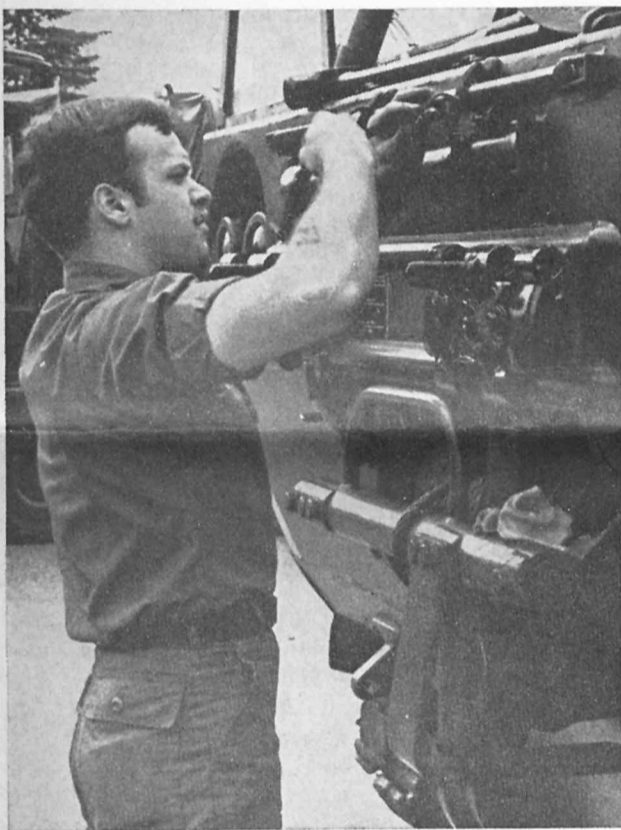

Not only do the crews perform their own maintenance on the tracked howitzers and carriers, they're also responsible for giving those vehicles their spit 'n polish shine. During their Field Training Exercises in West Germany, however, their responsibilities are increased.

Capt. Mario Cervantes, the battery commander, stated that the soldier of the battery takes advantage of every hour of training. "Each soldier is aware of his responsibility towards the maintenance of Berlin's freedom, as it is the only allied artillery here."

During the parade season, the gunnery sergeant, SSgt. Mark Kieselstein's job is to make sure that all the vehicles are in tip-top shape and that they're uniform in appearance.

The man in charge of the whole firing battery is SSgt. Johnny Yeppez.

"All of these soldiers are the best trained and most well disciplined soldiers I have," said Kermode.

Overstrengths in Specialist 4, Corporal

Army announces E-4 promotion guidelines

There are now more E-4's being promoted in the waiver zone than the maximum number authorized, according to officials of the U. S. Army Military Personnel Center. Because of over-promotion in the past, this means slightly fewer promotions to E-4 as they are brought into balance.

Soldiers may be considered for promotion with a waiver, if they have 15 to 23 months time in service. No more than 95 percent of the total number of E-3's and E-4's with 15 or more months time-in-service can be

E-4's and no more than 20 percent of E-4's can be in the waiver zone.

Promotions authorized by enlistment contracts and the "Stripes For Skills" Program are exempt from this percentage limit.

There are three major steps in determining the number of authorized E-4's.

Commanders first determine how many E-3's have 15 or more months TIS, as well as the number of E-4's with 15 to 23 months TIS.

Secondly, to find out the total number of authorized E-4's, including those with a waiver, add the number of E-3's and E-4's with 15 or more months TIS. Multiplying that total by 95 percent results in the maximum number of E-4's authorized.

If the number authorized exceeds the number of E-4's in a unit with 15 or more months TIS, subtract those E-4's from the number authorized. The difference is how many can be promoted to E-4.

Finally, to find out how many promotions are authorized in the waiver zone, multiply the number of E-4's with 15 or more months TIS by 20 percent. This step only applies to units with promotion capability.

If the number authorized is less than the number of E-4's with 15 to 23 months TIS, then no promotions with waivers are authorized.

If there are more soldiers authorized than the number of E-4's with 15 to 23 months TIS, subtract that number from the number authorized. The difference is the number of people that may be promoted in the waiver zone, if the total promotions are not more than the total number of E-4's authorized.

Troops improve commo skills

by R. I. Harrell

The 4th Battalion Radio Telephone Operators received instruction on communication procedures recently from 1st Lt. John Hathaway's battalion commo staff.

During the training conducted, one of the many things covered was the use of the Communications Electronics Operating Instructions. Soldiers were given classes on how to use it to find what is needed to communicate properly. Under the guidance and assistance of SSgt. David Ouellette, the soldiers being trained became so good, the procedure became second nature.

Other things taught were the installation and operation and care of various vehicle-mounted and man-pack radios such as the VRC-46, -47 and -49 and the manpack PRC-77, PRR-9 and PRT-4 squad radios.

Construction of field expedient antennae, directional antennae and ways to get the most out of their radio equipment were emphasized.

The training was given to all present and future RTO's within the 4th Battalion, during their training, providing the students weren't in SQT or education classes.

Ouellette was assisted by Sgt. William Asher and Sgt. James Bates in conducting the training. In addition to radio procedures, some field telephone classes were held.

Generally the comments of the people during the critique were favorable. Most learned from the sessions, and it can only benefit the 4th Battalion and the brigade in becoming more proficient and combat ready.

"NOW, WATCH CLOSELY" — Sp4 Jose Navarro, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 4th Battalion, cleans a radio with the "ultimate tool," a pencil eraser, while Sp4 Henry McMullen, also of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, watches. Navarro and McMullen, plus other soldiers of the battalion received additional classes on radio techniques during their training.

There's lots of ways to check

Take care of car; save money, be safe

Keeping your car in good condition can help save money and make it safer to ride in, not only on long vacation trips but also during daily use.

Some of the most important checks, can be done easily and quickly.

Check the air pressure in your tires every other week. If there is not enough air, the tires will wear excessively and slip on wet pavement. Too much air can be just as hazardous. It causes excessive wear on the center rib which reduces braking capabilities. Make sure your tires have the amount of air recommended by the manufacturer.

Cleaning and replacing filters is also important. Abide by the manufacturer's time schedule, he knows how long they'll last.

If your car is hard to start, regular tune-ups can help take care of a worn ignition and help increase gas mileage.

Worn shock absorbers can often cause a car to sway on curves and during lane changes. They usually wear out at about 30,000 miles so if your car has a 'floating' motion, have them checked.

Carbon monoxide can be a killer. The next time you're having your car tuned up or it is on the rack, check the tail pipes and muffler for exhaust leaks. Replace them when necessary.

Hoses and belts do wear out and sometimes at the most inconvenient times. Check them for wear and replace them if they're cracked. Also check the thermostat, and make sure that the radiator pressure cap is sealed tightly. This helps ensure that your car's cooling system is in tact.

Your brakes are very important. At regular service intervals, have your brakes checked for adequate fluid and leaking lines. Trying to get too many stops from old linings can scratch or damage the brake drum and cost you extra.

If you don't lubricate your car properly and as often as recommended by the manufacturer, the bearings can freeze up and cause some expensive damage.

Anyway you look at it it's a good idea to keep your car well-tuned, and to check the basics often. It can save money, time, and even a life, maybe your own.

SPOT CHECK — Members of the community here can save a lot of money, time and worry by having their car inspected regularly. Not only will they feel better, their car will "feel better," too. (U. S. Army Photo)

AAFES gas coupons will expire Tuesday

AAFES reminds that the current S-7 series of gas coupons for Germany will expire Tuesday.

According to Donald G. Smith, deputy director of the AAFES-Europe Services Division, the coupons will be replaced by the S-8 series to be valid through Sept. 30, 1982. The new series is now on sale at most locations.

Smith said neither AAFES service stations nor commercial outlets contracted to accept exchange coupons will honor the old series after the expiration date. But all stations will now begin taking the new series.

AAFES coupons are accepted at all ESSO service stations as well as BP and Fanal stations on the autobahn.

Mr. Smith said patrons will have one year to redeem unused expired coupons for full refund. The old S-7 series cannot be directly exchanged for new coupons, he added.

AUSA picnic scheduled

Mark your calendar! On July 12, beginning at 1 p.m. there will be a free picnic for the members and families of the Association of the U. S. Army.

The picnic will be held at the Wannsee Recreation Center. Among the special events are: music, games, boat rides, and of course, food and drinks. Army bus transportation will be provided from McNair and Andrews barracks. Contact your unit AUSA representative for further details.

Army Community Services gets "new look"

by Anne Remick

The people at Army Community Services, in an effort to give themselves a "new image," are improving the conditions in their office. "The improvements are in preparation for the ACS birthday July 25," said 1st Lt. Charlie Yudichak, the ACS officer.

The "new image" being created has resulted from an increase in the number of volunteers from nine in February to 30 in June, according to Lynn Barclay, volunteer supervisor. Barclay explained, "the military staff supports the volunteers and the volunteers support the military staff."

The volunteers include special project people who perform special tasks which benefit the public and the ACS office.

"ACS's main concern is in serving the public," says Barclay. Upon your arrival in Berlin the ACS office has a welcoming committee for newcomers. The welcoming committee is a new program and you may request this service by contacting the office at 6500 or 6585, or by dropping by ACS located in Truman Plaza, under the bank. They are open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The Community Information Center, located in Truman Plaza, is run by the ACS office and assists people in finding out what is happening within the community.

The ACS office also runs the Bulletin Board, which is located in Truman Plaza near the laundry pick-up point. It contains information that people wish to publicize.

To have your information placed on the board, bring a card with the information on it to the ACS office and they will place it on the bulletin board for a period of two weeks.

ACS keeps a file of babysitters, as well as an Information Services File that has listings of various community services such as kennels, veterinarians, cake decorators, etc.

According to Yudichak, one of the most utilized aspects of the ACS office is the financial planning assistance service. In order to receive help in financial planning you must make the effort to ask for help, and there is always someone willing to assist you.

Offered is an Emergency Food Program. This program allows servicemembers to obtain items in an emergency. They also run an Emergency Clothing Program to supply soldiers and their families with clothing, if the circumstances arise.

ACS runs a Lending Locker where servicemembers may borrow items such as sewing machines, transformers, pots and pans, toasters, and other needed items for a short period of time.

The office runs a Relocation Services program, which contains pamphlets on various posts when you are preparing for your new assignment. They also have post locator maps that you can use to find your new post.

They also operate the Center for Exceptional Children.

Another help to soldiers and their family members is the Child Support Services Program, which includes the Kinderkeller Child Care Center, Berlin American Pre-School, and the DYA and TAR child-care programs.

Remember, the ACS office is always here to help. For more information on these and other services, call 6500 or 6585.

Archery tourney slated in Ansbach next month

The 1981 USAREUR Invitational Archery Tournament is scheduled for July 25-26 at the Ansbach Archery Range. Competition in the tourney, which is being sponsored by Outdoor Recreation, Moral Support officials of the 1st Personnel Command, will be divided into separate classes for active duty military members and civilian personnel.

Tournament action will be governed by the National Field Archery Association (NFAA) rules and regulations. Scoring will be scratch, with awards presented in all recognized NFAA styles including: Barebow, freestyle, freestyle limited, competitive bow-hunter, competitive freestyle bow-hunter and competitive freestyle limited bow-hunter.

Shooting will begin at 10 a.m. on July 25, over a course with 28 field and 14 animal targets. Action will conclude on July 26 with archers shooting at 14 animal and 28 hunter targets.

Individuals wishing to compete in the two-day contest must notify tournament officials by calling David Marten at (2136) 6191/7677 or Garrett Smith at (2671) 7600/2672 or they may write to: Commander, 1st Personnel Command, ATTN: AEUPE-MSD-O, APO 09081.

The deadline for registration is July 22.

Camping space for participants is available at the archery range. For more information concerning the camping spaces, call Smith at the above number.

Camping jamboree set

Moral Support Directorate, Outdoor Recreation Branch officials of the 1st Personnel Command has announced the details of the upcoming Chiemsee Camping Jamboree scheduled for Sept. 18-20, at the Armed Forces Recreation Center Chiemsee camp grounds.

All U. S. Forces personnel, Department of Defense employees and their family members are encouraged to attend and are reminded that no prior reservations are necessary. There are a limited number of camp sites with electrical hook-ups which will go at a first-come first-served basis, so get there early.

Chiemsee camping facility has modern restrooms with hot showers, laundromat, camp store, children's playground and picnic tables. Some of the activities slated for the camping jamboree are a barbecue feast, campfire, archery, mini-golf, horse-shoe tournaments and much more.

Large groups of campers wishing to camp together should notify the Outdoor Recreation Office, 1st Personnel Command at (2136) 6191.

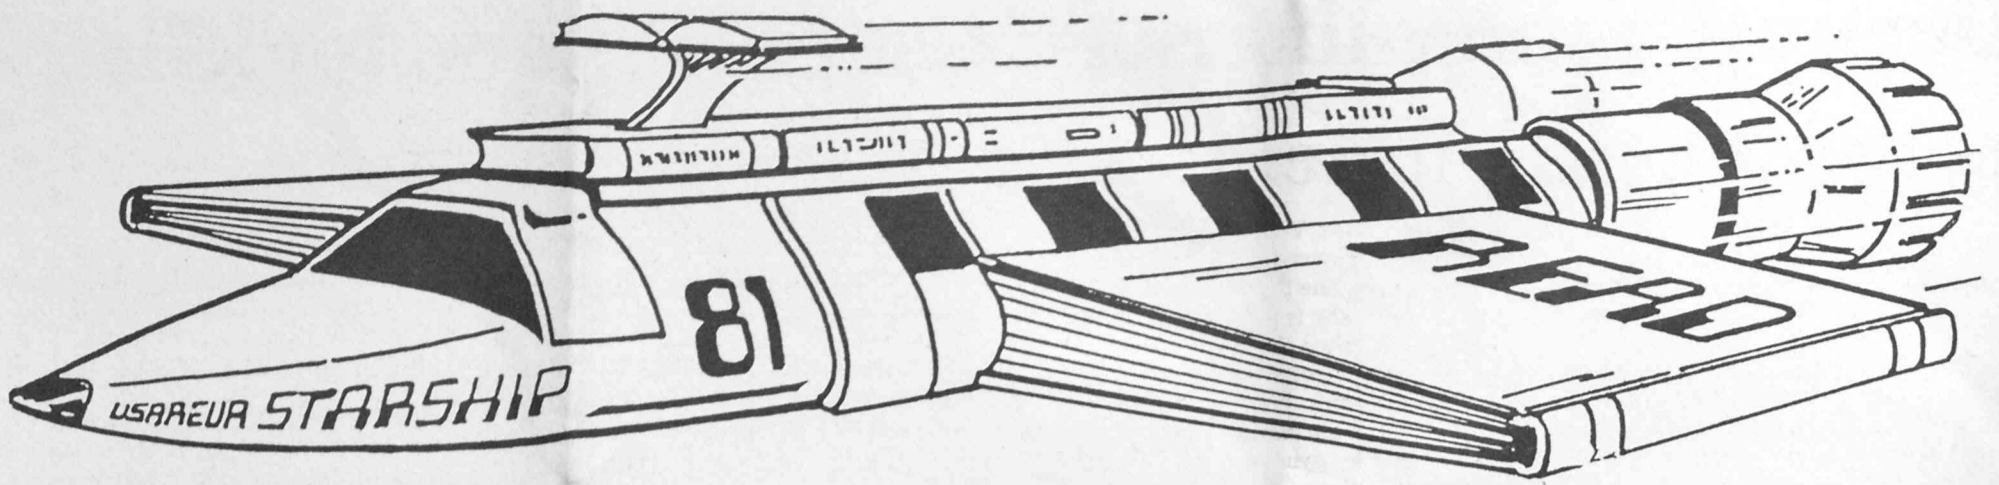

Too late

Even though the runner from Fuertth beat the throw and made it to first, the DYA senior boys team from Berlin had a terrific weekend, extending their 5-1 record to 8-1. Several of the Fuertth players made it to the bag, but you have to cross the plate to score, and that's where the boys from Berlin drew the line. In Saturday's action the Bears trounced the Fuertth team twice, 12-8 and 14-3. On Sunday, the Bears completed their three-game sweep with a 10-3 victory. In Sunday's game, Mark Lewis, Berlin's All-European pitcher (21), only pitched the first four innings due to some discomfort in his hip. The senior team from DYA has only lost one game so far this season, and it doesn't look like they expect to lose any more.

Berlin's main library announces new summer reading program

The Berlin Main Library's Summer Reading Program for young readers through grade six will run from July 6 to August 14.

The theme of this year's reading program is "Starship Berlin," and each summer reader will be a crew member on the Starship and eligible to win a "Starship Certificate of Completion" as well as other prizes.

Children may apply for the Starship crew at the Main Library on Taylorstrasse, next to the Outpost Theater. Registrations will be accepted daily from Monday through July 10.

To earn a "Starship Certificate of Completion," crew members must read at least one book per week for six weeks and give a short written or oral report on the book.

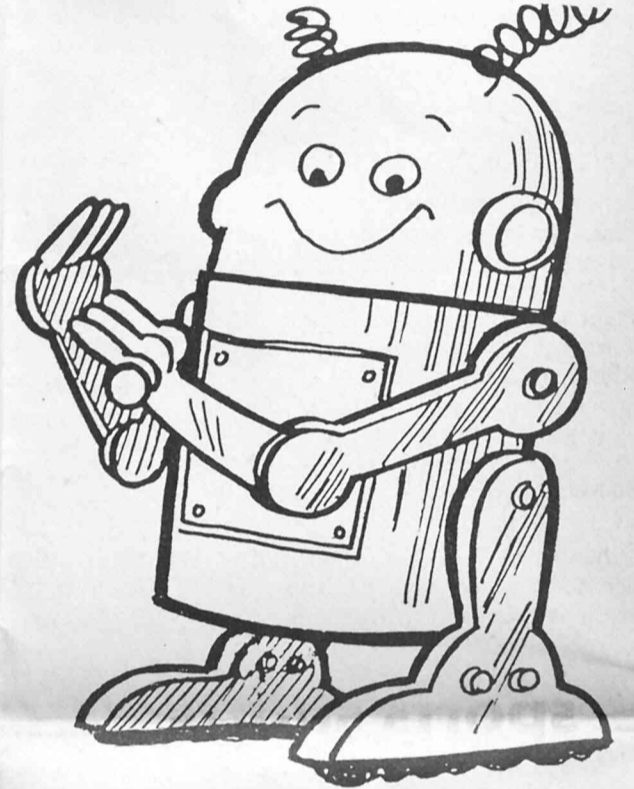

Weekly reports may be made to Starship Commanders Fowler or Enneking on Tuesdays or Thursdays between 1 and 3 p.m. Books read must be on each reader's approximate reading level or above.

A final ceremony, including refreshments, for all Starship Berlin crew members will be held August 17 to award certificates and prizes. Prizes will be given for "Most Books Read" in each grade level, for "Best Written Book Report" and "Best Oral Book Report."

Continuing through the summer, for younger library fans, is the Main Library's Story Hour. The story hour, for children through age six, takes place every Wednesday from 10:30 to 11 a.m. For the story hour, children must be accompanied by an adult. Ramona Davis, our regular story-hour reader, makes this one of the library's most enjoyable events.

Summer is a great time for reading and a great time for children. Bring your children or just yourself and cruise through summer with a book. Reading is out of this world!

AFN releases survey results, changes starting

AFN officials have released the results of a USA-REUR-wide survey, conducted last summer, aimed at determining what television and radio audiences want to see and hear and when they want it.

"The survey pretty much confirmed what we already knew," said Maj. Douglas J. Frey, the officer-in-charge of the AFN Europe affiliate in Berlin. "We have already made some of the changes the audience wanted and we are going to make others."

Among other things, the survey showed the peak radio audiences on weekdays were from 6 to 7 a.m. with other large radio audiences listening from 5 to 6 a.m., 7 to 8 a.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m.

The Berlin-produced hour-long "Specialty Shows" are the favorite programs on FM in this community.

"TOP 40" type music on FM is the only category that the Berlin community indicated they would like more of on the air.

In other categories of music, country, soul, disco, album-oriented rock, and classical respondents generally indicated they would like to see about the same amount that is currently being played. Latino music was the only category to receive a negative response.

Survey results showed, as expected, more people watch television during the 6 to 10 p.m. period than any other time during the day.

Saturday night is the most popular for television viewing, gathering in an estimated 23 percent of the potential audience of military and family members during prime time.

Family members make up the bulk of the television audience during the day, Monday through Friday, and the number of military members viewing TV increases sharply starting around 5 p.m.

The peak for television viewing occurs during the 7 to 9 p.m. time period.

The survey also showed that 82 percent of the military audience watch the hour-long 6 p.m. news on weekdays. And, some 96 percent of the family members that responded indicated they watch the same news program. Three out of four respondents indicated they like the air time of that major news program, and would not want it moved to a different time period.

Some 63 percent of the surveyed audience members rated the 6 o'clock news program as "important" to the military viewer. The family members in the audience gave the program a much higher, 85 percent rating.

The military viewer gave the 6 o'clock news high marks for quality. Thirty-nine percent of the Berlin audience rated the program as good and another 19 percent rated the program as very good. Thirty-four percent rated it average and six percent said it was a poor show.

There was a large demand for more local Berlin news from military members. Some 66 percent indicated they wanted an increase while 31 percent said it was just right. Since the survey period, AFN news has stepped up sharply the amount of local news in its broadcasts.

Military sports fans appeared generally satisfied with coverage from both the States and Europe. Forty-five percent termed sports average with another 27 percent calling the coverage good and 16 percent said it was very good. Ten percent thought it was poor.

Register now for DYA summer camp

If last year is any gauge of success, the DYA summer day camp, scheduled to begin on July 20, will bring warm-weather fun to hundreds of children from six- to 12-years-old.

As last year's camp revealed, Rose Range provides plenty of opportunity for outdoor activity from hikes to the development of craft skills and other talents related to outdoor activity.

Registration for the day camp is already underway. Up to three weeks of camp are available to every registering child; the weeks of camp start July 20 and July 27, Aug. 3, Aug. 10, and Aug. 17. The fee for the camp is $10 per week.

The DYA asks participants to bring a lunch, while the DYA will provide snacks plus other necessities from tents to tours.

In the camping sessions, bus transportation will take the children to Rose Range from the Truman Plaza bus terminal and Andrews, Pueckler, Park Manor, Sundgauer, and Duempel housing areas.

For other details, call the DYA at 6239.

Berlin's power-lifters come back winners

by R. Gibson

Lifting 500 pounds for some of us may seem beyond the impossible, and it may well be. It takes a lot of training and preparation to build up to goals in power-lifting. Andrew Wilson, 42nd Engineer Company, has only begun to reach some of the goals he has set for himself.

Wilson started lifting weights four years ago in an effort to develop his physique to such a point where he could enter and win body-building competitions — which he did! But lifting is what Wilson describes as a "heritage in my family."

He still lifts weights, he still reaches his goals and sets new goals to achieve, but these days it isn't bodybuilding that he is interested in. Wilson and his partner, Connie Vilhauer, a 30-year-old Army family member, recently returned from a power-lifting competition in Wiesbaden where Wilson took a healthy second place partially, as a result of a 500-pound dead-lift — his official best.

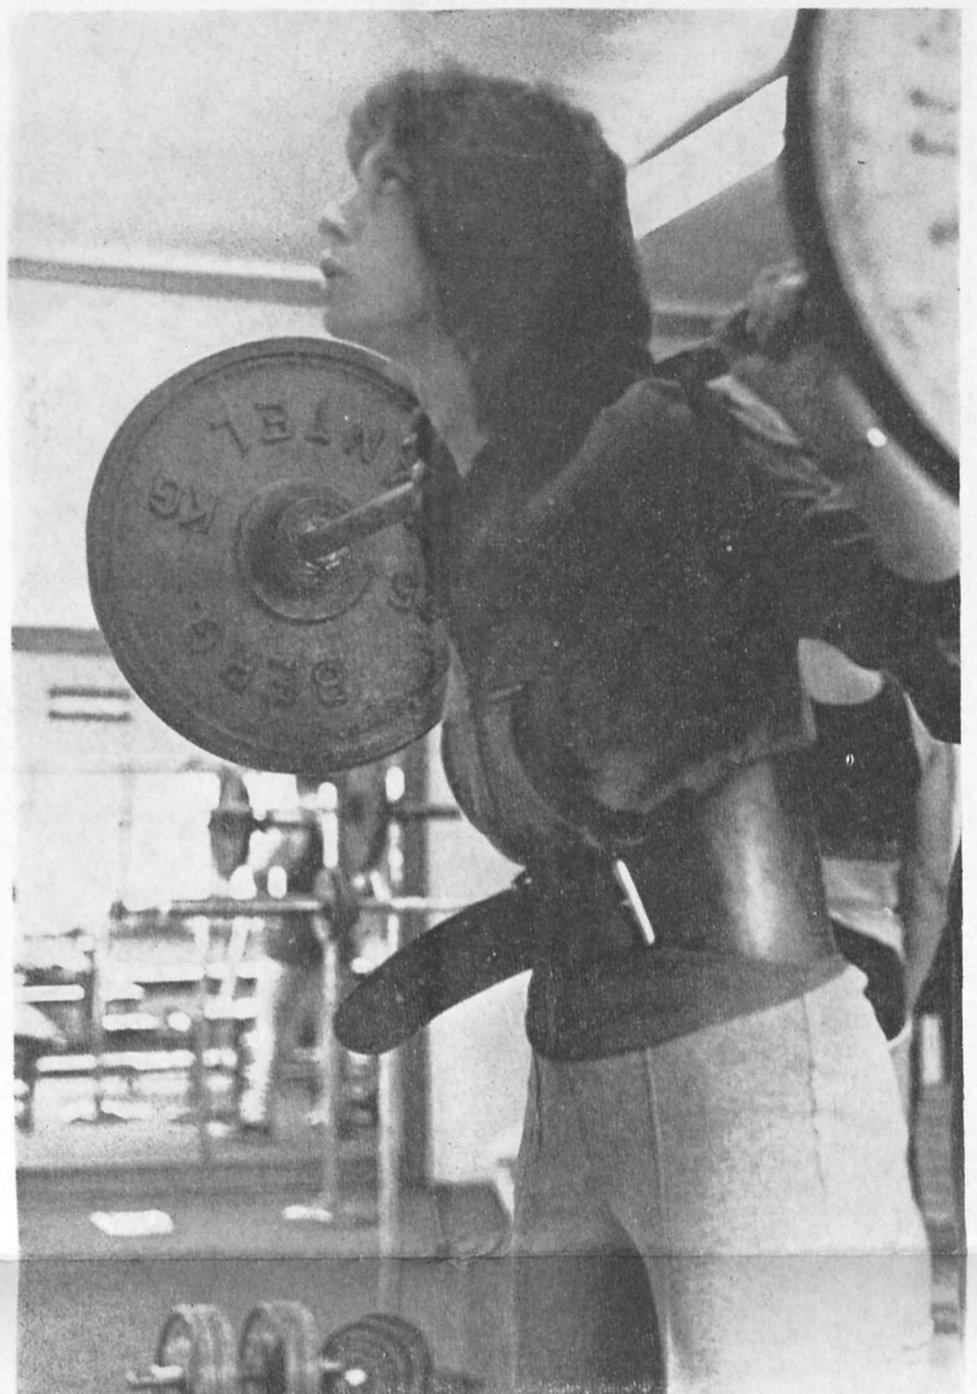

Vilhauer also did well, taking first place in the women's division and third over-all in the Bantam category. This was Vilhauer's first competition in power-lifting. She began lifting when, one day at the Andrews pool, where she is employed as a life guard, she asked Wilson what he did to stay in shape. After an explanation of Wilson's "heritage" Vilhauer was asked if she would like to come down to the gym and sit in on a training session.

With half-hearted enthusiasm she accepted the invitation and showed up at the gym.

"I had no idea I could lift that much and if Will (Wilson) hadn't put that much weight on the bar and showed me that I could lift it, I probably would have lost interest," said the 127-pound Vilhauer. Since then, she has squat-pressed 165 pounds, bench-pressed 100 pounds and dead-lifted 250 pounds. All to be considered very good marks for anyone of her weight and with only a month of experience behind her.

Wilson has his own string of personal victories with a squat lift record of 440 and bench pressing somewhere in the neighborhood of 285 pounds. He plans to compete in Wildflecken this week, making this his sixth competition, and he plans on coming home a winner.

AND UP AGAIN — Power-lifter Connie Vilhauer warms up with a squat press during a training session. Vilhauer and Andrew Wilson, 42nd Engineer Company, recently returned from a power-lifting competition in

Rugby practice postponed

The regular practice session for the U.S. Rugby team have been temporarily postponed because of the large amount of summer leaves. Practice will resume on Tuesday at the field adjacent to the School of Standards at McNair Barracks. The team is looking forward to a great season. Join up now! Contact Brian McConnell at 6112 or 813-7178 after duty hours to find out more about this hard-hitting sport.

Beginning runners' class

There will be a beginning runners' class starting July 13 for a period of one month. Anyone interested in attending is requested to register with the Moral Support Activities Division Sports Office. The first class will begin at 6 p.m. at the Sports Center gym.

Swimming class

Active duty women who are interested in learning to swim are requested to contact Sheila Graham at 6768/6168. If there is a good response, the class will be held at the Berlin Brigade Sports Center Pool.

Women's soccer

Any women in the community interested in playing in a women's soccer team please contact Shiela Graham at 6768/6168.

Cobras softball team number one in battalion; going for brigade title

by Sue Sweeney

"We're here to win and never lose again" is the motto of the Cobras softball team.

The Cobras, Company C, 2nd Battalion, are unbeaten in battalion competition. Their record is 6-0, and now that they're the best in 2nd Battalion, they plan on being best in the brigade.

The U. S. Army Berlin Championships are scheduled for late July. Then they hope to continue on to the USAREUR championships.

"I remember the toughest game we played," said Pvt. 1 Michael D. Hall, right fielder. "It was played against Company A. For three innings the score was tied 0-0. In the 4th inning, they got two runs and we got one. In the 5th inning, they knocked in one run and we didn't get any. They were ahead by two runs. Then in the bottom of the sixth, we got three runs. We won 4-3."

"We're tight and tough," said Sgt. Victor Woolard, left fielder. "We have a good defense and a terrific offense."

"It's a team effort, to be so good," added Hall. "We practice together and perform together."

"We practice from 6-7:30 p.m. daily at McNair Softball Field," said SFC Alvo Browning, catcher. Each player knows the game well and there are no hard feelings about substitutions."

Warrant Officer Procurement Program — FY 81

Each year hundreds of soldiers qualify for, and receive, direct warrant officer appointments. They fill highly specialized areas that are incompatible with a commissioned officer's career progression.

A master list of all Warrant Officer specialties is in AR 611-112. It governs the classification of warrant officers and outlines the skills, knowledge and duties required of individuals in each MOS.

Individuals who meet criteria specified in AR 135-100 and DA Cir 601-80-1 are encouraged to submit applications and consult unit PAC or AG Personnel Actions Section, at 6586 for assistance. Applications are solicited on a competitive basis for the following MOS:

MOS	Title	Application Opened	Period Closed
011A	Military Physician's Assistant	Oct. 1, 80	Sept. 30, 81
021A	Club Manager	Oct. 1, 80	Sept. 30, 81

Soldier of the Month

PFC Frank J. Sherrod, Battery C, 94th Field Artillery, Combat Support Battalion, was selected Soldier of the Month for May. Runner-up was Sp4 Fredrick L. Austin, Company A, 4th Battalion.

Reenlistment Award

Battery C, 94th Field Artillery has won Combat Support Battalion's reenlistment award for the third consecutive quarter.

Combat Support Battalion's

Communications Shop of the Quarter

The Battery C, 94th Field Artillery Commo Shop has once again been named as Combat Support Battalion's communications shop of the quarter.

It takes plenty of hard work and dedication to win this award and for the first two quarters of this year, Battery C has shown how important team work really is.

SSgt. Carl Seelye and members of his com-mo section, Sgt. Gilbert Bolden, Sgt. Michael Youngs, Sp4 Alphonso Williams, Sp4 Mark Wright and Sp4 Juan Zengotita have definitely shown that they are among the top in their profession.

Invitational tourney hosts tennis 'champs'

by Geoffery N. Giles

Two Berlin soldiers were among the winners in the recent Berlin Cup German-American Invitational Tennis Tournament. Final rounds were played Saturday at the American courts behind the Harnack House.

Eric Adams, Allied Staff Berlin, was the most successful U. S. player, winning a free air ticket by Pan American Airlines from Berlin to any destination in Germany. Adams was a winner in both men's doubles and mixed doubles, playing with German partners in both events.

Thomas Wallace, Company A, Field Station Berlin, was the most impressive U. S. singles' player, fighting his way through a tough international field to place second in the men's open Class A competition. His most exciting win was his upset defeat in the semi-finals of Klaus Andersohn of Duesseldorf, last year's winner of the Berlin Cup.

The U. S. women also had some success. Army family member, Karin Hilton and her German partner edged out a pair headed by Air Force family member Rosemary Dilsaver to take the women's doubles championship.

The Berlin Cup Amateur Tournament is held annually to promote friendship among German, American, British and French tennis players in Berlin. The man who has kept this tournament an exciting and enjoyable event is Sender Freies, a Berlin journalist, and tennis enthusiast, Lutz Bormann. Bormann worked tirelessly to ensure that this year's tournament, sponsored by the American community, offered American players the opportunity to visit and play in many German clubs in Berlin. During June 6-20, tournament matches were played not only on U. S. courts, but also in the Olympic Sport Club, Sport Club Charlottenburg, Tennis Club Rehberge and in the beautiful and prestigious Rot-Weiss and Blau-Weiss Clubs.

Most of the pairing for doubles events matched American players with German, French or British partners to promote the spirit of friendship to which the tournament is dedicated.

Among the more than 150 American, French, German and British players in the tournament were Maj. Gen. Calvert P. Benedict, U. S. Commander, Berlin, and Col. Vernon L. Frye, Tempelhof base commander, who played with German partners in a special friendship round with leading members of the Berlin Parliament.

MSAD mainstay retires after 30 years service

by Dean Brown

A central figure in MSAD, a veteran of more than three decades of service with the United States Army in Berlin, retires today amid deep uncertainty among her colleagues on the future of their organization.

"Without Inge Scheutzwow," her co-workers jokingly say, "there is no guarantee that efficiency, calmness under pressure, and steady inventiveness will ever surface again on Berlin's recreational scene!"

Scheutzwow provides all these qualities as the Administrative Assistant to the head of MSAD's Social Activities Branch. In this realm, ITT Tours, the DYA, and the recreation centers provide varied services to the American community. Coordinating their activities and the administrative details they generate has become a process of great involvement, an undertaking in which Scheutzwow has become something more than merely necessary.

Inge Scheutzwow's knowledge and skill have benefited from over three decades of work with varied agencies in the American community. She has found employment since late 1945 with the Department of Engineering and Housing, the recreation centers and the Social Activities Branch. During her period of employment, Scheutzwow has been the confidant of over twenty recreation center directors and an inspiration to thousands of soldiers stationed in the divided city.

Cooks try new morale builders

by Linda Jach

Fourth Battalion's dining facility manager and shift leaders have added some "morale builders" to their daily schedule for the lower enlisted personnel working there, according to SSgt. Robert E. Meyer, shift leader.

The first, is a "Cook Of The Day" competition where E-4's and below, who work in the kitchen, vie for the title. The prize? — the next day off!

The lower enlisted personnel are judged on their military appearance and bearing and the final outcome of the meal they've prepared, said Meyer.

"The winner, may win more than once in a row," explained Meyer. "That way, it gives his co-workers something to judge by and someone to learn from."

The "Cook Of The Day" competition teaches the soldier to have pride in himself. Also, it gives a better atmosphere for the diner when he sees the cooks looking sharp," said SFC Joseph Sandolin, assistant mess sergeant.

The other "morale booster" is where lower enlisted personnel come in on Friday morning for the first shift. Then, the E-5s and above come in the afternoon to relieve them.

"Not only does that give the lower enlisted personnel two and a half days off for the weekend, instead of two," explained Meyer, "it also gives the men a chance to develop leadership skills, initiative and responsibility."

Sp4 Daniel Thomas played shift leader June 19, (the first time the shift change was tried), and he really enjoyed himself. "The shift change was really fun and a good learning experience. It gave the specialist fours more of a chance to show what they can do."

So far, the "morale builders" have worked out well and the "bosses" are pleased with the outcome. So pleased in fact, they plan on continuing the programs.

Motivate voters with 'saying;' enter 1982 voting slogan contest

If you could influence people to vote with just a few, words what would you say?

It's time to enter the 1982 voting slogan contest, say Federal Voting Assistance Program (FVAP) officials. The winning entry of the contest will become the key voting slogan to encourage more U.S. citizens to take part in their country's election process. The slogan will appear on voting information materials to be distributed throughout U. S. government and private industry worldwide.

Although the 1982 general election is more than a year and a half away, FVAP officials hope the slogan will help people start thinking now about voting. Entries should be messages to inspire people to vote. The 1980 winning slogan was "You're a voter only if you vote... be a voter." Other slogans from past years include: "Your vote is your voice... say something," "Participate in America... vote" and "Take time for America... vote."

The contest winner will receive a certificate of recognition from the Department of Defense. Enter as many slogans as you wish. Artwork may be submitted with the entry but isn't necessary to win. Service members and their families, as well as U. S. citizens overseas are invited to take part in the contest. Send entries to: The Federal Voting Assistance Program, Office of the Secretary of Defense, Room 1B-457, The Pentagon, Washington D.C. 20301. Full name and complete mailing address must be included. For more information call Autovon 224-4928/4960. (ARNEWS)

Neukölln mayor awarded medal for services

by R. Gibson

On Thursday the District Mayor of Neukoelln, West Berlin, Dr. Heinz Stuecklen was presented with the Outstanding Civilian Service Medal for outstanding contributions to German-American relations by Berlin Brigade Commander, Brig. Gen. John E. Rogers.

Some of the contributions made by Stuecklen that were noted on the citation were "sponsoring many events involving the American Community and supporting numerous U. S. activities." The citation also referred to Stuecklen as "a respected advisor and concerned friend of the U. S. Army who, has devoted much time, as the past chairman of the Subcommittee on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, to mutual problem solving."

Stuecklen said, in an address to members of the U. S. Command and members of the civilian community, that he was "very proud to receive these honors." He went on to offer, "best wishes not only to my friends in the American community, but just as well to all well-meaning people, and to the great nation, the United States of America."

In closing, Stuecklen said, "May peace and freedom be preserved in these trying times. May we continue to walk the road to a better future, free of fear, troubles and threats. Long live the German-American Friendship."

IN HEART-FELT APPRECIATION — The District Mayor of Neukoelln, Dr. Heinz Stuecklen was awarded the Outstanding Civilian Service Medal by Berlin Brigade Commander, Brig. Gen. John E. Rogers at a ceremony held in the Main Conference Room of Bldg. 1, Clay Headquarters.

PFC Michael E. Coulliard, Company C, 2nd Battalion, won the individual rifle competition while 2nd Lt. Douglas T. Bond, Company B, 3rd Battalion finished second.

For the machine gun event, the winner was Cpl. Kevin W. Penelton, Company B, 2nd Battalion, with second place honors going to Pvt. 2 Anthony C. Allman, Company C, 2nd Battalion.

In the pistol event, SFC John C. Weeks, Combat Support Company, 3rd Battalion came out number one with Sp4 Mark L. Collins, Company C, 4th Battalion running a close second.

In the team competition, awards were given in the three weapons-firing categories, according to Hulgan.

Battery C, 94th Field Artillery, Combat Support Battalion took the top honors in the rifle event, while Company C, 3rd Battalion came in second.

In the machine gun event, Company B, 2nd Battalion came in first, with Company C, 2nd Battalion, taking second.

The winner of the pistol event was Company F, 40th Armor, Combat Support Battalion, followed by Combat Support Company, 3rd Battalion.

The firers in the Brigade Weapons Meet were chosen through battalion-level shoot-off competitions, according to Hulgan. To participate in the brigade-level meet, however, the firers couldn't have a DEROS earlier than Nov. 30.

During the competition, firers were required to wear their fatigues, a steel pot, pistol belt and suspenders with the first aid packet, canteen kit and ammo pouches included.

Deputy Brigade Commander, Col. David H. Harris, presented trophies and plaques to the high-firers in an awards ceremony at the range.

The Certificates of Achievement, which go to the individual high firers and the team members will be presented July 10 at a ceremony following the Brigade Fitness Run.
