International license available for drivers

International Drivers' Licenses may be obtained from the USBER Public Safety Police Liaison Office, Room 1126, Building 1, General Lucius D. Clay Headquarters. Application forms, which may be picked up and prepared there will be processed Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. except on U.S. and German Holidays.

Applicants must apply in person and have in their possession a valid USAREUR Privately Owned Vehicle Operator's License, and a 4x5 cm photo.

The license costs DM7.70. The Police Liaison Officer will not make change, so bring the exact amount in German currency only. The completed license will normally be ready for pick-up the following week.

In the event an applicant requires an International Driver's License sooner, applicants may apply directly at the West Berlin Police Station at Friedrichstrasse 219/220, 1000 Berlin 61.

Questions regarding the above procedures should be directed to the Police Liaison Office, Berlin Military 819-7437, and inquiries as to which countries require International Drivers' Licenses should be directed to the Berlin Brigade Drivers' Testing Station, 819-3429.

CID training offered

The United States Army Criminal Investigation Command (CID) is looking for soldiers to train for many special agent positions throughout the world.

CID is the Army's sole investigative agency for serious crimes committed by or against members of the Army. The command also provides protective service to Department of Defense officials.

Any qualified service member on active duty may apply for the special agent program. The basic requirements are that the applicant must be a U.S. citizen, at least an E-4, and 21 years old. In addition the prospective agent should have two years college or equivalent, a minimum GT score of 110 and a passing score on the physical fitness test, and six months law enforcement experience.

Interested soldiers may contact the local CID agent, Special Agent Anderson at 819-3513/3514.

Don't leave kids in car

Air Force traffic regulations prohibit leaving any child under 10 years of age, unattended in a motor vehicle.

While this is not an Army regulation, it does apply to all Armed Forces personnel and their family members while they are on Tempelhof Central Airport grounds.

ACS has top volunteer

by Sue Sweeney

"My head is in the clouds and I'm walking on air, right now," said Ann Lewis when she was told she was selected as U.S. Army Berlin volunteer of the year, by the Association of the U.S. Army.

Lewis, was Community Life Branch's recommendation for the award because of the many hours she donated to Army Community Services.

"Lewis was chosen as the volunteer of the year after quite a bit of discussion between the AUSA board members," said Andrew Krasnican, local AUSA Chapter president. "We considered each candidate carefully, but I believe the two factors that pulled the vote to her favor were the nature of her services for ACS and her additional work with the community. Even though she has no daughters, she helps the high school cheerleaders. She also works with the cub scouts."

Lewis began volunteer service in 1971. She worked at it for only eight months and then she had a five year break, until November 1976. She has been volunteering her time continuously since then.

Lewis says she was quite surprised to win. She said she knew last year's winner.

"I had the day off because both my sons had been sick all week," said Lewis "I dropped by ACS to see how things were going. When I did, Charlie (Lt. Charles Yudichak) my supervisor called me in his office to tell me that he had submitted my name for the volunteer. I was shocked."

When Lewis began working in ACS here she did a little of everything. She remembers her main job was working in the record section, but she helped out in the lending locker, in financial counseling and worked to update the world wide installation file. She helped with the Family Orientation Program when it first started, and was also a tour guide. Then in January, Lewis was promoted to supervisor of all the volunteers.

"I started working as a volunteer for the self satisfaction that comes from helping others, besides just the members of my family," recalled Lewis. "Now my volunteer time is extremely enjoyable."

She will receive the award in a presentation ceremony next week, and receive a certificate at an AUSA banquet in March.

Lewis and her husband Donald will be travelling to the annual USAREUR AUSA convention in Garmisch with local chapter representatives and the AUSA soldiers of the year.

There she'll meet other volunteers, attend some conferences and have some free time.

It's this free time that Lewis says she'll really enjoy. No, she won't be spending it volunteering. She says it will be a second honeymoon.

Ribbons must be worn right

"Wait a minute soldier! Who told you that your Army of Occupation medal comes before your Good Conduct Medal?" "Gee Sarge, nobody told me."

"And just look, you've got your Army Commendation Medal after your Army Achievement Medal. Haven't you seen the latest on how to properly display your ribbons and awards?"

Since the new peacetime awards were approved there has been a lot of confusion about how to properly wear them on the uniform. The Adjutant General's (AG) Office has released the following list on award precedence:

United States military decorations

In Order of Precedence

- Medal of Honor
- Distinguished Service Cross
- Defense Distinguished Service Medal
- Distinguished Service Medal
- Silver Star
- Defense Superior Service Medal
- Legion of Merit
- Distinguished Flying Cross
- Soldier's Medal
- Bronze Star Medal

Fitness should be soldiers' goal

by R. Gibson

The Chief of Staff of the Army and the Secretary of the Army have named 1982 as the "Year of Army Fitness." In doing so they are challenging every soldier to make up their mind to put forth that extra measure of effort to raise or maintain a higher level of physical fitness. Being physically fit indicates a standard of pride and a sense of self-esteem that can be interpreted, in a very real sense, as combat readiness.

There are a handful of people here in Berlin, who have, through hours of dedicated effort, left a mark in their field of competitive sports. Sanford Robinson, Company A, 3rd Battalion, is the current U.S. Army Europe (USAREUR) heavy weight boxing champion. Kathy Gall, Company A, Field Station Berlin was, last year, ranked number five in the U.S. in women's racquetball. These are only two members of our community who have achieved a certain level of recognition in their respective sports.

But sports isn't just for winners, because no one can be a winner every time. Participating in a sport doesn't always mean competing against someone. Often being an athlete or taking part in a sport is a very personal and individual activity. In some cases, the champions of today began in their sport with only mild enthusiasm. And some athletes feel that the self satisfaction obtained from their participation in sports is as rewarding to them as a trophy or title.

The responsibility of each of us to maintain the highest level of physical fitness is a very serious one that should top our list of priorities. Being physically fit should be more than just exercising or taking part in physical activity. Maintaining a well-balanced diet, being careful to count calories when necessary, getting plenty of rest and practicing good personal hygiene habits are also important to our physical well being.

Every soldier should prepare to meet the challenge and be physically fit and ready to preserve freedom both at home and around the world.

It started out beautiful, but then I stepped on it

by Sue Sweeney

It's that time again, one of those wonderful Monday mornings when you know it's going to be a great day.

You've already spit shined your boots and starched your fatigues to the max for Top's inspection. This morning he won't find any gigs.

Sure, you're a little tired because some neighbors had another battle of the stereos. The loud pulsating disco beat had some stiff competition from the rock and roller's four speakers. But the C&W fan really topped them all, he waited for the others to get some sleep, at 4 a.m., then he turned his on. Why don't they wear headphones?

As you walk down the sidewalk to catch the early bus, you step in a gift your neighbor's dog left the night before and listen to your spit shined boots squish. You wonder why dog owners don't bother to police up after their pets.

Sitting down on the bus, you feel something damp across the seat of your trousers. Pulling the ice cream wrapper from the seat of your pants, you wonder why parents don't pick up after their children, or at least teach them to do it. Maybe today's not going to be such a good day after all.

You fall in at formation, now dreading the inspection. Your fatigues are sticky, your spit shine looks like a poor brush shine at best, and worst of all, you smell a little funky. The first sergeant isn't impressed.

At least nothing worse happens to you for the rest of the day. Remembering the morning's experience on the bus, you hitch a ride home with a friend.

You climb the stairs to your apartment. Exhausted, you drop a cigarette butt and step over your kid's skates. As you pound on the door so your wife can hear you over the television, you're still wondering why people just aren't more considerate.

TOPS helps sergeant take 'em off

by John Cosgrove

Looking for a way to lose those unwanted pounds sensibly? TOPS may be the solution for you!

No, TOPS is not an acronym for First Sergeants. TOPS means Take Off Pounds Sensibly, and it has provided invaluable aid to many Berlin active duty service members who have been close to, or have exceeded the Army's weight limitations.

A SENSIBLE WAY—SSgt. Joseph P. Tavares, PAC supervisor for 4th Battalion proudly displays the difference between how he used to fit into his uniform, and the new waist that he found with the help of TOPS or Take Off Pounds Sensibly. (Photo by John Cosgrove)

One such service member has truly proven the TOPS method to be a successful one.

SSG Joseph P. Tavares, PAC supervisor for the 4th Battalion, has the highest regard for the TOPS Program and the people who make it work.

"The Program is beneficial because of the support that you give to each other," commented Tavares. "This support really helps a person to stay on his diet."

In September 1979, Tavares weighed in at over 240 pounds. In an individual attempt to lose some of the excess weight, he only managed to drop 25 pounds.

In August of last year, after coming very close to be barred to reenlistment, Tavares decided that it was time to take serious action.

Tavares sought the support of the TOPS members. As one of the few active, full-time male participants he started on his way toward his goal of 188 pounds, which would take him off the Army Weight Control Program. His ultimate personal goal is to get down to 168 pounds.

TOPS is primarily a club where all of the members have the same common goal — Taking Off Pounds Sensibly, using a group therapy procedure similar to that of Alcoholics Anonymous.

The second phase of the program is to Keep Off Pounds Sensibly.

TOPS has no recommended club diet or exercise program. All members must consult with their physician and/or dietician before joining TOPS.

For individuals who can't make it to TOPS meetings, they can get in touch with Tavares who is assisting the 4th Battalion weight control NCO. He will talk to soldiers about TOPS and how to control their weight.

Bridge over any waters

by John Spinelli

The 42nd Engineer Company's Ribbon Bridge Section may only have half a dozen soldiers assigned to it, but for the Berlin Brigade those few people may just be life savers some day.

The section, authorized only six personnel by Army Modified Table of Organization and Equipment (MTO&E), operates and maintains the float bridging assets of the Brigade. "We're always busy," said SSG Michael Davis, the Ribbon Bridge Section sergeant. "With so few people and so much equipment, my men certainly earn their pay!" What equipment? The section has six bridge transporters, tow 27 foot bridge erection boats, interior and exterior bays, seven assault boats, and tons of supporting equipment (repair kits, anchorage systems, and camouflage systems to name a few).

Calling the section a "ribbon bridge" section is somewhat misleading. Using organic equipment the section actually constructs a four-float raft out of ribbon bridge components. "If we had enough bays we could literally bridge the Wannsee. Now we raft across it" according to Sgt. Craig Thomas, the assistant section sergeant.

Last year the section participated in numerous training exercises to improve the teamwork required to build a raft quickly and safely. Actually, the operation is quite exciting to watch. The trucks back up to the edge of the water; the huge bays raise up on one end; then splash! The bay has rolled off the vehicle, hit the water, and flipped open to make a platform. The crew quickly connect the sections together and presto — a raft capable of carrying a tank! "I've enjoyed the training here, although I'll never get enough time out on the water" said Sp4 Michael "Red" Martin. "But we've had some good opportunities to train — especially on Tri-partite Exercises like Dakota Brave this past fall." The section also gets the opportunity to train on other skills required of the 12C (Bridge Specialist) MOS besides those on ribbon bridging. In August, the section linked up with 541st Engineer Company and 130th Engineer Brigade to practice Mobile Assault Bridging Skills. Again in October the section participated in BRIDGEX 1981, an annual bridging exercise held in Hanau, FRG. There the section familiarized themselves on a variety of 12C Soldier's Manual tasks to include Bailey and Class 60 bridge.

The mission of the section doesn't stop at rafting friendly units across water obstacles. "We touch all the bases — from operating boats to placing demolitions and mines. Our skills are somewhat similar to 12B's (Combat Engineers) in many respects" said Sp4 Terry Cope. The section can also use bridge transporters for hauling. If the bridge bays are not being carried, a pallet will be. The pallet can be loaded with gear, equipment to training materials for use by the company on Field Training Exercises.

The engineer's Ribbon Bridge Section may not get the visibility or recognition of other elements in the Berlin Brigade, but their mission is certainly as important: To support the Berlin Brigade in its crossing of water obstacles.

Berlin soldiers travel to Alps

by John Cosgrove

Members of the 4th Battalion recently returned from the Italian Alps where they received three weeks of cold weather training from 1st Battalion (Airborne) 509th Infantry in Vincenza, Italy.

What was defined by the 509th as an "exchange of favors," united select members of the 4th Battalion with the 509th to learn the importance of proper cold weather survival tactics and procedures.

"Everyone now has a basic understanding of survival in sub-zero temperatures," noted SFC Milton Greenway, NCOIC of 4th Battalions scout platoon. "We also gained much valuable knowledge on alpine and cross-country skiing techniques."

Some of the skills learned while in the Alps included the proper wearing of cold weather clothing, the assembling and disassembling of an arctic tent, and patrolling with snowshoes. The 4th Battalion soldiers even learned how to build snow caves and set up defensive fighting positions in an arctic environment.

The last week of training, included a composite field training exercise conducted by the training cadre. The 4th Battalion soldiers were given the opportunity to apply many of their new skills during this closing exercise.

AFN announces March programs

by Mark White

AFN Berlin TV adds 10 hours of new programming to its March schedule, incredible as that may seem. And the new programs are additions, not substitutions or reissues.

The newcomers include — the most talked about "Family Feud" with that kissin' bug, Richard Dawson, Mon.—Fri. and Dick Cavett, with his own brand of personality interviews, twice a week. For the action-detective buffs, look for "Collaborators," a police drama viewed from the Canadian side of the border. For the night-time soap opera addicts, it's the continuing story of "Knot's Landing."

The art of staying slim and trim will be provided by the best-selling author and successful TV personality, Richard Simmons, whose focus on a healthy table, as well as enjoyable fitness exercises, have taken America's daytime programming by storm. There will also be two shows each week with host-impressionist, Rich Little, in the memorable "You Asked For It".

Also this month, a feature film series begins under the title "Nickelodeon" for young and young heart viewers. "Nickelodeon" is a potpourri of titles, some old, some new and some black and white, all directed at the twelve or under viewer. Although "Nickelodeon" is targeted at the younger generation, we suspect that many adults will be peeking over their youngsters' shoulders at films they too enjoyed when they were tots. The series opens with "Chitty, Chitty Bang, Bang" and will continue to feature such greats as "Abbott and Costello;" "Laurel and Hardy;" "Shirley Temple;" "Buster Crabbe;" "Tarzan;" "Roy Rogers" and everybody's favorite, "Godzilla" and his outrageous friends. Also for the kiddies and mothers alike, an added 90 minutes of cartoons will romp across the screens each week starting with "Fat Albert" and "Mighty Hercules".

Returning favorites

This month will see, in addition to what we have listed already, the return of one of the most popular shows on TV, "Dallas." AFN viewers will also enjoy "Barbara Mandrell," "Archie Bunker's Place," "Origins of the Mafie," "Magnum P.I.," "That's Hollywood," "CHIPS," "Love Boat," "American Adventure," "Three's Company" and "Jeffersons."

The much talked about TV special "People Versus Jean Harris" starring Martin Balsam, Ellen Burstyn and Richard Dysart, will be seen the third week in March. This is a true story and begins at the 40th day of the trial of Jean Harris for the murder of her husband. The prosecution claims she murdered her husband but she claims she shot him accidentally during the struggle for the gun. The text is taken directly from the trial and not one word is changed.

Other top flight movies in March are Marlon Brando and Vivien Leigh in Tennessee Willam's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "A Streetcar Named Desire;" another top box office attraction, "Lords of Flatbush" starring Henry Winkler and Sylvester Stallon; "Taxi Driver" with Robert DeNiro; "The Deerslayer" with Steve Forrest from the famous book by James Fenimore Cooper (recommended for family viewing); "How Green Was My Valley" starring Walter Pidgeon and Maureen O'Hara; "Escape From Fort Bravo" with William Holden and Eleanor Parker; "Marooned" starring Gregory Peck and David Jansen and "Me, Natalie" with Patty Duke and James Farentino.

Woody Guthrie fans will look forward to David Carridine playing Guthrie in "Bound For Glory" based on his autobiography and growth as a man, singer and composer plus his involvement with the migrant labor movement in Oklahoma and California.

Don't miss old blue eyes teaming up with the big Count Basie Band on "Frank Sinatra — The Man And His Music" with a chart full of hits including his latest, "New York, New York," that brings the house down.

That's a brief glimpse of the best in viewing on AFN Berlin TV, if you're like me you will try to catch them all.

If you have any comments regarding our programming on TV or radio drop us a line in care of Programming, AFN Berlin, APO 09742, US Forces. your thoughts and comments are carefully read and answered when necessary. Good viewing!

Shakespeare's here through Sunday

Comedy brings 'measure' of entertainment

The romantic comedy called "Measure for Measure" continues to bring lighthearted entertainment to the Andrews Theater Center. William Shakespeare's story of a young girl's attempts to free her brother from an unjust punishment involves evil rulers, wisecracking comics, colorful townspeople, and other characters steeped in the atmosphere of the court, chivalry, and passionate emotions.

You can see this pageantry tonight at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday at 2 p.m. All performances are free of charge. Further details about the play are available by calling 819-6907 this afternoon or 819-3550 this evening or during the weekend.

Last weekend's performances attracted enthusiastic audiences. Take a tip from their happy response to the play and spend a few hours with some stage characters you will reminisce about in the same way that theater fans have remembered Shakespeare's popular figures for hundreds of years.

World day of prayer set

March 5 is World Day of Prayer, organized in the Berlin Community this year by the Sacred Heart Guild. World Day of Prayer observances begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel at ACC with the celebration of mass. Protestant women will be welcome.

At 10:15 a.m. a program considering various forms of prayer will be presented by Terry Bregon, Darla Mitchell, and Mona Mord-Jakobus. Prayer through scripture reading, poetry reading, traditional one-to-one communication with God, and play reading will be discussed. Darla Mitchell will lead all participants in song.

Refreshments will follow in the fellowship hall.

World Day of Prayer celebrations began in 1887 as a world-wide witness to the unity and faith expressed by women in over 150 countries and islands. It is traditionally celebrated on the first Friday in March and is sponsored in the United States by Church Women United.

The 1982 World Day of Prayer Service was prepared by the women of the Republic of Ireland and of Northern Ireland. The service draws upon religious traditions of Roman Catholic and Protestant women and is a call to peace, justice and reconciliation in the world.

PWOC rally set for McNair

Come sharpen your senses through exercises and games which challenge your five senses at the Protestant Women of the Chapel Spring Rally to be held at McNair Chapel from 9:30 a.m.—2 p.m. on Tuesday, March 9.

The program, called "Behold Your God in all Creation" begins with a talk by Chaplain Bill Fowler on the Sixth Sense or the Spirit.

A pot-luck salad lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. PWOC members and friends are asked to bring a salad and your own place setting. Baby-sitting will be provided. Mothers are reminded to bring food for their children, as a lunch break for the baby-sitters has been scheduled.

After lunch activities will include testing visual perception; learning to sign; games at a smelling bar and a fee-ly box.

For more information call Sally Larabee at 801-3930.

Guest organist to visit ACC

The Berlin community is cordially invited to a dedicatory organ recital to be presented by Dr. Jack Davis at the American Community Chapel on Sunday, March 14, at 4 p.m.

Dr. Davis who has been organist and choir director of the Cadet Chapel at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point for 25 years will come to Berlin especially for the recital. He will be the organist at the 10:30 a.m. Protestant service.

Staff Chaplain (COL) Earl Andrews said, "This is a longed for addition to the chapel that will enhance the beauty of the chapel and the worship experience. The organ has been in the building stages for two years."

Davis is the organ master of the largest church organ in the world with 22,000 pipes. The new organ at ACC has 1800 pipes.

Rugby: Competition for the dedicated in a rough, tumble form of fun

by Frank Jones

For you sports fans who like the fast pace of basketball, the excitement of football, and the rough and tumble of soccer and hockey, there is a sport designed just for you. This mixture of sports is called rugby.

Rugby is an English version of American football, but with several variations which make it very exciting participant and spectator sport.

Rugby was originated accidentally in 1823, by a student named William Ellis at Rugby College, England. While involved in an English football game, which allowed only kicking the ball, he was upset at being unable to kick it, so he picked the ball up and carried it down the field.

Needless to say, this upset the officials, and he was criticized by everyone. However, the idea of carrying the ball caught on with the spectators and players alike. Soon after the incident, the play grew into a new form of football which was appropriately named rugby after the college where it was first played. A memorial was later erected at Rugby to honor Ellis as the founder of the game.

Today, the sport is popular around the world. American rugby teams are very popular, and have proved themselves, over the years by winning several world championships.

In Berlin, the U.S. Army Rugby Team is just getting off the ground. The players are preparing for a game to be played against the RAF Gatow 2d XV at McNair sports field at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

The rugby team practices at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays at the sports field at McNair Barracks. Anyone interested in playing this rough and tumble sport should contact Chris Rottner for details at 819-6411.

Home games — team will meet at McNair NLT 1 hr. prior to the game time.

Away games — at the last practice before the game, the meeting place and time will be decided.

Any team member who cannot attend a game must call Brian McConnell, 819-6842, Chris Rottner, 819-6411, or Harry Mohr, 819-6009 prior to the game, during duty hours.

DYA Cudas sink Heidelberg

by Carol Cox

Berlin's formidable DYA Bear-A-Cudas smashed Heidelberg 249-167 last Sunday at Andrews pool. After their 15th swim meet, Berlin swimmers remain the European Forces Swim League's only undefeated team.

Jeff Edelman and Lars Asmis repeated their triple wins. In the 11-12 year old boys category Edelman grabbed individual medley, free style, and breast stroke. Asmis dominated individual medley, back stroke and butterfly for 15-19 year old boys.

The Bear-A-Cudas, 10 year and under swimmers were unbeatable, winning all single and relay events. Girls sharing titles included Karen Edelman's individual medley, Kristen Walsh's free style and breast stroke, and Aryn Ballard's back stroke and butterfly. Boys' winners included Eric Dimmery's butterfly, Peter Stowell's individual medley and free style, and Bobby Cox's back and breast stroke.

All of Berlin's age groups met the challenge. Edelman lead the 11-12 year olds with Chris Phipps adding a butterfly win. J. J. Jones grabbed free style in the 13-14 boys age group. Cathy Speer's free style and breast stroke and Christine Cox's individual medley and butterfly were winners for 13-14 year old girls.

While Asmis lead the 15-19 year old boys category, Didi Stowell took free style and individual medley with Kelly Murphy winning breast stroke for girls.

The Bear-A-Cudas will host Kaiserslautern Sunday, at Andrews pool. Competition begins at noon.

Runners — take time to prepare

by R. Gibson

Running is a sport that has taken a tremendous upswing in participation in recent years. And, in Berlin, since the days are getting longer and the weather milder, seasonal runners are once again taking to the streets and the Grunewald to enjoy one of the most natural, healthy, and inexpensive sports available.

If you are a novice runner, or have never taken up running in a serious way, perhaps now would be the best time, with 1982 being dubbed the "Year of Army Fitness." If you decide to become a dedicated runner there are several things you should consider before hitting the cobblestones.

First and foremost, start slowly. Look at the sport as more recreational than competitive. A good pace for the beginning runner is 20 minutes a day, three days a week.

Use your own judgement when deciding on when or where to run. Some runners prefer to run first thing in the morning, others prefer to run later in the day. Whatever your preference you should give yourself about 15 minutes to do some stretching exercises before running.

Some runners take longer to loosen up than others, again use your better judgement. Stretching can be done by facing a building or other immovable object and pushing with one leg in front of the other as if you were trying to move the object. Just a few seconds of this exercise, first on one foot and then on the other will help you to stretch out properly.

After you feel as though you have done enough stretching, you are ready to start running. Considering of course that you are dressed properly.

Running shoes don't have to be expensive, but they do have to be running shoes. Select a shoe that has a very thick padded sole. Trying to run in court shoes or tennis shoes is like trying to out-swim a shark. It can be very painful and dangerous. There is a very obvious difference between training shoes and racing shoes. Training shoes are what you are looking for if you want to be a recreational runner. Racing shoes are very light with very little padding in the sole. If you try on a pair of shoes that feel as though there was nothing to them, then you probably have racing shoes.

Once again use your better judgement when it comes to wearing sweats or a warm-up suit. If it is cold outside, say less than 30 degrees fahrenheit, it is a good idea to wear some kind of cold weather clothing, especially for your hands, ears, and head. (If the weather is warmer, you may want to wear just shoes, shirt, and shorts.)

If you wear cold weather clothing, it is better to wear several layers of light materials, than one thick layer of a warm material. That way once your body gets warm you may easily adjust the clothing for comfort.

So, now you know all that you need to become a recreational runner, right? Well not everything. But there are many recreational and competitive runners in Berlin who can give you more details. Larry Seals

Ninety musicians play big band sounds

by Elizabeth Waldrop

The sounds of the big bands filled Berlin's Victory Hall on Monday evening. Ninety musicians from Berlin American High School and Bitburg High School played numbers of all sorts under direction of Berlin's Rhoda Risner and Bitburg's Gary Kelb.

Each band played three numbers individually. Bitburg's selections were, "Barnum and Bailey Favorites," "Affirmation and Credo," and "Big Band Bash." Berlin played the theme from "S.W.A.T." and "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring."

A special student combo made up of Berlin musicians, Eric Wahlquist (clarinet), Alan Robinson

(trumpet), Darrin Morris (tuba), Butch Reed (clarinet), and Larry Wilkenson (trap set) were featured in "At a Dixieland Jazz Funeral."

Together, Bitburg and Berlin played numbers of "Toccata For Band," "Dedicatory Overture," and "Block M Concert March."

Bitburg arrived in Berlin on Feb. 20, for a three day rehearsal. They were sponsored by the city of Berlin to a visit to Berlin's Instrument Museum and a tour of West Berlin on Monday.

John Chavies, assisted by Elmer Berg, made all the arrangements and helped during rehearsals, which helped make the concert a huge success.
