

Sunday's fair opens Federal Women's Week

Federal Women's Week (FWW) begins Sunday with "It's Your Fair," an event open to the entire community. Maj. Gen. J.G. Boatner, U.S. commander, Berlin, will officially open FWW at the fair at 1 p.m.

The fair, which runs from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., will be held in the Truman Plaza parking lot and a child craft center will provide supervised activity for children while parents enjoy the fair.

The event is designed to bring together those services and resources in the community which relate to the employment and advancement of women.

All members of the community will be able to learn what is available in the way of services, to sign up for courses and classes, fill out job applications, and to enjoy family fun while contributing to the support of both FWW and the year-round Federal Women's Program (FWP).

The fair is sure to have something to interest everyone. AFN Berlin Radio will broadcast "live" from noon to 2 p.m. and stage entertainment will be provided throughout the day.

The more than 40 fair participants include the Army Aviation Association, Bear-A-Cuda swim team, Berlin Adult Education Association, a resume writing booth, the six American universities and colleges in Berlin, and various German groups.

Other FWW activities scheduled are: Monday—Friday: Special FWW Luncheon, "Recognize Your Female Employee/employer" at the Harnack House and Checkpoint NCO Club.

Monday—Thursday: "Success Skills for Women" workshop, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Main Library Conference Room.

Wednesday: "Rape Prevention" seminar, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Hospital Conference Room.

Thursday: Tour of the new Child Care Center, located near the Outpost Theater, at 5 p.m.

Aug. 28 and 29: "The American Woman" seminar at the Berlin American High School from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Maj. Gen. Boatner has encouraged commanders and section chiefs to support FWW and to be liberal in adjusting schedules so employees will be able to participate in scheduled FWW events, as well as allowing employee participation in FWP events throughout the year.

In case of inclement weather, the fair will be held in the Thomas A. Roberts Elementary School gym.

Mock drill seems realistic

TCA tests disaster readiness

by R. Gibson

Being prepared for a disaster goes beyond knowing the evacuation route and phone number to the fire department.

That is one of the many lessons the men and women of Tempelhof Central Airport learned Tuesday when they held a disaster preparedness exercise.

The purpose of the exercise, according to a TCA official, wasn't to show how prepared the emergency people at TCA are, but to show how complicated emergency situations can be. The very least that could be said about the exercise, he added, was that it was a learning experience.

The exercise was divided into two phases. The first phase was designed to see if explosive devices could be infiltrated into areas that not everyone has access to.

Three of the four devices were successfully planted, however, the fourth device was detonated when dropped by the person delivering it. And, for the sake of the exercise, the simulated explosion took the lives of four people. Each of the devices were well disguised and the one that was dropped looked like a fire extinguisher.

One of the three remaining devices, disguised as a telephone, was identified and isolated by emergency personnel. The other two make-believe bombs, (Disaster — Continued on Page 5)

Unity week slated

The Berlin American Community will be celebrating the annual week-long event, Berlin Unity Week, Sept. 27 through Oct. 2.

Berlin Unity Week, under this year's theme of "United We Stand," is a celebration honoring the many ethnic backgrounds of the people of the United States.

The week's events actually begin on Sept. 26, with an 18-kilometer and a 10-kilometer volksmarch. The marchers will depart from the Dependent Youth Activities (DYA) parking lot at 8:30 a.m.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony, that will officially open the week of activities is scheduled to take place Sept. 27 at 1 p.m. at the DYA parking lot. The guests of honor for the ribbon-cutting will be U.S. Commander of Berlin, Maj. Gen. James G. Boatner, and Berlin Brigade Commander, Brig. Gen. Leroy N. Suddath, Jr.

Festivities are scheduled to continue throughout the week. The kids from Thomas A. Roberts Elementary School will be putting their artistic talents to use creating posters to be judged in a contest slated for Oct. 1.

Many community organizations will spend the week building floats to be featured in a parade Oct. 2. That day has been called Berlin Unity Day. The highlights of Unity Day will include a custom auto show, concession booths, entertainment and an international picnic. The picnic will offer a variety of ethnic dishes including Oriental, Hispanic, and American cuisine.

Caller's corner

Dear Caller's Corner,

It makes me so mad to be listening to a good song on AFN-FM and then have it interrupted or cut short. Why does the station do that?

Want to hear the whole song

Dear Whole Song,

AFN-FM has an automated service controlled by a very complex and sensitive computer system. Normally, it functions very well as it was designed to do. On occasion, however, it has its problems and must be repaired. AFN is aware of the inconvenience this sometimes causes the audience and does its best to provide the best service available.

Dial Action Office

Dear Caller's Corner,

Is there a dress code for any of the theaters here in Berlin? Shouldn't there be a community-wide dress code for all facilities?

Want to dress right

Dear Dress Right,

Currently, there is no dress code for the theaters nor is there a community-wide dress code. There will be a dress code published in the future, however. It is currently being worked on by the G-1 Division, Berlin Brigade.

Help combat sexual harrassment

During the past year, the U.S. Army Berlin has made a concerted effort to combat sexual harrassment.

Recently, however, there have been a number of reports of indecent and suggestive remarks made to women, particularly in the shopping center area and on the buses.

According to Maj. Gen. J.G. Boatner, U.S. commander, Berlin, not only is this sort of conduct intolerable, it is an offense under the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Article 134 of the UCMJ makes it a crime to communicate indecent, insulting, and offensive language to a female. The maximum sentence is a dishonorable discharge, total forfeiture of pay, and confinement at hard labor for one year.

Boatner encourages commanders to redouble their efforts in the area of education on this subject, to take prompt action when an offense has been committed and to encourage female soldiers to report incidents of offensive language and conduct.

"Every member of the U.S. Army must treat others with ordinary common decency and respect," concluded Boatner.

Court-martial hearings

Sgt. Rodney L. Kirk, Company A, 4th Battalion, was convicted by a Special Court-Martial on Aug. 2 for disobeying an order of an NCO and dereliction of duty. Kirk was sentenced to reduction to the grade of E-3 and forfeiture of $200 pay per month for six months.

PFC Robert E. Moore, 42nd Engineer Company, Combat Support Battalion, was convicted by a Special Court-Martial on Aug. 3 for being drunk and disorderly in command, resisting apprehension, and assault on an MP. Moore was sentenced to reduction to the grade of E-1, forfeiture of $367 pay per month for two months, and confinement at hard labor for 45 days.

PFC Murray M. Brown Jr., Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 4th Battalion, was convicted by a Special Court-Martial on Aug. 3 for failing to go to his place of duty (six specifications), disobeying an order of an NCO, and breaking restriction (three specifications). Brown was sentenced to reduction to the grade of E-1, forfeiture of $367 pay per month for two months, confinement at hard labor for two months, and a bad conduct discharge.

Pvt. 1 Brandon A. Orders, 42nd Engineer Company, Combat Support Battalion, was convicted by a Special Court-Martial on Aug. 3 for possession, sale, and transfer of marijuana. Orders was sentenced to forfeiture of $367 pay per month for four months, confinement at hard labor for four months, and a bad conduct discharge.

Pvt. 2 Keith McWilliams, Battery C, 94th Field Artillery, Combat Support Battalion, was convicted by a General Court-Martial on Aug. 4 for attempted carnal knowledge and assault on a female under the age of 16 years. McWilliams was sentenced to reduction to the grade of E-1, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, confinement at hard labor for four years, and a dishonorable discharge.

DEH drowning in flood of calls

While most of us have been enjoying the dry, sunny weather this summer, the folks over at the DEH Customer Service Telephone Reception have been flooded with phone calls from the community.

Not only are the receptionists drowning in a wash of service orders and job requests, those of you dialing the 819-6666 with real emergencies are having difficulty getting through because too many people are using the number for the wrong reasons.

You can help by using some common sense before you call. If you've got a real emergency (such as pipe-break, total electrical failure or fire/safety hazards), you can help DEH to serve you better by calling 819-6460 if you cannot reach the Customer Service Office at 819-6666.

But if you want spot painting or some other non-emergency done, please do not call 819-6666. Instead, submit a written request at the Work Reception Office, Room 208, Building 871.

In this way, telephone reception can concentrate on the more important jobs and should you have a real problem, you'll have a better chance in getting your request taken care of.

In accordance with AR 670-1 with USAREUR Supplement 1, commissioned officers and warrant officers will wear nonsubdued rank insignia on the camouflage cap. Also, only insignia of grade will be worn on the camouflage cap.

Servant coming

Servant, a Christian rock group sponsored by the Chaplain's Division, is coming to Berlin. They will be performing live on Tuesday at the Sports Center gym, starting at 7:30 p.m.

The group, now on tour in Europe, has appeared in concerts coast to coast in the United States. The review in the Christian Music Magazine, March 1982 issue, said, "A Servant concert is more than just a musical experience. The band's infectious sense of humor, dynamic special effects, and power-packed lighting makes the Servant show a dramatic success... The most complete communication possible in a rock setting."

Physical fitness

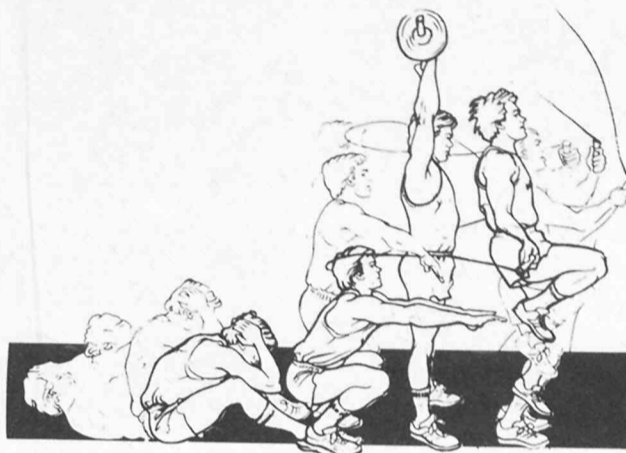

A reminder from "Army Headquarters"... The Army Physical Fitness Program, dated July 15, 1982, has been sent to the field.

The new document strengthens existing physical fitness policies, addresses general standards as well as performance requirements for units and individuals, and emphasizes a health-enhancing lifestyle.

Release of the regulation coincides with many important activities and decisions in the health and fitness area. Among them: A new Weight Control Program now in the works; an upcoming decision on a new athletic shoe; a revision of the Army's master menu; release of the book "Commander's Handbook on Physical Fitness;" and a "Wellness" program being developed by the Army Surgeon General to provide persons with a guide to health and fitness through weight control, stress reduction aerobics, muscle strengthening, and other efforts.

More details are available through your local training office. (ARNEWS)

BDU shrinkage

Some soldiers who have purchased the Battle Dress Uniform (BDU) have had problems with excessive shrinkage and/or defective workmanship.

Defective uniforms may be exchanged on a one-for-one basis at no cost to the soldier, says Ludwig Henz, Clothing Sales Store manager.

If your uniform or any part of it, such as the sleeves or trouser legs, shrinks to the point where it can't be worn, you may exchange the uniform for one that fits. However, if the uniform has been tailored, you probably will not be authorized an exchange.

In addition, if your uniform doesn't meet Army specifications for reasons out of your control — bursting seams, wrong number of button holes, pockets improperly placed — you may exchange the uniform.

This policy applies to recently purchased BDUs and does not apply to uniforms that have been excessively worn.

Henz points out that all soldiers wishing to exchange uniforms must have in their possession a DA Form 3078 from their unit supply before taking the defective uniform to Clothing Sales.

Laundry deduction

The Army standard $8 per month laundry payroll deduction will change on Oct. 1.

For the past two years, USAREUR personnel have had a lower-priced service than the remainder of Army soldiers. That service is being discontinued because low participation has caused USAREUR to fall short of the Department of the Army requirement to recover the cost of laundering personnel clothing.

The present service has permitted a four-option system of submitting laundry. The standard Army program beginning Oct. 1 provides no options. Laundry patrons may submit one 25-piece bundle of clothing per week. The bundle may contain both military and civilian clothing.

Personnel using the present service will be automatically converted to the standard deduction on Sept. 30. Any soldier who doesn't wish to use the payroll deduction system must submit a DA Form 3799 to the unit supply sergeant before Sept. 10. The supply sergeant must forward the form to the Laundry and Dry Cleaning Plant by Sept. 15 so that the soldier's name may be taken out of the system.

Clothing submitted for laundering must belong to the soldier submitting it. Government issued clothing (TA50-900) included in the laundry bundle will not be counted as an item on the 25-piece limit.

Heroin ... 'horsing' around is deadly

Editor's Note: The following article is the fourth in a series by Dr. James Jacobs, clinical director, Berlin Counseling Center.

In a 1980 nationwide survey of high school seniors, one in every 100 reported trying heroin. This figure has remained the same for the past several years.

It's estimated that two million Americans have experimented with illegal opiates and there are currently about 600,000 active users of heroin.

The opiates — substances made from the opium poppy — include opium, morphine, heroin, codeine, percodan, and their synthetic cousins, demoral and methadone.

The opiates have a long medical history. Sumerian records carved into stone 7,000 years ago carry instructions on how to refine and use opium.

Opiates have been widely used as pain medications throughout history. During the Civil War, wounded soldiers received morphine which was thought to be non-addicting. The result was a large number of Civil War veterans hooked on morphine.

It's surprising to many people that the body produces its own heroin-like chemicals. These are called endorphins (endo-inner, morphine). These drugs seem to be produced during times of pain and stress to act as the body's natural pain reliever.

They're found in athletes during vigorous exercise such as running and are the highest of all in a mother during childbirth, both in her body and the placenta leading to the baby.

It's thought by scientists that this leads to the "high" of running or childbirth and even that people might experience mild withdrawal symptoms such as some of the depression after childbirth or crankiness and irritability in a person prevented from his or her daily exercise routine.

Although these inner opiates are harmless, the refined opium products are thousands of times more powerful and short-circuit the body's natural responses. Opiates are the most addictive drugs known. A person who uses them becomes physically and emotionally dependent on them.

In the beginning, they make a person feel sensations of well-being and relief from physical and emotional pain. During this stage, a person will try and get his or her friends to try it because the worse effects haven't been felt yet!

As addiction rapidly develops, larger and larger doses are needed to get the same effect. At the same time, if a person attempts to stop use, cravings for the drug along with agonizing withdrawal symptoms develop. These are relieved by another dose.

Most addicts say they use heroin to avoid the withdrawals, not so much for the pleasurable sensations which they say are over-rated.

Before narcotics laws in America, patent medicines and soft drinks were loaded with narcotics to try and hook the customer and keep him or her coming back for more. It's estimated that there were about one million addicts in the year of 1900.

Helmstedt Detachment

by Mike Gelfand

More than 100 miles from Berlin an element of the Combat Support Battalion carries out an important mission for the brigade.

The Helmstedt Support Detachment, a small group of military policemen, communicators, and a headquarters group, help keep Berlin tied into the west.

The MPs are the best known men of the detachment as they operate Checkpoint Alpha. Processing convoys and private cars is only part of their job.

Inspect convoy

Sgt. Fredrick Rollins, MP Section and Autobahn Operations, NCOIC, explained the job they have, "We give classes and inspect the convoys going to Berlin and escort them to the Soviet Checkpoint.

"We are also the only MPs in the area so any incidents involving U.S. personnel come to us," Rollins continued. "We once had to go to Hannover and pick up a 14-year-old family member who got on the wrong train. He was brought back to Helmstedt and we had his parents come and get him."

SFC John H. Prince, Dining Facility manager, told of feeding 166 extra people for breakfast with only three hours notice. "In late May there was a tie up on the tracks and the duty trains could not move. We had to feed all the people from the trains.

"We usually feed about 20 for breakfast, he continued, "but that day they just kept on coming. They had to eat off paper plates all over the detachment, but they all ate."

Prince described his job and explained how it differs from working in a larger facility. "I have no other military help, just the civilians. That makes this a seven day-a-week job.

"The good thing about the job is that I learn to depend on myself. There is no one else to put the blame on if anything goes wrong."

Tuesday, Berlin Brigade Commander, Leroy N. Suddath, Jr., presented the detachment with the trophy for best dining facility in the brigade for the second quarter of 1982.

The Signal Section keeps in constant touch with Berlin, convoys on the autobahn and the duty trains.

SFC Lester Q. Hatcher, NCOIC, explained how the section operates, "The radio operators work mostly at night unless we have a convoy during the day. They make frequent checks and log all messages, so we know where the convoys and trains are at all times."

Road marches

In addition to their demanding jobs, the detachment maintains their physical readiness. Their PT program includes four-mile timed road marches, leading up to an annual 12-mile march in October. They also have plenty of organized athletics and runs of at least three miles daily.

"We are here providing a service for the support of the people going to and coming out of Berlin," said Maj. Selman L. Bass, Detachment commander. "That's everybody — the radio operators, microwave people, headquarters staff, and the military policemen."

after being successfully delivered, were not found in time and were presumed to have detonated on schedule.

The evacuation of the building was one of the aspects of the exercise that was handled in a very professional manner. Another major portion of the exercise that the emergency personnel handled successfully came in the second phase of the exercise.

Phase two was a simulated automobile fire situation. The auto used in this phase of the exercise, a Volkswagen Beetle modified to produce a smoke screen, was provided by the G-3 chemical office of the Berlin Brigade.

One of the circumstances included in the second phase was a victim in the "burning" auto, positioned near some tanks of chlorine gas. A privately owned vehicle (POV) parking area was on one side of the vehicle and it wasn't far from the base bus motor pool.

The base firefighters responded to the call and were on the scene in moments. The motor pool was evacuated as the fire was being extinguished and the chlorine gas tanks rendered safe. The "victim" was treated and transported to a nearby hospital.

Col. Richard N. Wagner, vice commander of the 7350th Air Base Group said, a lot of valuable lessons were learned by all those involved in the exercise. "The support given by the Explosive Ordinance Disposal (EOD) team and the G-3 chemical office of the Berlin Brigade was very helpful.

"The training devices used greatly added to the realism aspect of the exercise," he stated.

Wagner further added that the use of these and other training aids provided by the Brigade will be a welcome addition to future exercises.

Cable TV only part of four-man mission

by Al Arrowood

Hidden in the basement of Building 1, Clay Headquarters, is a tiny four-man duty section called Closed Circuit TV (CCTV).

It is more important to the community than its size would seem to indicate. The section works for Assistant Chief of Staff, Communications and Electronics, and the personnel in the section are assigned to Signal Support Company.

Their job sounds simple — Install and maintain cable and master antenna TV for all the U.S. government buildings in and around Berlin, and maintain the various closed circuit TV monitoring systems like the one that the MPs use to monitor traffic at Checkpoint Bravo.

According to SFC William Moore, NCOIC, it's not the type of work, it's the amount of work that sometimes makes things a little rough.

Courteous

"I have very good people working for me," he said. "I expect them to answer the service calls, maintain our vehicle, do their common task SQT training, respond to company tasks, and still be polite and courteous when they talk to a family member about bad reception. Their normal duty day is 10 to 12 hours long."

The part of their job which has the most obvious impact on the members of the American Community in Berlin is the AFN-TV reception.

Most of the buildings in the American housing areas have a group of antennas on the roof and all the signals from these antennas go into a special amplifier in the basement to amplify the signal. Cable is run from this amplifier to each of the apartments in the building, and in parts of the housing area, one system feeds TV to several buildings.

When asked what a major problem area would be, Sp4 Scott Krueger replied, "The cable feeds through from the apartment to the one on the floor above. Sometimes the occupant below does not have the proper cable to connect from his TV to the cable outlet. He will take the connector in the wall apart and wire from the cable connector to the antenna connection on the TV," he said.

"It gets good reception for that occupant, but what that occupant doesn't realize is that it usually causes the neighbors above to lose their reception."

Proper cables and connectors can be obtained from self help for those with self help cards, or bought at the Pickup Point.

Sp4 Marino Fontecha also works at CCTV. He says, "I like this job. Since I am in one of the few sections in Signal Company that gets to work with the public, it gives me a chance to use my English and my Spanish. It also gives me a great feeling when the occupant is pleased with his TV reception after we fix it."

Bad reception

If your TV reception is bad or goes bad, who do you call? During duty hours, call 819-6478. If all the personnel are out on calls (which is not that uncommon), your call will be recorded. The men in CCTV check the recorder every time they come into the shop.

After duty hours, if there is a problem which affects several families, have your stairwell coordinator or Senior Occupant call the Signal Support Company CQ at 819-3590. He or she will pass it on to the "on-call" person from CCTV.

007 movie films 'chase' in Berlin

by Mike Jordan

The Berlin Avus expressway near the Huettenweg exit in Dahlem was the scene of some high-speed car chases last week for the new James Bond movie "Octopussy."

The production crew filmed some scenes Monday and Tuesday in Spandau and Checkpoint Charlie and then set up for location shooting Wednesday on Huettenweg under the Avus near the Berlin Brigade area.

Most of the scenes for the movie involved a chase sequence between Bond and some Bavarian police. Bond gets into the chase by stealing a woman's car in order to escape from the bad guys. The owner of the car hails a motorcycle cop, who is eventually assisted in the chase by two other Bavarian police cars.

The stunt coordinator for the chase scenes is the world-renowned French stunt driver, Remy Julienne, who is responsible for some of the chase sequences in the last Bond film. It was Julienne's sons who skied down the toboggan run in "For Your Eyes Only."

Much of the work Wednesday and Thursday involved filming a scene where the Bond car, driven by Julienne, drives off the Huettenweg exit and turns left toward the Berlin Brigade area. He was chased by three police vehicles and as the cars came down the exit, they made the turn in traffic (also stunt drivers) at over 80 kilometers-per-hour, all without any practice runs.

About preparing for a scene, Henri Trautman, one of Julienne's drivers, said, "Remy usually tells us very little. He will simply say 'drive very fast' and most the time, our best work is done this way because it looks so dangerous."

Fabrice Houy, playing the motorcycle cop in the chase scenes, added to the excitement by sliding the big BMW police bike through the turns. Houy normally drives racing bikes when he's not filming but says he never knows when Julienne may call with an offer for some new stunts.

On Friday, the crew finished all the chase scenes which will be portrayed in the film as being somewhere in Bavaria.

The last scenes involved the Bond car, a gray stock Alpha Romeo GTS 2.5; the film car which is a cut-down Citroën Palais; the three police vehicles and two Volkswagens acting as Avus traffic.

All of these vehicles were involved in a chase that began at the Congress Centrum and continued at 160 kilometers-per-hour plus down the Avus toward Checkpoint Bravo.

ROLL CAMERA—Andrew Warren (sunglasses), the first assistant director, and Arthur Wooster, the cameraman/director, stand beside the Bond chase car under the Avus.

They're discussing the next shot during shooting for the movie "Octopussy." Notice the sign in the background which sets the scene somewhere in Bavaria. (Photo by Mike Jordan)

"I am not sure what we are going to do," Trautman said, before shooting the scene. "We will just try to catch Remy in the Alpha. The director also wants us to weave through traffic as much as possible."

By noon on Friday, the director had all the chase scenes "in the can" and gave the word to "break the set."

Much of the crew caught a plane to England that day for more scenes that will appear to be East Berlin.

According to one of the assistant directors, all of the filming for "Octopussy" should be done by November and the picture is expected to be out next summer.

Summer reading program ends

by Cheryl Dearing

The Berlin Brigade Main Library ended its Summer Reading Program with an awards assembly Monday in the library's conference room to congratulate the students for a job well done.

Children from the first grade through the sixth signed up to participate in the program which began July 5 and continued through August 13.

In the program, the students read various books and gave oral and written book reports about them.

Under the direction of Connie Fowler and the Public Services staff at the Main Library, the program provides continuing reading fun during summer vacation. It also gives the students a chance to improve their reading skills and their ability to present book reports.

Awards were presented to the following students for reading the most books in their grade: first grade, Jennifer Donnelly; second grade, Evan Allen; third grade, Sara Walters; fourth grade, tie between Lisa Draper and Jennifer Menger; fifth grade, Mike Alvarez; and sixth grade, Frank Cook.

Awards were also given to Lisa Draper, fourth grade, for best oral book report, and to Libby Spurgeon, third grade, for best written book report.

All the students received certificates for their participation and dedication to the program, and were served refreshments after the ceremonies.

Although the Summer Reading Program is over, there is still a weekly story hour for preschoolers, every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. A volunteer storyteller, Ramona Davis, reads the children a book and then discusses it with them.

THE PLAY AT FIRST—Company A, Field Station Berlin's Brian Valora is out at first. The play made by MEDDAC's Bill Ferry didn't do much to stop the FSB team, as they came from behind in the sixth inning to take the U.S. Army Berlin men's softball championship at Andrews field Aug. 13. The final score was 12-9. (Photo by R. Gibson)

2nd Battalion unit wins sports award

A Commander's Trophy is a highly sought after award and when your company wins one, it tells you that your company is outstanding and a strac unit.

The soldiers of Company C, 2nd Battalion, were awarded the 1982 Berlin Brigade Commander's Trophy on Wednesday by Brig. Gen. Leroy N. Suddath, Jr., Berlin Brigade commander.

"This means that the soldiers took more first places in more sports events than the soldiers of any other company," said 1st Sgt. James Clauson. "I think the basic reason why we won the award this year centers around the company's morale and esprit de corps.

"The soldiers work together as a team, they play sports together as a team and they play to win.

"We try in everything we do," said Clauson. "We're the number one rifle team in USAREUR and we're the only company in Berlin that has never had a fall-out during a Brigade physical fitness run."

The soldiers are loyal to the company, as evidenced during the USAB swim meet. One soldier swam to first place, despite severe stomach cramps, just to be a winner for the company.

As they took him to the hospital in an ambulance, he said that "I thought about quitting, but I wanted to win for the company."

Volksmarch

Don't forget the family Volksmarch Sunday. The march will begin at 2:30 p.m. at the Truman Plaza parking lot near the Child Care Center Association's (CCCA) booth for the Federal Women's Week Fair.

The route will be short and well marked. Afterwards, badges may be purchased for DM 2. Also on sale at the booth will be sodas, soft pretzels, and T-shirts. Following the march, at about 3:30 p.m., a tour of the new Child Care facility is planned.

Clinic set

For anyone interested in coaching football, there will be a football certification clinic on Wednesday and Thursday at the DYA from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

FSB edges MEDDAC, takes softball crown

by R. Gibson

The title of 1982 U.S. Army Berlin (USAB) men's slowpitch softball champions went to the team from Company A, Field Station Berlin, Aug. 13 at Andrews field.

The team from FSB beat the team from MEDDAC, 12-9, after trailing by six runs in the top of the sixth inning.

The tournament began on Tuesday at both McNair and Andrews fields with six teams in the competition for the title.

Coming from the winners bracket, the team from FSB first beat Combat Support Company, 2nd Battalion, 10-0. Next, Signal Support Company fell to FSB, 15-7, as did 287th Military Police Company (the tournament favorites) in the semi-finals, by a score of 9-8.

MEDDAC was handed their first loss from the MPs, 11-8, after beating Company A, 2nd Battalion, 11-1. They first shot down the 2nd Battalion entry for the second time, 10-0.

Then it was Signal Company's turn to fall prey to the MEDDAC march, 16-5. The MPs also took a loss from the MEDDAC team, 7-3, before the championship game against the team from Field Station.

In the championship game, MEDDAC set the standard early, scoring each time they went to bat.

By the sixth inning, it looked like a MEDDAC run-away. Then the FSB team took their turn at the plate in the top of the sixth, under the shadow of a 9-3 deficit. The FSBers started hitting and when the dust of the sixth inning had settled it was a new ball game, with FSB earning five runs and closing the gap to 9-8.

MEDDAC stranded what could have been their winning run when they took their last turn at bat. The FSB come-back had the fans on their feet, and the team ready to go all the way for the win.

Second baseman, Mike Music, stepped up to the plate with the bases loaded and sent the first pitch over the fence for a home run to give FSB the 12-9 victory and the USAB championship.

Ten best run in Greece

Ten active duty runners distinguishing themselves in the fourth annual USAREUR Marathon being held in conjunction with the Fulda marathons Aug. 29 will be selected to participate in the world famous marathon in Athens, Greece, on October 16, announced by Morale Support officials of 1st PERSCOM.

The USAREUR event will be run with the 11th Armored Cavalry's Cavalry Marathon (13.1 miles) and 4th annual "Run on the Rhone", an international marathon (26.2 miles). Individuals may enter all three events concurrently.

There is no entry fee for the USAREUR portion of the three marathons.

All active duty U.S. military personnel are eligible to compete in the USAREUR marathon that is laid out over the traditional 26-mile, 385-yard course. Non-Army personnel must be assigned or attached to, and supported by a U.S. Army community or one of seven major commands to be eligible for participation in the USAREUR marathon.

The USAREUR long-distance run is divided into three men's and two women's classes. The men's open division may be entered by all ages. The men's senior division features runners ages 30 to 39 and the master's division will include male participants 40 years and older.

A women's open class and a senior division, 30 years and older, will be observed in USAREUR competition at Fulda.

Selection of a ten-person USAREUR team, men and women, for the prestigious Athens event will be based on showings made in the Fulda competition. All individuals finishing the Fulda run will be awarded certificates with their running times.

Individuals interested in the USAREUR marathon may pre-register by contacting Capt. Daniel Ferris at Fulda Military (2364-)581. Although guaranteed a free cot in the gymnasium, participants must bring their own sleeping bags. (EURNEWS)

Northwest Wilderness packs up

by Sue Sweeney

The Northwest Wilderness is empty now, few signs remain from its 18 glorious days. Gradually, the area is being returned to its normal state — a parking lot and a DYA Sports Field.

The 1982 German-American Volksfest closed its gates for this year at midnight on Sunday. Early Monday morning the buildings and rides were being torn down.

Approximately 400,000 people visited this year's fest. They ate over 36,000 hamburgers, 38,000 tacos, 217,000 scoops of ice cream, 33,000 ears of corn-on-the-cob, and 32,688 bowls of chili.

To wash down all that food, they drank several thousand quarts of liquid refreshment. Volunteers manned the many food stands, often working from 2 p.m. to midnight, with only a short break.

The Volksfest crowds seemed to enjoy the entertainment on the Sawdust Stage. The Wagon Wheel Revue, a musical performed by volunteers from the American community, was a big hit as was the 7th Army Chorus which visited Berlin to perform at the Volksfest. Also, German and American musicians performed folk, pop, and jazz music.

Most of the visitors took the time to fill out their entrance tickets with the necessary information. Jürgen Seeger was the winner of a trip-for-two to the United States.

During the course of the Volksfest, there were some special events. Kinderheim Days, Senior Citizens' Day, and each of the six District Days celebrated the special friendship and camaraderie shared by Berliners and Americans.

Soldiers from the 3rd Battalion helped relocate the Volksfest offices out of the Thomas A. Roberts Elementary School and the DYA. The soldiers also moved all of the many pieces of equipment used in the food stands.

Paying bills, writing up after-action-reports and typing up certificates of appreciation for everyone who made the Volksfest successful are just some of the necessary paperwork the Volksfest staff has to complete.

Just as soon as that's completed, the Volksfest will bid good-bye to its Project Officer and NCO, welcome the new military crew, and start planning 1983's German-American Volksfest.

its gates Sunday and has been dismantling equipment and buildings since. (Photo by Sue Sweeney)

Outgrows traditional image

TASC aids in realistic training

by Doris Flack

"We try to get devices and aids that assist soldiers training in simulated combat situations," says Tom Strauss, chief of the Training and Audio-Visual Support Center (TASC).

The traditional image of TASC used to be the place where you could find Army training films on such exciting topics as dental hygiene and venereal disease. But, the center here has outgrown that image.

TASC has a fully-equipped video studio complete with the necessary equipment to edit and dub tapes; graphic training aids such as posters, charts and handouts on a variety of training topics; and the recently introduced MILES (multi-Integrated Laser Engagement System) and IRETS (Infantry Remoted Target System).

They still have the films and projectors for loan, but their approach to training is more "state of the art" now. The video section is available and has been used to film live-fires and training exercises. According to Strauss, the tape can be used as a valuable tool in identifying weaknesses and areas that need more attention in training.

They also have in stock films that show different aspects of training, concentrating on those concerned with urban fighting. In addition, they have a classroom with the necessary equipment for the presentation of the tapes.

MILES and IRETS are training aids that are being used extensively by the battalions to simulate realistic combat during training exercises.

MILES allows the soldier to know when he has scored a hit by use of laser attachments for clothing, weapons and equipment. It is much more reliable than the old system of evaluators making the decision whether or not a person or piece of equipment has been hit.

IRETS is a portable target system that is totally self-contained. Portability is the best feature of this system, as it allows for target practice virtually anywhere, provided the unit has received clearance to fire in that area.

Each battalion and separate company has a TASC account and usually the operations officer or company commander is the account holder. That is the person to work through to obtain training support from TASC.

The services TASC offers and the procedures to follow to get them are outlined in USCOB/USAB Pamphlet 350-3.
