Reader wants people to get involved

by Sandra L. Doty

"So, big deal, a Presidential election is coming up in November . . . I'm here in Berlin, what do I know about the national candidates?"

"What do I care? My one vote doesn't mean anything!"

"It's a big hassle to vote absentee — why bother?"

Are these some of your thoughts, word or deeds? Many here in Berlin echo these sentiments because they perhaps feel so far removed from the "action" and feel such a small part of the election process. After all, with the Electoral College set-up, that one vote seems to carry little direct significance, many reason.

Such thinking is almost understandable in view of the great distance which separates us from our homeland.

However, our reason for being in Berlin — on the front line of Democracy — seems to indicate that Americans are dedicated to the ideals of a democratic form of government which includes our right and responsibility to freely elect our leaders.

Would we rather have a monarch for life or a dictator? Doesn't the specter of the Wall remind us enough of what happens when people are subjected to other forms of government?

Of course, it takes a bit of effort to be an informed voter; to understand the difference between the political parties, the issues and the candidates.

How fortunate we are here to get several English language newspapers as well as the new SATNET news coverage on AFN to keep us up on the current campaigns, candidates and issues. Seminars are given through the Universities here; and even the two major parties have local organizations which seek to disseminate information on their platforms and candidates.

On a more grass-roots level, the infamous Berlin apathy is widely apparent in the elections of many local organizations. Finding just one nominee for each position is a difficult feat; much less, enough people to offer the electorate a choice of candidates, one of whom might more clearly represent a voter's position on local issues.

Only when a problem comes to light do people get a little interested in just who is running for the school PTSA's, the Child Care Center Board, etc. Yet these organizations directly affect the individual and his family . . .

Looking at the history of America, one is acutely aware of the adversities faced by the earliest emigrants who were willing to face unknown difficulties in order to obtain the freedoms they were denied in their homelands. A short 208 years later, we see a people enjoying such abundance of material and other blessings that they seem to have forgotten how much more precious is that intangible blessing called democracy.

Our service men and women are here to keep The Wall from enveloping this tiny outpost of freedom called West Berlin. We, living here and enjoying all the good things available through a free-enterprise system of government should have more than an average interest in ensuring that this form of government continues at all levels — national, regional and local.

Get active in local organizations; find out what issues are being debated; participate in community elections; get your absentee ballots from the voting officers or consulate and be sure to cast your most important vote. So many have died to protect your right to voice your opinion — don't remain silent making their sacrifice an empty mockery.

Save for yourself, your family — May is Saving Bond Month

May is Savings Bond Month. The campaign runs for the entire month, during this period the Observer will run articles and artwork showing you how you can save money for the future.

Today's fast paced world is filled with a variety of get rich-quick schemes. Unfortunately, most don't work. There is, however, a sound opportunity to get rich slow — the Payroll Savings Plan for United States Savings Bonds.

Millions of Americans have found that slow, steady saving, rather than fast fortune, brings them the things they want. And slow-but-sure saving still works best.

With Payroll Savings, you just tell finance to set something aside from each paycheck. Then forget it.

Sooner than you think, you'll have a bankroll to remember from a plan you can't forget. It's easy and automatic. You never see the money you're saving, so you don't miss it.

And Savings Bonds held at least five years earn market-based interest; so you're guaranteed an equitable return. There's even a guaranteed floor to provide complete protection against a market drop.

If the market goes up, you win. If it goes down, you can't lose. That's opportunity without risk.

While not as exciting as a wildcat oil well or sunken gold, better-than-ever Savings Bonds are absolutely reliable and guaranteed against loss, theft or destruction. You won't make a fortune overnight, but you won't lose one, either. And you can use the Payroll Savings Plan to buy bonds regularly.

Savings Bonds may not be the fastest way to make a buck, but they're a great way to save one.

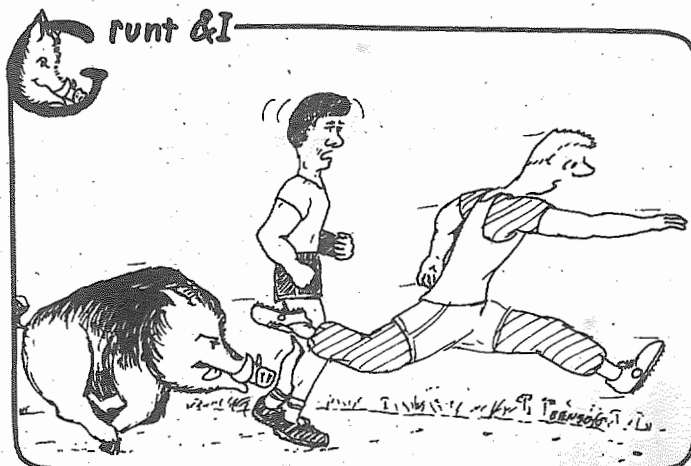

How to save something every payday

(even if you spend every cent you get)

House payment, car payment, grocery bills, doctor bills, school clothes, tune-ups for the car and shots for the dog can leave you a little short at the end of the month.

If that's your problem — and it's keeping you from saving for a happy future — consider this simple solution. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Hey, not so fast! You gotta keep a steady pace.

briefly

Kids week

May has been declared the "Month of the Military Child," here in Berlin next week will be "Week of the Military Child."

Various activities have been planned to bring more information to the community. Starting tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. and running until 2:30 p.m. in the Truman Plaza parking lot will be a "Kinderfest." There will be music and dancing, arts and crafts, a children's flea market and a display of books on child rearing.

Sunday there will be children's volksmarch at 1 p.m. The march is for children eight and under and will start in the Outpost Theater parking lot.

On Monday, there will be a balloon launch at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Dr. Jane Lannak, early childhood coordinator for the University of Southern California in Europe, will present a lecture on "Reading Readiness for Young Children."

There will be many more activities scheduled for the week. If you go to the Kinderfest tomorrow and listen to AFN during the week you will be able to learn where and when these activities will occur.

1946th dinner

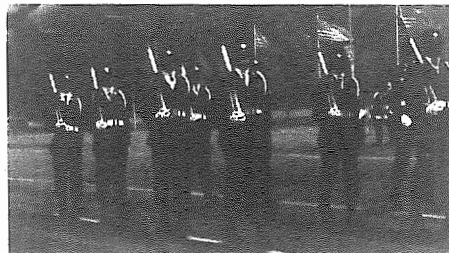

The 1946th Communications Squadron is hosting a formal dinner in honor of the 1946th Army Airways and Air Communications Service Squadron, May 13.

The dinner is a reunion for members of the squadron who served with it during the Airlift June 26, 1948 through May 21, 1949.

Anyone interested in attending this event, to be held at the Intercontinental Hotel, can purchase tickets from the 1946th Communications Squadron Orderly Room or Capt. Gerry Gill, tickets are DM50 each.

They can also be purchased from Brigade CSM Dennis Duncan.

For more information contact Gill at 819-5853.

Join the Drill Team

The Berlin Brigade Drill Team is looking for members.

Be a member of the premier ceremonial unit in USAREUR. You'll perform before thousands of people throughout Europe each year.

To be a member of the team takes leadership, motivation and self-discipline plus a willingness to spend many off-duty hours on the road.

To apply, you need to be in grade E-1 through E-5, have a minimum GT score of 100 or higher and an SQT score of 60 or higher. You must have 14 months or more left on your overseas tour, be at least 5 feet 11 inches and present a trim military appearance.

If you meet these qualifications, visit the Drill Team at Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, or call SFC Golden A. Pratt at 819-3371.

Special program

Soldiers who need special consideration for their handicapped or gifted children or spouses are again being urged to sign up with the Army Exceptional Family Member Program.

The program, started last year, attempts to match up a soldier's assignment with medical or educational facilities needed by the family member.

After numerous calls to the field for soldiers to sign up with the program, officials say a high percentage of those eligible still fail to do so.

For those who do sign up, a new coding system should increase the chances of getting the right assignments, officials explain. Starting last month, the Army Medical Department will specially identify the health and educational needs of the family members, sending the information to MILPERCEN for use in the assignment process.

Soldiers who want to enroll in the program should go to their nearest medical treatment center, officials say.

An official said priority will be given to those soldiers already on overseas orders, but noted that "if they enroll now it may not make any difference on that particular assignment."

Also officials say that enrollment on the program will not disqualify a soldier for any overseas assignment. Soldiers already overseas, should get their paperwork in as soon as possible, so that the Army can make every attempt to assign them to areas where the appropriate facilities are available.

Summer hire

The Civilian Personnel Division is now accepting applications for the 1984 Summer Hire Program.

There will be two 5-week employment periods:

Phase I - June 18 through July 20

Phase II - July 23 through Aug. 24

The hourly pay will be DM8.

Applications are available at:

Berlin American High School, Career Center.

Applications will be accepted from 14 through 23 year old dependent youths whose military or civilian sponsors are assigned to Berlin. Applications may be submitted by parents for student dependents returning to Berlin during the summer.

Completed applications should be returned to the Civilian Personnel Division by May 25. A lottery drawing

AFN radio and television - at your service

AFN Berlin radio and television is at the service of the entire Berlin American community.

Through radio and TV spot announcements, interviews, news stories or features broadcast on "Berlin Tonight," "Berlin PM," "Berlin Briefs," Berlin disc jockey programs, the "Emporium" and more, AFN Berlin supports the community and command information needs.

Your publicity planning is one of the most important elements in AFN's attempt to communicate your message. It must be remembered that it takes time for AFN to write, produce and schedule announcements or "commercial spots," as they are called in the trade.

As a minimum, AFN Berlin should receive requests for support at least three duty days prior to the first desired airing on radio and five duty days prior for TV.

All official Army agencies are asked to submit their requests for any official announcements through the Public Affairs Office, U.S. Army Berlin.

Air Force units are urged to submit their requests for official announcements through the Information Services Office, 7350th Air Base Group.

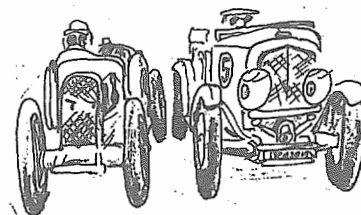

Exceptions to this policy are for personal items from ID card holders to be aired on "Emporium" and publicity requests from officially approved private organizations.

Follow these rules to expedite the airing of your message:

- Submit your request in writing, and please, no flyers or pre-printed calendars.
- The request must be signed by an official of your organization.
- List the basics: who, what, when, where, why and how.

will be held at CPD on May 31, from which the applicant rosters will be established.

Applications received after the drawing will be added to the appropriate roster in order of receipt.

AVUS races

The first 1984 AVUS race will take place on May 12 and 13. During this event, the police enforce a parking prohibition and place "Off-limits to other than Allied Vehicles" signs between the Hüttenweg/AVUS intersection and the Ammunition Storage Area (Block 92).

They have asked that drivers of Allied privately owned vehicles refrain from parking in that area.

Traffic will be blocked for all traffic in both directions between Hüttenweg and the Funkturm on:

May 12 between 5 a.m. and 9 p.m.

May 13, between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Spouse day

The Army will celebrate "National Military Spouse Day" on May 23.

In a message to the field, Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Elton, called National Military Spouse Day, "an outstanding opportunity for us to show public support for Army spouses and to acknowledge their unique sacrifices and dedicated support as members of the Army family."

• Details and comments should be included in a separate paragraph, especially when some part of the event is tentative.

• Double check all information for accuracy, especially names, telephone numbers and dates.

• Several major events being sponsored by one organization should be submitted as separate requests.

• All requests for Command Information message productions should emphasize what's unique in Berlin or a Berlin 'hook.' CI messages with applicability outside Berlin generally are produce elsewhere, and necessarily have a lower priority here than productions serving Berlin-unique needs.

Remember that radio and TV are mass media. Ask yourself before submitting your request: How many people can I handle at my event? and "How many people does this really apply to?"

Mail your announcement to: AFN Berlin Continuity Branch, APO 09742. Official requests may be sent through the Brigade Distribution Center, or you may leave the announcement at AFN Berlin, 28 Saargemünder Strasse, across the street from Clay Compound, during duty hours.

"Emporium" announcements are normally aired for three days. If you wish yours repeated send another request.

If you have questions concerning an announcement or feature, call Chief, Programming, 819-6145.

Radio and TV announcements are aired as a community service on AFN Berlin. AFN Berlin strives to keep you informed on a daily basis to increase your awareness of activities and news in the Berlin American community.

Over 1,000 brigade soldiers help clean Grunewald

by Mike Gelfand

More than 1,000 soldiers, each armed with blue and brown trash bags, attacked the Grunewald, Dauerwald and other forested areas in the American sector Wednesday.

The clean up is part of the Berlin American community's annual spring clean-up effort.

Brigade CSM Dennis D. Duncan directed and coordinated the effort by assigning each battalion an area of responsibility.

The soldiers picked up several tons of trash and loaded it on vehicles which then delivered it to collection points where it was off loaded onto trucks belonging to the Directorate of Engineering and Housing, who then hauled it to an official DEH dump site.

"We use the forest for our training and recreation, so as good neighbors we should also help keep it clean," said Duncan.

Chief of the Grunewald Forestry Office, Werner Luther added that the Grunewald is very important to the Berliners and this effort is something that they can see that the Army is doing their bit to help.

"When they go walking in the areas the Army used and see them clean it means a lot to them."

PFC Keith Simpson, Company C, 4th Battalion said, "we mess it up when we train here, so we should clean it up too.

The Berliners can see that we do our part and that we really want to help keep the forest clean."

While the trash pick up part of the clean up is over, there is still more work going on. Today soldiers from the 42nd Engineer Company are out with a grader and bucket loader smoothing roads and filling in ruts.

After that is done, more clean up work is planned for the housing areas, McNair and Andrews Barracks. The entire cleanup project will be finished May 23, when the Community Commander has inspected all the areas.

First flag up

Boy Scouts from Troop 152 and soldiers from Berlin MEDDAC raise the first flag on the new pole at the U.S. Army Hospital here.

The new flag pole was dedicated last week with Community Commander Brig. Gen. Leroy Suddath, Jr., breaking a bottle of mineral water across the base of the pole and scouts and soldiers raising the flag, while George Fortune sang the Star Spangled Banner.

Passing the command

Lt. Col. Linwood E. Burney, outgoing commander passes the 3rd Battalion flag to CSM George Mock, while Brig. Gen. Leroy N. Suddath, Jr., waits to receive it to pass it on the battalion's new commander Lt. Col. Cardell Hunter, at a ceremony held last week at Four Juli Platz.

During the ceremony Suddath reiterated the accomplishments of Burney's 36 months of command. Both the old and new commander watched as the battalion passed in review to end the ceremony. (Photo by Tom Jackson)

GAPC: fostering friendship between police, soldiers

by Doris Flack

The German American Police Committee hasn't been around all that long, officially that is. It received its first charter in 1976, but prior to that date informal arrangements existed since the American occupation of Berlin.

The committee was formed "to coordinate activities between the U.S. Forces and the Berlin police which do not fall into the scope of Allied Kommandatura legislation." Those activities consist mainly of sporting events, social gatherings and orientation programs.

"The committee is a natural evolution of the working relationship between the military and the police," says Deputy Brigade Commander Col. Frank S. Adams, committee co-chairman. Adds German Co-chairman Egon Lesnick, police group commander, the committee exists "to keep the friendship between the American forces and police and to build on it."

The friendship began with the American occupation. With their different but complimentary missions of keeping Berlin safe, the soldiers and police found opportunities to meet off-duty for sports or a meal.

These informal arrangements have continued since then. However, in 1976 it was realized that a central coordinating committee was necessary to arrange some of the larger activities between the two forces.

Each American unit has a partner police unit, battalion to battalion and company to company. The majority of activities between the police and soldiers take place at this level, according to Adams. At this level, sports are the obvious drawing card, according to Capt. Richard Kane, commander of Company C, 2nd Battalion.

"Sports are the best common ground," says Kane. "Our partnership unit has shown an interest in American football. So we've had the rules translated (into German), ordered the necessary equipment and will probably play our first game this fall."

In the meantime, the police are helping his soldiers with soccer. Says Kane, "The soldiers really enjoy it (getting together with the police) and genuine friendships are fostered."

The sporting events are planned as friendly encounters and to avoid police-soldier competition, the teams are integrated with soldiers and police members on each side.

There are activities planned that require more support than available at the company or battalion level and that's where the committee comes in, according to Lesnick.

"Every partnership unit has the right to build their own programs," says Lesnick, "to plan the activities they feel are fun." But, as in the case of the upcoming USAB Track and Field competition, one battalion could not handle the organization and support needed, explains Lesnick.

Composed of seven members representing the U.S. Forces Berlin and a like number of Berlin police representatives, the committee acts as a coordinating agency, making sure activities receive the needed support, explains Adams.

Two other programs that require the committee's coordination are the German Sports Medal, that soldiers have the opportunity to earn, and the U.S. marksmanship badge that may be earned by the police.

It has only been since the mid-70s that policemen have had the opportunity to earn the marksmanship badge, according to Gottfried Heinze, chief of operations of Police Directorate 4 and a member of the committee for about 10 years. It was Heinze who suggested the police have an opportunity to earn the badge. It was authorized by Department of the Army and Heinze was the first policeman to earn the Expert badge.

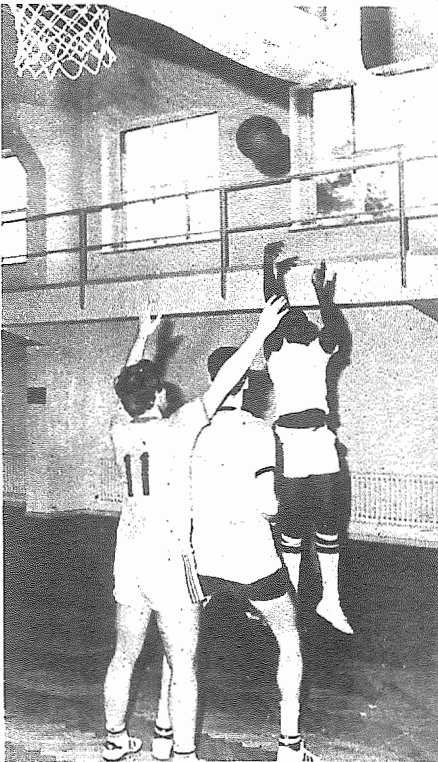

Not every meeting between the soldiers and police is designed to produce sweat, however. Some meetings are purely social and usually take place around holidays such as Christmas and the 4th of July. Social activities are planned during the annual rodeo and volksfest as well. Of course, partner units can plan social gatherings whenever their duties permit.

In addition to sport and social gatherings, the two forces conduct orientations for the other on equipment and vehicles. As professional peacekeepers, each force is naturally interested in the equipment and capabilities of the other, says Lesnick.

"We know in an emergency, we'll be working hand in hand," says Adams. "We both want to feel comfortable with that." The units of the Berlin police and the U.S. Forces have different, but complimentary, missions for the security of Berlin so it's therefore important to know who is who on each side, adds Lesnick.

Army women off to a good start

In their first scrimmage of the season, the Brigade Women's softball team this weekend clenched three victories out of four games with the TCA Braves.

Lynn Butters started the scoring for the Army women on Saturday with a home run that drove in two additional runs in the second inning. In the third inning, Kathy Yurick connected on a triple that brought home two more runs.

Pat Kinzer blasted a triple for an RBI in the fourth and Lynn Woods hit a double in the sixth inning that put two more Army women across the plate. Calley Walker finished the game off with a RBI.

In the second game Saturday, Peggy Laughlin hit a first inning triple and drove in two runs. Vicky Bowen and Leslie Eble both followed suit with RBIs. In the second inning Woods popped in a final RBI.

From there a standoff ensued, but in the bottom of the fourth a missed grounder allowed the TCA women to score three runs.

The Brigade women managed to hold on to their 4-3 lead until the bottom of the seventh when TCA knocked in four runs to give them a victory. "We were in good scoring position in the top of the seventh but it just didn't work," said Brigade women's coach Georgette Baker.

The loss apparently left the Army women hungry for revenge on Sunday. Sue Naplachowski hit a sacrifice fly in the third to drive in two runs. Butters sent one over the fence in the fourth and was followed by Naplachowski with a home run in the fifth. Ginger Davis finished off that inning with a home run and an RBI.

Naplachowski batted in an RBI in the sixth and in the seventh inning, Walker scored two RBIs and Eble and Yurick each got an RBI.

In the final game, Naplachowski again hit a home run, this one with two RBIs in the third and in the seventh inning Walker and Jenny Benson each got an RBI.

Boxing team fights in USAREUR tourney

Despite last minute injuries that reduced the team from seven to four boxers, the Berlin Brigade Boxing Team traveled to Würzburg last week and clashed with USAREUR's best.

Berlin's Maurice Clark opened the 1984 USAREUR Boxing Championships Thursday night with a scrappy victory over VII Corp's John Lieck. In the first round Clark opened with a solid right to Lieck's chin and in the second and third rounds continued to wear down the VII Corps boxer with a combination of uppercuts to the body and jabs to the head.

Later that evening, a newcomer to the Berlin Boxing Team, bantamweight Howard Gillespie, won a decision over VII Corp's Anthony Bingham.

On Saturday night V Corp's Charles Lowe suprised Berlin's Sanford Robinson, a former USAREUR champion, with a devastating right hook that ended the match. Lowe went on to win the title in the heavyweight division on Sunday.

In a well matched bantamweight clash, Gillespie won his second fight of the tournament with a decision over Jerome Scott of 7th ATC.

In the light-heavyweight division, Berlin's Gary Johnson used his considerable reach and height to retire Charles Kirkland of the 21st Support Command in just two rounds.

On Sunday, the final night of competition, Clark gave up a close, hard-fought decision to Larry Golden of V Corps, Donald Stephens of VII Corps took a decision over Johnson and Gillespie, despite a good series of combinations in the second round, gave up a decision to Reginald Morgan of V Corps.

Tour with ITT

For information on any of these tours, call 819-6523 or 819-7189, or sign up at the Information, Tour and Travel Office (ITT) in the Sports Center on Hüttenweg.

For the first time, ITT offers a trip to the north of Germany. Come along and enjoy a trip to one of Germany's largest fishing ports. Sightseeing in the old town of Bremerhaven, a visit to an old sea museum, and a midday meal are included in the price of $15 (children, $12). In the afternoon you will have a chance to shop, or enjoy a harbor boat tour before heading back to Berlin. Tour dates are May 25-27.

One of the most overwhelming sights in Germany is seeing the Rhine Valley from atop Lorelei. Join ITT on June 8-10 for a Rudesheim Tour. Breakfast in Wiesbaden, wine probe and lunch in Rudesheim, and then a lovely boat ride down the Rhine River is all yours for only $26.

Part of the Zeus Temple in Asia Minor is located in the East Berlin Pergamon Museum. The Pergamon Altar, its most famous exhibit, is only one of the many beautiful articles collected here. For an English-language tour of the highlights of the museum, join ITT on May 20.

Bargains abound in the factories of West Germany and ITT offers a tour from May 15-19, that will satisfy the tastes and wants of anyone. Crystal, nutcrackers, porcelain, wicker, and even stuffed animals are what you will see on this trip. Two overnights insure maximum time for shopping in the Bavaria area near the Czech border. Book early, since space is limited.

Put a little country in your life, and enjoy a relaxing tour after the hectic pace of city life. ITT offers a Country Roads Tour every Tuesday during May.

Visit the sights of the D-Day Invasion with ITT from June 29 to July 5 during the 40th year anniversary. This spectacular tour re-lives all of WWII history with visits to the Joan of Arc Museum, Cloister of St. Maclou, Mont St. Michel, and the medieval cathedral at Chartres.

Wagner, Strann, Baughman run top Army times

CSC, 2nd BN. had the first flag to cross the finish line, carried here by James Rodgers who earned a 1:35.40 time for the 25 km.

They came in droves, soldiers, family members and civilians. Of the near 8,000 people who ran in Sunday's 25 km de Berlin at the Olympic Stadium, 950 came from the ranks of the U.S. Command of Berlin.

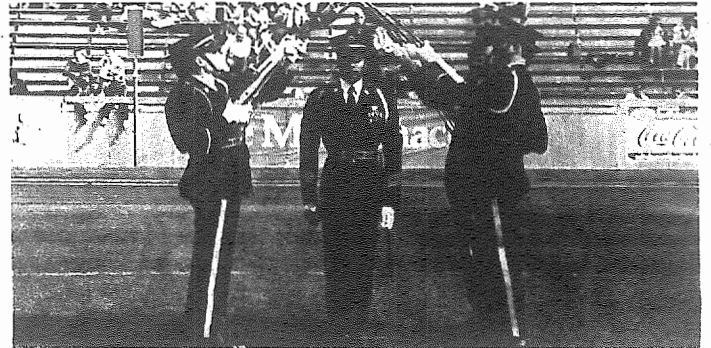

And of those 950, a whopping 519 were from 2nd Battalion. They came complete with unit T-shirts and company guidons.

Outside of those 519 soldiers however, the uniform of the day was anybody's guess. Other soldiers gutted out the more than 15 miles in BDU pants and boots. People ran in bumblebee shorts, oddball hats, flowers and ribbons, space-age running gear and some in just ragged shorts and threadbare shirts.

The command here posted several a number of admirable times. Berlin Band member Don Wagner was the first USAB soldier to hit the finish line; placing 137th with a time of 1:32.22. Ronald Strann, HHC, 3rd Battalion was the second soldier to finish. His time was 1:32.54, placing him at 148th in the line up. Jeffery Baughman, Co. A, 3rd Bn. came in next at 1:33.38 followed by Richard Thurston, HHC, Berlin Brigade, with a time of 1:34.22.

A variety of shows entertained the crowd that gathered at the stadium to await the return of their runners. The Berlin Drill Team put on another show of spit and polish precision drill. The French and British forces dropped teams of parachutists into the stadium. The Berlin Brigade Band performed as did a British military band and the Polizei entertained the crowd with a police dog show and an acrobatic motorcycle team demonstration.
