4-502nd Inf. ready for ARTEP mission

At a glance, there appeared to be a mass confusion of troops in the suddenly busy quarters at McNair barracks. But a closer look revealed that something special was going on.

The Army Readiness Training Evaluation Program was officially underway, and for the next several days, the soldiers of the 4th Battalion, 502nd Infantry would undergo extensive training. Their efforts would also be closely monitored for the purpose of determining the strong and weak points of the training program in the Brigade, according to 1st Sgt. Jack Wayne, of Co. C, 4th Battalion, 502nd Inf.

The alert warning sounded at approximately 4:25 a.m. Monday, and the soldiers prepared to hit the field quickly and efficiently. Within minutes of the warning, the empty hallways of the barracks were soon filled with troops, each knowing exactly what was expected of him. They were ready.

Military vehicles of all types awaited the arrival of the troops outside the barracks, and soon they were also filled, with not only soldiers but also supplies for the five-day mission. Everything was proceeding according to plan. And any deviation from the expected was quickly rectified by the dozens of NCO's on hand, who paced furiously around the compound, keeping the troops on their toes. They were ready to motivate, but the troops didn't appear to need that extra push on this morning.

This dedication was merely what was expected out of a soldier in the Berlin Brigade, according to SFC Bruce Marvin, a platoon sergeant in Co. C. "With 99 percent of the soldiers here, all you have to do is tell them what to do and they'll do it with no problem," Marvin said. "And we feel that these are the best troops in the entire Brigade."

The soldiers were given two hours to get everything ready to move out to Doughboy City, the initial site of the training, but the precision and dedication of the troops involved paid off as they cut 15 minutes off their allotted time. "Everything went great," Wayne said of the soldiers' effective reaction to the alert. "So far we haven't had any problems."

Upon arriving at Doughboy, the first part of the ARTEP involved the setting up of the Combat in the City Standard Defense. "The idea behind the defense is for the soldiers to pace themselves in order to be able to do large amounts of work in a short period of time," Wayne said.

The key word, of course, is work, and from filling sandbags to fortifying defensive positions, the soldiers knew they had plenty of it ahead of them. But they carried on, seemingly undaunted by the scope of the mission they were tasked to perform. "We know what we have to do so we just go ahead and do it," said Sp4 Pasker Ware as he packed yet another sandbag. "We don't have time to worry about getting tired," he added.

"We're learning what it's like to stay up and work for long periods of time," said another soldier who, like everyone else involved in this ARTEP, didn't have much sleep to look forward to. "It'll get tough, but our spirits are high."

Hard work and diligence are always important to a mission, but at ARTEP time, pride is an equally strong factor. "We're out to set the standard for the rest of the Brigade," Wayne said. And if the rest of the ARTEP goes as well as the first day's activities, it will be a pretty high standard indeed.

SOUND OFF...

Washington (Arnews) — Defense secretary Caspar W. Weinberger sends the following message to military personnel regarding Armed Forces Voters Week, Sept. 10:

“One of the most important privileges and responsibilities of a free people is the right to vote. All of you, as members of America’s Armed Forces, are defending that right.

As Defenders of America’s liberties, you should exercise your right to vote. I have designated the week of Sept. 10 as Armed Forces Voters Week to remind and encourage each of you to mail your requests for an absentee ballot for the Nov. 6 elections.

It should be a matter of pride to all of us that more servicemen and women voted in this year’s primary elections than ever before. And now is the time to act to ensure that your voice is heard — that your vote will count in the final elections.

Most states require you to submit a separate request for an absentee ballot for the November elections — even though you may have participated already in the primary voting. So I encourage each of you to see your voting assistance counselor and to mail your request for an absentee ballot today. Do not neglect a right for which so many have sacrificed so much to protect. Take the time — and vote.”

“I just hope no forester finds out about this.”

Observations

Are you registered to vote? Why or why not?

Editor’s note: For those who wish to register to vote, contact your unit’s voting assistance officer.

Levenia A. Jelks, AAFES employee

“Yes, I am. I just turned 19. I feel if you’re old enough to vote, you should do it.”

SSgt. Steven R. Thomas, 6912th ESG

“Not yet. I’ve got an absentee ballot (application) right now and I’m preparing to send it in.”

Sp4 Manuel R. Cota, HHC, 6-502nd Inf.

“I’m not registered yet. I would like to but I don’t know where to go.”

Viola A. Lopez, family member

“I am. Voting is important because if you don’t like something, it’s your own fault if you didn’t vote.”

SSgt. David B. Lancaster, Co A, 6-502nd Inf.

“Yes, I am. I want someone (for the presidency) who is strong, and who will back the military.”

Buthaina S. Krauss, family member

“No I’m not. I keep forgetting to do it. I’m planning to, but I think having been new to Berlin and newly married has distracted me from doing it yet.”

Today opens Berlin's Oktoberfest, and for all those who cannot manage to travel to the Munich Oktoberfest, why not join the fun here. Berlin's Oktoberfest is set up in the back of the Deutschlandhalle, on Jaffestrasse and will stay there until Oct. 21. Open daily from 2 p.m. to midnight, the Oktoberfest offers fun, food and entertainment. You can reach Oktoberfest by buses 69, 4, 10, 65, 66, 92 or 94.

For all those traveling to Munich to enjoy the 150th Münchner Oktoberfest, which begins there tomorrow, it might be said that your visit will be a unique experience. Munich is expecting 6.6 to 7 million visitors this year. You will find that one day will not be enough to explore the gigantic fest grounds with all its attractions, beer, food specialties, music, and entertainment, and you will see many people dressed in their traditional Bavarian costumes, thus adding a special touch to the Oktoberfest atmosphere.

Movie "Queen"

Queen — We Will Rock You, is said to be the hottest rock film of the year, and has its premiere today at the Zoo-Palast. We Will Rock You will run in the original English version, a pure concert film, made at two concerts given by the group Queen at Montreal Forum in Canada. The 21 songs presented in the movie will be combined with smoke and light effects, making this rock film very entertaining. Daily shows begin at 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. An additional late show will be presented on Friday and Saturday, beginning at 11:15 p.m. Tickets range between DM8 and DM11. Take the underground to Zoologischer Garten.

Street festival

A street festival will be held in Lichterfelde-West on Saturday, commemorating the rebuilding of the old Bahnhof. The festivities begin at 3 p.m. and last until 7 p.m. About 24 booths will be set up right in front of the Lichterfelde-West railroad station, offering various art and information. There will be music, dance and entertainment, also a quiz from 4 to 5 p.m. Access to the RTO during that period will be via marked detours.

Rodeo Bull Riding

Welcome everybody to Schultheiss' Big Western Rodeo Bull Riding on Saturday. The Berlin Rodeo Team will show you how to ride a bull. You can also try your luck at riding and maybe win a prize. Bull Riding and Shoot-outs will be at 11 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m. Every visitor gets a free beer, an Erbsensuppe (a pea soup), and a Boulette (a meat ball) and more beer for a small fee. Dixieland music will be presented by the Kreuzberg Stompers, and there will be a bazaar with a stand, where you can have your beer mugs engraved. Fun begins at 10 a.m. at Methfesselstrasse 28 to 48, and lasts until 4 p.m. Take the underground to Flughafen.

Circus Roncalli

Circus Roncalli will give its last performance here on Sunday. There are two performances on the daily program, at 3 and 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased daily from 10 a.m. at the circus, or you can have them reserved by calling 301-9091. The circus is located on Masurenallee, opposite Sender Freies Berlin. Take the underground to Theodor-Heuss-Platz, or buses 4, 92 or 94.

Operettas and musicals

Anna Werner Bachmann, mezzosoprano, and Dwaine Douglas, tenor, conclude their European Tour with an appearance in Berlin on Saturday. They will be presenting selections from their favorite operettas and musicals. Accompanying will be Mrs. Terry Akamtsu of Berlin. The concert is free and open to the public. It will be held at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, located on 23 Pacelliallee. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

Superstar

Beginning Sunday, Jesus Christ Superstar will be shown in the original English version at the Funkturm Exhibition Hall No. 1. Entrance is on Jaffestrasse. Daily shows begin at 8 p.m., and there will be no performance on Monday. This rock opera runs at the Messehalle No. 1 until Oct. 3. Tickets are only available one week in advance, and range from DM10 to DM35, plus surcharge. The opera was planned to be presented at the Theater des Westens, but the theater is still under renovation. Tickets, however, can be purchased at the Theater des Westens at a stand booth, set up at the theater parking lot. Hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. The theater is located on 12 Kantstrasse. Take the underground to Zoologischer Garten, or buses 9, 60, 66, 69, 73, 92 or 94.

American Overture

The City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra presents a concert on Monday at the Philharmonic Concert Hall. On the program is the American Overture by Britten, Brahms and Schönberg's piano quartet Transcribea for Orchestra, and Sibelius' Symphony No. 5. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets range between DM25 and DM60 and can be purchased at the Truman Plaza ticket booth, or any downtown ticket agency.

Movies

On Wednesday, the Jerboa, British movie theater located on Theodor-Heuss-Platz will bring back the first in a special series of popular wide-screen movies from the 1950's and 1960's. The opening attraction is the spectacular First World War epic, "Lawrence Of Arabia," starring Peter O'Toole. For this movie, the Jerboa opens its doors earlier than usual, at 6:15 p.m. on Wednesday, as a capacity audience is expected. Movie-goers are asked to be seated at least five minutes before the program at 6:45 p.m., as the main feature takes up the entire evening and delays may extend the end past the expected 11 p.m. schedule. More movies coming up in October are "The Birds," "Jason And The Argonauts," "Zulu," "The Graduate," and "Grand Prix." Jerboa bookings can be made by calling 309-4186 up to seven days in advance, between 7:30 and 9 p.m., except on Thursday. Bookings not collected 15 minutes before start of program, will be released to others. Take the underground to Theodor-Heuss-Platz.

Tempelhof Fest

Saturday and Sunday, Tempelhof offers an outdoor weekend program in connection with handicraft, the Tempelhofer Handwerk. The festivities will be held in front of the Rathaus, offering a street cafe, bakery, grilled pork, and uninterrupted music with lots of activities, beginning at 10 a.m. on both days. There will be fashion shows at 11:30 a.m., 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, with the Starlight Combo and the Orchestra Sound Set playing for your musical entertainment. This handicraft program is free, and ends at about 6 p.m. on both days.

Musikschau

There are still tickets available to the "Grosse Musikschau," a charity concert, given on Sunday at the Deutschlandhalle. Performing will be the bands of the three Allied Forces, the Police Orchestra from Berlin and from Aalborg in Denmark, as well as the Zollkapelle, Berlin. Curtain time is 4 p.m., and doors open at 3 p.m. Admission costs DM10 and DM12, and tickets can be purchased today at the Truman Plaza ticket booth, located at the American Express Travel Agency. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and again from 2 to 4 p.m.

Friendship Day

The Tempelhof German-American Friendship Day will be held Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Mariendorf Tracking Club.

The annual event, being held for the 15th year at the club, will feature a parade, pony races, a rappelling demonstration from helicopters.

One of the day's highlights will be the VIP horse trotting race, which gets underway at 3:25 p.m. The U.S. participants will include Brig. Gen. Thomas N. Griffin Jr. and Col. L.R. Spivey, TCA commander.

At 8 p.m. there will be a special surprise.

Admission to the Tempelhof German-American Friendship Day is free.

Berlin Zoo offers many pleasures

By Marcia Cunningham

It's just after feeding time in the Big Cat House, and two swaying Siberian tigers roar. They answer each other's song only to be upstaged by the dramatic baritone of a neighboring lion. He thrusts and twists his head, shakes his commanding mane as small children (and big children in the guise of protecting parents) run to witness this rousing aria.

Quiet pleasures

West Berlin's Zoological Gardens offer quieter pleasures as well. If soothing peace and quite are what you crave after a stressful week, then a stroll around the miniature lakes, through the cool gardens and ancient oaks, which will calm the most discordant nerves. Berlin's zoo is one of the best known in the world. Its reputation partially based on the innovative care the animals receive, successful breeding, and the natural landscaped animal enclosures. Uniquely located in the heart of the city, the main entrance to the Zoological Gardens is across the street from the Zoo Bahnhof on Hardenbergplatz. Fortunately the zoo is open to the public all year, for it would take several visits and many hours too see and experience all of the zoo's value.

One of the most pleasing aspects of the zoo is its outdoor animal enclosures, conveniently free from bars and heavy fences. The zoo has been architecturally designed to simulate natural habitats. A pride of lions bask on natural sandstone hills; a herd of Barbary Sheep trek a miniature mountain, while a family of Baboons play and primp on rocky cliffs. With their hammy talent to tickle crowds, seals glide through clear ponds. Whether the sensitive faced Common Seal or the Homelier, if no less endearing Elephant Seal, visitors can observe and appreciate at close hand their charming antics.

Aquarium

Besides the ever-popular monkeys, apes, elephants and bears, two other outstanding features of the Berlin zoo are the Aquarium and the Nocturnal Animal House. The Aquarium must be the perfect place to visit on one of those typical Berlin winter days. It boasts one of the most complete collections in the world. On the first floor you can study tank after tank of both freshwater and saltwater creatures from Hermit Crabs, to dazzling Coral Fish, to Sea-Horses or ordinary trout.

On the next floor is the notorious Crocodile Hall which simulates a tropical swamp. These usually quite, motionless reptiles are most amusing during feeding time. Iguanas, Pythons, Boas, a variety of poisonous snakes, and the more benign salamanders, frogs and toads are also on display for close range investigation. The top floor of the Aquarium concentrates on insects from tropical butterflies to spiders and other invertebrates.

The Nocturnal Animal House (located in the basement of the Carnivore House or "Raubtier Haus") features small mammals, birds and reptiles which are normally active after dark. Geographically organized, the animals are illuminated by a soft light, almost moon-like in quality. In the African area one can see aardvarks, while in the North American area there are skunks, and from Australia Wombats and Rat Kangaroos. This house is particularly fetching because these animals are rarely seen in most zoos.

tions, plus geographical location are indicated with maps. While an excursion to the zoo can be relaxing and pleasurable, one also learns a good deal with even the most casual observation of animal activity. Human behavior at the zoo is another story itself—just ask the gentle Gorilla.

Children's zoo

Of special interest to young people is the Children's Zoo, modeled after a typical German farmyard. Close interaction and observation are encouraged as children are allowed to handle some of the young domestic animals. During winter months, however, this section of the zoo is closed. Children with an excess of energy can find happy release at the excellent playground, while thirsty parents can find relief in the zoo's restaurant.

Zoo officials have conveniently labeled at the animals in English, French, German and with their scientific designa-

Army chopper, crew aid heart transplant

For the second time in less than a year, a helicopter crew from the Aviation Detachment here flew a team of surgeons and a heart packed in ice across town last Friday, in a race to complete a life-saving transplant operation.

By calling on the Army for swift transportation, the German heart transplant team gained a crucial half-hour in their bid to get the donor's heart from the Klinikum Steglitz across 15 miles of congested traffic to Tegel Airport.

The helicopter touched down on the runway at Tegel 10 minutes after departing the Klinikum and less than 30 minutes after the surgeons first opened the donor's chest. At Tegel the four-man surgical team boarded a 3 p.m. British European Airways flight bound for Hannover. According to German press reports, the heart was successfully transplanted into the chest of a patient in Hannover.

On Sept. 19, 1983, a near identical helicopter ride enabled a different transplant team to catch a last-minute flight to London and successfully implant a heart there with less than 20 minutes left on a three-hour deadline.

The call for assistance on this most recent mission reached the Aviation Detachment, based at Tempelhof Central Airport, last Friday around mid-morning.

The UH-1H Huey helicopter's pilot, CW2 David M. Reynolds; co-pilot, WO1 Michael R. Murray; and crew chiefs Sgt. Steve F. Palo and Sgt. Donald Fox were preparing to depart on a routine rappelling mission when the call came in.

Since the operation was not scheduled to begin until 2:20 p.m., the crew condensed their two rappelling missions into one and returned to TCA around noon to refuel and replace the seats that had been taken out for the rappelling.

"It took about 45 minutes to re-rig the aircraft and it took some hustle, but we got it done with time to spare," said Murray.

Although medical evacuation is not a standard mission for the Aviation Detachment here, both Fox and Palo brought prior MEDEVAC experience to bear on last Friday's flight. Both crew chiefs served in the same MEDEVAC unit, the 498th Medical Company, Fort Benning, Ga., where they were certified as Emergency Medical Technicians and trained in the Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic program.

Crew chief Sgt. Donald Fox on a pre-flight walk-around inspection just prior to departing the Klinikum.

The MAST program trains aviators to assist in the evacuation of critically ill patients using roadside pickups and pickups in remote areas.

"After six years in a MEDEVAC unit, missions like this one are like getting up in the morning, getting dressed and going to work," said Palo. "It's automatic. You don't have to take a lot of time or ask questions. If the call comes in, you can be ready and out the door in five minutes."

After last year's experience, agreements were worked out between various authorities to develop a contingency plan for any future transplant operations.

Last year, the helicopter met the surgical team at the 4 Juli Platz since there were no areas around the Klinikum that were known to be safe for helicopter landings, said Capt. Bill Brooks, the detachment's executive officer. The pilots also had to radio back and forth between the operations desk and the Berlin Air Traffic Control Center while en route to coordinate landing procedures at Tegel.

Brooks estimated that by establishing a landing zone next to the hospital and by coordinating with BARTCC for a one-phone-call priority clearance for the helicopter, as much as 15 minutes may have been saved.

The original connection between the Army and the Klinikum Steglitz was forged, not during an emergency, but oddly enough during a party.

During this social gathering, some months prior to the first heart transplant flight, Annie Keller, the community relations advisor in the Public Affairs Office here, was introduced to Gerhard Schutze, an administrator and an active member of the Lifesaving Association at the hospital.

Schutze took the initiative to call Keller just prior to last year's operation when the doctors realized that they might not have enough time to get the heart to a London bound flight leaving from Tegel. Keller passed the request up to the necessary authority in the command and got an immediate approval to set the rotors of a helicopter in motion.

"This just goes to show how important it is to go to parties and meet different people," said Keller. Referring to Schutze she added, "Sometimes it's the smallest people in an organization who get the biggest jobs done."

The Klinikum Steglitz is a 1,400 bed hospital associated with the Free University here. As a member of Eurotransplant Zentral, a medical hotline based in Holland, they are able to match organ donors with potential recipients throughout Europe.

CWO2 Ernie C. Dean . . . taking the oath

Brandenburg gate scene of promotion to CWO2

By Mike Warren

SFC Ernie C. Dean became CWO2 Dean in a ceremony near the Brandenburg gate Wednesday morning.

A 16-year Army veteran, Dean is entering the warrant officer MOS of general supply technician.

The Pittstown, N. J. native said he chose the Brandenburg gate to take the warrant officer's oath because "it represents Berlin. It's a divided city."

Dean, who has served as the property book NCO with HHC, Berlin Brigade, said supervisors recommended he apply for a warrant officer commission as early as 1975, but he added "I didn't feel I had the knowledge or experience necessary." He also said his duties as property book NCO here have helped him achieve that experience.

The 35-year-old Dean said he recommended the warrant officer program to enlisted soldiers "if they have knowledge and experience (in their MOS)." "If they want to stay in their career field, I feel it's a good way to go," he said.

In a short speech after the ceremony, Dean said, "this is one of the biggest steps in my career. The next one is retirement."

Dean's next assignment will be with the 18th Engineer Brigade, 79th Engineer Battalion, in Karlsruhe. Dean will leave Berlin in mid-October.

'Rondo' concludes with awards, teamwork

By David Porreca

Rondo XXVII, a communications exercise involving troops from the three allied sectors of Berlin, concluded Sept. 14 with an awards luncheon at the Checkpoint NCO Club. The first and second place teams from the four-day exercise were honored by Brig. Gen. Thomas N. Griffin, Jr., commander of the Berlin Brigade.

Members of the winning team were Sp4 Donald Grimes, of the 6-502nd, Signalman David Phillips, of the British 229th Signal Squad, and Cpl. Etienne Drot, of the French 11th Signal Company.

Members of the second place team were Sp4 Kent Stewart, of the 6-502nd, Cpl. Colin Chapman, of the Allied Staff, Berlin, and Draftee 1st Class Jean-Charles Faineant, of the 11th Signal Company.

Twelve teams, each composed of three allied soldiers, competed during the exercise. The teams vied with one another on a variety of tasks, including a communications skills test at six locations throughout Berlin, a land navigation problem in the Grunewald, a team-reaction course at McNair, and a confidence course at Doughboy City.

"The land navigation was definitely the hardest," Grimes said in recounting his team's efforts to nail down Rondo's top spot. "We knew if we didn't make it through fast enough, we wouldn't take first place. We really pushed ourselves."

What made the victory of Grimes and company particularly remarkable was that Drot, the team's French member, couldn't speak English. "Etienne didn't speak English, but that wasn't really a problem," Grimes said. "We just pointed and he knew instinctively what to do."

For the winning team, the most rewarding part of Rondo was the opportunity to make friends with their allied counterparts and work with different communications equipment. "Meeting new friends and learning new equipment are what I like best about Rondo," Grimes said, who participated in the last British-sponsored exercise.

British, French, and American Rondo teammates make their way over one of the obstacles in the team reaction course at McNair Barracks. The course was one of the events Rondo teams had to complete during the four-day exercise.

"Rondo teaches teamwork, even though we don't all speak the same language," added Phillips, who took part in the previous American Rondo. "We learn to speak to one another through our actions."

Drot, meanwhile, looked upon Rondo as an introduction to two different ways of life. "The main things I learned about the Americans and British were their lifestyles," Drot said through an interpreter. "Getting cleaned up with cold water outside in the morning—we don't do that in France," said the veteran of both the American and British Rondos. "I only wish I could had some conversations with my teammates."

The second place team didn't have to worry about a language barrier though; Faineant, the French member, spoke English well. "I could follow the instructions in English without much problem," he said. "It was a big help because I could get to know my teammates better."

Faineant's teammates saw Rondo as a chance to compare the different armies. "The Americans are highly professional," said Chapman, the British member. "The French have great enthusiasm and really go for it when given the chance. The team spirit among the three sectors is really quite admirable."

"The British and French are just like us," said Stewart, the American member. "They have the same problems, but they solve them in their own ways." Stewart, like Faineant, had participated in the British Rondo; only Chapman was a newcomer to the exercise. In fact, Chapman is not a signalman by profession; he is a staff clerk at the Allied Staff, Berlin, and took part in Rondo for the challenge.

Looking back over the exercise, Rondo's organizers were pleased with the results. "It was a super exercise," said 2nd Lt. Ian Favager, leader of the 229th Signal Squad. "The troops learned how to be diplomatic, and they learned some leadership skills. Dealing with a language barrier definitely requires leadership."

"The soldiers learned they're all the same," said 1st Lt. Ronald Stimeare, chief of Tactical Communications and main organizer of the exercise. "It doesn't matter what uniform they wear. The teamwork and esprit de corps of this Rondo was the highest I've ever seen."

News briefs

Price cut

Dallas — Prices for many Army regular issue items sold in military clothing sales stores will be going down after Oct. 1. The reductions are the result of price adjustments made by the Defense Personnel Support Center (DPSC) in Philadelphia. The DPSC changes retail prices on regular issue items on the first day of each fiscal year. The prices stay in effect for the entire fiscal year. Army and Air Force exchange service officials announced the price trend after seeing DPSC's 1984 fiscal year price list. AAFES sells DPSC-procured items in its military clothing sales stores but has no control over the price of these items. AAFES officials released a list of new prices for 32 DPSC items of high demand purchased in army military clothing sales stores.

Reductions listed include the men's all-weather coat, reduced from $40.43 to $37.92, the women's polyester and wool suit jacket, reduced from $62.51 to $48.95, the duffel bag, down from $14.06 to $12.83, and the BDU shirt, down from $14.75 to $12.37. Only four items on the list will cost more after Oct. 1. They are the women's beret up from $6.18 to $6.43, the black web belt, up from 94J to 96J, the BDU field jacket, up from $31.13 to $34.72, and the men's brown brief, up from $1.57 to $1.69.

Earring policy

If you're a male soldier and you like to wear earrings while off-duty, the Berlin Brigade has some bad news for you. According to CSM Dennis Duncan, it is brigade policy that make soldiers will not wear earrings at any time while in military or civilian clothing. The restriction covers all areas in Berlin, but especially military installations. "This includes housing areas, the PX, transportation—anything dealing with the military," Duncan said. What about civilian areas downtown? "Let me put it this way," Duncan said. "If a male soldier is caught wearing earrings downtown, he will be told to take them off on the spot."

Please watch requirements and deadline!

Community Events and Classified Ads for each week's issue will be printed on a space available basis only, and are due by close of business Tuesday. The events and ads will be run for one week and must be resubmitted for each issue. Only double-spaced, typewritten announcements will be accepted for printing.

All ads must be signed to be accepted.

University of Oklahoma

Don't let a tough duty schedule prevent you from pursuing a masters degree. The University of Oklahoma offers regular on-campus courses, taught by OU home campus faculty, once a month within a one-week intensive seminar format. All class sessions are held during off-duty hours. This term, the MPA program offers "Politics of Government Budgeting" and the Human Relations Program offers "Chemical Dependency." Begin your masters degree now. For details, call 819-5237 or 819-6794.

It's Your Move

The video tape, "It's Your Move," will be shown on Thursday at 2 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. The auditorium is located in the basement of the hospital, adjacent to the exchange facility. This film portrays the entitlements and responsibilities of DoD personnel shipping and/or storing household goods, and is highly recommended for all personnel who will be departing Berlin in the near future, or recently arrived. Much useful information can be obtained from this film. Spouses are urged to attend with their sponsors.

MARS Station

The Berlin MARS Station will be closed from 7:30 a.m. on Monday until midnight on Oct. 5 for renovation of the facility communications console. During this time frame, CONUS phone patches will not be processed, however, the MARSGRAM services provided to the Berlin American Community will continue to be processed to CONUS, via telephone, through an alternate MARS Station in West Germany. During this renovation process the latest state-of-the-art communication-type console will be constructed with a complete back-up line of equipment that will enable the MARS Station to better service the community's increase in CONUS phone patch demands. For more information regarding the MARSGRAM service that will be provided during this closure, call Berlin MARS Station at 819-3567 or 819-3289.

Thrift Shop news

Volunteer Orientation Day is on Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon. Come and have fun and help your community and get loads of bargains. Child-care will be paid, light lunch, and volunteers receive reduced rates on consignments. September is DODDS month. The person who brings in most consignments wins a dinner for two. Bring in your unused things Mondays and Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to noon. Call 831-3648 for information and reservations to the Volunteer Orientation.

Health Care Consumer Committee

The Health Care Consumer Committee will be meeting on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the U.S. Army Hospital, Berlin Commander's Conference Room. Anyone having suggestions or comments about the hospital medical care delivery system is invited to submit these through their unit representative. Anyone having comments to present to the community directly is invited to attend.

Aerobics Clinic

MSAD Community Centers will sponsor an Aerobics Clinic for all persons interested in being certified to instruct aerobic classes. The clinic will be held at All American Community Center today, from 7 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. To register, call the Hi-Lite at 819-3554.

Children's Center

The Children's Center Drop-In, located at the YA Building at Truman Plaza, is open three days a week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Children attending this program must be 18 months to 12 years, and be pre-registered at the main center. Parents are required to furnish a bag lunch for children who are present during the lunch hours. Children are accepted on a space available basis only. Fees are 85 cents for the first child, and 45 cents for the second child.

No parking in Clay Headquarters

Until further notice, there will be no parking on Clay Headquarters compound due to sandblasting and painting of the radio tower.

American Women's Club of Berlin

The AWC is now accepting applications for adult scholarships. The scholarships are available for undergraduate study with accredited American colleges or universities within the Berlin community. Application forms may be found at the education centers at Andrews, Clay Headquarters, McNair, or TCA, or at the American Community Services Office in Truman Plaza. Deadline for submission of applications is Nov. 9, 1984.

University of Maryland

The UofM is currently registering for upcoming classes to be held at McNair, starting Oct. 1. Introduction to Word Processing and Managerial Application of the Digital Computer, are command-sponsored classes. Elementary German, Introduction to Psychology and Introduction to Physical Science require tuition assistance or full pay.

The UofM is expanding its command-sponsored weekend seminar offerings, beginning Sept. 29. For more information, call 819-6949, or drop by your local education center.

Construction at Tegel Airport

Effective immediately, and until Oct. 15, vehicles weighing more than 2.8 tons will not be permitted to enter the inner-ring (normal arrival and departure gates) at Tegel Airport. It is suggested that vehicles weighing more than 2.8 tons park adjacent to Gate 15 on the outer-ring.

Job opportunities

The Civilian Personnel Division is now accepting applications for the following positions.

Medical Officer — Occupational Medicine Administration. Applicants must have completed university studies plus four years of professional work experience in occupational health. Excellent knowledge of the English and German languages.

Photographer — completed apprenticeship, or five years of equivalent education. Fluency in the English language.

Reading Improvement Specialist — for the Berlin American High School. Requirements are: US citizenship, Bachelor's Degree which includes or was supplemented by 18 hours of course work in the field of professional teacher education, as well as 18 semester hours in reading, and six additional hours in reading or English.

If you feel that you meet the necessary qualifications, call CPD at 819-6227 for the first two jobs, and 819-6220 for the last one.

Emporium on AFN Berlin

AFN Berlin has reinstated the classified column on the air — Emporium — on both 1107 AM and 88 FM. The public service program is available for ads by all authorized personnel in Berlin. Personnel wishing to advertise items should use an eight by 10 piece of white paper, stating the message they wish aired, using a civilian or military telephone number, or address as their point of contact. All requests must be signed, and give the person's organization. There is no charge for this service and the advertisement will be aired for three days, and may be repeated, if the person sends in another request. Emporium is being aired on 88 FM weekdays at 6:55 a.m., and on 1107 AM at 7:40 a.m. Questions should be directed to Programming Branch. The number is 819-6145.

Music and Theater needs help

The Music and Theater Program needs the following volunteers: a costume manager for the October production of Macbeth, someone to make Macbeth's crown and face masks, and someone to knit large panels to make a hound dog costume. Also needed are the following props: men's pajamas, size 42, camel-color cardigan sweater, and four pairs of loudly striped boxer shorts. Contact telephone is 819-3550.

Lunchtime German Classes

Gateway I and Gateway II, Lunchtime German Classes are offered at Clay Headquarters, Building 4, from Monday to Dec. 21. Classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from noon to 1 p.m. For registration call 819-6605 or 819-6333.

Home Computer Classes

Home Computer Classes are being sponsored by the Hi-Lite Community Center on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 8:30 p.m., Oct. 2, 4, 9 and 11; and on Oct 6 and 13 from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Students will learn to use, understand, and modify programs on a project basis for personal home application, such as household inventory, record-keeping, diet, and child behavior modification. To register, drop by the Hi-Lite from 1 to 8 p.m., daily. Cut-off date for registration is Wednesday. For further information, call 819-3554.

Protestant Parish Potluck

The Protestant Parish of the American Community Chapel will be having a Parish Potluck on Sept. 30 from 4:30 to 7 p.m. All are invited to attend. For more information, call ACC at 819-6761.

Girl Scouts need volunteers

The Berlin Neighborhood Girl Scouts are in need of adults to serve as troop leaders, Neighborhood Troop Committee and Neighborhood Association members. If you are 18 years or older, male, female, married or single, we could use your help. You provide your spare time, and we will provide the training. This is a very rewarding program in which you could have a part in helping young girls become responsible adults, and have fun doing it too. For further information, call Eleanor at 832-6928, or Marge at 813-8540.

Tour with ITT

For information on any of these tours, call 819-6523 or 819-7189, or sign up at the Information, Tour and Travel Office (ITT) in the Sports Center on Hüttenweg.

ITT offers a free sightseeing tour of West Berlin the last Sunday of each month. Sign up now, seats go fast.

The Spandau Zitadelle, constructed in the 16th Century, was the scene of fierce fighting during the Napoleonic Wars. Visit this ancient fortress on ITT's Spandau Zitadelle Tour, on Saturday.

On Monday, ITT will be closed for staff training from noon to 5 p.m. Tours scheduled for that day will be conducted as scheduled.

Tired of the hectic pace of the city? Put a little country in your life and enjoy ITT's relaxing Country Roads Tour, offered only twice in October, on the 2nd, and the 16th.

See the ancient Julius Tower, standing since the 13th Century as part of the Spandau Zitadelle. ITT will take you there on Oct. 6, on its fascinating and informative Spandau Zitadelle Tour.

Bears ready for football

On the surface, it would appear as though the Berlin-American High School Bears football team will be hard pressed to improve on last season's 4-3 record. Graduation exacted a heavy toll on the Bears, and among the missing are three All-Europe performers. In fact, the Bears have only three starters returning from their entire 1983 squad.

But the BAHS cupboard is hardly bare. The Bears lack experience, but they have plenty of talent on both sides of the ball. And if determination, hustle and desire count for anything, the youthful Bears will once again be a force to be reckoned with in the competitive "AA" division.

"Our guys are big on heart, desire and enthusiasm," said second-year coach Merrill Bryner. "We're kind of small, but I think we're going to surprise some people this year."

Offensively, the Bears' wishbone attack will be spearheaded by senior Steve O'Hearne, who won the starting job midway through last season and led the Bears to three consecutive victories. "We'll be looking to Steve for leadership this year," Bryner said, "and that's not a problem because Steve's a natural leader." An excellent option quarterback, O'Hearne racked up more than 700 yards total offense in his three starts last season.

Bryner hopes to take some of the load off O'Hearne's shoulders with the addition of senior Lonnie Spikes to the backfield. Spikes was a starter at defensive tackle last year and was moved over to the offense in an effort to strengthen the running attack, which was also hit hard by graduation. One of the team's best athletes, Spikes is the type of slashing power runner cornerbacks hate to see coming around the corner. His teammates use words like "awesome" and "outstanding" when describing him. Bryner hopes the Bears' opponents get that same feeling.

Quarterback Steve O'Hearne scans the field before calling the signals for the next play in a practice workout. O'Hearne will be looked to for leadership as the youthful BAHS Bears try to better last season's 4-3 record.

Joining Spikes in the backfield will be junior fullback Leroy Lopez and sophomore running back Lemoin Brevard.

For any running game to be effective there must be strong play from the offensive line, and Bryner is still looking to find the right combination. And with all five 1983 starters gone, including All-Europe selection Rick Donelson, it hasn't been an easy task. "We're probably going to be pretty small on the line," Bryner said, "but we have several players who I feel can do the job for us." Two players who may emerge as league stars are juniors Jon Cox at center and Arnold Fields at guard.

Seniors Charles Cleveland and Doug Magruder and junior Brad Lewett will handle the receiving duties, where they'll try to make up for the loss of All Conference picks George Moffett and Tom Moore. Moore was also an All-Europe selection.

There is a lot of competition for several starting slots on the defense, and some players, including Spikes, may be called upon to go both ways. The Bears generally go with six down linemen in an effort to plug up the run. The linemen are quick, but, as with the offensive linemen, they are a little weak when it comes to size.

The secondary, however, is perhaps the strongest part of the defense. Bryner will be looking for a big year from quick Danny Franklin, a two-year starter at cornerback. And the sleeper of the defense could be hardhitting free safety Sun Morrison, a junior, who, according to Bryner "has the attitude of a Kamikaze pilot."

Bryner hopes his team can get off to a fast start this year, as last year they lost three of their first four games and were effectively out of the playoff hunt at the season's midway point. Tomorrow's season opener against Nürnberg should tell him a lot about how competitive the Bears will be this season. "We've got a lot of enthusiasm, and the guys are really looking forward to getting started," Bryner said.

Marathon extends entry deadline

The deadline for entering the Berlin Marathon has been extended until Tuesday for all U.S. military personnel and their family members, according to Horst Milde, the organizer of the event.

Entrants can register with MSAD sports coordinator Tom Kearney at room 3033, Building 2 of Clay Compound. The late entry fee is DM40, and out of that total DM30 is refundable.

To receive the refund, receipt of payment and verification of completion of the marathon must be presented to the MSAD Physical Activities Branch prior to the close of business Oct. 12.

According to Milde, over 9,000 competitors have already signed up for the marathon, now in its 11th year. More than 2,300 runners from outside of Germany will compete, including 1,049 from England, 504 from the United States, 171 from Denmark and 164 from Sweden. In addition 31 runners will be coming from Poland. There will also be 22 wheelchair contestants. And if you're thinking about running in the marathon but are apprehensive because you've never run in a marathon before, you might be surprised to know that over 2,600 of the entrants are first time marathoners.

Participants can pick up their numbers Thursday through Sept. 29 at the Hotel Intercontinental located on Budapest Strasse. Upon receiving a number, each contestant will also get a free ticket to the traditional pasta party, which will be held Sept. 29 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. outside of the hotel.

As a special service to the participants, the organizers of the race will provide a running shoe resoling service. For a nominal fee, old running shoes will be resoled so that contestants can tackle the Berlin course in their favorite footwear. Sports clothing will also be available, and both services will be offered at the hotel.

Transportation to the race will be provided only to participants and will be allocated on a space available basis.

Sports Stumper

1. Since the divisional playoff system began in 1969, two National League teams have captured six titles each; who are they?
2. What basketball player was drafted on the first round by the NBA despite having been second string throughout his college career?
3. What team has the highest winning percentage in the NFL over the last 21 years?
4. What was the first expansion team to win the NHL Stanley Cup?

Last week's answers

1. Three with Kansas City, 1976, '77, '78; 2. Boston and Phoenix, 1976 finals; 3. Rosey Grier, Merlin Olson, Bob Brown, Deacon Jones; 4. Scotty Bowman.

Over 6,500 runners competed in the 1983 Berlin Marathon, but this year that figure has swelled to over 9,000 as runners from all over the world will compete in one of Berlin's most popular events.

briefly

200 meter relays

If you are into running, and your distance is 200 meters, you should turn out for the timings and tryouts for the 6 x 200 meter relay race at the Mariendorfer Friendship Day. Tryouts will take place Monday at 5 p.m. at Yankee Stadium. The Mariendorfer Friendship Day is scheduled for Sept. 30. For the USAB team, six runners and two alternates are required and they will be selected on Monday, the day of the tryouts.

Pre-marathon run

The Berlin Roadrunners will hold a pre-marathon run on Wednesday. The 30-40 minute "easy jog" will begin at 6 p.m. at the Berlin Brigade Sports Center. All club members and interested runners are encouraged to come out, do an easy jog through the forest, and talk "running." For those running in the Berlin Marathon, it will be an opportunity to talk about race tactics and paces. For those not interested in running a full marathon it is an opportunity to simply get together and run. For all it will be an opportunity to meet other runners and enjoy some runner camaraderie.

Cross country

The USAB cross country championships will be held Oct. 5 at 2 p.m. at the Youth Activities field behind the Berlin Brigade Sports Center. Sign up with your unit A&R NCO now!

Women's bowling

Efforts are currently underway to establish a women's bowling league. Bowling will be on Tuesday nights at 7:30 p.m. at the Tempelhof Central Airport bowling lanes starting Oct. 9. To sign up, or for more information, contact Sharon Peterson at 802-5978.

Women's basketball

Tryouts for the women's Brigade basketball team will take place Oct. 10 at 6 p.m. at Andrews gym, and also Oct. 11 at the same time at the Berlin Brigade Sports Center. After the team has been picked, formal practices will be held four times a week, Mondays and Wednesdays at Andrews gym and Tuesdays and Thursdays at the BB gym.

All women in the command are invited to play in the 1984 Women's Basketball League. Select a team (with a minimum of six players) and call Sheila Lloyd-Graham at the MSAD sports office. The number is 819-7181 or 819-6581. The deadline for entering teams is Oct. 24. At least four teams are needed to form the league.

Boxing coach vacancy

MSAD is seeking a boxing coach for the Brigade team. Experience is required. Anyone who feels qualified to fill the position should submit a resume to Tom Kearney, Men's Sports Coordinator, MSAD physical Activities Branch, room 3032, building 2 of Clay Compound, of call 819-6768 as soon as possible.

Wrestling clinic

A wrestling clinic, a preparation for the wrestling "smoker", will be held Oct. 16 at 6 p.m. at the McNair gym. The clinic is for both officials and participants. The smoker will be held Oct. 20 at 11 a.m. at the McNair gym. The weigh-in and physical examination begins at 7 a.m. the same day. Entrants must have both to participate.

Yanks come up victors

Berlin Yanks' center Steve Douglas recovered a fumble and dashed into the end zone as time expired to give the Yanks a dramatic come-from-behind 22-17 triumph over the Prince of Wales Own Regiment II Sept. 15 at the rugby field behind Olympic Stadium.

"This was a great win for us," said Yanks coach Greg Zipf of the victory, the Yanks first of the young season. "We kept falling behind but we never gave up, and we wound up winning."

PWO II seemingly had control of the game as they led 17-16 and the Yanks were deep in their own territory with less than a minute to play. To get themselves out of the hole, Berlin booted a long desperation kick, which was caught by the PWO fullback. But he was stripped of the ball by Yanks' wing Jeff Deva, and Douglas scooped it up, without breaking stride and scored the game-winner as the final whistle went off. With no time on the clock, Berlin then booted the conversion to make the final score 22-17.

Berlin appeared to be in for a long afternoon at the start of the game as PWO II took the opening kickoff and scored inside of the first minute of play. But they missed the conversion, and minutes later Douglas rambled ten yards for a score to tie things up at four. Fullback Peter Walter added the conversion and the Yanks had a 6-4 lead. Walters then added a penalty kick, and the Yanks took a 9-4 lead into halftime.

PWO II started the second half much like they did the first, dominating the early action and then scoring. This time they were successful on the conversion attempt and they regained the lead, 10-9. The two teams then traded penalty kicks before Zipf broke loose for a 25 yard score to regain the lead for the Yanks. A penalty nullified the conversion, but the Yanks' 16-13 lead looked strong as there were but four minutes remaining.

However, the Yanks weren't the only team that never gave up in this seesaw contest, which saw seven lead changes. PWO II jumped back into the driver's seat by quickly scoring again. But the same penalty that wiped out the Yanks conversion was called against PWO II. On their attempt, and with Berlin trailing 17-16 and time running out, the stage was set for Douglas' game-winning heroics.

"We placed very well," said coach Zipf of his team's performance. "The game was marked by excellent scrum play. We were winning the line outs and scrum downs all over the field. And the inspired play of our prop, Carl Siegel, was the major factor in the strong play of our scrum."

The Yanks' victory was even more impressive in light of the fact that several of the team's key players were out in the field. "We had a chance to break in a lot of new players," said Ray Ryan, the team secretary and break forward. The Yanks welcome new players to the team, and no experience is necessary. The team holds practices every Tuesday and Thursday at 5:30 p.m. at McNair.

The Yanks will try for their second win Sunday as they take on RAF Gatow at Gatow. Kickoff time for the game will be 2:30 p.m.

Members of the 1984 Berlin-American High School Bear football squad listen intently as coach Merrill Bryner explains strategy for the upcoming season. The Bears' '84 campaign begins tomorrow at the
