Aviation section wins award

"Those magnificent men in their flying machines," could well be the motto of Berlin Brigade's Aviation Section.

For the second consecutive year, the Berlin Brigade Aviation Section has been named the USAREUR Aviation Detachment of the Year.

Maj. Hugh Dimmery, section commander, and other members of the section were on hand March 20 to receive the award in Garmisch.

In his acceptance speech, Dimmery noted that there were three major facts necessary for them to be able to win this award.

First, the soldiers must have their families continuous support and understanding when they work the long but necessary hours.

Secondly, they must have a boss who provides them the necessary guidance but then turns them loose to do the job that they have been trained to do.

Thirdly and perhaps most importantly, there must be a dedicated effort on the part of the members of the Aviation Detachment. Everyone has to work hard in a section this small.

The section was judged on the number of flying hours per year, safety and availability of the aircraft, and unit accomplishments.

It's not hard to understand why Berlin was judged number one. The section collected 1,700 accident-free flying hours in 1981. In fact at the time of the competition, the Aviation Section had not had an accident in 12 years, according to SFC Thomas F. Smith, NCOIC of the section.

That's pretty impressive considering the varied missions of the detachment. They fly out of soccer fields, highways, and rooftops above a city whose population exceeds two million.

They have over 200 VIP helicopter tours to their credit. They transport Flyers — (Continued on Page 8)

Berlin tankers fire'em up in Graf

by Lt. Col. J. Frank Hennessee

For a month prior to leaving Berlin for Grafenwoehr, tankers of Company F, 40th Armor, Combat Support Battalion, participated in an innovative pre-gunnery training program. It was developed and administered by the Company Commander, Capt. Gregory A. Stone, 1st Sgt. Thomas Melvin, and the company's master gunner, SFC Tom Currie.

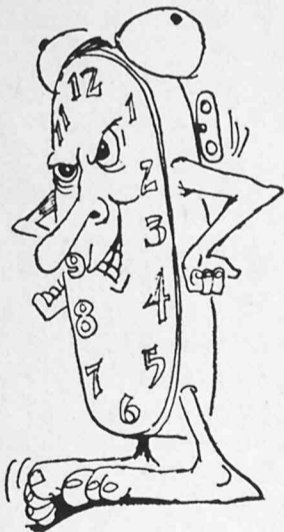

The program included a tank crew proficiency skill test for all personnel, gunnery simulation using different laser devices to engage both stationary and moving targets, and sub-caliber simulation of main gun firing on the mini-tank range at Keerans Range.

Finally, each tank ran a tank crew proficiency course which was established at Tempelhof Central Airport, in which all crews engaged real targets using the MILES system instead of hit/miss feedback.

Instructor gunnery training continued as soon as the tankers arrived at Grafenwoehr. Turret mechanics Sp4 Joe Haby, Sp4 Bill Schneeberger and master gunner Currie synchronized each tank with assistance from the crews. Each crew confirmed its zero with live ammunition and began live fire train-

SPRING FORWARD—On Sunday Germany will change to "Summer-time" hours, the equivalent to the U.S. Daylight Saving Time. U.S. Forces in Germany will observe the time change and everyone is reminded to reset their clocks from 2 to 3 a.m. Sunday.

ON THE LINE — Tank gunnery is a very important thing to a peace-time tanker. Elements of Company F, 40th Armor, Combat Support Battalion, are currently in the Grafenwoehr, Major Training Area going through their tank gunnery firing tables.

Army wages war on fraud, waste

The Army loses huge amounts of money, time and effort each year through fraud and its non-criminal partner, waste. These are resources which could be better spent in training for combat readiness.

As a result, the Army is waging a war against fraud and waste, a war which you can help it win.

Know the enemy

What exactly is fraud?

Fraud is when a soldier reports the theft of his stereo, files a claim with JAG, and is reimbursed for the loss. Later an investigation reveals the soldier sold the stereo and faked the theft.

But fraud is also using the office telephone for personal calls, buying merchandise at the PX and selling it to a friend, filing padded TDY vouchers, making false official statements, or taking office supplies home for personal use. In short, it's any willful wrong-doing which adversely affects the government.

Waste, on the other hand, doesn't indicate dishonesty, just a careless and extravagant use of our resources. But it can be as costly as fraud.

Any time we don't practice energy conservation we're guilty of waste.

Other examples of waste include: stocking unneeded supplies, replacing the carburetor when a simple adjustment would have fixed the problem, or firing all the remaining ammunition after the training problem has been completed, just to avoid the hassle of ammo turn-in.

Consequences

There may be many other categories of fraud and waste. For most the results are bad.

For example, on a personal level, soldiers found guilty of fraud might receive a bar to reenlistment, an Article 15, a court martial, or even imprisonment.

Everyone should also be aware of the consequences of fraud and waste on Army readiness. The loss of large sums of money and resources makes it more difficult to perform the Army mission within the budget.

Join the fight

Curbing fraud and waste is everyone's responsibility.

First you can make sure you are not the least bit guilty of any abuse yourself. Then you have a responsibility to correct any deficiencies you find at your job. If you can't resolve the problem with your own action, then you must report offenders to your chain of command, or if necessary, to an investigative authority.

Only when you take action will the war against fraud and abuse be won. Gear up along with the rest of the Army to be on the look-out for offenders.

In helping reduce fraud and waste, you'll be helping yourself to better Army.

Habits can qualify you as an April Fool

April Fool's Day might be a good time to ask yourself if you are one — in the way you treat your body.

If some of your 1982 resolutions have already broken down or been forgotten, why not use April 1 as the day you resolve to get better? Here are a few ideas guaranteed not to be foolish.

If you plan to quit smoking and do so successfully, you will be among millions of Americans who feel better and will enjoy a longer life. Smoking is a major contribution to lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and chronic bronchitis and is associated with other serious diseases.

Also for your resolution list, consider drinking less alcohol or not drinking at all. Prolonged and heavy use can cause problems ranging from inflammation of the stomach to ulceration and internal bleeding. Alcohol is linked to external problems as well. It is involved in half of the fatal automobile accidents in the United States.

Start a fitness and exercise routine to fit your body's conditions and needs. Proper exercise can be a significant factor in the control of obesity, diabetes, heart and circulation problems, orthopedic problems, and emotional disorders.

The best exercise is doing something physically active which you enjoy, with the exercise aspect secondary. Incorporate it into your lifestyle and live better with it! (AFPS)

About mail

All postal patrons are reminded that only letter mail which is mailed at Berlin APOs or deposited in APO mail boxes prior to 1 p.m. Monday thru Saturday will be date stamped and dispatched on the same day as mailing.

All letter mail received after 1 p.m. which cannot be processed in time to meet evening dispatch flights will be date stamped and dispatched the following day.

Extensions

In view of current Non-commissioned officer shortage being experienced in USAREUR, a more liberal approval policy will be implemented for foreign service tour extensions.

NCO's who desire to extend their overseas tour in USAREUR are encouraged to submit applications through their appropriate command channels to AG Personnel Management.

NCO's desiring extensions but have less than six months to DEROS, on assignment instructions, or their extension will exceed 60 months in Berlin are encouraged to submit their requests immediately. Call Sp5 Higgins at 6594 for more information.

Leaving time

If you're within 60 days of your departure from Berlin and have not received your PCS orders, check with your PAC supervisor. If they can't help you, contact Sp5 Ronald Alexander, AG Enlisted Management, at 819-6594.

Rondo: Communications only small part of test, team members enjoy working together

by R. Gibson

American, French, and British soldiers met this past week to further improve the ability for the Allies to work together in the field of combat communications.

The exercise called Rondo, was hosted by the French who set up an Allied command center at Napoleon Barracks in the heart of the French sector of the city. The exercise matched up three-men teams consisting of a French, British, and American soldier. The teams, in good natured competition against one another, were required to successfully complete a variety of tasks at a number of stations located throughout the city.

Some of the tasks the Allied teams had to negotiate were: locating a pre-positioned commo line, making a radio check, and crossing an obstacle course. Still another station put the teams in the water in a swim competition.

The purpose behind the Rondo exercise was to further enhance the ability of Berlin's Allies to communicate in a combat environment, as well as instill a measure of confidence in the Allies, giving each the opportunity to learn a little of how each other works and plays.

"Learning to operate the frequency hopping Jaguar radio and antenna will probably be the thing I remember most about Rondo," said Sp4 Robert L. Simms, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion. "The British and French guys who ran the course with me were great. If I had to go into combat, I would want a couple of guys like them to go with me," Simms added.

PFC Tomothy L. Parlier, Combat Support Company, 4th Battalion, was a member of the team that finished fourth overall in the Rondo competition. Parlier found the night land navigation portion of the exercise to be the most difficult. "We were sent to a certain place where we found a phone booth. Then we had to call into the command center and they gave us a new set of coordinates where there was another phone booth and so on. I really learned a lot. It was just a real good experience," he said.

HERE IT IS—Sp4 James Passow (center), Company A, 2nd Battalion, points out a location on the map to the other members of his Rondo team, ing in snow, cold, rain, and mud.

THE KEY IS TEAMWORK—The French obstacle course at Napoleon Barracks was only one of the many stations that the participants in the Rondo exercise were required to negotiate.

Finally with all of this behind them the day everyone had been waiting for had arrived. Last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday each crew was tested both day and night according to standard qualification proficiency in Tank Table VIII.

Stone set the standards for the company by qualifying his tank on the first course run.

Tension mounted and the adrenalin was flowing as one crew after another successfully negotiated the course until finally, shortly after 1 p.m. on Sunday, Sgt. Tim Andrews' crew, in the last tank, smashed a Sabot round into the target. Euphoria reigned as the company realized it had accomplished a feat which F Company, 40th Armor had never before achieved — qualifying all of its tanks without the requirement for a single alibi engagement and with each tank surpassing the qualification standard on its first course run.

Top gun in the company belonged to tank commander SSgt. Fred Baugh, who with his crew, consisting of gunner Sp4 Charles Dickinson, loader Pvt. 1 Mark Wilson, and driver PFC Rick Rone, achieved a coveted distinguished rating for the course.

Melvin summed up the performance as follows, "Each and every crew attacked the course. There were some nervous soldiers out there particularly as the company approached the goal of 100 percent qualification, but excellent pre-gunners training and a super group of tankers were not be denied. Outstanding!"

THEM'S SOME BIG BULLETS—Tank gunnery requires a lot of people to do a lot of different things. Ammo detail is a very small, but very necessary part of the over all test as hundreds of 105-millimeter main gun rounds are needed to engage the requirement number of targets.

Easter programming tops April viewing

by Mark White

AFN Berlin TV has a full spectrum of Easter programming plus a host of new shows to keep you entertained and informed in between the April showers.

Easter programs features "The Robe" from the novel by Lloyd C. Douglas and one of the most moving religious pictures of all time.

This Easter, AFN-TV also takes you around the world to see how this holiest of days is observed. From Monaco, Princess Grace and John Houston host the program, visiting Petula Clark and the Chichester Cathedral Choir, The Chieftains and the London Players.

The Family Circus kids are all set for Easter and the big Easter egg hunt! Jazz trumpeter, Dizzy Gillespie plays the Easter Bunny along with an all-star-cast.

The celebration of the Jewish Passover begins on Apr. 8 and continues until Apr. 15. AFN presents Burt Lancaster and Anthony Quayle in the story of Moses beginning with his childhood and based on the Book of Exodus filmed in Israel and Italy. Ed (Lou Grant) Asner narrates the history of the Jewish Passover from the Hebrews' liberation from slavery in ancient Egypt, the discrimination through the centuries, the Holocaust during World War II, to the present day.

There's great news for "Galactica Freaks" in that "Battlestar" starts this month with a vivid and excellent scenic and technical production of the race sinister droids wage against mankind in a thousand year war. The series runs for 34 weeks and stars Lorne Greene and Richard Hatch.

After a break, the top rated series "Diff'rent Strokes" is back with new and exciting episodes. The cast is the same with Conrad Bain as Phil Drummond and Gary Coleman playing Arnold.

Other new series returning late in April are Barney Miller, Fantasy Island, Real People, and Hart to Hart.

On the movie scene from Hollywood, Los Angeles continues to send us top rates films.

Clint Eastwood and Jeff Bridges star in the 1974 adventure-drama, "Thunderbolt And Lightfoot" with George Kennedy. This is the story of a bank robber posing as a preacher saved by a young stranger when his former colleague came gunning for him.

New York's most beautiful girls give their innermost secretes, and their hearts, to a small town boy looking for romance in the Big Apple. This 1978 movie is based on the best selling novel by Eric Weber and stars Desi Arnaz, Jr. and Polly Bergen.

George Kennedy, station manager of AFN Berlin in the '40s, stars in an exciting Western drama, "Guns Of the Magnificent Seven," with George Whitmore and Joe Don Baker. The plot is that of a professional gunslinger and his six hired guns teaming up to free a peasant revolutionary leader from a Mexican prison so he can resume a popular revolt.

The always funny Peter Sellers teams up with the talented and attractive Paula Prentiss in the story of two 15-year old girls who fall in love with a concert pianist, vain about his prowess with women. You can easily guess who is the concert pianist. Their obnoxious chasing of him resolves in some of their own family problems in the "World of Henry Orient" with Angela Lansburg and Tom Bosley.

If you're into science fiction movies, undoubtedly you'll enjoy "The Day Time Ended" with Jim Davis and Dorothy Malone about a super nova exploding deep in space. The effects do not reach earth for hundreds of light years. But when they hit, they wreck havoc on an isolated family.

One of the more adult films of the month is an amusing British satire of the crime genre with a writer of cheap detective thrillers caught up in the reality of one of his early fantasies. "Pulp" stars a young Michael Caine, even younger Mickey Rooney, Lionel Stander, and Liz Scott. Shot in 1972, the locale is the island of Malta.

AFN's "Answer Line" has some very interesting guests lined up to answer your questions concerning specific areas of community life plus our active News staff offers complete radio and TV news throughout the day. Check your local papers for exact times and dates.

And remember if you have any special comments or questions concerning AFN Berlin Radio or TV, simply call 819-6145 or write: Programming, AFN Berlin, APO 09742, U.S. Forces. We are always interested in your reaction to our programs and scheduling.

Appearing in Berlin April 9

NFL players tour Germany with USO show

Five national football league stars, will make a personal appearance in Berlin April 9, at the All-American Recreation Center at 7:30 p.m.

Appearing before Berlin football fans will be cornerback Ronnie Lott of the Super Bowl champions San Francisco 49ers; wide receiver Cris Collinsworth of the AFC champions, Cincinnati Bengals; linebacker Matt Blair of the Minnesota Vikings; fullback Mike Augustyniak of the New York Jets; and kicker Efren Herrera of the Seattle Seahawks.

Besides showing filmed highlights of Super Bowl XVI and other football movies, the five NFL players will be available to personally meet their fans, sign autographs, and answer questions.

Lott, was a major factor in the Super Bowl champion's victorious season. He was second on the team in both tackles and interceptions. Lott's performance in his first year with the 49ers earned him a berth on the NFC all-pro team in his rookie season.

Cris Collinsworth had a sensational rookie season, catching 67 passes for 1,009 yards and eight touchdowns. He was a unanimous all-rookie selection, and won a place on the AFC squad in the Pro Bowl.

Veteran linebacker Matt Blair is a proven Pro Bowl performer, having been named to the NFC all-pro team for the last five seasons. Blair is always among the tackle leaders for the Vikings, and holds a team record for most blocked kicks in a career (17).

Fullback Mike Augustyniak, won a starting position on the team by impressing the coaching staff with his skills in blocking and his ability to grind out first downs in short yardage situations.

In 1981, kicker Efren Herrera made 12 of 17 field goals and 23 of 26 points after touchdowns. Herrera is accurate within 30 yards, having missed only twice at that range during his entire seven-year career.

Save a life; put poisons up

Each year more than 500,000 American children receive medical treatment for poisoning. Of these, more than 500 die.

Ninety percent of reported cases involve children under the age of five.

The most frequent causes in poisoning are aspirin, cleaning and polishing agents, pesticides, turpentine, paints, petroleum products, and cosmetics.

Obviously the best treatment is prevention. Don't allow children access to toxic substances. Store them in places children cannot reach and in containers that children cannot open.

If a child has taken a potentially toxic substance, check the container or label for specific antidotes. If none is listed on the label, then look in the inside back cover of the Berlin Command Telephone Directory and apply the recommended first aid measures listed there.

After applying the recommended first aid measures, call the hospital at 819-4130/4131 for further instructions.

It is recommended that parents request the latest copy of Pediatric Emergencies Parent Guide from the Pediatric Service at the U.S. Army Hospital Berlin.

Splitting up isn't end to family problems

by Chaplain Darryl Goldman

When marriage conflicts become desperate power-struggles the threat is sometimes made, "Well, I'll just send you home early!"

And, since nearly 90 percent of my marriage counseling cases involve this threat it seems important to take a closer look at it.

It is a threat which has the potential for far more than simply a temporary separation, although that is the promise which is too easily made.

It raises the ugly head of dependency and the wife may find herself suddenly facing the problem of finding a place for her and her children to live, taking the children out of school, finding a job, and forfeiting the conveniences of living on a military installation. And, she will be confronted by the difficult question, "Does this mean the end of the marriage?"

When an argument develops into what appears to be an unresolvable mess the frustration may quickly lead to a flippant threat which may be no more than a grab for control by intimidation. In effect, a person who uses such a threat is saying, "You are not needed here and I can take away your security."

In some situations the husband and wife are simply unable to live together in peace, and a mutual agreement is made for temporary separation. But in other cases, the husband may have determined that the wife and children are "in the way" and is not concerned for their welfare.

The sad fact is that soldiers have the power to send their families home early by giving up their quarters, and some families are forced to return to the States without a place to live, a promise to work, or even a promise of financial support from the husband.

Wives who are in this position and are needing some time to make necessary preparations for an early return to the States may utilize the same chain of command which serves their husbands. Very often the first sergeant or company commander wants to hear both sides of the story so that a fair decision may be made.

But more important is the effect such threats have upon the marriage. Whenever we cause another person to feel powerless through threats, we betray an absence of respect for that person and for ourselves.

Persons who use threats to get their way, whether the threat is of being sent home or of physical violence, are willing to accept another person's hatred in exchange for compliance.

The marriage that works is a marriage in which two equal partners relate to another with the same rights. The husband cannot demand to be "boss" and the wife cannot control him as her own "property." There is a mutual respect and a genuine concern for the other above self.

In such a relationship of equality, the partnership will provide companionship and cooperation in the day-to-day living requirements. And, above all, both persons will find acceptance and understanding in an agreement of trust.

Healing in a marriage relationship comes only through talking and sincere listening. Everyone of us has an immense need to be heard, understood, and taken seriously.

There must be at least one person in everyone's life who can be trusted to listen and to care. The threat of sending the wife home early is itself a symptom of brokenness in the relationship.

There are cases in which separation cannot be avoided but too often it signals the beginning of terrible loneliness and pain for everyone involved.

FSB takes volleyball tournament

by R. Gibson

Field Station Berlin's number one team slipped past the team from Tempelhof Central Airport Monday night by scores of 15-2, 15-11, 15-12 to win the women's pre-season volleyball tournament. The tournament was played at the Andrews gym March 13 and 22.

The action was at it's best as one team after another dropped from the tournament.

Field Station's number two team took their match over the Oops Faithfuls, an independent team, by scores of 7-15, 15-2, 16-14. TCA then blasted the 3rd Battalion ladies team 15-0, 15-2.

The fifth match of the tournament pitted two Field Station teams against one another, with the number one team taking it in two straight games 15-5, 15-4. The AG Postal team had a tough time, losing first to the Field Station number one team 15-1, 15-0, then to the Oops Faithfuls by forfeit.

After 12 tough matches, Field Station Berlin's number one team met TCA in the finals. TCA came from the losers bracket to meet the undefeated Field Station team, and if TCA could salvage a victory from this match they would force the championship "if" match.

TCA barn-stormed the first game taking it 15-8, but the Field Station team bounced right back to win the second game 15-11. With the tie-breaker before them, TCA spiked and served their way to victory taking the final game 15-10.

The "if" match was slated for Monday, giving both teams an equal period of time to make final preparations before the championship. The final match was a best three of five contest.

Despite the strong defensive effort of the TCA team, Field Station went all the way, taking it in three straight games.

Women's volleyball action continues every Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Andrews gym. The season began Tuesday and will continue through May 11.

DEFENDING HER COURT—Field Station's Laura Ditche reaches to block a spike by TCA's Heather Elliott in Monday night's championship match. Field Station, using some very tough defense, went on to win the tournament, beating TCA three straight 15-2, 15-11, and 15-12. (Photo by R. Gibson)

Bear-A-Cudas crush Lahr, two swimming records fall

by Carol Cox

After 18 swim meets and 17 victories, Berlin DYA Bear-A-Cudas' winning style crushed visiting Lahr, 276-140, Saturday at Andrews pool.

Pool records fell to Didi Stowell's 1:19.48 100-meter backstroke for the 15 to 19-year old girls and the 11 to 12 age group 200-meter mixed freestyle relay team's 2:14.59. Members of the relay team were Andy Fondas, Bethany Ballard, Suzanne Rivard and Jeff Edelman.

Bear-A-Cudas went on the offensive with all age groups accumulating triple titles. In the ten and under age group, Peter Stowell took the individual medley, freestyle and backstroke. Suzanne Rivard grabbed freestyle and butterfly honors in the 11 to 12 year old girls while Jeff Edelman added individual medley, freestyle and butterfly titles for boys.

Christina Cox led 13 to 14 individual medley, backstroke and butterfly. Larz Asmis finished the assault with victories in the freestyle, butterfly and backstroke in the 15 to 19 age group.

Determined double winners included Karen Edelman's individual medley and backstroke; Todd Walsh's individual medley and breaststroke; and Stowell's freestyle and record breaking backstroke.

Bear-A-Cudas will host challenging Kaiserslautern in their final meet of the season Sunday at Andrews pool. Competition begins at noon.

Golfers to scramble tomorrow

by R. Gibson

The Berlin American golf course is scheduled to open for the spring season April 3 at 10 a.m. with a four-person, mixed-scramble tournament. The tournament will be started with a blast from a shotgun.

A four-person, mixed-scramble tournament is one in which teams made up of four members, each with varying handicaps, begin at different holes throughout the course. After each member of the team tees off, the very best shot is selected and the other team members resume play from that point.

Play continues until each team finds themselves back at the hole from which they started. As a result of the standard of play, only one score from each team is turned in and a first and second place trophy will be awarded. There will be a $5 entry fee.

The course has been waiting all winter for the spring season, and at last the weather is beginning to improve to the point where golfers from throughout the community will once again take to the greens.

A opening meeting is scheduled for April 2 at the golf course. The meeting will start at 7 p.m. and everyone is invited to attend.

for children under 12. A four-kilometer race will be held for women of all ages and boys 12 to 17 years at 9:20 a.m., while the main event, a 10.4-kilometer race for all runners 18-years old or older, will start at 10 a.m. Registration opens at 8 a.m. at the Outpost Theater on Clay-alley.

Softball try-outs

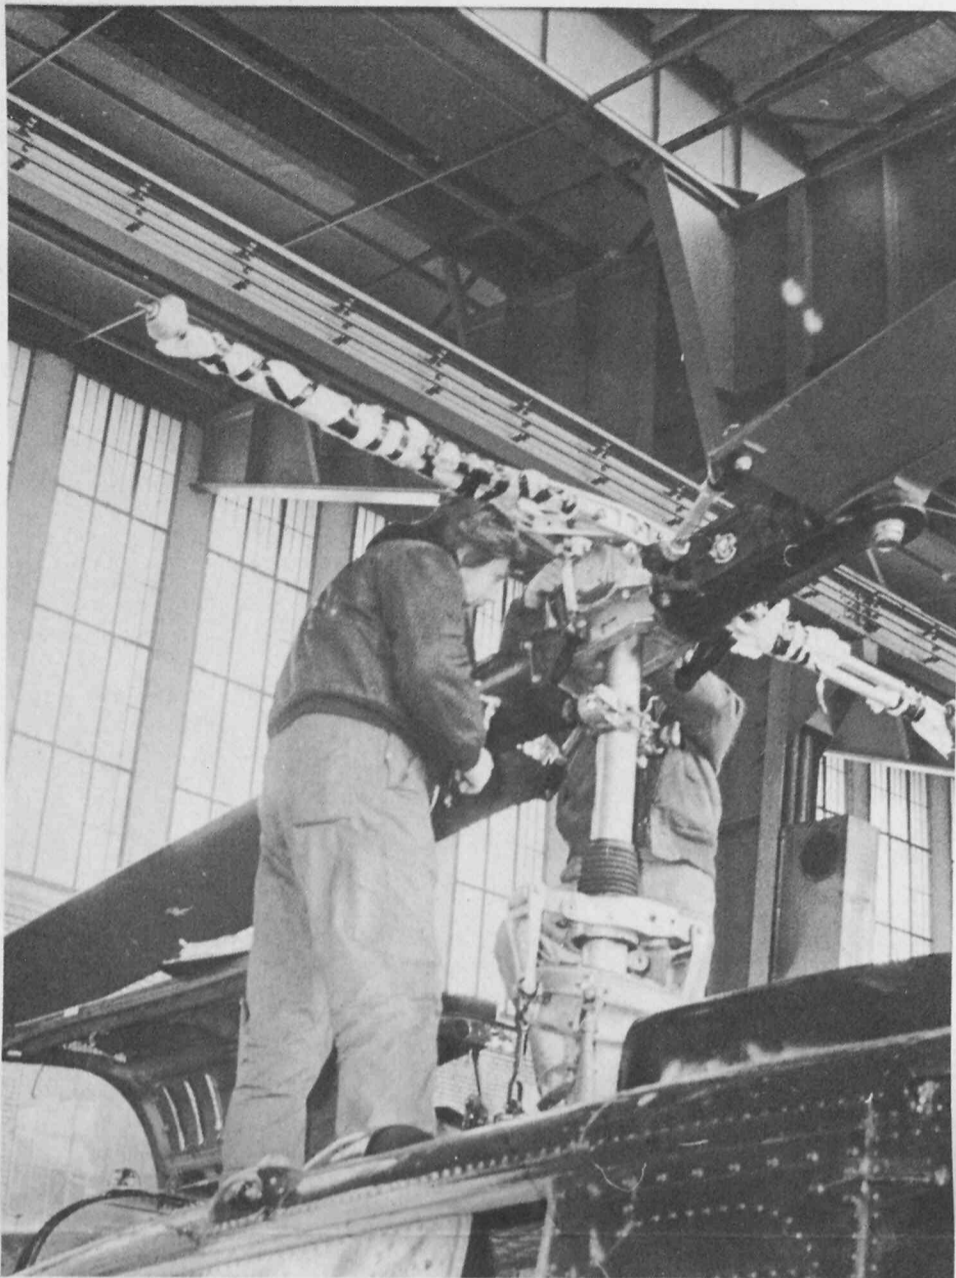

Try-outs for the Berlin Command fast-pitch softball team are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. April 17, at the McNair softball field.

Gloves and other gear will not be provided, so bring your own equipment. The team is also looking for a coach. Anyone interested should contact the MSAD Sports Office at 819-6768 or 819-7181.

Pistol shooting tomorrow

The Berlin Rod and Gun Club presents a Bowling Pin Pistol Shoot tomorrow at Rose Range. Entry is $2 and bring your own pistol and ammunition. Competition is divided into men's revolver, men's automatic and women's open classes. Registration ends at 11:45 a.m. with competition starting at noon.

American soldiers during ARTEP's and other training exercises. They also support Allied FTX's. Besides this normal tactical support, they also work with the city to support many community relations projects.

All the pilots fly both the section's helicopters and fixed wing aircraft. According to Capt. Bill Brooks, the executive officer, it's not unusual for a pilot to fly a helicopter in the morning for a rappelling exercise, followed by a U-21 flight to West Germany in the afternoon.

But a lot of the credit for the section's achievements goes to those behind the scenes. "It's a real team effort," said Smith. Maintenance plays a key role in the sections ability to do it's job, according to Brooks, "Without them we just don't go," he added. The aircraft availability rate exceeds DA standards by 25 percent.

It's unlikely that any other aviation unit in the world has such a varied and demanding mission. It is done in the outstanding manner that shows that they are tops, and once again winners of the USAREUR Aviation Section of the Year award for 1981.

tions and good maintenance to keep their aircraft ready to fly at moment's notice.

2nd Battalion in USAREUR competition

by Roger DeBenedetto

For the second year in a row the 2nd Battalion will represent the Berlin Brigade in the USAREUR Weapons Championship competition.

The team consists of hand-picked rifle and M60 machinegun experts from Companies A and C. The competition will take place at Hohenfels, West Germany, April 3-9.

The members of the M-16 team are: Sgt. Jereen Sheffield, Sp4 Herman Morris, Sp4 Kerry L. Stultz, Sp4

Michael Couillard, PFC Robert E. Pasket, Sp4 Stephen R. Hall, Sgt. Richard J. Plum, Sp4 Gary Moore, Sp4 John Chatman, and Sgt. Rex Write.

The NCO in charge of the weapons team is SSgt. Jerry McGhee. The officer in charge is 1st Lt. Ronald Rowden. These men are responsible for insuring that all of the firers receive the training that they need. The members of the M-60 team are: Sgt. Rames Fetui, Sp4 Michael Flick, PFC Ter-rance Brown, and Sp4 Thomas Faison.

The M16 rifle competition involves a squad-size element, consisting of eight firers, one squad leader and an alternate.

There are two phases in this competition. The first phase is the physical conditioning, where participants must do a two-mile combat cross-country run in boots, fatigues, load bearing equipment, individual weapons, and protective masks.

The second phase consists of the marksmanship course. This phase is a team competition, where they move along a designated course engaging targets from various firing positions. They must also negotiate barbed wire and log obstacles.

During major portions of this course, they'll be in a simulated warfare environment with background sounds of actual battles. To add to the realism of the course, the evaluators will be setting off grenade simulators and explosives. Sp4 Robert Lundy of Company C stated, "This is a tough and demanding competition, but I thoroughly enjoy it."

The M60 machinegun firing includes the same requirements for physical conditioning, except they must carry a tripod, spare barrel, bag and T&E unit.

"The preparation and training for the upcoming competition not only requires our soldiers to be expert marksmen, but also to be physically fit, dedicated, and most of all, highly competitive," commented Rowden.

Newest tankers qualify, get on-spot promotions

Two of the newest members of Company F, 40th Armor, Combat Support Battalion, found themselves in a pressure-packed situation March 19 during the Unit's tank qualifications in Grafenwoehr.

Although in the company for only a brief period, Pvt. 2's Alan Ott and Ed Reed had been elevated to the position of gunner on M60A1 tanks. Much of the responsibility for succeeding or failing annual qualification rested squarely on their shoulders.

This unique situation developed due to injury and illness which rendered two assigned gunners to these two tanks unable to participate in qualification gunnery.

Their responses to these challenges were outstanding. Each of the crews to which they were assigned successfully qualified. Their responses were immediately recognized and rewarded when they were promoted on the spot by Lt. Col. J. Frank Hennessee, battalion commander.

"Any soldier who can perform as you did today and tonight in a position which calls for an E-4 or E-5 certainly is deserving of another stripe," Hennessee said. "Congratulations! You're wearing wearing the wrong rank." (JFH)
